The Opposition in the Local Legislature is working up a grievance upon the public bill Page question. Messrs. Meredith, Morris and others have endeavored to get the Government committed in some way, in reference to a legislative bill, without committing themselves. They have succeeded in electing the Government party, and it is this: That a vote was taken for the erection of a new building, not to cost more than $130,000. When the plans were prepared and estimates called for it was ascertained that the appropriation was altogether too small, and so the scheme for the time being was abandoned. This action was based on reason and common sense. We want no such white elephant in this Province as the New Yorkers have at Albany, (State House) the appropriation for which was $4,000,000, but upon which there has already been expended nearly $15,000,000, and to finish the work $5,000,000 are required.

The Supreme Court in the famous Orange case of Grant vs. Beaudry dismissed the appeal without costs. The Court declined to express an opinion on the legality of the Orange Order.

It has cost the Orangemen a great deal to reach a decision, which, sustained by the highest court in the land, must be founded upon good law. It is intimated that an appeal may be made to the Privy Council, but the recourse can scarcely be justified. A few men, loyal to certain principles, have been fighting a battle whose cost for the other side is met by public funds. Mr. Beaudry claims that he acted in an official capacity in the interest of Montreal, and therefore, the city pays the expense of defending him. Those who have carried the issue to the Supreme Court will now, we presume, devote attention to such phases of the case as will serve to remove any doubt respecting the legality of the Order.

THE NEXT MEMBER.

Last evening the Reformers of Kingston rallied in strength to select a candidate to bear their standard in the approaching election for the Ontario Legislature, showing that they are as warm as ever to their old love of Liberal principles and good government. The leading men named for the choice, though each was well supported by earnest friends, felt that Mr. C. F. Gildersleeve had prior claims upon the nomination, and gracefully resigned in his favour. The result was a unanimous nomination, striking the right chord in popular feeling and extending to Mr. Gildersleeve as warm and flattering a debut in this campaign as any candidate has ever received in Kingston. In consequence he acknowledged the high compliment and promised the full exercise in the canvass of those energies which make him a tower of strength to any body with which he is associated. This promise, coupled with the general enthusiasm of the meeting, bespeaks an active campaign and successful result.

The candidate is not only a man of sterling character, but one of high public spirit, to whom the citizens of Kingston are under obligations for long years of faithful service. No man in the constituency can lay claim to a higher regard from the people, and now they are in a position to express their sense of this obligation. Of his ability for the position, there can be no question, as his experience in municipal legislation and in outside corporations has given him a training of the greatest use to a legislator. These advantages, coupled with local favor, make C. F. Gildersleeve a most eligible candidate.

A SERIOUS CHARGE.

At the meeting of the Eastern Dairymen's Association, held in Belleville, the President made a charge which we resent. Mr. Graham said that this city "promised to furnish $130 towards the expense of running the dairy and creamery at the Provincial Exhibition, "and the motive power." He said not a cent of this grant had been paid, and that in the absence of the motive power great inconvenience and loss of money had been experienced. He was not, he added, surprised at this man because, "coming as it did from the well known city of Kingston." Mr. Graham speaks too hastily, probably under a mistaken impression, certainly with a slanderous tongue. We have a distinct recollection of the meeting of the Eastern Dairymen's Association prior to the holding of the Dominion Show; we remember the proposition submitted by Mr Graham at the meeting of the Arts and Agricultural Association, the Directors of which were in attendance at the time. That proposition was to the effect that if a small contribution, ($123) were made to the expense account the dairymen would make cheese and butter on the Fair ground, illustrating new methods of manufacturing and exhibiting new machinery, as they had done at Toronto in the previous year. The city was not represented at that meeting, by Mayor nor Aldermen nor official, and therefore did not become responsible for the outlay incurred in the development of any fine upon theories. Now, for the first time, we hear complaints of violated obligations, and petty meanness and personal affronts. The attack is uncalled for. There is probably as much ground for it as there was for Mr. Graham's display of bad temper upon a former occasion, when men were censured, for short comings really his own and those associated with him. Mr. Graham and the Secretary of the Dairymen's Association should have done, on a member at the meeting suggested, "asked Kingston in a gentlemanly manner for the money." It will be paid yet if the claim has any foundation in fact; if it be trumped up, the cause of irregularities of which this city knows nothing, we hope it will be flung back upon the Association with contempt.

The Rome Sentinel reported a section of the Social Democrats for a repeal of repressive laws.

THE END NOT YET.

SCHOOL TRUSTEES PLAYING PEEK-A-BOO—A HOT PRELIMINARY SKIRMISH—A FINAL CRASH.

Fee Must Go—The Only Compromise Available—The so-Called Board in Force—A Vote of Thanks.

On the first page of this issue we give an intelligent summary of the proceedings of the Board of Education, and every line of the report will be read with interest. When the Waite representative reached the Council Chamber (at which the by-laws say the first meeting shall be held) he had reason to think that there was a likelihood of prophecy being fulfilled, that there would not be a meeting, the contending elements not having agreed upon whom they would have for Chairman. Dr. Fee's friends at 8 o'clock were on hand, cheery yet anxious, with one eye upon the door and the other upon the clock. A couple of others, members of the party opposed to Dr. Fee's candidature for a second term, nobbed in serenely, took a survey of the situation, and bobbed out again. Then skirmishers were thrown out, and these shortly afterwards reported that an important option was being held upon the outer battlements, that preparations were apparently being made for a sortie upon the citadel. The attack was delayed in expectation of the arrival of two men, Drennan and Anglin. The besieging party felt hopeful of winning with the aid of the former and the neutrality of the latter. Mr. Drennan was unable to attend the meeting, (not having returned from a western trip,) but Mr. Anglin soon arrived and joined what was termed the enemy. Dr. Fee and his supporters

STILL HELD THE FORT

For a few minutes there was a serious contemplation of the probable outcome of the difficulty. The Secretary intimated at 8.10 o'clock, that, usually, he called the roll at this time upon being requested to do so by a couple of members. Mr. Waldron counselled patience, he opposed a hurried adjournment and consequent surrender. About this time Mr. Polson, who had been out taking observations of the Allen-Wilson Horsey party, cautiously looked on, beckoned to Fee and Waldron and then vanished. Mr. Savage appeared as they disappeared and requested the Secretary to call the roll. He could not get a seconder in the Chamber, and proceeded to summon Mr. J. Wilson. The Secretary had now no alternative, and as he commenced to check the names there was a commotion. Dr. Fee's friends rushed into the room—all except Mr. Irving, and Mr. Robinson undertook to answer for him. A rebuke came from Mr. J. Wilson and there was an instant explosion. In the confusion of tongues our representative failed to catch the passing compliments, but he heard, above the din, the senior member for Frontenac Ward remark that if Mr. Wilson were younger he (R.) would be inclined to sit upon him, or something to that effect. Meanwhile a gentleman, who was acting as had discovered the whereabouts of Mr. Irving and escorted him to his place. There was now a quorum, and business was proceeded with. It became at once apparent that a compromise had been effected, that Mr. S. Anglin had broken the dead-lock on condition that Dr. Fee would not be nominated as Chairman. "I have a high respect for the Doctor," Mr. Anglin observed to the Waite man; "I think as much of him as any one, but I'm tired of quarrelling, and it seemed as if there was to be no end of it with him again in the chair. Did I pledge myself to vote for him? I did not. If I hadn't intimated my intention of coming in, Dr. Fee being dropped, there wouldn't have been a meeting." This statement was borne out by an out-and-out opponent of Fee's, who said that it had been his purpose to nominate and vote for Mr. Rogers, but that when a compromise candidate was named he was quickly adopted. From another we learned that when it was found that Dr. Fee could not be re-elected, that persistence in the course first mapped out would have led to an ineffectual collision, Mr. Waldron was suggested, and his election was made unanimous. The opening breach being healed things said along fairly until the end of the meeting, when there occurred

SORT OF AIDE-DE-CAMP,

AN UNLOOKED FOR EPISODE.

Mr. Shaw moved, seconded by Mr. Robinson, that this meeting desires to record its full and hearty approval of the course pursued by the late Chairman during the past year, and to express its disapproval of the action of the Board in censuring him on Oct. 25, 1882. The effect was surprising. Members nobbed and winked at each other, and for a moment they scarcely knew what to do. Mr. Shaw proceeded to explain that he would have preferred some older member of the Board to move the resolution, but felt that he could fairly act, having just passed through an election in connection with which the people had expressed an opinion which he had embodied in the resolution. The conduct of the Chairman of last year was endorsed by the citizens, and he was there to express their opinion.

A WITHERING ATTACK.

Mr. Irving was sorry that the resolution had been moved; he was sorry that Mr. Shaw had desired to continue an unpleasant discussion. There could be no question that the public endorsed the action of Dr. Fee last year. That at least was his impression. He was satisfied, however, that members of the Board were willing to sacrifice personal feeling in order to promote peace and harmony. He asked Mr. Shaw, as a favour to himself and others, in active sympathy with Dr. Fee, to withdraw the motion. The schools would suffer if the agitation was continued, and Dr. Fee's position had been sufficiently vindicated by the people at the polls.

The Chairman—Will you withdraw your motion?

Mr. Shaw said he would not, that he should insist upon a vote which, if carried, would be an effect to an act of which the people did not approve, but a record of which had been made in the minutes.

A STUNG PROTEST.

Mr. J. Wilson thought it extraordinary that a young member should attempt to thank a retiring Chairman for services of which he had not been cognizant. The motion was the beginning of fresh troubles. The difficulty of the past would be not only perpetuated but increased; the motion was the entering of the wedge of new embarrassments and turmoil. If the motion were carried it would be a justification of the Chairman's conduct last year. If the old Board had passed it the Dr. would have had a vindication of which he might be proud. It he were Fee and a new element in a new Board proposed a resolution like that of Mr. Shaw he would say, "Sir, you are doing me more harm than good." If the resolution were put it would perpetuate bad feeling, being a source of bother to the Board and worry to the Doctor. He frankly stated that he would vote against it.

Mr. Harvey agreed with the sentiments of Mr. J. Wilson.

Mr. Polson said if the motion were carried it was not without precedent. The late elections, he said, were a declaration in favor of free speech. He would vote for the motion.

The Chairman put the resolution to a vote, and it was carried upon the following division:

Yeas—The Chairman, Messrs. Anglin, Irving, Donald, Polson, Robinson and Shaw—7.

Nays—Messrs. Allen, Horsey, Rogers, Savage and Wilson—5.

Thus ended the Fee imbroglio.

OPERA HOUSE ENTERTAINMENT.

Owing to the many attractions elsewhere last night there was not as large an audience at the art entertainment as its merits deserved. The scenes of London, through which the Professor took his audience, were beautiful. Each covered the entire stage, and the effects and different changes were striking. The change, for instance, from the distant view of the Throne, in the House of Lords, to a nearer one in front of it, had all the appearance to the beholder of walking up to it. There is a wonderful reality in the pictures, given, we understand, by means of a new process of the Professor's invention. The Professor acts as guide, pointing out the different places of interest and giving their historical associations. Miss Reeves sang two selections. These were admirably rendered. The last, "Ave Maria," by Gounod, in the interior of Westminster Abbey, was particularly fine. "London Bridge," her first song, is not suited to her voice, and we would advise her to omit it in future. On the whole it is not too much to say that her part was not the least in the attraction during the evening. To-night "Around the World in Eighty Minutes" will be given, commencing at the Union Station, Toronto, and we expect to see a large audience.

B. W. Folger has just returned from the back country. He reports that business is very lively. Dozens of teams were encountered drawing supplies to the lumbermen. The sleighing is magnificent.

OLD FIDDLES AGAIN.

The musicians about the city are looking up the histories of the various violins. Assistant Manager Gregory, Dominion Wrecking Company, thought his cremona was the most ancient, then Dr. Curtis came to the front with an account of the instrument upon which the great Ernest performed many years ago. Since then we have heard of several remarkable fiddles. We are informed that Mr. Thomas Macauley, stationer, now leads off with an article which is declared to be not only the oldest but "the best, do very best on top de earth." It is said to have been played by Ghiretti, one of the instructors of Paganini, in 1747, and was then valued at 7,000 francs. Mr. Macauley has not informed us of the manner in which he became possessed of this musical relic, but we suppose it's all right and can be supplied to any one who has a craving for historical lore. Rev. Mr. Harris has a violin which he knows to be 147 years old, and which he has had for 30 years himself. Mr. Thompson has also one, a cremona, dating from 1723.

LOST HER CHARM.

To-day Mary Ann Wilson was taken to the police station. She had been sent to the hospital as she was somewhat "loosey," but there created great trouble and excitement. She is subject to fits, or, as she says, her "blood get crazed and rushes to her head." She says that several years ago a charm given to her by a priest was taken from her neck and turned, since which time she has never had good health. She regretted the loss of the charm.

MILWAUKEE'S LOSS.

Liabilities in Reference to the Late Fire—More Fearful Deaths—Bodies Found.

Milwaukee, Jan. 12.—Detectives working for months to procure evidence against the party who several times fired the Newhall House, this morning had a well known and prominent citizen, Prof. Benjamin Manson, who is believed to have purchased, established the Yonkers, N. Y., Military Institute and managed it for 30 years. Lawyers have been engaged in several cases by the friends and relatives of the lost ones to look up the law and begin criminal proceedings. One Attorney states that the men had if not keeping ropes in each room, as required by the state law, both the proprietors liable, and they will probably be prosecuted.

Milwaukee, Jan. 12.—The loss by the fire is now estimated at only $300,000. J. Gilbert, comedian, jumped from the third storey window with his wife in his arms. At about the same time Johnson jumped from the window. He fell on both Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert, and the united weight of both men crushed the wife to death. Gilbert's head is frightfully injured.

AN EXCITED SCENE.

Milwaukee, Jan. 12.—The body supposed to be that of Miss Charles was found in the ruins of Newhall House this forenoon. It was charred beyond recognition. The news of the finding of her body attracted thousands to the scene. Afterwards two more bodies were found charred beyond recognition, and part of a human trunk. It is now settled that the loss of life is not below 70. The action of the Council caused such general condemnation, that another meeting is called for this afternoon to employ a large force and get the electrical appliances for working at night. W. A. Hall died this morning. He jumped from the fifth story. Six bodies were turned this a.m. Large attendance.

SEARCHING FOR REMAINS.

Milwaukee, Jan. 11.—Two coats were found in the ruins of the hotel. One belonged to a guest who escaped. There is nothing to tell to whom the other coat belonged. The photograph of a young man was also found. On its back was written, "Mrs. E. Lehane." Bundles of business letters were also unearthed. The workmen have now dug in about 16 feet from the sidewalk. Some are standing in water a foot deep. Actor Gilbert is still unconscious. Mrs. Bleeker will probably die. It is feared that James McAlpine will die also.

Pottsville, Jan. 12.—The head clerk of the Back Tax Collector's office, Cope Snapp, has been arrested for complicity in defalcations. His personal peculiations are said to be large. Wm. Portman, another clerk, is also implicated. The School Board lost considerable money by the steal and will sue the city.

Washington, Jan. 12.—The Republican members of the House of Commons Committee express the opinion that there is no chance for a favorable report on the bills for a bridge across the Hudson River at Cornwall.

AMERICAN DESPATCHES.

Happenings Across the Border—Political, Social and Personal Events.

Washington, Jan. 12.—It is reported in New York that a Congressman has prepared, with much care, a complete Tariff Bill which will be presented in the House in opposition to the Ways and Means Committee's Bill.

MEXICAN RECIPROCAL RELATIONS.

It is stated that no Reciprocity Treaty between the United States and Mexico has as yet been agreed upon, but the details have been discussed and there is reason to believe that the Treaty will be framed and sent to the Senate at this session. It is said that there has been greater difficulty than expected in coming to an agreement either in Mexico or here upon the general principles. The Commissioners charged with framing the Treaty have stated that the Treaty is intended to be no more than an experiment and will run therefore for six years only. It will admit to the United States, free of duty, Mexican sugars, and admit from the United States, free of duty, all kinds of machinery and agricultural implements. It is not intended on either side to be a treaty of general reciprocity, both Governments agreeing substantially to the limits above stated with a few additions on both sides of minor importance. Mexico does not grow more sugar than she needs for her own use, and in 6 years the product cannot be very greatly increased. No doubt the treaty provision will stimulate the production of sugars in Mexico, but that will be an advantage to manufacturers of agricultural and sugar machinery. The Treaty will not provide for free admission to Mexico of American textile fabrics.

SERIOUS CUSTOMS DEFALCATIONS.

The report of Treasury Agent Adams says there have been violations of the Customs laws. Report estimates that formerly 1,000,000 cigars, valued at $100,000 were smuggled yearly from Cuba. There have been 40 arrests during the year. The amount paid the Government on account of undervaluations, fines, etc., in the past year is $1,000,000.
