LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Decoration Day.

KINGSTON, June 4. (To the Editor): As chairman of the general committee having to do with the decoration day events I have explained that the movement is not exclusive in any sense, and that the rights of all societies, showing a desire to join in the proceedings have been fully recognized. The origin of decoration day in Kingston is well understood. Two years ago the Oddfellows were invited to assist in the memorial services at Clayton, and the occasion so pleased them that they decided to have something like it in Kingston in 1891. Early in the year, therefore, the two local lodges appointed committees, and these, with the representatives of the canton and encampment, arranged for a decoration of the graves of their deceased members. The experiment was a success, so much so that members of the other societies, notably of the Foresters and Workmen, expressed a willingness to join in the proceedings of this year. No objection being taken committees were in due season appointed, but for a time they did not come together. The initiative had to be taken, and finally the representatives of one society suggested that the known representatives elect of the other societies meet on a certain evening, and when the roll was called some six or seven orders were found to be in line.

I was under the impression that between that meeting and the next the only representatives to come forward were those who volunteered their support, but I now recollect that the secretary, on motion or recommendation of those at this first meeting, was advised to notify several other societies, which were named, of what was going on, and so give them an opportunity to participate in the work. Certain it is that that first meeting was regarded as so informal that its nomination of a chairman and secretary was subject to confirmation subsequently.

After this, and at each succeeding meeting the question was asked, Is any one present representing a society whose name has not been called? and from time to time the membership of the committee has been augmented. It is still in the province of members of the general committee to nominate other societies, acting in the interest and in behalf of the fraternal and benevolent societies, and agreeing to pay pro rata towards expenses.

This being the first time various organizations have united in this way, perfection in the plan of operations cannot be expected, and in the pursuit of harmony the most generous view should be taken of the circumstances. Personally I will be sorry if any one, or any society, feels that a half holiday has been proclaimed for the gratification of a few. Flowers are plentiful enough, and the friends of the dead are numerous enough, to warrant the assumption that with a better understanding of the situation the graves in all the cemeteries in the city and its suburbs can be decorated and a most beautiful custom established upon a permanent basis.—R. MEEK.

Frederick Chamberlain.

BROCKVILLE, June 3.—(To the Editor): I shall feel much indebted to anyone who can give me information respecting the above named young man. Friends in England are most anxious to hear from him and have written to me about him. His last letter was from the village of Washburn and the letter had the Kingston postmark. I wrote the post office at Washburn, but received no reply. Frederick Chamberlain may possibly be now employed by some of your readers in Frontenac.—T. BEDFORD-JONES, Archdeacon.

MILES OF BAD DRAINS

THE CITY ENGINEER GIVES SOME STARTLING INFORMATION.

The Drainage is Defective—Can the People Afford to Wait Another Year—The Mayor Says There is no Money—Should Mr. Bolger Hustle to Get His Plans Prepared?

A regular meeting of the local board of health occurred, yesterday afternoon. Those members present were: Mayor McIntyre, Principal Grant, R. T. Walkem, Isaac Simpson, Drs. Herald and Saunders. The medical health officer reported on various matters. He gave a review of the state of affairs at the jail, and noted thirty cases of infectious disease since April 21st. Complaint was made that many premises were not provided with sinks for the disposal of slop water, hence the occupants threw it upon the ground which became injurious to the health of those living upon the premises. In many of these cases the property is located along the line of streets on which there are good sewers.

There was talk about the bad sanitary state of the jail, and it was learned that well water was used for domestic purposes. The water could not be pure with so many vaults about the place. Cases of sickness in the neighborhood of the jail were attributed to it. The drain was often obstructed and full of filth.

Principal Grant—"It is a serious matter. There have always been cases around Barrie street."

Mr. Walkem—"Premises of that kind should be furnished with dry earth closets at once."

Dr. Fee—"In a recent visit to the hospital I made enquiries as to the three cases reported to me, and I learned from the house surgeon that one of the patients lived close to the paint factory. It seems a brother died there a short time ago from typhoid fever. This was close to the hospital sewer. I wonder if that would have anything to do with the matter. The father, two sons and a daughter have been lost out of that family since last winter."

Mr. Walkem—"There is one lesson at least we have learned from the Brockville experiment. Since the drains have been cleaned there has been no typhoid fever in that city."

It was moved by principal Grant, seconded by Dr. Herald, and carried, that the medical health officer having inspected the premises of the county jail, and found the pits and drains in a highly unsanitary condition, he be authorized to take all necessary steps to bring the matter to the attention of the county council.

Dr. Walkem and Dr. Herald were requested to act as a committee on this matter with the medical health officer.

Mr. Walkem looked up the law and found that the medical health officer could prosecute any person for not removing rubbish, etc., from their property twenty-four hours after notice had been given.

Mr. Bolger's report on the inferior drains in the city stated that the most densely populated portions of the city were served with what might be called the most inferior sewage system in America. Besides the 6¼ miles of inferior stone drains there were about 3¼ miles of fairly good stone sewers that, having taken the place of the old water courses are heavily flushed in rainy weather and are always fairly clean. There was also about ten miles of tile sewers which by a little expense in the way of removable man-hole covers and periodical flushing can be rendered first-class of their kind. The defective drains are located thus:

STREET.	FEET.	CONDITION.
Place d'Armes	800	very bad

Mr. Bolger explained that he intended to have a thorough survey of the city. He had secured the services of a good man, and when completed he would know exactly how each drain should be built. The work would start this month. It was the best method of having a general and complete system of sewage for the city.

Mr. Walkem thought as the city had a good system of water works it would be a good idea to flush the drains throughout the city as frequently as possible, especially in the thickly inhabited sections.

The mayor explained that this had been taken in hand by the fire, water and light committee. The flushing would be done at intervals.

In urging the matter Principal Grant said: "There is certainly nothing more expensive than poisoning the people. The matter of expense is nothing to compare with human feeling about the matter."

Mr. Walkem—"The waterworks system is not complete without a good drainage system."

Principal Grant—"Get good water and good air and then close up every well in the city."

Ald. Fair, present as an interested person, being given permission asked Mr. Bolger if any extra help was required to complete the plan of survey.

Mr. Bolger explained that he had been voted $400 to do the job. He might get another man. The man he had engaged was Capt. Cochrane of the R. M. C.

Ald. Fair said that if Mr. Bolger could not submit a report before fall nothing could be done before next summer. If another man would help hurry matters by all means get one.

The mayor said that it was impossible to secure the money this year.

Mr. Walkem—"It would be better to complete the plan and then borrow money to carry it out right away for that matter."

Dr. Fenwick considered it too bad to keep the work back another year if more help was all that was required.

The mayor—"The main thing is to get the money."

Principal Grant—"When the completed plan is put before the people you can get them to go for it without any trouble. One thing, even the selfish man is willing to give towards it when it benefits his health."

Mr. Walkem—"You could incite a favorable feeling in the city in three or four days."

Having been instructed to write Mr. McDougal, for his opinion as to the penitentiary drainage question, Dr. Herald read a letter received, conveying numerous credentials of this work, with sketches of systems, etc.

On motion of Principal Grant the matter was left to Drs. Herald and Fenwick to report on.

Dr. Herald explained that he had approached Wm. Kennedy on the question while he was in the city. He thought the vault system of disposing of the penitentiary sewage could be adopted, although not at a financial gain. It could be pumped out from a reservoir to the farm and then discharged. The labor would cost nothing.

Dr. Saunders told of the system in vogue at Coney Island, N.Y., where, with a population of 150,000 inhabitants, the sewage was run into the large reservoir and burned at a cost of only $18 per day. This system might serve the penitentiary.

On motion of Principal Grant it was decided to ask Sir John Thompson to send the sanitary engineer he had promised the board, and that Dr. Saunders, Isaac Simpson and the mayor be a committee to confer with him.

Ald. Fair then wished to have the report, etc., of Mr. Chipman, Toronto, also considered by a special committee to examine Mr. McDougal's information. It was so decided.

Enlarge the Market.

The removal of Mr. Murray's stall from the shambles does not create nearly enough room for the Islanders. To-day they were crowded inside and some had to occupy the tables outside. They must have room, and in order to provide this the other stalls will have be pulled down. Even when this is done there will not any space to spare.

Hotel Arrivals.

Arrivals at the British American Hotel—G. H. Dougall, Geo. R. Nimmo, F. S. Baillie, M. Kitner, Montreal; H. O'Hara, P. C. Folwell, J. A. Morton, G. A. Chapman, Toronto; A. L. Hay, T. J. Kelleher, Hamilton; J. F. Sherlock, London; A. S. Riley, New York; Dr. Fowler, Colborne; W. L. Hamilton, Belleville; A. Young, Sonel, Man.

A Thriving Place.

Mr. Mucklestone has returned after spending several days in the west. He spent some time in Peterboro and speaks of it as a thriving place. He was informed that a thousand men would be employed in the Kilnon electric works inside of six months. Anyone is being made to get the Crossen car works there, and the promoters of the scheme think they will succeed.

He Faced the Foe.

At a Toronto demonstration, on Thursday, Lieut.-Gov. Kirkpatrick was made a member of the veterans' association. He then told of his connection with the volunteer forces of Canada at the time of the Fenian raid. He took up arms in defence of his country in 1866, having joined the volunteers as full private during the Trent affair. He was promoted to the rank of adjutant of the 14th batt., and went with his battalion to the front at Cornwall ready to face the enemy.

A Peculiar and Critical Case.

About six weeks ago Donald McFarlane, Melrose, had a tumor removed from his side by Dr. Sullivan at l'Hotel Dieu hospital. The operation was apparently a successful one, but in a short time a strong growth of fungus flesh appeared in the wound, which refused to yield to cauterizing, and necessitated another operation for its removal, which was accordingly done, but the growth has reappeared as at first. It is a peculiar and critical case and will require the utmost skill and attention for its recovery.

Wedding Bells.

On Wednesday, June 1st, a large wedding party assembled at the residence of Mr. and Mrs P. E. R Miller, Sydenham, to witness the marriage of their daughter Jennie to Robert Vanloven, Murvale. After the ceremony, which took place at nine o'clock, the company partook of a sumptuous and very inviting repast. A large number of costly gifts were presented to the bride. A joyous evening was spent and the happy couple took the midnight train for Montreal, the eastern metropolis of Canada.

The Jewelry Found.

Capt. McMaugh's vigilant efforts to secure the jewelry of the late Mary Lamb were rewarded this morning. In searching among the machinery he fires came upon the diamond ring, which it is said the unfortunate cook went back for, and thus lost her life. The ring is set with three large diamonds and is of a very fine gold. Another gold ring was found in the debris belonging to her, followed by her gold watch, the hands of which pointed to 6:50 o'clock, and then the gold brooch was picked up. Capt. McMaugh will send them to the deceased's sister.

Shifted Their Quarters.

Nothwithstanding that two policemen have been detailed to prowl about the outskirts of the city in disguise the burglars continue operations. They have shifted the scene of their labors from Portsmouth to Perth Road. Last evening they visited two farm houses on this highway, and were discovered. In the residence of Arthur and James Kemp, thieves secured a gold watch, $20 and provisions. Before leaving they loaded a gun, found standing in the corner, with ball cartridge. They then called at Mr. Morton's house and plundered it scientifically, and escaped detection.

Officers Aikens and Burnett have been scouring for burglars in the outskirts during the week, but have not been able to capture any of them. The woods are evidently full of them and they have been given the right of way. They travel the country in sections, operating at different points on the same night. Last evening men tried every window in the toll gate house on the Bath road. Had they succeeded in raising any of them they would have been shot. Mr. Ryder, the lessee of the gate, was waiting for them with a loaded rifle.

To-morrow is Whitsunday on which is annually commemorated the outpouring of the Holy Spirit upon the disciples, Acts ii, 2. On this account it is often spoken of as the birthday of the Christian church. It is called Pentecost because it occurs fifty days after the Jewish passover, and so fifty days after Easter. Hence some derive the word Whitsun, saying it is a corruption of the German "Pfingsten," which means Pentecost, or fiftieth. Other authorities take Whitsunday to be a contraction of White Sunday, from the white robes of the baptized, it having been a principal occasion for baptism in the primitive churches.

THE COUNTY NOMINATION.

An Association Needed Before a Candidate is Named.

According to market gossip the farmers are not satisfied that Mr. Calvin should be the choice of the conservative convention. They want a farmer, a man, who, by his experience, is better able to comprehend their needs than city-bred gentlemen. Judging from the remarks of representative men an intelligent farmer would make a successful run for member.

As Mr. Rankin's name was mentioned as a probable candidate the reporter interviewed him.

"I hear you are going to be nominated as a candidate for the membership of Frontenac?"

Mr. Rankin replied: "I don't want the nomination. The meeting this afternoon will be a mass meeting, not a convention, and the first thing to be done will be to form a liberal-conservative association. We have not got one yet."

"Before forming the association the candidate for the parliament will be nominated," said the reporter.

Mr. Rankin—"Not if I can help it. We shall have an association first."

R. W. Folger said Mr. Calvin will get the nomination by two votes to one.

Police Court—Saturday.

To-day's police court revealed Daniel Ball, an old man with one crippled foot, charged with drunkenness. Sergt. Nesbitt told of him being called to Ontario street and finding the prisoner stretched out on the sidewalk. Ball claimed he never appeared in court before, but the sergeant knew better and testified in an off hand way, "You've been here before many a time, many a time," and his worship took a new dip of ink to write "$3 and cost or six months in jail." He was given a chance to leave the city.

A similar charge against John Spare was reserved.

A PLEASING CONCERT.

Mr. Clarke Put on a Very Fine Programme Last Night.

Since taking charge of the First Congregational church choir Mr. Clarke has proven himself to be a musician of much ability. Although the church could ever boast of a very fair collection of singers still in the few weeks Mr. Clarke has been in charge, steady advancement has been shown. The concert last night certainly displayed good taste and the audience were regretful when the national anthem brought the programme to a close. A glance at the selection is sufficient to convince one of its effect.

RACES AT DESERONTO.

THE POSITIONS THE KINGSTON HORSES SECURED.

"Minnie" Made Some Tall Trotting And "Little Bell" And Her Backers Were All Left Very Short—The Races Concluded.

The result of the postponed free-for-all trot at Deseronto, yesterday afternoon, was no little surprise to Kingstonians who attended the races. "Little Bell" having taken two straights the day previously it was thought she could score again without any trouble. But in this, however, backers of Wallace's horse were disappointed. "Little Bell" was the favorite from the start and bets of $100 to $25 in her favor were available to the fourth heat. Then the tide changed, but still with ready takers and an even bet. At the end of the fifth heat, however, it was quite obvious that "Little Bell" was at her best. Wagers of double money could not be accepted on the little brown mare against the field and she took the three last heats, so to speak, without opposition. "Little Bell" exerted every muscle in the last heat. Mr. McRae was able to return to Kingston last night with first money.
