Daily British Whig

Our readers will have noted that the Governor General has, in the speech from the throne, made no reference to the result of the appeals to the Privy Council and Supreme Courts on the Boundary Award, Streams Bill and McCarthy Act. Possibly the nerves of His Excellency's ministers have been so much shocked by defeats that official publicity could not, with safety, be given to the facts.

MARK THIS POINT.

Sugar is getting dearer, and the sugar question in one which vitally affects nearly every one. It has been cheap for a long time, so cheap as to be within the reach of all and available for the many purposes for which a thrifty people desire it. What removed it from the list of luxuries? The Conservatives say the national policy did it, though the national policy's principal aim was to build up the Canadian refineries, to make the monopolists rich at the cost of many.

It has always been a puzzle how protection could be beneficial when it closed out of the market a cheap article simply because it was not Canadian. However, sugar has been cheap, very cheap. An article which some years ago sold at 9c and 10c per lb. has been offered at 6c per lb., and in large quantities it has been in demand at this rate. Have the low prices been attributable to the benevolent action of the Canadian refiners or to their very obtiging friends in the government? Mr. T. White, at Odessa, during the Lennox election, informed the people that cheap sugar was one of the benefits conferred upon them by the new Tilley tariff. "Why," said he, "you can buy now 20 lbs. of sugar, good sugar, for $1." And he seemed to think this an immense favor, and looked to the electors for some very peculiar mark of appreciation. But Mr. Patterson put a new face upon things in his speech at a subsequent meeting. He assured the people that they had to thank the national policy for nothing so far as sugar was concerned. The sale of 20 lbs for $1 was not a favor after all. "I know a merchant," said he, "and he sits upon this platform, who will sell you 40 lbs. of sugar for $1, but you, of course, pay the duty. Perhaps in this way you will realize what a blessing the national policy is to the farmer." And they did see the point and loudly cheered it.

But a change has come. For eight days the price of sugar has been advanced. The increase in value is about one eighth of a cent per day, or a cent for the week. What is bringing this boom about? If the national policy made sugar cheap is it also not making sugar dear? The argument is reasonable enough, so reasonable that no Conservative paper has so far essayed to rebut it. Consumers will regret the change, but the merchants, especially those holding large stocks, will rejoice exceedingly. There's millions in sugar just now.

PROBLEM IN ENGLAND.

The Right Hon. Mr. Chamberlain, at a dinner given to him recently by the artisans of Bermingham, made a very powerful and outspoken deliverance on the home and foreign policy of the government. We quote below that portion referring to the social questions now engaging the attention of the British people, and which he said "they would ask at the next election and to which they would demand an answer:"

"With regard to the domestic legislation of the future he believed it would be more directed to social subjects than heretofore, to promote the greater happiness of the masses of the people. How to increase their enjoyment of life was the problem of the future. Then there was the question of what ransom property should pay for the security it enjoyed. What security would it find for the national rights of the people which had ceased to be recognized. There was a doctrine that property had obligations as well as rights. He thought in the future we should hear a great deal about the obligations of property and that we should not hear so much about its rights. (Loud cheers.) Was it a right of property which permitted a foreign speculator to lay waste 200 miles of territory in Scotland for the gratification of his love of sport, and to chase from the lands those whose fathers tilled them long before this intruder was ever heard of. (Cries of "No.") Were the game laws a right of property, laws which made men criminal who had committed no moral offence? Lastly, was it an essential condition of property that the agricultural labourers should be entirely divorced from the soil they tilled, and that they should be driven into towns to compete with the artisans for work, thus lowering the rate of wages alike in towns and country? Was it right that the labouring classes should be huddled into dwellings unfit for man or beast, where the conditions of common decency were impossible, and where they tended directly to disease, intemperance, and crime? These were questions which they would ask at the next election, and to which they would demand an answer (cheers.) He held that property could not pay its debt to labour by taking its means of subsistence. They must look for a cure in the legislation laying the heaviest burdens on the shoulders of those best able to hear them, legislation which would in some degree at any rate replace the labourer on the soil and find employment for him without forcing him into competition with the artisan of the towns; in legislation which would give a free education to every child in the land (cheers), and which would thus enable every one to make the best use of the faculties with which he might be gifted. He congratulated them on the fair prospect which was opening up for the class to which those present belonged. In the era which was now commencing we should see many experiments intended to lessen the evils which poverty brought in its train, to increase the rewards of labour, to bring hope to the miserable, to give courage to the weak, and in this way to advance the aim and end of all Liberal policy, the greatest happiness of the greatest number. (Loud and prolonged cheers.)

A CONGREGATIONAL MEETING.

Close of a Successful Year for the Queen Street Church People—The Finances.

A congregational meeting was held in the basement of the Queen street church last evening. Rev. H. F. Bland occupied the chair. A tea, supplied by the ladies of the congregation, was served, after which a number of reports were read.

The financial report, read by Mr. Britton, showed that the total cost of the new church was $10,500. The people met this debt nobly. The subscription list amounted to $8,500, $3,600 of which had already been paid.

Mr. Crothers followed and read the stewards' report. The church revenue was $1,800, and the expenditure $1,950, for the past year. The extra expenditure had been met by special subscriptions.

The assistant superintendent of the Sunday school, Mr. Clark, then read his annual report. The Sunday school was in a very prosperous condition at present. There were twenty-three officers and teachers and 200 scholars on the roll. The average attendance per Sunday was 165.

The Ladies' Aid Society was represented by Mr. Clark also. Its report was very satisfactory, showing that from July 1 to Dec. 31, 1884, $240 had been raised by this organization. Some $160 of this sum were contributed to the building fund.

Rev. H. F. Bland's report showed the amount of money contributed during the year by special collections. The congregation had contributed the magnificent sum of $362 to missionary purposes, which was $75 more than in any previous year.

After the reports had been read Dr. Lavell and B. M. Britton made short speeches.

Capt. Crawford, previous to making an address, read a paper, which he had prepared, entitled "Solomonism." It bristled with practical hints and lessons as to how a church member should carry himself, and provoked much merriment.

The choir sang several choruses in excellent style. Solos were given by Mrs. Chapman, Mrs. Rockwell and J. M. Sherlock.

TERRIBLE DISASTERS!

A RAILWAY SMASH UP—A COMPLETE WRECK OF A TRAIN.

A Sad Accident in the Bay of Fundy—Blizzard Strikes a Vessel—She is Beached and Her Crew Drowned and Frozen—Terrible Experience.

Jersey City, N.J., Jan. 30.—The Philadelphia express on the New Jersey RR. was wrecked at Greenville this morning. Some lives are reported to be lost. The train consisted of four coaches, well filled with passengers. The accident occurred between the Danforth avenue station and the cemetery bridge, near Jersey City. The train was running rapidly when the wheel of the forward coach broke and the car was derailed. It ran into a coal train and was upset, and the other three cars were wrecked. The accident was witnessed by the mounted policeman, who telephoned the facts to police headquarters. Surgeons and ambulances were sent to the scence. Some 25 wounded have been removed from the wreck, and many more will be extricated.

Jersey City, N.J., Jan. 30.—The whole side of the car was torn out and the furniture and fittings piled up in a confused mass upon the terrified passengers. The parlor car was turned over on its side, and the next coach stood up on its end, with the rear car gently under it. About 70 passengers were on board and it is remarkable that not many were killed outright. A brakeman broke the upper windows of the rear coach and helped out the passengers. The stoves set fire to the wreck in several places, but the flames were extinguished by the brakemen.

SHIPWRECKED AND LOST.

Suffering of an Unfortunate Crew—Submitting to the Inevitable.

St. John, N.B., Jan. 30.—The worst disaster that has happened in the Bay of Fundy for several years occurred near St. Martin's on Wednesday afternoon when the schooner Arcana, Capt. Holmes, of Kennebunk, Maine, from Portland, Maine, for Annapolis, was wrecked and nine men lost their lives. The weather was intensely cold and the blinding snow storm made it impossible to distinguish the objects at any distance. From the time she left Portland the Arcana had a hard time of it, drifting about in the ice and anchoring wherever safe anchorage could be found. On Wednesday she sailed from the head of the Bay to find a harbor in which to lie during the storm that was coming up. When near Quaco a whistle was heard, but nothing could be seen. The captain thought it was Cape Enrage and shortened sail. Suddenly a light was descried and land could be seen. The vessel was driven by the terrible gale broadside upon the Quaco reef, which has been the destruction of several vessels. The crew, who had exposed to the severe weather, were hardly able to stand, and were in consequence unprepared at the time of the disaster. Only one man, named Lyons, got ashore. He left the vessel, followed by the second mate, but the latter fell under the vessel and was so badly injured that he could proceed no further. Lyons offered to assist the others in reaching land, but they did not appear to be able to make any effort to save themselves. The bodies of five men, frozen stiff, were discovered on the rocks.

A DYNAMITE EXPLOSION.

The Article Goes Off Very Unexpectly, and Seriously Wounds Several Persons.

Perth, Jan. 30.—Mr. A. P. McDonald, contractor of the Tay Canal, gives the following particulars of a dynamite explosion yesterday at Tay Canal Works. Lewis the man who has charge of the explosion had returned from preparing a charge and had six cartridges left over which he carried in his hand when he and George MacDonald took refuge in the engine-house from the falling stones, etc., caused by the charge he had just prepared. He placed the six cartridges down in the corner. Buchanan, the engineer, opened the engine door to fire up, and the intense heat caused the already thawed cartridges to explode. Lewis was in the act of lifting them from the floor when they exploded. Lewis was frightfully mangled—limbs and arms broken, and eyes blinded. There is no hope of him. George MacDonald was torn, and his recovery is doubtful. Buchanan, the engineer, escaped wonderfully, and is expected to get around all right. The engine was in no way injured but the house was blown to splinters.

CALVIN ESTATE FRAUD

Dr. Kniffen Re-arrested on Another Charge of False Pretences.

Detroit, Jan. 28. Dr. Kniffen, who was arrested at East Saginaw charged with forging deeds, to a tract of land belonging to the estate of D. D. Calvin, of Ontario, is again in trouble. After forging the deeds as charged in the indictment he raised $600 thereon by mortgaging the property to J. Wolfe, Saginaw, and the latter deeded the property with the encumbrance to his bride. On Monday friends came to his rescue, and put up a bail bond for $3,000, and he was released. Yesterday he was again arrested on the complaint of Wolfe, who charges that Kniffen obtained the $600 under false pretences. He was locked up. Last night the necessary bail of $1,500 on the second charge was raised by a friend, and Kniffen is again out of gaol.

MUTINY ON BOARD.

Serious Mutiny on an American Vessel—The Captain Killed.

Plymouth, Jan. 29.—The American boat Wellington was towed into this port this morning. The mate, who was badly wounded, reported that a serious mutiny had occurred on board, in which the captain was killed, that none of the crew were killed, but three of them received wounds of a serious nature. Immediately upon the mutineers gaining command of the vessel they engaged in serious quarrelling among themselves. In their incompetent hands the ship soon became unmanageable, and they became terror stricken from the fear that the vessel would be wrecked on the rocky coast, to which they were perilously close. They signalled for assistance, which speedily came and were towed into Portsmouth. Their arrest followed, and their immediate arraignment for mutiny on the high seas will take place.

BECHUANALAND.

Friendly Interview Between General Warren and President Kruger.

Cape Town, Jan. 29.—General Warren, who was recently sent with special powers to effect a settlement of the Bechuanaland troubles, has had a friendly interview with President Kruger, of the Transvaal Republic, upon the border questions in dispute. Mr. Kruger urged that he possessed individual claims to certain lands in Goshen. General Warren said no attempts to secure occupancy on such claims could be tolerated by England. The men who are attempting to gain a foothold in Goshen he characterized as a band of robbers, and declared that no white people should be allowed to settle in Goshen without special permits.

London, Jan. 29.—Reinforcements are about to be sent to General Warren in Bechuanaland.

A CAMPAIGN IN CANADA.

THE DYNAMITERS PREPARING FOR A RAID ON THE DOMINION.

Railway Authorities, Sheriffs, Mayors and Bank Managers Warned to Use Extra Precautions.

Montreal, Jan. 29.—Ten days ago the chief of police received a communication from a man in Matteway, N.Y., stating that there was a dynamite factory in that place, and that quantities of dynamite were going to be shipped via Plattsburg and Helensburg to be smuggled across to Canada and be employed in blowing up Victoria bridge and public buildings in Montreal. It is stated that ropms had been secured in St. Paul street, and that four agents of the dynamite society were in the city disguised as lawyers. On the chief communicating with the Dominion Government, they told him to apprise the Attorney-General of Quebec. He ordered his deputy, Mr. Defoy, to consult with the chief and Detective Gladin was despatched to interview the man. From the result of his enquiries it appears that the man is a Frenchmen, and a hatter by trade, and that he is a "crank." The man says he received his information in taverns, and Mr. Gladin thinks it is only a cock and bull story. The man has promised to come to the city on Friday and lay his information before the chief of police and deputy attorney-general.

Greenfield, Mass., Jan. 29.—Chief Detective Callen has notified the Grand Trunk railroad authorities that plots exist to blow up the Victoria bridge. The company has withdrawn all passes and prohibited visitors within the tube. The detective claims that he has received information of dynamite being manufactured close to the frontier, and that the dynamiters intend inaugurating a campaign in Canada. The sheriffs, mayors and managers of the leading banks have been notified and every precaution is being taken.

Mrs. Parnell's Regrets.

New York, Jan. 28.—Mrs. Delia S. Parnell, the mother of Charles Stewart Parnell, said: "I do not know the causes that led to the explosions, nor do I know whether they were caused by Irishmen. It does not seem possible to me that Irishmen could have been the perpetrators of anything so dreadful, for as a rule they are warm and even tender-hearted, and quick to forgive a wrong. It is true they have suffered much from the unnatural law of England, but I do not think that their sufferings, no matter how great would cause them to retaliate in that manner. It will injure my son in his work," she continued sadly. "At the time of the Phœnix park assassination he was so discouraged that he was on the verge of giving up. I do not know what he will do now. He has many constituents in England, sufficient to counteract what opposition exists against him in Ireland, and I am doubtful as to what effect this will have. It is difficult to understand what will be gained by the use of dynamite. It certainly would not approve of its use in this country. You will find that the Irish cause is the prolonge of a general labor movement throughout the country. I do not refer to dynimate. It is the uprising of labor, and its influence will be felt in this country as well as elsewhere."

McCafferty Makes a Statement.

Rochester, N.Y., Jan. 30.—Capt. John McCafferty, charged with causing the London explosions, is well known here. The Union to-day publishes an article in which Major Joseph P. Cleary, Major Daniel A. Sharpe, and Captain D. C. Feeley, vouch for McCafferty's integrity and nobility of character.

Timely Warning.

The Mahdi sent 12,000 picked troops to annihilate the British column, on the march, and Gordon's steamers are securing supplies and material.

The British square numbered 1,200. The enemy is estimated to have numbered 12,000. When the square returned to the zareba the day after the fight, the garrison wept for joy.

The Standard devotes a special leader to the death of its Soudan correspondent. It says: "Public opinion will crown Cameron with the laurels of a soldier. He lived a hero's life, and died a hero's death."

A letter from the Soudan, received by the Canadien, announces that the Canadian voyageurs in Egypt are in a pitiful condition. Eight had been drowned when the letter was written, and fifty were in hospital. Efforts were also being made to compel a renewal of their engagement, which, the writer says, is distasteful to men who fear the effects of the spring weather. The Mahdi sent 12,000 picked troops to annihilate the British, but there is no fear now. The British have the Nile at their back, and another British column is on the march, and Gordon's steamers are securing supplies and material.

A SERIOUS ENGAGEMENT.

Shanghai, Jan. 30.—It is reported that a serious engagement has occurred between the French and Chinese men-of-war off Matson. No details.

A MOST NUTRITIOUS FOOD AND MEDICINE.

Dr. Lindsay Johnson, of Centersville, Ga., says: "I take great pleasure in saying your Emulsion has proven itself in my hands a most efficient remedy, in the various wasting conditions calling for such a nutriment."

Those among us who are suffering with Bronchitis, or weakness of the throat or lungs, should not delay, but take Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion regularly, according to the advice of their physician, or the directions on the bottle. Always ask for Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion, and be sure you get it.

FURS!

In presenting our collection for this Season we do so with a feeling of the utmost confidence that our efforts will be appreciated and meet with that favor which their merit demand. Never in Kingston has there been such an exhibit as now displayed by us at our salerooms. They have been bought in the best markets for ready money and will be sold in most cases less than regular wholesale prices.
