AN ENGLISHMAN ON CANADA.

J. BARKER GIVES HIS OPINION OF OUR COUNTRY.

Average Englishmen Thinks It a Place of Ice and Snow—Its Great National Morality—Canadians Have Not Enough of Self-Criticism—The Educational System — The Country's Possibility of Growth.

Last evening a WHIG representative had an interesting interview with J. Barker, an English gentleman who attended Queen's university last session and who is still in the city. Mr. Barker was a member of a large school board in England, and was also a fellow of the Royal geographical society. Being asked as to his opinion of Canada, he said:

"I was surprised to find Canada so far advanced as it is. The average Englishman has no idea whatever of its social condition, or climate, more particularly, or its advanced state of civilization. Englishmen look upon Canada as a land of ice and snow, and few have any idea of its very hot summer. One thing that strikes an Englishman is the very orderly character of the people in the towns and cities. This may arise from the fact that in older countries, more especially in England, you have large manufacturing centres, and drinking is far more prevalent, though it is surprising how much improvement has been made in the last few years as a result of the spread of education.

"One thing the people of Canada are most mistaken about is that the average Englishman is much reserved, and that class distinctions there are much more marked; but what I have seen of the United States and Canada convinces me that there is just as much class distinction here, and that there would be more than in England if the conditions were more favorable, i.e. if there was more wealth. I have been in most of the countries of western Europe, and in other parts of the world, but I do not know that I have ever met with people who as a whole were so diffident and reserved as Canadians. The American is much more friendly, but not so reliable.

"I believe that if the climatic conditions of Canada were better explained in England by those who know, that more would come out here. As I said before, Englishmen have the idea that it is ice and snow all the year round. The climate here is preferable to that in the old country, in that the seasons in Canada are more regular and the weather more reliable.

One very pleasing feature I find in Canada is the religious tendency of the people. Indeed it seems to me that the person who is inclined to neglect church is almost ostracised in this country. I can safely say that I was never in any country where the national morality stood so high as in Canada. Many a time at home I have seen more drunken men on a Saturday night in a town the size of Kingston than I have seen in Canada during the last four years. As to prohibition, I don't think there is the slightest necessity for it. Comparing Canada with a dozen other countries I have seen, you stand far ahead in temperance. Strict temperance will come with the education of the people.

"The average Canadian is something like the average American—he is very sensitive to criticism of his country by a Britisher; and even in cases where it is a well-known fact that many things in his country are inferior to those of another, he is not as a rule disposed to admit it. He thinks you are criticising him unfairly. Canadians have not enough self-criticism. Englishmen are far more so, because they know just where they are. They know their strength and weakness.

"With regard to education, Canadians have a very erroneous idea as to the superiority of their system over all others. I have taught in almost all sorts of schools and colleges, and have no hesitation in saying that, whilst the Canadian system is excellent as such, it is not so well carried out as similar systems in other countries. The average French, German or English boy is better educated than the Canadian boy of the same age. One fault of your public school system is that children are kept too long in public schools, and do not begin to learn any languages or sciences until they are in their teens. In the older countries they are started to learn languages when seven or eight years of age, because they go direct to a high school when they first go to school. There is no graduation from public to high schools in England, so that a boy, by the time he is fourteen years of age, will be reading Virgil quite readily.

"There is no real machinery to enforce the compulsory clauses of the education act in Canada. In the old country every boy must go to school until he is fourteen years old, under heavy penalties. The average boy in Canada gets a better middle class education than in England because high schools are cheaper, and are therefore not almost exclusively confined to the higher class as they are in the old country.

"Up to within a few years ago only boys were admitted to high schools in England, but these kind of schools are now springing up for girls, although separate from those of the boys. It is a pleasing feature in Canada that young ladies are admitted so freely to all the universities, which is not the case in England. This is due mainly to the old English conservatism, and a dislike to the new fangled American notions. The sexes are never mixed in England in education. This has its advantages and disadvantages.

"As to the universities in Canada, my opinion is that Queen's stands as high as any of the larger Canadian ones, and this is due to the very excellent staff of professors. The general standard of Canadian universities is not far behind that of the English universities. I am very much impressed with the diligent application to study by the students of Queen's. This is not the case in English universities, where a considerable percentage of the students simply attend to have a good time. This may of course be due to the social position of the latter."

THE DAY IS COMING.

When a Canadian Will be Appointed General Commanding.

There is no law in existence preventing a Canadian from commanding the militia. All the militia act requires is, that the officer appointed shall be an officer who holds the rank of colonel or rank superior thereto, in her majesty's regular army. At the present time there are about 100 officers in the army from the Royal military college, and the time is rapidly approaching when some of these officers will hold sufficiently high rank to command the militia. When that time arrives, which it must in the near future, the command of the militia will invariably be held by a succession of Canadian officers from the army. That is as it should be.

A new steamer named White Star, built by W. C. White, left Montreal to-day for Toronto and during the summer will run as an excursion steamer between Grimsby park, Lone park and Toronto. She is constructed of steel, is 166 feet long with 42 feet beam, and has a tonnage of 228 tons net. Her engines, which are of about 180 nominal horse power, were built in Scotland, and her boilers are of the Scotch type. She is a new boat with an expected speed of fifteen miles an hour. Last summer the St. Lawrence steamboat company looked at her with the view of adding her to the white squadron.

By a slight mishap yesterday the forward section of the divided American revenue cutter Gresham sank in thirty feet of water at Ogdensburg. The Gresham passed here last week from the upper lakes, on her way to Key West, being ordered there by the United States government. She was too long to pass through the locks in the St. Lawrence canals and was cut in two at Ogdensburg. On Saturday the two sections were successfully launched with pontoons attached. By some means one of the pontoons in use on the forward part became disconnected, allowing that section to roll over and sink in thirty feet of water. George Hall & Co., who had the contract of severing the steamer, will raise the sunken part which is forty feet in length.

SPORTING PARAGRAPHS.

What Is Transpiring in the Sporting Arena As Sports Go.

In the contest for the ex-cadets' prize in gymnastics which took place at the Royal military college on Monday afternoon, cadet Weston, Halifax, N.S., captured the trophy with fifty-two and a half points. He was closely followed by cadet Poole, Halifax, N.S., with fifty-two points, and cadet Caldwell, Deseronto, with forty-nine and a half points.

The team that will represent the Kingston baseball club at Yarker on Friday and at the fair grounds on Queen's birthday will be selected from the following: E. S. Elliott, George Sullivan, W. Montgomery, W. Dehaney, L. Young, R. Kennedy, N. McCaig, J. Conley, W. Easton, T. McCammon, J. Hughes, W. Gillespie.

"When will the bicyclists 'rise in their wrath' and insist that no broken stone be distributed on the roads unless they are immediately rolled?" said a wheelman this morning. "The cost of punctures and cut tires resulting from this nuisance would easily pay all the expenses attached to the local steam crusher."

Renfrew lacrosiests will doubtless bring a fast team on May 24th and the Kingston players will have to hustle to beat them. With M. Murray, goal, A. E. Ross, J. W. Hazlett, S. Hamilton and E. McLaughlin on the defence, the redoubtable S. Porter at centre, and J. Elliott, R. Murphy, A. Rogers, W. G. Hamilton, R. Marshall, A. Blomeley, W. Reid, W. Hamilton and N. McCaig the home stick handlers will put up a strong game.

UNITED EMPIRE LOYALISTS.

The Anniversary of Their Landing In Canada.

To-day is the anniversary of the landing on Canadian soil of the United Empire Loyalists. The day was appropriately observed in the public schools by references to the historical event. The flag our ancestors loved so well, and to live under which they gave up riches, banished themselves to what they considered a frozen Siberia, floated over the schools in honor of those brave and loyal people.

The flag will be certain to wave over some children, no matter in how remote a township, whose forefathers left their homes and came to carve a way for themselves in the then unbroken forests of Canada. They left comfortable homes behind them, fathers, mothers, brothers and sisters—everything but honor—all for loyalty to the British crown. Such heroism should never be lost sight of; any child who has a drop of United Empire loyalist blood in his or her veins should be proud of it, and in these latter days, when it is in the fourth and fifth generation that the descendants are principally found, it behooves all to see that young children are trained to a knowledge of their people and their country.

The Programme Prepared.

The programme for the annual bicycle meet in Peterboro on the 1st and 2nd of July under the C. W. A. has been issued. There will be seventeen events, ten amateur and seven professional. For the amateur races six medals will be given and five medals for the professional. Prizes be awarded in the remaining races. Entries close on Saturday, June 25th.

TWO SMALL FIRES.

The Fire Brigade's Prompt Action Saved Much Property.

Shortly after six o'clock last evening the firemen were called to the Kingston foundry, the roof of the pattern shop having caught fire. The blaze was extinguished after making quite a hole in the dry covering. A spark from the cupola is supposed to have caused the trouble.

At 3:15 a.m. the brigade was again summoned to Queen street. A fire in a stove set a frame kitchen in the rear of the Catholic Apostolic church ablaze, which was completely destroyed before the flames were conquered. The kitchen was attached to the house occupied by Mrs. S. O'Shea, and, together with the contents, totally destroyed. The house was not damaged save by a little water that reached the dining room.

The Coroner Called Out.

Last evening Dr. Mundell received a telegraphic message to go out to Long Lake for the purpose of holding an inquest. A woman was found dead in bed. Dr. Mundell left for that point this morning, the nearest railway station to which is Parham.

To Have A Mounted Guard.

It is understood the penitentiary will soon be furnished with a mounted guard, whose duties it will be to parade up and down the prison farm roads on horseback. The presence of such a guard will cause the convicts to hesitate before breaking away from the farm gangs.

Thrown From The Cart.

On Monday John Gray, contractor, was driving when he fell from his cart and sustained severe injuries. The horse turned a corner rather sharply and the loose seat fell out, precipitating the driver to the hard road. In the fall his face was badly lacerated and his arms severely wrenched.

A Great Convenience.

The Grand Trunk will shortly issue to shippers of perishable goods the new rules that have been made for icing merchandise during the summer months. Butter, cheese, eggs, poultry or other perishable freight may be iced, if the shipper so desires, at Sarnia tunnel yard to all points east.

The Amount of Time Saved.

Probably the most important of the improvements in the new timetable affecting Montreal and Toronto is the introduction of a fast day train between the two cities. This train will leave Montreal at 9 a.m. daily and reach Toronto at 5:40 p.m., reducing the time now taken by one hour and ten minutes.

A Kindly Acknowledgment.

Colonel Otter, Toronto, has written this graceful letter to colonel Kitson, commandant of the Royal military college: "I have been directed by the tournament committee to thank the cadets collectively for their most excellent and interesting display. It was, without doubt, the feature of the tournament."

Sunday School Convention.

To-morrow the city teachers will have a convention for the Sunday school work, methods and appliances. The visitors will be Alfred Day, Deer Park, secretary of the Ontario Sunday school association, and Mrs. Duncan, of Toronto, a primary specialist. The afternoon session begins at three o'clock in the Y.M.C.A. hall; the evening session in the Queen street church at 7:30 o'clock.

Only $13 50 A Suit.

Prevost, of the New York clothing store, will make to order a suit of all-wool English serge for $13.50. A first class fit guaranteed. Those are the goods which he has imported for several years and have given entire satisfaction. These goods are indigo dye and guaranteed not to fade.

McFaul's, Kingston carpet warehouse.

A Roundabout Trip.

One day last week mayor Livingston wrote a letter on important business to B. M. Britton, Q.C., M.P., addressing it to Ottawa. The letter was put into the west bound mail bag at the local post office, was taken out at Toronto and thence forwarded to Ottawa. Meanwhile Mr. Britton had left the capital and the letter was returned to Kingston, where he obtained it. The matter was urgent and required Mr. Britton's immediate attention, and the serious inconvenience resulting was caused by carelessness in the post office.

Regimental Orders Issued.

Regimental orders have been issued by Col. Bell, commanding the 57th battalion, Peterboro, touching the contemplated trip to Kingston on Sunday next. The battalion will parade at nine o'clock on Saturday night, proceed to the C.P.R. station and at once entrain for Kingston.

The men must provide themselves with all the necessary equipment for camp life. They must also appear on parade with badges, buckles, belts, etc., clean. Extra baggage will be transported free if brought to the armoury in time. The front plates of the helmets, badges, on forage caps, and numerals on shoulder straps, being regimental property, these must on no account be given away or exchanged by any N.C.O. or man. Anyone so disposing of them will be punished.
