

Bulk brush collection continues in wake of ice storm

Halton Region is extending its special bulk brush collection program to rural areas starting May 5.

The extension adds to the collection program in designated service areas announced last month as a result of the December ice storm, which caused damage to thousands of trees and shrubs.

The Region is also extending the waiving of tipping fees for brush material at the Halton Waste Management Site from May 31 to June 30.

“Halton Region continues to work closely with the local municipalities to implement a coordinated ice storm related bulk brush collection program,” said Regional Chair Gary Carr.

“As the extended program will not start until May 5 staff will work with the local municipalities to help with the set-up of temporary transfer sites, if required, within non-serviced areas so that residents and contractors can drop off brush at no charge.”

Homes in the non-serviced yard waste collection areas of Halton must place oversized brush along the roadside.

Residents must ensure that the brush does not block the road and is not placed inside ditches. Brush must be placed out no later than the first day of the scheduled collection week.

Branches are to be no longer than six feet in length and placed in piles no more than 20 feet long and four feet high with branches no thicker than three inches in diameter. The collection schedule is as follows:

Residents who have bulk brush materials that are larger than three inches in diameter must make their own arrangements to have the materials collected and taken for disposal.

These larger materials are unable to be collected safely in standard yard waste collection vehicles.

Storm-related brush debris and chipped materials can be dropped off at the Halton Waste Management Site by residents and contractors from across the Region free of charge until June 30, 2014.
