relationship while developing a strong pool within each age group."

The MOHA said it is essentially recommending the creation of a development training group of 34 players at the A level that is simply divided into two teams for games. Teams will be identified next year as A Blue and A White.

"This will be a complete paradigm shift for coaches and parents, but will keep our development pyramid strong at its foundation," the MOHA release stated.

The 2002 age group (peewee) will have two teams at both the AA level and the A level next season.

The MOHA's four AE 2 teams (minor atom, peewee, minor bantam and bantam) will compete at the A level.
