Wants to Settle Germans.

Special to the WHIG.

OTTAWA, April 11.—A German immigration agent, called Siemans, whose operations are conducted on a colossal scale, waited upon premier Abbott, this morning, accompanied by some North-West Territory members of parliament. He proposed to settle four hundred thousand German immigrants in the North-West at so much per head. What the per capita price is needed neither he nor any of the members who were with him will divulge. He claims to have settled a quarter of a million Germans in Brazil. The government is considering the proposition.

McGuire Not in It.

On Saturday A. McGuire, butcher, received a letter from a "green goods" man in New York signed "You Know." He asks Mr. McGuire to handle his medicine, offering him large inducements. He is asked to telegraph an answer as follows: "F. L. Willano, 20 Prince street, New York city. Ship goods as directed.—HOT." He adds: "Be sure and only sign the pass word 'Hot,' and send your telegram between eight and ten o'clock in the morning. Do not send night messages."

FIGHTING IN THE DARK.

THE RAILWAY COMMITTEE LOOKING FOR INFORMATION.

Mr. Folger Lets the Aldermen do the Groping—Mr. Murphy Wanted a Hand in the Struggle—The "Whig" Reporter Was Retired by Vote of the Aldermen—The Public in the Dark.

The first meeting of the committee on railways occurred in the mayor's office, Saturday afternoon, and a lively time it was. Present: The mayor, Alds. Polson, Ryan, Meek, Dunlop and Gaskin. The matter of the proposed belt line railway was the topic for deliberation and B. W. Folger was on deck at the request of Mayor McIntyre, and J. R. Murphy was there as an interested observer. From the drift of the discussion the only conclusion to be derived was that the committee men were one and all laboring in the dark as to what action to adopt. The bill, presented by the company, to the House at Ottawa, asking for a charter, received its first and second reading before the private bills committee, was the object of consideration. Mr. Folger was asked if he had any objection to Mr. Murphy's presence. Mr. Folger said he had none, he would rather the whole public were present; in any case he was there only on the invitation of the mayor and he did not know what he had to say in the matter anyway.

Ald. Polson was mystified to know where the railway was to run in the city.

Mr. Folger—"We don't know ourselves more than that it will be built in a circular form. It is not the intention to branch off at any point."

Mr. Folger had little information to give more than the bill called for and that seemed very plain.

Ald. Polson—"Well, Mr. Folger, I think it is only a matter of courtesy for you to endeavor to enlighten this committee."

The mayor—"We don't want to have to go to Ottawa, Mr. Folger, if on can give us the necessary information."

Mr. Folger—"According to this information (the bill) we could make a terminus outside of the city."

Ald. Meek—"The only objection to the railroad would be whether its construction or existence would infringe upon the rights of the citizens."

Mr. Folger—"We will have to pay damages for any rights infringed upon."

Ald. Polson—I understand that you are to pay the direct damage accruing to any resident individual but that you are not liable for any damage outside the city."

Mr. Folger—"Certainly not unless a claim is established against us."

Ald. Polson explained that the matter involved the interest of a large number of property owners and tenants in the west end and the committee should be furnished with more particulars than they had.

Mr. Folger—"I don't object to give you all the information you want. I think if we get the belt line we can cross the streets. I cannot see anything in the bill whereby Kingston would not be greatly benefited if this road was built. The only thing I can see is if it was built the G.T.R. might use it to run their passenger trains through the city from Cataraqui, a decided advantage to the city."

Ald. Polson—"There is no doubt but that the company's ends are perfectly selfish. It seems to me to be a rather peculiar circumstance if a bill like this, concerning, as it does, so importantly this municipality, could be rushed through the house without the city knowing its true import."

Mr. Folger—"I don't think that you have any right to say it is being rushed through the house. It was advertised in the city papers and has gone through the usual course at Ottawa, and was in the hands of Mr. Metcalfe, M.P."

The city solicitor endorsed this view and then explained that he thought paragraphs nine and ten of the bill were under the jurisdiction of the Ontario house.

Mr. Folger—"You can go down to Ottawa and object. Application was made to the dominion house for a charter because the company was asking the right to connect with roads under the control of the dominion government. I think the matter will be threshed out satisfactorily before the railway committee at Ottawa."

Mr. Folger to Ald. Polson (good humoredly)—"I don't want this thing to go abroad as you have got hold of it, that we are trying to smuggle this bill through the house."

Mr. Agnew (curtly)—"We have been keeping an eye on you and have all about what you have been doing."

Mr. Folger—"That's right; I'm glad to hear it."

Ald. Meek (to Mr. Folger)—"Can't you give us any more information on the subject?"

Mr. Murphy—"Was that bill not thrown out of the senate when it was brought there?"

Mr. Folger—"It was never brought there to my knowledge, nor could it be done. You can oppose it when the bill is before the house and have it referred to the railway committee."

Ald. Meek—"I don't think the senate could legislate in this matter before it came to the house."

The mayor—"We are here to protect private interests. We want to know if it will be detrimental to the interests of the community. This line should be made independent, so that the G.T.R. or any other railway would not be shut out."

Mr. Folger had no objection to allow all roads running powers over it.

Mr. Murphy—"I think Mr. Folger should say where the road will be started and where finished."

Mr. Folger—"We will run out to Portsmouth and Cataraqui. If we can get connection with the G.T.R. or K. & P. R. at Cataraqui, you have not got to build many miles to get a circle."

In answer to Mr. Agnew as to the object of the scheme Mr. Folger said it was being promoted for the benefit of the stockholders in short for profit and for the benefit of the city.

Mr. Agnew—"So it is to be a steam railway and not a street railway."

Mr. Folger—"We may ask for steam or electricity; as a rule most of the people favor the belt lines."

Ald. Meek—"The belt line is all right so long as it does not infringe on public rights."

Mr. Folger then left the office followed by Mr. Murphy, who exclaimed to the aldermen as he passed out of the door, "When you are ready to go down to Ottawa I will accompany you and assist in the overthrow of this bill. It is all for the Folgers."

Mr. Folger—"Well if this thing had been all cut and dried between Mr. Murphy and this committee I don't know why I was invited here."

The aldermen then settled down for a thorough investigation of the case.

Ald. Ryan said a little forethought might save the city a lot.

Mayor McIntyre then broached the question of asking the WHIG reporter to retire. He believed the meeting should be private.

Ald. Polson strongly objected. He believed that in all public proceedings the citizens should have accounts of their representatives' work and contentions.

The mayor thought this very true, but argued that under the present circumstances the committee were apt to change their opinions quite frequently. (Mark the compliment of a mayor to his council!)

Ald. Gaskin wished the scribe to retire. He thought it unwise for the committee to show its hand. The other side had the advantage of being posted on the situation.

Mr. Agnew claimed there were certain subjects at times the publication of which was not advisable.

Ald. Meek explained that he had been a journalist at one time and he felt confident that anything the members of the committee wished suppressed the reporter would willingly grant the favor.

Ald. Gaskin wished it distinctly understood that he was as independent as any man in the council.

The mayor said the people had entrusted the business to the aldermen and he was confident they could trust the committee to do its work in private.

Ald. Ryan thought the city solicitor's opinion should decide the matter.

Ald. Polson—"Through the press is the only manner by which the public can learn the facts of the case and know just how the matter pertains to us. If we are prepared to do our duty we should do it openly. If there is anything in that bill to be attacked the public should know it."

Ald. Meek vigorously supported Ald. Polson in his contention. He was in favor of reporters attending all committee meetings.

It was moved by Ald. Gaskin, seconded by Ald. Dunlop, and supported by Mayor McIntyre, that the reporter be asked to retire. Alds. Polson and Meek opposed the motion while Ald. Ryan remained silent and refused to vote. The motion accordingly carried.

Ald. Meek picked up his hat and left, saying he would not serve on a committee where the press was refused admittance.

Ald. Meek, to a reporter, said that he could not countenance the ignoring of the press at committee meetings when, as a reporter, he had contended for such representation. Besides he felt that as a representative of the people they should know what he was doing in their interest. Parliamentary committees are open to the press; why not municipal committees also. In Toronto and other cities municipal reporters are engaged to look after the civic business and all the work of aldermen in committee and in council.

The committee decided to ask Mr. Folger to have the reading of the bill postponed until after Easter. In the meantime the committee will endeavor to have such changes made as they deem necessary in the interests of the city. Mr. Folger has granted the request.

CITY AND VICINITY.

Thousands of Bargains.

To night immense excitement. Great rush to the bankrupt stock of F. X. Cousineau & Co.

To Dispel Colds

Headaches and Fevers, to cleanse the system effectually, yet gently, when costive or bilious, or when the blood is impure or sluggish, to permanently cure habitual constipation, to awaken the kidneys and liver to a healthy activity, without irritating or weakening them, use Syrup of Figs.

A Puzzle Truly!

The police are beautifully protected. It was clearly proven that a man wantonly assaulted an officer in the discharge of his duty, yet he is discharged, though as a fireman he had a double reason for respecting the law. How mayors and magistrates can expect policemen to do their duty in face of such discouragement is a puzzle.

Called Home Yesterday.

Yesterday James and Isaac Norris, students of Queen's college, received a telegram from Mitchell, Ont., stating that their father had died. The young men left for home and will be greatly inconvenienced by their affliction. They have had to forego their examinations, and one of them would have graduated this year.

Died in the West.

A telegram received states the death of Robert Athurs, at Winnipeg, of kidney disease. His brother, A. Arthurs, left for Winnipeg on Friday, and will now only arrive in time for the funeral. The deceased visited Kingston, a year ago last month, and was the very picture of health at that time. He was engaged in the cattle business.

We Want It Here.

Sarnia is making a big push for the wheelmen's meet in July. Will Kingstonians let it be taken from here? We trow not. The citizens should arouse themselves and fight for it. It would be a great attraction. Sarnia says if Kingston gives way this year the western men will help get it here next year. So, so, but the eastern boys want it this year and will shout for the west next year. Let there be a big push for Kingston.

Entertaining Visitors.

Ald. Drennan says he will vote against a grant of $200 to the reception committee to be used in the entertainment of visitors. When he was mayor he entertained strangers at his own expense, and he hoped Mayor McIntyre would have to do the same thing. Said Ald. Drennan: "Last year I entertained a manufacturer from Sherbrooke, Que., at an expense of about $12. I asked the finance committee to provide the funds and they refused."

Callaghan in St. Louis.

A friend has received a letter from Callaghan, who, it seems, is in St. Louis at present seeing what can be done with reference to the carrying out of his contract with the Browns. The reason of the manager going back on his agreement is not known. In his letter Callaghan says that if the Kingston team had one week's practice, such as the teams in St. Louis receive, it would be a champion club in a very few weeks. He says he has not seen any great ball playing done since he struck the place.

Where is Bancroft?

An inscription is being cut into the granite block at the dry dock, recording its corner stone laying by Sir John Macdonald, Sir Hector Langevin being minister of public works; Messrs. Murdock, Stark and Perley, resident engineers; M. and K. Connolly, contractors; P. Hume, operating engineer; James Wilson, clerk of works. Very good; they each and all deserve credit even in enduring granite for it is a noble piece of work. But it is inexpressibly mean, after the help he gave to the job, that Bancroft's name is omitted from the roll of honor.

Ahead of all Others.

The North American Life Assurance company has distinguished itself once more for the prompt payment of death claims. On Wednesday, the 6th inst. the company received notice of the death of B. Sauve, Garden Island; Saturday, the 9th, the company issued a cheque for the full amount of his insurance, and to-day the agent, W. J. Fair, is instructed to forward to the company a receipt from the deceased father and mother, Joseph and Adeline Sauve, for $500 spiece the full amount of the insurance.

The Princess Street Boys Again.

Charles Martin says it is impossible to secure the services of Callaghan this season. He says the star pitcher would not return to Kingston to play ball under any consideration, not even if he was offered $50 a month as someone suggested, but which sum he (Martin) thinks it would be out of the question to raise. Charlie says he has decided to take hold of the team again this year and if he can only secure the services of a tolerably good pitcher he can present a strong team. He does not approve of taking on some of the old players to fill vacancies but prefers young "heads" to play good ball.

Was It Heresy?

The sermon of Rev. D. C. Sanderson, last evening, treads closely on the borderland of heresy according to Methodistic doctrine. He evidently strongly believes with Rev. A. M. Phillips, Toronto, that Christ did not die merely as a sacrifice for the sins of the world, but came to reveal the plan of salvation, and illustrate by His example the way for men to live. There is Unitarianism in the view. The Methodist teaching in reference to Christ's death and sacrifice runs as follows: "The offering of Christ once made is that perfect redemption, propitiation and satisfaction for all the sins of the whole world, both original and actual; and there is no other satisfaction for sin but that alone."

GOD WAS THE SACRIFICE

VIEWS OF REV. D. C. SANDERSON ON THE ATONEMENT.

A Firm Believer in the Fatherhood of God—Poor Poetry And Poor Theology to Say Jesus Paid the Debt of Man—He Died to Show Us How to Live Self-Sacrificing Lives.

The Brock street Methodist church was crowded last evening. Rev. D. C. Sanderson, pastor, preached an interesting and able sermon on the subject: "Wrong Ideas About God." In opening he said there is no man who does all his own thinking. We are debtors to the past and all the logic and rhetoric and theology and faith and experience and practice of the long gone years are interwoven in the thought and doctrines of to-day. We are the inheritors of the world's yesterdays. I remind you of this because many of our views of God are inherited."

The speaker pointed out the characters of the gods of Neptune and Jove and the continued effort made to appease them and then added: "The religion of the majority of the world to-day is that religion that is endeavoring, by continual sacrifices, to make its god good-natured."

Mr. Sanderson reviewed the character of God and the demand for His incarnation. Men wanted a god whom they could see and would not rest until they got an incarnate God. In answer to this demand revelation says 'The word was made flesh and dwelt among us.' The revelation of Jesus Christ was a revelation of the brotherhood of God. This God was the supreme ruler of the universe, not mad one day and good natured the next, but always the same, the embodiment of justice, holiness, purity, truth and love.

"This God whom Jesus Christ revealed to the world was chiefly and above all a God of love. The words he spoke, the deeds he did, were of the Father. So when we see what Jesus did we see what God is doing all the time.

"Just as men have had wrong views of the state of God's heart towards them, so they have had wrong views of the atonement. Standing at the bar of justice man has pronounced judgment upon himself. He pleads guilty as an offender against the moral order of the universe and against a personal God. Instinctively he dreads punishment, and, judging God by himself, he stands ready for penalty. The atonement is altogether a matter of revelation. There is no atonement in nature. Its laws have no bowels of mercies. Fire burns and water drowns. Government has always found it unsafe to pardon criminals. Sometimes governments will pardon men because of influences brought to bear upon them. The history of the world shows it is unsafe to pardon men. Logic says it is unsafe. The weight of human experience for 2,000 years says it is unsafe to pardon. But God's ways are not like our ways, nor his thoughts like our thoughts."

The speaker illustrated three theories of the atonement, the commercial, substitutional and spectacular. He said: "Its poor poetry and poorer theology that says 'Jesus paid it all, all the debt I owe,' for sin is more than a debt, it is a crime against the government of God. The spectacular theory shows that the Lord Jesus Christ, son of God went up to Calvary to die a martyr's death, and showed us how to live a life of self-sacrifice. Dying he gave an example to stir our hearts and consciences. If so God ought to have stood by Him to the last. God could not have turned his face from Him, when he cried 'Eloi, Eloi, lama sabbacthani.'

"If Jesus Christ died a martyr's death the fireman who jumped into a burning building to save lives is a martyr. But Jesus Christ is a Saviour, the fireman is not. They did not find men bowing in reverence to the fireman. I find men bowing down in reverence to Jesus Christ. Great is the mystery of godliness. I believe it was God Himself who came to suffer for us. I believe that when Jesus Christ walked up to Calvary's cross it was God who suffered and who came to reconcile the world unto Himself. There is no other way by which men could be saved, except by God suffering. This must be so. The reason I can obtain pardon for my sins is that God by Himself, and through Himself and to Himself, through all eternity, before ever man was born, before the morning star was a sign of joy, was the Lamb that was slain from the foundation of the world. God knew that man would sin and would go on sinning, and he made provision for it all by being Himself the Lamb slain from the foundation of the world. God Himself suffered for our sakes.

"I believe in the fatherhood of God, and I believe that with an affection beyond words, love beyond human, the everlasting God died on Calvary for the sins of the world."

Church Paragraphs.

Rev. W. J. Maxwell, of Toronto, will be the celebrity at the anniversary of Queen street Methodist church on April 24th.

The feast of the Passover, observed by the Jews throughout the world, commences this evening at sunset and will be observed for eight days. The first, second, seventh and eighth days are sacred. There will be no public celebration here.

Yesterday the singing in Chalmers' church was better than for many previous Sundays. The choir was present in full strength and showed to advantage in all the selections. In the evening Mr. and Mrs. Galloway sang delightfully "Home at Last." A member of the congregation said the Galloways out rivalled themselves in the rendition of the piece.

The sermon delivered by Rev. Mr. Telfer, London, Eng., in the Sydenham street Methodist church, last night, was an able effort from Revelations vi.-12. The discourse was all the more instructive by the earnest force with which the learned divine expounded the truth. No man after listening to the words uttered could go out and practice cruelty to animals without a stricken conscience.

In St. Mary's cathedral, yesterday morning, the ceremony of blessing the palm was observed. High mass was celebrated by Rev. Fr. Nevill. Rev. Fr. Kelly made the announcements for the week. In the evening Rev. Fr. Kelly preached, his subject being the words of Christ on the cross: "It is consummated," "Into thy hands I commend my spirit." The sermon was eloquent and instructive.

The Christian Endeavor convention occurs on Thursday and Friday, the evening sessions in Queen street Methodist church. The speakers will be: Thursday night, Rev. C. O. Johnston, Napanee, and J. A. Allen, LL.D., Perth; Friday night, Rev. W. B. Floyd, Deseronto; Rev. J. L. George, Belleville. The day sessions will be in the First Congregational church. The local union has had fine programmes issued at the WHIG office.

A Magnanimous Offer.

The 14th Batt. officers have received an order from the deputy adjutant general notifying them to be prepared to take part in a review in the vicinity of St. Johns, Que., from May 21st to 24th. The government will not pay transport or provide rations but will grant the men four days pay, this, however, to be taken from the annual pay. The offer is too generous altogether and overpowers the men. The government should have imposed a duty of $2 per head for the privilege of baking in the sun in the sister province. To-night the regimental officers will consider
