

Plan is available for public review at variety of locations

In 2006, the Province's Growth Plan for the Greater Golden Horseshoe identified Midtown Oakville as an Urban Growth Centre and required the area to accommodate approximately 20,000 residents and jobs.

According to a staff report, Midtown Oakville has been planned for approximately 12,000 residents and 8,000 jobs.

Currently, the area is home to approximately 831 residents (according to the 2011 Census) and 3,262 full-time, part-time and seasonal jobs (2013 Halton Region Employment Survey).

Another staff report that studies the environment highlights significant transportation and stormwater network improvements required to support growth in Midtown.

Those include improvements to transportation/roads to, from and around Midtown for cyclists, pedestrians and motorists, as well as transit; improvements to Iroquois Shore Road as well as the Royal Windsor Drive interchange; and improvements for active transportation and pedestrian crossings.

Residents interested in seeing the related staff report can review it at various location in town.

It is available at the Oakville Public Library Central Branch, Halton Region, and at Town Hall at ServiceOakville, in the clerk's, planning and engineering and construction departments until July 4. It's also available online at oakville.ca.

Town staff will report back to council later this year on associated projects, including a community improvement program, a municipal parking strategy, and incentive policies aimed at realizing the Town's Midtown vision.

Notice of intention to designate

On May 26, Oakville Town Council resolved to pass a notice of intention to designate the following property under Section 29 of the Ontario Heritage Act, R.S.O. 1990, c. O.18, as amended, as a property of cultural heritage value and interest:

Oakville Arena
133 Rebecca Street, Oakville, Ontario

The Oakville Arena is considered to be of heritage significance for its physical and design value as a c.1951 arena complex designed by William Armstrong, an Oakville architect, and by Normal Hipel who designed its Hipel truss roof. The Hipel roof was designed as a simple and economic roof system for spanning large spaces like arenas and gives the Oakville Arena its distinctive character. The arena has historical and associative value for its association with Norman Hipel and with the many sporting, recreational, and social events held in the building throughout its life as the central community centre in Oakville. The arena also has contextual value because it supports the character of the park and surrounding area in scale, orientation, and function.

Any objection to this designation must be filed no later than July 7, 2014. Objections should be directed to the Town Clerk, 1225 Trafalgar Road, Oakville, Ontario L6H 0H3.
