The "Thick Set" Man.

—Lacks height to look symmetrical. His short arms, short legs and long body, require the special type of "Fit-Reform" suit, kept ready to wear, for him. 'Morning' coat like this is best, 'Shooting' or 'Prince Albert' next, with waist line cut higher than usual, to give appearance of stature and slenderness.

He who would add inches to his height, and know just how such clothes will make him look, can satisfy his judgement on the finished garment before he buys, if he selects ready-to-wear "Fit-Reform" Clothing. Equal to best tailor made of twice the cost. Makers' brand and limited price in left breast pocket.

THE DAILY WHIG.

"Opifer per Orbem Dicor."

BELONGS TO THE CITY.

Who owns the boulevards? The city. One would not think so who walked along some of the streets and noticed how neglected some of these boulevards are. They are not only neglected, but some of them, in the growth of weeds, are a positive menace to the thrifty citizen.

Now when the movement took shape of removing the sidewalks so as to give a fringe of land between them and the houses, and permit of the taste so many people exercise in the care of this ground, the city made a mistake in that it did not bind the property owners in some way to take care of the boulevards. It did not do this, however. Trustful as usual—for soulless as the corporation is supposed to be it is still the embodiment of innocence—it expected people to lavish attention upon the plots outside their houses. Some have done this, and some have not.

A larger number, perhaps, would be inclined to beautify the city if they had reasonable encouragement, but the city expects them to pay for the water that is needed to make the grass grow upon its property. It is an absurd idea and the sooner it goes the better. The pity is that the council has only one Alderman Curtis. He does not pass the park accounts through committee according to a certain precise rule, so it is said, but he is a man of taste and he would make the boulevards attractive if he only had his way.

Toronto (through the World), has been calling the people to account for their neglect of the boulevards. The World says that men of means settle down in the cities that are well kept, that are clean and healthy and attractive. It urges the people to wake up and do something, their very plain duty in the case. Has this warning nothing that is suggestive to our council? Cannot it show the people an example in tidying up by doing its share in the necessary work?

THE SPIRIT OF JINGOISM.

Goldwin Smith points out that in the United States the spirit of jingoism is asserting itself, and that in the future it will lead to the dividing of the people, politically. The parties, as things now go, and as the result of the war, may be the jingoes and anti jingoes respectively.

This spirit of jingoism is manifested in two ways, (1) in the desire for conquest, and (2) in the acquisition of territory. The Americans, in their dealings with Spain, were very touchy. Their honor was easily affected. They were eager for conflict. They gave little time in which to consider this ultimatum. They imitated Great Britain in that, having decided they had been offended, they would not be content until the injury had been attoned. The jingo spirit became dominant as the war broke out. It has been developed with each new phase of the campaign, and it will eventually be triumphant. The effect is apparent in the feeling that Cuba and the Philippines should not be held as security for any indemnity that may be charged, but that they should be appropriated as the legitimate spoils of war. Every day there is the evidence of this disposition, and it will in time become obtrusive.

Mr. Smith thinks that a check will be given to the jingo spirit when the farmers wake up to the expenses of the war, and the burden which it imposes. The debt is accumulating at the rate of a million a day. Spain may be asked to recoup it, but Spain is bankrupt, and the contingency becomes clearer that the possessions the United States may take for temporary security will have to be held, and become, in addition to the war debt, a source of anxiety and expense. The United States, heretofore, has grown in population and power because the spirit of the age has been domestic in its aspirations, and tended towards the development of the resources within the republic. Its army has been small. Its navy has been limited. Only in recent years have the battleships occasioned any talk, and those who believed in a navy have been praying for the opportunity that would demonstrate its usefulness. The war has settled the issue, so far as the army and navy are concerned, and to the satisfaction of the jingo spirit. Whatever the result of the present campaign the army and navy have been given a lift in popularity, and the future will see America satisfied with nothing but a first-class standing force and fleet at an immense annual outlay. The estimates for these things may be never so large. They must pass the senate and congress and receive the approval of the people.

Not all of them it is true. There are men who think the United States can pursue the policy of the last hundred years, who can find scope for usefulness and power within the present boundaries of the nation. They will oppose any appropriation of territory in Cuba and the Philippines as adding to the annual charges and to the everlasting anxieties of government. The trouble of the Spanish will not be ended with American rule, though they may be mitigated by the conciliatory measures that grow out of enlightened ideas.

The jingo spirit is all very well, but the speeches of Mr. Chamberlain indicate, if anything, that even it palls upon the appetite for war, and that some condition of life, some alliance of power, some great and resistless understanding is desired, to the end that peace, abiding peace, may be secured. The jingo spirit of Great Britain is giving way to this spirit of peace, and her statesmen are asking if the time has not come when, by a union with the United States, the necessity of constantly increasing her armament, her munitions of war, her army, will not be reduced. It is a notable incident and has its important lessons.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

Some $20,000,000 worth of gold has been taken out of the Klondyke this year. How much of it by Canadians? How much of it remains in Canada? How much of it goes to Americans, for the transportation facilities Canada has denied the people?

A conservative paper notes that Mr. Curry, at one time a patron leader, has accepted a public office. It says that the patrons tried to fool the people and failed. Yes, and the conservatives tried to fool the patrons and failed. So that they appear to be two of a kind.

"Events," an Ottawa publication, is commanding attention. Its criticisms are pointed and pungent enough and very independent. Politically there is no publication whose comments are more candid. If "The Politician" be a liberal he is not at all sparing of his friends.

A. J. Magurn, the Ottawa correspondent of the Globe for many years, and a journalist of rank and reputation, has accepted the editorship of the Winnipeg Free Press. Mr. Magurn is a Kingstonian who has made his mark by industry and devotion to duty. His work is among the best of the day.

The Independent Catholic League is not a necessity, as a political organization. Its existence is suggestive of other religious combinations, like the P.P.A., and the result may be experiences of the most unfortunate kind. Of all evils elections run on religious lines are least desired. From such may heaven forfend us.

"The Swell," in an Ottawa weekly "Events," has it on the best of authority that "ladies' bathing costumes are to be one inch longer this year." It was not generally understood that a serious difference of opinion had occurred upon this point, but it appears that society has been born about it, and that by the compromise the lacerated feelings of some have been happily healed.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Movements of the People — What They Are Saying And Doing.

Dr. H. Gillespie, Mason City, Iowa, is visiting his parents, Pittsburg.

W. P. Dailey, Rockport, is likely to get the bursarship at Brockville asylum, now vacant.

John S. Ham and wife, Napanee, on a tour, passed through the city to day on their way home.

J. F. McDermott, carriage maker, returned from Montreal yesterday after a short visit to friends.

Arrivals at Willow Beach: J. G. Hodgson, wife and family, Montreal; Mrs. White and three daughters, Ottawa.

Dr. M. McDermott, a Kingstonian and one of Queen's graduates, received the degree of D.D.S. at Harvard on Tuesday.

Dr. and Mrs. Foster, Rockwood hospital for the insane, are in north-western Ontario enjoying a vacation of three weeks.

A. H. Chester and family, Clinton, N.Y., were in the city to day. They come here every summer, spending part of their annual outing here.

Mrs. R. T. Walkem, Miss Ethel Walkem and master Harry Walkem leave for Murray Hill to morrow morning to spend some weeks.

J. P. Gildersleeve has joined the ever growing ranks of 'cyclists. He rides a specially constructed machine, having a twenty inch frame on twenty-eight inch wheels.

Misses Mason and Birdsell, two prominent Hornerite evangelists from Athens, have pitched their tent in Brockville and are making an attack upon the wayward of that town.

A. J. Magurn, Globe correspondent at Ottawa, has resigned. He goes to Winnipeg as chief editor of the Free Press. George Simpson, of the Globe staff, succeeds Mr. Magurn (a former Kingstonian) at Ottawa.

James Fax sends the Whig dominion day greetings along with a copy of his inspiring song, "A Canadian's Toast," to which he has contributed the music as well as the words. The arrangement is by Arthur Blakesley. In musical merit, as well as in well expressed national sentiment, the piece is creditable to the author and to Canada.

Races At Athletic Grounds.

The bicycle racers ran off a mile race before the racing board of the Kingston bicycle club last evening at the athletic grounds. The mile was made in 2 min. 30 3-5 secs., the five leading men being W. E. Grass, C. Powell, E. Benn, N. J. Robinson and S. O'Neil, crossing the tape in the order mentioned. The board will recommend to the club that the track expenses during the training of these riders be borne by the club. It was reported that the club would be asked to pay the track expenses at Peterboro, but such is not the intention. The board's idea is to select their best men and assist in their training.

A quarter mile was also run in 30 3-5 sec., the racers finishing in this order: W. E. Grass, N. Robinson, C. Powell, E. Benn, S. O'Neil.

To-day's Police Court Tidings.

Three cases were docketed this morning for consideration by mayor Livingston, acting police magistrate. Edward Egan and George Menary were caught in the stable in rear of George Sears' hardware store. The first mentioned was intoxicated. Menary was sober and was taken in there by a friend for a night's lodging. Egan was fined $2 and costs with the option of spending ten days in jail. Menary was dismissed.

Edgerton Granger was charged with being helplessly drunk. He was found by the police asleep on a boulevard. He admitted his guilt and was remanded until Monday.

A Trip Down The Rideau.

A young Englisman visiting in the city took in the excursion to Jones' Falls yesterday and was deeply impressed by the magnificence of the scenery. The trip, he thought, cannot be excelled in this district. The natural landscape scenes, the wooded bluffs, the verdant hills, green pastures, the narrow and intricate channels, with an occasional island dotted lake all afforded such a scene as would quickly attract the eye of the artist and would rouse the sentimental with deep emotion. He thinks Canada is endowed with natural beauty.

The motorman on the depot car of the electric railway system is greatly troubled with young calves on Montreal street. They are numerous in that section and delight in frisking about on the track. He is often forced to stop the car to prevent collisions.

MARINE INTELLIGENCE.

The Latest News About Vessels and the Port of Kingston.

The tug Active has received a new concave rudder.

The steamer Hamilton on her way to Montreal was four hours late in reaching here last evening.

The local grain shovellers have enjoyed a season of rest, owing to the detention of boats caused by the break in the lower canal.

Clearances—Tug Thompson, Montreal, five barges with 100,000 bushels of grain; SS. Bannockburn, upper lakes, light; sloop Two Brothers, Dexter, N.Y., pulp wood.

Arrivals—Steamer Glengarry and consort Minnedosa, Fort William, 75,000 bushels wheat; steamer Samoa, Chicago, 44,000 bushels corn; tug Thompson, Montreal, four light barges; tug Walker, Montreal, four barges; schooner Acacia, Oswego, coal.

The night office provided for the customs house officer at this port is by no means a credit to the department. Being located in the southern end of the G.T.R. freight sheds its position is very inconvenient and out of the way. Masters of ships have said that it is the worst office building between Montreal and Duluth. A more central building would better suit those having dealings with it. A room adjoining the "Sailors' Rest" would be better adapted for the work, or a corner in the examining warehouse. Entrance to the present office is also made difficult by a quantity of machinery, etc., on the platform of the freight sheds.

SUCCESSFUL PICNICS.

Welcoming Their New Pastor—Parsonage In Good Condition.

Cushendall, June 27.—Father Kehoe's picnic in Cunningham's grove on the 22nd inst., was well attended and a social and financial success. The picnic on the following Friday evening in the same locality, conducted by Kingston and Barriefield young men, was also productive of considerable pleasure. Our young men play football quite frequently and are improving. The second sale of June cheese from Pine Hill factory was sold by Mr. Greenlee for 7 13-16c. The consignment consisted of ninety boxes. Some of our young men have finished their military manoeuvres for this season; others are still at it. Zion church parsonage, at the removal of a minister, was never left in better order than it has been this year by the retiring pastor, Rev. A. B. Johnston. We welcome Rev. Mr. Oliver and family, also the former's colleague, E. Lawson, lately stationed at Cataraqui. At Zion church the former has not yet been heard, but Mr. Lawson most capably did his part on Sunday evening. He is a good speaker and one would judge a still better worker.

Customary prayer meetings occurred locally during the past week. P. O'Connor spent Sunday, 19th inst., here. He likes sailing and it seems to agree with him. His route is between Ogdensburg and Montreal. Rev. James Robertson attended Anglican church synod in Kingston during the past week. S. Atkins has left for Seeley's Bay.

Miss Mabel McKane is visiting her sister in Kingston. Miss Charlotte Woods is doing likewise at Barriefield. Miss Lottie Burns is visiting at Woodburn. Visitors: Misses Connor, S. Bennett and L. Ryder, Kingston, also C. Langwith, Sunbury, at James Gordon's; Miss Robeson, Newboro vicinity, at C. Trotter's; Miss Anna McGlade, Kingston, at A. Simpson's; John Woods and family at his father's; C. Shook, Woodburn.

Looking For His Son.

This morning chief of police Horsey received a communication from George Burns, No. 616 Wellington street, London, Ont., requesting the chief to have his men keep a lookout for the writer's son, a lad aged fourteen years, who ran away from home about one month ago. He is described as weighing about eighty-five pounds, light complexion, slightly freckled, blue eyes. When he left home he was attired in a navy blue serge suit, knee pants, tan boots with cloth tops, blue shirt, grey cap.

There was lots of fun at a Vancouver political meeting on Monday, when the two Manitoba lawyers, Joseph Martin and N. F. Hagel, Q.C., had a wordy duel.
