A BRAND NEW FISH STORY

IT COMES FROM THOUSAND ISLAND PARK.

Huge Fish Jumps Into a Skiff and is Captured—Dewey to Visit the Thousand Islands—Gov. Roosevelt to Deliver an Address There at an Early Date.

Thousand Island Park, June 28.—Still they come! Tourists are flocking to the river from every direction and the park is fast developing into a regular city. Every steamer from up or down the river points brings in its quota of travellers to swell the throng.

The picnic held at Grenell Island park yesterday was a grand affair. A large crowd was in attendance. The tables were covered with all those good things calculated to satisfy the wants of the inner man. It was the greatest "layout" of the season. The picnic was held under the auspices of some of the Clayton churches. So it is needless to say the bulk of the crowd came from Clayton.

There is some talk of building a club house, at Alexandria Bay. The fact that Col. Staples is at the head of the movement is a sure sign that something is going up, and that it will not end in mere talk. The colonel is a hustler and it would be a good thing if there were more such men as he at the river.

Corpl. George W. May, of the 7th cavalry, U. S. A., arrived at the river a few days since from Cuba. He expects to receive word any day to report to the department and make preparations to start for the Philippines.

It is now definitely understood that Gov. Roosevelt will deliver an address at the Grange picnic to be held here Aug. 11th. In 1891 Gov. Flower was one of the speakers at the picnic. Grange day is always one of the chief events of the season. It is enough to provoke a smile or two to hear some of the orators—many of whom are unable to tell a seed drill from a rapid fire gun—orate on agricultural topics, especially when they endeavor to point out or show the farmers how to run a farm as elder Sheldon would run it.

Col. Staples has gone to the national capital on business. Harry Pillsbury, the champion chess player of America, will attend the international chess convention to be held at Murray Hill park the latter part of next month.

It is rumored that Mr. Mosier, owner of the little naphtha launch which the steamer Corsican smashed up near Fine View park a few days since, intends bringing an action against the Richelieu & Ontario navigation company for damages. Should Mr. Mosier carry the matter into the courts it is quite evident he will get but little money but a whole lot of experience. Some of the correspondents scored the captain of the Corsican unmercifully for running down the naptha launch in broad day light, but those who saw the accident, or collision, say the man running the launch was more to blame than the captain of the Corsican. It is no exaggeration to say that there are men running launches on the river who know no more about rules or laws of navigation than the average Chinaman knows about the declaration of independence, and some of them do not even know the difference between a danger signal and a fog whistle.

Tuesday afternoon, William Frank Kittle and Hiram M. Marshall were returning from Clayton to Robbins' Island, and when in the vicinity of Bluff Isle the skiff struck upon what seemed like a partly submerged log. In about an instant there was a quick lurch, a big splash and to their astonishment a huge sturgeon jumped into the boat and struck upon the middle seat with a bang. The fish measured seven feet and four and a half inches in length and weighed eighty-nine and three-quarter pounds. The "fresh water shark" was presented to Mr. Howarth, superintendent of Mr. Emery's nurseries on Robbins' Island.

Col. A. D. Shaw, of Watertown, is authority for the statement that Mrs. Grant, the widow of the illustrious general, will visit the islands this summer.

To-day is the anniversary of the battle of Manila. It is now a settled fact that admiral Dewey and wife will visit the great summer resort some time in August. When the hero of Manila comes he will receive a reception that will totally eclipse all other similar demonstrations in this part of the country. That keen intellectual giant, Thomas Carlyle, says in substance that hero worship will never entirely die out. Even though Dewey did make a mistake in entering upon the field of Yankee politics, yet the people will forget all about that little incident and welcome him as the "Hero of Manila," not as a presidential possibility.

Free to the Ruptured

Dr. W. S. Rice, the Well Known Authority, Sends a Trial of His Famous Method Free to All.

Out of the chaos of old-time failure comes a new and startling cure for rupture. Dr. W. S. Rice, Box E, 18 Victoria Street, Toronto, has invented a method that cures without pain, danger, operation, or an hour's loss of time from the day's work. To avoid all questions of doubt he sends free to every sufferer a free trial of his method and there can be no earthly reason why anyone, rich or poor, should not avail themselves of this generous offer. As an instance of this remarkable method, the cure of William Bigford, a well-known and highly esteemed citizen of Bishop's Mills, Ont., will be a welcome piece of intelligence.

WM. BIGFORD.

Mr. Bigford says: I am pleased to say that I have been permanently cured of rupture by Dr. Rice's remarkable method. I suffered eight years, tried all kinds of trusses without help, and now I cannot be too thankful in expressing my appreciation of Dr. Rice's wonderful system of curing rupture and will gladly recommend it to all sufferers, as I know it will cure them.

Send for this free trial. Don't be backward. It will surprise you with its wonderful power to heal. And if you know of other ruptured people ask them to write or write for them. Do not fail to write at once, do so to-day.

THE DOCTOR'S ADVICE

Led W. F. Leflar, of Williamsford, Ont., to Use Dr. Arnold's English Toxin Pills.

He Was, in Consequence, Cured of Nervousness and General Debility—A Case That Shows the Wonderful Power of Dr. Arnold's English Toxin Pills.

Nine of every ten persons in Canada suffer from nervousness and general weakness of the system. The misery caused by these complaints is immeasureable. More money is spent every year for medicines for these diseases than would buy out half a dozen millionaires. And yet there is a cure simple, sure, and permanent one that costs little and produces an effect that is absolutely unparalleled in the history of medicine. The medicine is known throughout the English speaking world as Dr. Arnold's English Toxin Pills for weak people. It has the effect of permanently cleansing the system of disease, and it has this effect by killing the germs that cause the disease. Besides killing the germs of disease, it counteracts the poisons (toxins) they create in the blood; it braces the nerves, purifies the blood and revitalizes the whole system. Dr. Arnold's English Toxin Pills are prescribed by many of the most successful physicians in their private practice.

Here is a case that shows the power of this wonderful medicine over nervous and wasting diseases:

"I suffered for months with nervousness and general debility. I was utterly miserable, unable to sleep, and constantly in the most depressed spirits. My nerves were twitchy, I had splitting headaches, and was as weak as a child. My family physician, Dr. —— advised me to use Dr. Arnold's English Toxin Pills. I bought and used three large boxes, which, I am happy to state, cured me completely. I am now hale and hearty, strong and vigorous, sound in every muscle, nerve and limb, thanks to Dr. Arnold's English Toxin Pills."

OVER THE TEA CUPS.

Blanche Willis Howard is dead, and her latest novel has just been published by the Copp Clark Company, Limited, Toronto. The book would be easier to criticize if the hand that wrote it had not been stilled forever, but, now that the woman who put so much of her heart into "The Garden of Eden" has crossed the border-land and is able to look back on life as a whole, will she look at things from the same standpoint as she did when she penned her interesting picture of Monica? Beyond a doubt it was the author's intention that readers should sympathize with Monica and her unconventionalities, but, luckily for the world, the majority of us are less progressive in our ideas of love and matrimony, and are not ready to admire one who hugs a misplaced affection like the heroine in "The Garden of Eden." The strong woman in the book, the woman we do admire, is Monica's mother, who is a loving counsellor although not at all in sympathy with her daughter's advanced ideas. The wise mother-love, the strong protecting influence, guides Monica through the breakers of a misplaced affection, and reasons the girl into seeing things in their proper light. But after she loses her mother Monica drifts into another love affair, and no matter how cleverly written, the story may be, it has been spoiled by the heroine's predeliction for married men. The book is delicately written, and it contains many good things, but it is too advanced to be appreciated, and it is to be hoped it will be many a long day before the world will come to look with favor upon such erratic tendencies as are fostered in Blanche Willis Howard's novel, "The Garden of Eden."

"The Bath Comedy" is an amusing farce by Agnes and Egerton Castle, published in Macmillan's colonial library. Egerton Castle will be remembered as the author of "Young April," and his new book has been written in collaboration with his wife. It does not amount to much as literature, but it is a bright laughable book that is suitable for a summer afternoon's reading in boat or hammock. It proves that a third person had better not meddle in matrimonial matters. A fascinating widow undertakes to teach a young wife how to revive her husband's affection which she fancies is less ardent than it ought to be. That is the origin of "The Bath Comedy." The young wife follows the widow's advice, and then follows a series of ridiculous situations and absurd misunderstandings.

Belonging to an entirely different class of novels is "The Voice of the People," by Ellen Glasgow (The Musson Book Company, Toronto). It is a paper covered book that is worthy of a cloth binding. The story is laid in Virginia, but it does not trespass on any of the ground lately covered by novelists who have chosen to depict Virginia life. Ellen Glasgow has broken the furrows afresh, and her book is strong, fresh and invigorating. It is the story of a self-made man; of one who, the son of a low class peanut farmer, proclaims, "I'd rather be a judge, Sir," when asked by a judge if he meant to be a farmer like his father. The boy lives to realize his early ambition, becomes a judge, and afterwards governor of the state, but his progress in the social and political world is no more surprising than are the great strides he makes in gaining a beauty of character that makes him one of nature's gentlemen. In "The Voice of the People" the reader is brought into close companionship with a number of other characters, many of whom belong to the old Virginian families. Among those is Eugenia Battle, the heroine of the book, but the heroine did not marry the hero, Nick Burr, for "The Voice of The People" is not of the "lived happy ever afterwards" style. I have not seen a review of the book, but I should think it would take with the novel reading public, for it is one of the exceptions among the trashy works of fiction that are continually being placed upon the market.

"Four Months Besieged," the story of Ladysmith, being unpublished letters from H. H. S. Pearse, the London Daily News' special correspondent, has just come out in Macmillan's Colonial Library, and a copy has reached me from The Copp Clark Company, Toronto. It is written in diary form, from October 31st, 1899, to March 1st, 1900, and is illustrated with maps and from sketches and photographs made by the author. It promises most interesting reading, and will be a valuable addition to the volumes of war literature that are already on our book shelves.

Dr. Williamson is to be congratulated upon having won a bright and charming girl, who is acknowledged as one of the most highly accomplished musicians in Kingston. That Miss Tandy is also a social favorite was proved by the large party of girl friends who gathered at her home at the tea hour on Monday to offer their best wishes. The table was prettily done in pink carnations, with pink satin ribbons extending from the chandelier to the four corners of the table, where the ends were caught down with bunches of carnations. Celery King for worn women

I thank you from the bottom of my heart for Celery King. Before I took it I suffered greatly from bearing-down pains in the lower part of my bowels, and such pains in my womb that when I sat down I could hardly get up. My blood was poor. Sometimes I got so cold I would shake like a leaf—my hands and feet were numb. My menstruation was scanty and irregular. Since taking Celery King I have been relieved entirely from all these ailments and I never felt better. I am now in the full enjoyment of good health.
