COAL OIL TAX.

There is no tax so heavily felt by the farmer, and now that Mr. Calvin is a candidate for parliament, and seems anxious to lift unnecessary burdens from the people, he will no doubt give it his earnest attention. American oil costs, originally, 7c per gallon, but it has upon it a protective duty of 7 1-5c per gallon, which is calculated to prohibit the trade in it. But it does not. The Canadian oil is an inferior article, and some people prefer to pay 25c and 30c per gallon for it and so secure it. These consume about five million gallons per annum. Those who do put up with the Canadian oil consume about ten million gallons on which the duty and government instructions and charges permit a tax of 10 cents per gallon to be collected so that a tax of $1,500,000 is levied annually by this monopoly. This is a large sum to pay for the benefit of 347 hands, for that is all there are employed in Ontario and Quebec in the refinery business. Suppose all those were pensioned off what would be the consequence? The Montreal Herald has made a calculation which we adopt. Of the 347 hands, if all were allowed at the rate of $300 per annum each so long as they remain in the dominion, leaving them free to do what they like with their time, there are very few who would not think they had made a most advantageous bargain. That would amount to 104,100 per annum. By the last census the value of tools, machinery, etc., in the works was: Quebec, $1,849; Ontario, $516,510, a total of $518,359; which, borrowed at 5 per cent. would cost say $26,000 per annum. Then allowing that the protection which enables the proprietors of the refineries to obtain an extra price for their wares as a vested interest, worth $20,000 each, for twenty-nine refineries, that would amount to $580,000; or, borrowing the amount at 5 per cent., it would entail an annual charge of $29,000. Thus all parties to the contract might be satisfied by a charge of $140,100 per annum, and the country and the consumers of coal oil would save $1,340,900 every year by the bargain. Viewed in such a way the enormity of the coal oil tax is more readily comprehended. Mr. Calvin must see the burden of it, too, and so denounce it from the hustings and the stump during the brief season during which he will be called upon to discuss political questions with the people.

BLAINE IS UNFRIENDLY.

The WHIG is in accord with the Toronto World in hoping against the nomination of James G. Blaine for the presidency of the United States. His action has never been friendly to Canada. Satisfied that he cannot dictate or dominate its commercial policy as he did that of the South American republics he has acted coldly towards our representatives, in his conferences with them, and talked meaningly about the country for political effect from time to time. The last performance of the plumed knight is remarkable. He was agreeable to a discussion of the canal tolls question with Hon. Messrs. Bowell and Foster, and had one meeting, but before a second could occur Mr. Blaine suddenly made up his mind to resign office, and so ended the negotiations. There was considerable design and artfulness in his decision. He had posed as a champion of American rights, had probably inspired the retaliation speeches of Mr. Harrison, had given the American people to feel that they had suffered an insult or injury from the Canadian government which it was the duty of the American government to resent, and had in view the presidency which he so long and ardently coveted; and it is possible that he feared his conference with the Canadian ministers might detrimentally affect his campaign, if nominated, and he beat a retreat. His procedure was in truth somewhat cowardly. His mind was made up long ago as to what he would do when the Minneapolis convention occurred, and he had, no doubt, arranged for the time and manner of presenting his resignation. It was discourteous, therefore, to make an appointment with the Canadian ministers when he did, and it was infinitely more discourteous to turn them out at the state audience chamber and send them home without presuming to finish the business for which they had been called together. The event may add to his dazzling brilliancy in the estimation of his admirers; it may be an evidence of his great tact and ability, but the Canadian people cannot see it in that light. And what of his future? The World figures about right: "Should he fail in getting the nomination at Minneapolis he is a dead duck, and no further a menace to Canada. Should he get the nomination he will be harmless until after March, 1893, and will be treated by Harrison and his cabinet as a traitor; they will undertake to carry out the Behring Sea arbitration independent of him. It is now certain and quite satisfactory to Britain and Canada that the Behring seal dispute will be arbitrated free of the baneful influence of Blaine. He has been the pariplot heretofore, and he is the man who first set up the dashing yet unsubstantial claim of United States sovereignty on the high sea. But should Blaine get the nomination and be elected president of the United States he will be Canada's worst foe. He will do his best to embroil the two countries." Read the history of his diplomatic exploits, of his conniving against British interests in the cultivation of trade relations with the South American republics, of his persistent unfriendliness towards Canada, in office and out of it, and the conclusion is forced that as president he would act unwisely and to the disruption of peace between Canada and the United States.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Mr. Calvin is going to do all he can to beat whoever the grits will bring out against him. He may have to do more than he at present thinks of.

* * *

The Advertiser thinks the lieutenant-governors should be elected by the people. And if the lieutenant-governors why not the governor-general?

* * *

Blaine's resignation of the office of secretary of state is a plain intimation to his friends that he is all ready for a nomination for the presidency. The convention occurs at Minneapolis to-day.

A fund is being raised, the interest of which is to go to Mrs. Alexander Mackenzie while she lives, and to the establishment of scholarships or fellowships in political economy in Toronto university when she dies. Let it be made as large as possible, and a portion of it eventually go towards scholarships in Queen's.

An official enquiry is in progress, in Ottawa, as to the statements made by Mr. Bailey, of the patent office, before the civil service commission to the effect that the management of the office is "simply rotten." It is regarded as certain that the service of, at least, one employe will be dispensed with.

THOUGHTLESS CHURCH PEOPLE.

The Memorial to Rev. H. Farrer Bancroft, Effects This.

Gananoque Reporter.

No more complete satire on church methods could be written. A minister is sent into a beggarly district and then left to work himself to "the last thread" and die of destitution; and then those who failed to assist him in life "readily" offer five dollars to "honor" his memory by erecting some gew gaw that will advertise their own large-hearted liberality. It reminds us of a story which the late Rev. Wm. McGill once told. The first two or three years that he was on a Methodist circuit he had hard work to live, and scarcely saw a dollar in money. At the end of his term in the Bay of Quinte district he took the opportunity of riding on horseback to his father's home, near Cornwall. His relatives, who had not seen him for some time, were struck by his shabby, half-starved appearance, and one of his brothers questioned him as to his income and means of support. Being told that his gross receipts for the year past amounted to less than one hundred dollars, and was mostly paid in such truck as the people could part with easily, the brother was, naturally, indignant. "It's a shame," he said, "and I'll tell you what, Bill, you may feel called to stand that sort of humbug, but I'd see them in hell before I'd preach for less than half-way decent wages."

The hiring of ministers by congregations is now done upon pretty much on the same principle as hiring any other employees. Possibly there are too many at the business, and their support is a burden in certain localities. But that does not lessen the manliness of a congregation who permit their pastor to suffer through their parsimony or neglect. If they do not want him he should be discharged. If they do want him they ought to pay him. Putting up a tablet for a minister who was starved or worked to death is an insult, instead of an honor to his memory and a disgrace to those who are implicated in causing his sufferings.

Their Success Unprecedented.

Thousand Island Park.

The Islander unloaded another large lot of furniture for the new hotel this week. The Edison electric light company is laying the wires in the hotel and on the poles. Elder Thurston has arrived and has opened the book store. R. H. Rogers has opened the New England dining hall. J. Sears, of the firm of Smith & Sears, butchers, is adding a large addition to his boarding house. The late hot weather is causing the grass to grow so fast that it has got to be mowed in many places. A great many of the cottages are now occupied and more coming every day. The steam drill is busy drilling for the electric light company. Dr. D. D. Smith, Syracuse, is getting his cottage repaired and painted in good shape. The new steam laundry is getting an iron roof and also being painted. It is situated near the new hotel. The Watertown engine company have begun to set up the engine for the new water works. R. H. Childs is fitting up his hotel at Grand View park on Eel Bay. The steam yacht Edith May makes several trips daily between Grand View and the Thousand Island park. Very hot here; the thermometer stood at 100° on Tuesday. W. H. Capernall is finishing a very handsome skiff which he intends entering in all sailing races this summer. Contractor W. D. Gardner is building a large boat house for J. Palmer on Coast avenue.

Dr. Smith in the West.

Calgary Herald.

Rev. Dr. Smith, of Queen's university, Kingston, has been spending a short time in Calgary. Dr. Smith is making the tour of the Northwest, primarily with a view to the improvement of his health, having been ordered by his physicians to retire from work for, at least, six months. While in the northwest he is making a study of the country with a view of delivering a series of illustrated lectures. He has visited Edmonton, Red Deer, Innisfail, Olds, etc., and considered that the country around the last named railway station the best he has yet seen in the north country. Dr. Smith has left for Lethbridge and will visit the Prince Albert district and all the leading points in the territories before leaving for home.

Boston, How Could You?

"Age, thou art shamed." Think of it and blush. In Boston, the Athens of our degenerate day, the home of culture and refinement in the classic shades of which theosophy, esoteric Buddhism and occult science flourish as if in native soil, where children take the words of wisdom and their elders soar to ethereal heights which morals of common mold can never reach, a large, a gilded and gaudy liquor saloon for women has been opened. Sadder still it is patronized.

An Old Friend Met.

Dr. Wilfrid G. Fralick, late of this city, was met a few days ago by Drs. Henderson and Corbit while visiting in New York. They found him engaged in a successful practice and high in the estimation of the people. He has been appointed a professor in a college, an indication of the good work he is doing. Dr. Fralick was quite attentive to the Kingstonians and made many enquiries about old friends.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Condition of the Jail.

KINGSTON, June 6.—(To the Editor): At the meeting of the board of health, on Friday last, considerable discussion took place regarding the sanitary condition of the jail. Permit me, for the information of the public, to state some facts regarding it. Some years ago there was a good deal of sickness in the families of the officials of the jail, there being several cases of typhoid fever, diphtheria and scarlet fever. At that time and ever since, however, the prisoners in the jail were remarkably healthy. This shows that if there was any local cause for the diseases it was in the officials' quarters. The county council attempted to remedy this by looking after the drains, etc. During the last four years there has not been a case of any contagious disease whatever in the officials' quarters, with the exception of three cases of measles in the jailer's family, and which were, no doubt, caught in the public schools which the children attended were attending last winter, when the disease was so prevalent in the city. There has not been one single case of typhoid fever in the gaol or premises for over ten years. The Indian, Peter Sharbot, reported in the press last summer to have had typhoid fever did not have that disease; he had malarial fever only. The deaths in the gaol from the 1st of January, 1882, up to the present day, a period of ten years and five months, have been twelve in number, as follows: 1882, one death, suicide from cutting throat; 1883, three deaths all from old age, the patients being respectively 82, 108 and 85 years of age; 1884-5, no deaths; 1886, one death, old age; 1887, two deaths, one from laryngitis, the other from disease of the brain; 1888, three deaths, one from old age, (over 100 years,) the other from heart disease; 1889, no death; 1890, one death, old age; 1891, one death, heart disease; 1892, no death so far. This is the record with a yearly average during that time of 250 prisoners, committed for periods varying from ten days to six months. Now this is rather a remarkable record considering the class of persons who form most of the prisoners, the drunken, dissolute, aged and infirm. While then the prisoners in the jail were so healthy there was considerable illness at the same time in the officials' families, we must look for the cause. The drain leading from the officials' quarters should be examined again and remedied if found deficient. It is strange, too, that the officials use altogether the city water while the prisoners use chiefly the water from the well, showing that the well water cannot be much at fault. In any case the well water should be analyzed before it is condemned. The ventilation of the jail, as mentioned by the inspector of prisons in his last report, is very bad. The water closets in the wards of the jail are excellent ones and work well, having been put up by McKelvey & Birch about five years ago. They are of the newest and most improved kind. Such an institution as the jail could not get along with dry earth closets. It would be almost impossible to keep them from becoming foul and a nuisance, for there would have to be one in every ward. At present the officials have to use pails, but these are kept in as clean and sanitary state as can well be done. If there is anything wrong with the drainage of the jail it is most likely outside the walls of the prison to the large drain at the back of the court-house leading into the West street drain. The water from the closets in the jail seems to run away freely. The turnkey's quarters are in the basement of the building next the jail and are damp from their location. No doubt any sanitary improvements required will be recommended by the inspector of prisons, who has supervision of such matters.—A. S. OLIVER, M.D.

Montreal Methodist Conference.

PEMBROKE, June 6.—The work of the stationing committee will not be completed before Tuesday night. Invitations are being ignored, for the alleged reason that conference feels that the proper committee must station the ministers and not the quarterly board. I say alleged reason for the fact is some "big wigs" have to be located, and, as invitations have been given to choice places to young men comparatively, these must be sacrificed to men who "have a pull" on the committee.

To-day the memorial committee submitted the following memorials: That a leaflet be published for distribution among our people showing the object of our connexional funds; that the superannuation allowance of the widow of the late Rev. Brock Rose be continued; that a committee be appointed to bring about prison reform.—Adopted.

The educational committee recommended that E. R. Kelly be appointed to attend college.—Adopted.

The sustentation fund committee presented its report. The annual amount raised during the year was $2,689. Rev. J. T. Pitcher was appointed treasurer for ensuing year.

The special committee on the St. Lawrence central camp ground reported an indebtedness remaining of $7,113 25, and recommended that, inasmuch as the honor of the Methodist church was at stake, a collection for this purpose be taken on every circuit next December, and that the ground be sold.

The superannuation fund reported that last year $12,576 had been raised within the bounds of the conference, including $2,592 from ministers.

A lively discussion took place about the enforcement of the discipline on popular amusements, and it was ordered that a clause to this effect be inserted in the pastoral address.

Vennachar Varieties.

VENNACHAR, June 3.—Council met at J. Gilmour's, 28th ult. No appeals against assessment. In the afternoon the council room was crowded, as every one wanted money grants to improve the roads, and with the grants and good pathmasters our roads will be excellent this summer. The late rains have improved the appearance of this place very much, as the trees are all in full leaf. Farmers are quite happy over the prospects of good crops. J. Gilmour is doing a thriving business in the farming line. He is also doing a good business in the store. We are anxiously looking for the return of Rev. Mr. Clare and hope he will remain with us another year.

Mr. Sweetman is recovering after an attack of heart disease. Measles and mumps have left us and have gone to spend a few weeks in Denbigh. Miss Laura Pennock is improving her time in making preparations for the entrance examination in June, and Miss M. Conner for the public school leaving examination. Visitors: Miss Ada Garrison, at A. Cowan's; Miss Blanche Perry, at J. Gilmour's, Mr. Cowan's and G. W. Sweetman's.

Canadian Vessel in Port.

CHICAGO, June 6.—The Canadian steamer Clinton is in port, having on board 7,000 bushels of wheat, which, to be unloaded at Armour's elevators and put through the new grain dryers there to determine the value of the latter as savers of wet grain. The Clinton left Superior with a cargo 18,000 bushels of wheat consigned in care of the Montreal Transportation company at Kingston, to the order of A. J. Sayer & Co., the consignment being intended for export. She struck Topsail Island in the St. Mary's river, and was beached to save her. After jettisoning 11,000 bushels of her cargo, it was found that she would float. The remaining portion of her damaged cargo having been purchased by Mr. Armour, the secretary of the treasury gave permission to allow her to come to Chicago, discharge her cargo and be repaired. His permission was necessary, as under the existing treaties Canadian vessels are not allowed to trade between American ports except in cases of stress of weather or disaster.

Charming May.

Who of all life's busy crowd,
Poor or rich or grave or gay,
Will not accord a welcome glad
To Flora's own—Charming May?

How sweet and spirit cheering
To earth's sad and weary throng,
Sound the gushing melody
Of the spring's first bird of song!

What volumes of rich song
Pour from a tiny throat,
And all fair nature seems
In harmony to float!

Ye whose earthy destiny
Seems aye dark and full o'care;
Come, have your fainting spirits
In May's perfumed balmy air!

Something About Cats.

There are two curious things about cats. Yellow hairs, however few, always indicate the female; no male ever has the slightest tint of yellow. Blue-eyed cats are scarce, and it is possible that some deaf cats may be blue eyed, but wherever you find a blue-eyed cat that feline is absolutely incapable of hearing thunder.

Fresh dulce at Wade's drug store.

Mr. Milo Gilson,

A stalwart teamster in the employ of the Glens Falls, N. Y., Lumber Company, says that both he and his wife highly recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla. She failed to gain strength after a severe illness, felt miserable, could not sleep, and had no appetite. When she took Hood's Sarsaparilla she began to pick up and was soon all right. His own experience was that in the spring he was all run down, had weakness and distress in the stomach. Hood's Sarsaparilla brought him right, and he found all round is now better and heavier than for years past. Thousands, yes almost Millions of People, testify to the wonderful value of Hood's Sarsaparilla for that tired feeling or weakness of mind, nerves or body. It is the helping hand which restores full health and strength. Mr. John J. Scully, President of the Seamen's Union, 256 Catherine Street, Detroit, Michigan, voluntarily writes as follows: "C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"Gentlemen: I feel in duty bound to tell of the benefit I derived from Hood's Sarsaparilla. I have been troubled with nervous dyspepsia, was tired and languid, with no ambition to work; my sleep was irregular. So I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. From the very first it seemed to be just the thing for me. The nervous dyspepsia has now entirely gone, my appetite is excellent, I can eat heartily without distress afterward. When I sleep well, I can now go about my work without that tired feeling so frequent before I took Hood's Sarsaparilla. I have taken six bottles and recommend it as the King of Medicines." J. J. SCULLY.
