THE STURDY CANADIANS.

Valiant Work Performed—Lieut. Vanluven Wounded.

Toronto, Ont., June 19.—The Globe to-day publishes the following Specials from its correspondent, John A. Swan, with the mounted rifles.

"Kroonstadt, May 13th, via London, June 18. "A," "B," "C," and "D" squadrons of the Canadian mounted rifles came into Kroonstadt yesterday, after seven days hard marching and continuous fighting. "A" squadron, under major Forrester, being among the first of the British troops to enter the town. They were a proportion of advanced guard of lord Roberts' main army and fought daily from Brandfort to Zand river, a distance of almost a hundred miles. Among the plucky feats performed by some of the Canadian forces was the swimming of the Vet river by Lieuts. Borden and Turner, with five men, who put forty Boers to flight. Lieuts. Taylor, VanStraubenzie and Cosby were in a tight place on no less than three separate occasions, but extricated their men with miraculously good luck. The only casualties so far sustained are Capt. Pearce, Lieut. R. Vanluven and troopers McCulloch, Fergus, Brown and Wildman, wounded. None of them, however, were more than slightly, a marvellously lucky record, considering the fighting in which they have been engaged.

"Four troops of 'C' and 'D' squadrons, under Capt. McDonell, undertook to blow up a culvert north of Smaldeal, a few nights ago, and succeeded after overcoming great difficulties, but the Boers had succeeded in recovering their guns and baggage, which would otherwise have certainly fallen into our hands. As it was, the achievement was a brilliant one, though without the hoped for result. The troops engaged in this undertaking were in the saddle continuously for twenty-four hours. Certainly the pluck and endurance of our men are everything that could be desired."

"Kroonstadt, May 20, via London, June 18. The two battalions of Canadian mounted rifles started for Pretoria this morning. They again constitute a portion of the advance guard of the invading army. One hundred men from each battalion returned yesterday from a sixty miles march in a semi-circle through the adjacent country, in the course of which they captured twenty-four prisoners, among them a commandant, several field cornets and four members of the Johannesburg mounted police. Col. Herchmer, who has been ill at Cape Town, came up just before we started, ready to resume command, but because of the colonel's age, his recent illness and the arduous nature of the work in which the mounted rifles were likely to be engaged, Maj. Gen. Hutton decided to maintain Col. Evans in command. Maj. Howe remains behind in the remount depot."

Council Takes A Vacation.

After last night's session of the council that body, on motion of alderman Donnelly, seconded by alderman Kent, adjourned to meet on Sept. 10th. There will have to be a special meeting in connection with the speedier by-law, to be held shortly after the people vote on the question.

THE NATIONS UNITED.

Soldiers Of Eight Nationalities In Line.

THEY KILL 400 CHINESE.

A RUSSIAN WARSHIP BLOWN UP.

Marines and Soldiers Drove the Chinese Out of Forts at Point of Bayonet—Telegraph Communication Resumed — Is Russia Playing a Deep Game?

London, June 19.—A despatch from Shanghai to the Times gives from official sources a brief description of the fighting at Taku, which agrees in the main with the reports from Che Foo. It says that the ultimatum sent by the naval commanders threatened to destroy the forts unless the troops were disbanded. The Japanese torpedo boat destroyer, which took the news to Che Foo, reported that the commander of the German gun boat Ithis was seriously wounded. Two British, one American and five Chinese warships are now at Che Foo.

Other correspondents at Shanghai report that the landing parties which occupied the forts drove out the Chinese at the point of the bayonet. The struggle was short. Fully 100 Chinese were killed. The attackers numbered 2,000. They were chiefly Russians, but included British, Americans, Italians, Germans, Japanese, French and Austrians. The Russian troops on the land side cooperated with the naval force.

The fire of the forts was at first directed at the gun boats lying in stream, namely, the Yorktown, Algerine, and Ithis, Mandshur (Russian) and Atage (Japanese.) Several of them were struck by shells from the twelve inch guns, which made good practice. A shell exploded in the Mandshur's magazine, and the vessel was blown up. The Algerine and Ithis were badly damaged, being struck thirteen or fourteen times.

While the main incidents of the international bombardment and capture of the Taku forts are clearly outlined in the official and other despatches from China, there is nothing to relieve the anxiety concerning the Europeans and Americans besieged in Pekin. The silence is almost as complete regarding the position of admiral Seymour's relief force. The only authority for the statement that they have returned to Tien-Tsin is the message brought to Chee Foo from Taku, by the Japanese warship Tyshashi, and on this lord Salisbury's statement in the house of lords was based. Despite a statement in the house of commons, by Mr. Broderick, parliamentary secretary of the foreign office, that the telegraphic communication between Taku and Tien-Tsin had been restored, no further news concerning the column has reached Che Foo. Here, again, the Shanghai correspondents can telegraph only that they are without news.

It is not known whether the action of the Chinese commander in attacking the fleet of some thirty foreign warships was in obedience to orders, or whether it was taken on his own impulse. Whichever it may have been, it is regarded here as altering the aspect of the situation to the extent of putting China at war with the civilized world. No very definite opinions are expressed by the press as to what steps are incumbent on the latter in face of the grave actualities, though all the newspapers agree that the first care of all the powers is to save their respective legations and subjects in Pekin.

The belief grows stronger everywhere in Europe, except in France, that Russia is playing a deep game of self-aggrandizement in China. Few go so far as to affirm that she instigated the great massacre which it is now believed has taken place. Such an idea is really absurd, for the rising has grown to such proportions that extensive operations by all the powers are now inevitable, and no country will consent to Russia's taking a disproportionate part in the operations. It is impossible as yet to furnish definite information as to the respective attitudes of the powers or to say whether a tentative agreement has actually been reached, but the attempts in Paris to show serious disagreement on certain points do not find credence in London. The fact that the combined fleets acted in hearty cooperation in the capture of the Taku forts is taken as a good augury of successful unity in the greater operations for the subjugation of the country which must follow.

The Report Not Confirmed.

Berlin, June 19.—The North German Gazette publishes a communicated note in reference to the despatch sent out Saturday from Hong Kong, reporting the destruction of the legations at Pekin and the killing of the German minister. It states that on receipt of the report the German government immediately telegraphed to its representatives at St. Petersburg and Che Foo and to the commander of the German squadron in Chinese waters, asking information. On Sunday replies were received from St. Petersburg and Che Foo to the effect that no confirmation of the report had been received. When on Monday the Japanese torpedo boat's report arrived, the German representatives at London, St. Petersburg, Tokio and Shanghai were instructed to make enquiries as speedily as possible, but they have not yet replied. A report received Monday from the German consulate at Hong Kong, shows that "no such news has been received here."

Are All Prisoners.

Paris, June 19.—M. Francois, French consul at Lang Chow, cables M. Delcasse, minister of foreign affairs, from Yunnan Sen, under date of June 14th, as follows: "We are prevented from leaving and are practically prisoners in our houses. The English and French missions have been burned. We are without clothes, and everything has been taken away. Even the cipher is gone, and we cannot cable the legation, (M. Pichon, at Pekin). The government must demand energetic action from the government at Pekin in order that we may be able to leave here safe and sound."

On receipt of this message M. Delcasse, being unable to reach Pekin by cable, invited the Chinese ambassador to come to the foreign office and asked him to telegraph the viceroy of Yunnan that if anything happened to M. Francois, he (the viceroy) would answer for it to France with his life. M. Delcasse did not know just how to reach M. Francois, but at the same time he filed a despatch addressed to him which conveyed the substance of the above statement, and told the consul, if possible, to present the despatch to the viceroy. The Chinese ambassador promised that he would do all in his power to have the Frenchmen in China taken care of. M. Delcasse's tone in addressing the ambassador was very severe. The diplomat, in spite of his usual oriental complacency, was visibly troubled.

News has been received that pirates are becoming active on the West river in North Canton, and that the depredations are extending almost to the French possessions. Twenty thousand rifles have been landed in the past two months by way of Hong Kong, through Macao, with the knowledge, it is alleged, of the Portuguese governor of that province. This official, said a French politician to your correspondent, had certainly been less severe than his colleagues at Lorenzo Marques. Should the insurrection in Southern China assume formidable dimensions, France will find difficulty in defending her large interests there, while contemporaneously supporting effectively the Russian policy at Pekin, which your correspondent is assured aims at maintaining the status quo. It is asserted that Germany assents to this policy, whereas Great Britain and Japan are reported to be seeking to suppress the empress and revolutionize the government by installing the reformers.

It is stated that it will shortly be seen that serious divergencies of views exist among the powers interested in the Chinese problem, though because of the common danger every effort has been made to cover up the same. The French troops will probably advance and seize Mong Tse unless M. Francois is released. This will re-open the question of the preponderence of British or French influence in Yunnan, which has already aroused much jealousy.

His Life At Stake.

London, June 19.—The spirited action of M. Delcasse, the French foreign minister, in behalf of the French consul at Yunnan, attracts much attention. A report was published here yesterday that represented the French government as holding the Chinese ambassador at Paris as a hostage for M. Francois, and the statement naturally created a sensation. The report, however, was not accurate. M. Delcasse's warning was addressed to the viceroy of Yunnan. That official was told that his life would answer for the lives of French citizens in his power, and that he could not escape the reach of France. An official of the French foreign office in subsequently commenting on the incident explained that M. Francois' message had been four days in transmission. It was not probable that he had sent later despatches which had been intercepted. The French government is determined that if any Frenchmen are massacred in Yunnan it will not be contented this time with the mere dismissal of the viceroy. His life will be at stake.

FREE STATE EXISTS.

It Is Announced By Ex-President Steyn.

ISSUES A PROCLAMATION.

PRESIDENT KRUGER IS VERY ILL.

British Troops Are on the Move Again—Botha Advised to Disarm and Surrender—Gen. Baden-Powell at Pretoria.

London, June 19.—With the exception of Gen. Roberts' despatch announcing the arrival of Gen. Baden-Powell at Pretoria, there is absolutely no war news from South Africa. There are a few rumours from Lorenzo Marques, one of which places the British troops near Machadodorp. Another states that Gen. Roberts on June 13th, suggested to Gen. Botha that he disarm, pointing out that surrender, after the brave conduct of the burghers could not be dishonorable, and would prevent much suffering. Gen. Botha, it is said, wanted a six days' armistice to consider the matter. Gen. Roberts was willing to grant only five days, whereupon Gen. Botha declined to entertain the proposal and hostilities were resumed.

A despatch from Cape Town says it is reported there that president Kruger is in a feeble condition. Another despatch from Lorenzo Marques states that Mrs. Reitz, wife of the Transvaal state secretary sailed for Europe to-day, accompanied by her family.

Mr. Steyn, in consequence of lord Roberts' annexation of the Free State, by proclamation, has issued a counter proclamation declaring that the Free State still exists, is independent, and does not acknowledge the authority of Great Britain. A bulletin at Machadodorp, according to a despatch, dated June 15th, says:

"Fifteen officers and 500 British soldiers, prisoners, have arrived at Standerton, Free State, bound for Nooit Gedacht. Thirty burghers were killed and wounded during the last few days' fighting near Pretoria."

The British prisoners at Nooit Gedacht have been having exciting games of football to keep themselves warm. They are, according to a despatch from Lorenzo Marques, without shelter or medical comforts, and are confined between two mountains, where the sun does not shine until 8:30 a.m.

Delagoa Bay merchants are rushing goods towards Machadodorp, the Boer expectation being that the use of the railway will soon be lost, and that the preparations for a final stand in the Lydenburg district must be promptly completed.

Canada As A Model.

Manchester, June 19.—The Guardian's Cape Town correspondent sends the following despatch: "Immense importance is attached to the publication of the Cape ministry's minute on the subject of the treatment of the insurgents. I am able to state positively that the cabinet, including president Schreiner, was united in advising that a policy should be followed analogous to that of lord Durham in the case of the Canadian insurgents. This proposal, however, was overruled by colonial secretary Chamberlain, and the resignation of the ministry followed."

Explains His Stand.

Cape Town, June 18.—In an interview to-day Mr. Solomon authorized the statement that his refusal to accept office under Sir Gordon Sprigg was not due to any desire to hamper the new ministry. After careful consideration, he was convinced that he could best ensure the passage of necessary bills by remaining with Mr. Schreiner and his supporters who would loyally uphold the ministry until the bills were passed. Mr. Solomon added that he was not able at present to make any further statement.

THE HOUSE ASLEEP.

Hibbert Tupper's Yukon Charges and Attack on Mr. Riley.

Ottawa, June 18.—The whole of the time of the house of commons was taken up to-day in discussing the Yukon matters. The ball was opened by Sir Charles Tupper giving notice of his intention to introduce a resolution favoring the representation of the Yukon in the house of commons. This was followed up by Sir Hibbert Tupper with an amendment to supply, asking for an audit of the account for royalties due from Alexander Macdonald, and accusing major Walsh and the officials of wrong-doing in having given Mr. Macdonald time to pay the royalties. This debate occupied the attention of the house until eleven o'clock, when the amendment was voted down, the government majority being thirty.

Immediately upon getting into supply Sir Hibbert Tupper moved to strike off the salary of G. W. Riley, clerk in the interior department, having charge of mining and timber leases, whom he charged with having last session given Mr. Sifton inaccurate information by means of which the house was misled and statements made by Sir Hibbert Tupper refuted. A couple of personal grievances against Mr. Riley were also brought up by Sir Hibbert Tupper, who at 1:30 a.m. was still speaking to an almost empty house, there being only five of his conservative colleagues in the house, four of them being asleep. Mr. Blair introduced his bill respecting the construction of a branch railway from Charlottetown to Murray Harbor. He explained that it contains the clause, the schedule being the proposed agreement between the government of the dominion and the government of Prince Edward Island.

RIOT IN A CHURCH.

An Excommunicated Priest Raised the Fury of a Mob.

Rome, June 19.—The police Saturday closed the American Methodist Episcopalian church, because of a billicose sermon preached there by Mgr. Miraglia and which resulted in a riot. Miraglia was formerly a Catholic bishop, but excommunicated by the pope. He continued preaching, however, dressed in the robes of a Catholic bishop. This the clericals objected to.

In his sermon Mirgalia was vicently abusing and denouncing the pope and Catholicism when an angry mob assembled and succeeded in forcing the church doors. Then the crowd rushed in, shouting, "Long live the pope, "Long live the king," "Long live the Catholic church," "Down with Miraglia," and "Go to England."

Wild fighting ensued, during which the preacher was dragged from the pulpit. Panic-stricken, the congregation endeavored to escape. Many frightened women fainted and several were injured. The riot threatened to end tragically, but a platoon of police took possession of the church, and ordered everybody out. Several arrests were made. The American committee owning the church addressed a protest to the government because the police interfered and closed the church. The pope issued a stronger decree to excommunication against Miraglia.

CROP NEARLY A FAILURE.

The Outlook the Worst in Years—Many Acres Ruined.

Winnipeg, Man., June 19. — Boyne marsh is being ravaged by fire and all the hay and grass growing there is in danger of destruction. Some apprehension is felt for the stock and property of farmers who have homesteaded near.

William Martin, of the Northern elevator company, just returned from a trip over most of the wheat growing portions of the province, says that the crop is the nearest approach to a total failure that it could possibly be and that he has no hesitation in saying that the outlook is the worst he has ever seen in this country. North of Boissevan the damage done was caused principally by high winds and the wheat looks better there than east of that point. Thousands and thousands of acres of wheat are ruined, the plant in nearly all cases having headed out.

FORTUNE FOR A NURSE.

A Domestic Inherits 12,000,000 Marks From Man She Nursed.

Milwaukee, June 19.—Miss Erna Ihde left for Berlin, Germany, where she will claim a fortune of 12,000,000 marks, left her by a wealthy merchant. Six years ago Miss Ihde was a nurse in a Berlin hospital, where she nursed the merchant in the early stages of consumption. When he recovered the merchant offered her his hand in marriage, but the parents of the girl refused their consent. The girl obeyed the wishes of her parents and declined to marry him. She came to Milwaukee and became a domestic. Several weeks ago she was notified of the death of her former patient, and was informed that the merchant had left her the whole estate on condition that she care for his younger brother.

BLINDED BY A BAT.

Man Was Walking in a Grove When One Eye Was Torn Out.

Madison, N.J., June 19.—As a result of being attacked by a large bat Albert Gounold had to submit to an operation on his left eye, the only one that remained after the encounter. It is feared he will lose his sight completely.

The bat flew at him on Sunday evening as he was passing through the grove in the rear of the summer home of H. McK. Twombly, by whom he is employed as butler. Striking him in the face with its claws, the bat tore out the right eye and injured the left one seriously. Blinded and stupg with the terrible pain, the man staggered to the house, where he lay in great agony until a physician relieved him with anaesthetics.

Had A Perilous Voyage.

Vancouver, B. C., June 19. — The steamer Alpha, which left here for St. Michaels and Nome, on April 7th, returned from the latter port after one of the most exciting and hazardous trips on record. The ice stretched 500 miles down the sea from Nome beach, and the steamer had to thread her way through the channels left by the moving of the gigantic floes. Sveral times all hands gave up hope and prepared for the worst, but a lucky turn always saved the vessel. She brought down a large number of Klondykers and half a million in Yukon gold. Five passengers have $300,000 among them.

Corsets!

The difference between summer ventilated corsets and the other kind is about as marked as the difference between a hot wave and a cold wave. Those who wear our summer ventilated corsets will spend their time in a region of perpetual spring. Prices 50c. to $1 a pair.

Every woman thoroughly appreciates the fact that rust proof boning in a corset, which absolutely prevents rusting of bones and steels, is one of the cardinal points to be considered when selecting a corset. The W.B. corset being rust-proof it is especially suitable for outing wear, as it never leaves any rust stains on the clothes.

Have you ever thought how much the corset has to do with the making or marring of your figure? Our corset manager had careful training in the matter of corset fitting, and can probably help you. Our P.D. W. B.'s are the best corsets made. One is French—the other American. We have the newest models at the following prices: $1, $1.35, $1.50, $1.75, $2, $2.50, $3 up to $5 per pair.

"Try the "NEW IDEA." Have your corsets fitted free. Buy or not, just as you wish."
