Jan 19th.

Daily British Whig.

Quoted per Queen Cities.

The prorogation of the Ontario Legislature is expected to take place about a week from Tuesday next.

The Globe has Mr. Metcalfe's authority for the statement that the judiciary "are a highly respectable class of the community." It also says Mr. Metcalfe took a somewhat different line from his Opposition colleagues in dealing with the patronage question. He mentioned that the Premier had made two appointments recommended by himself, adding that in making his admission he did not wish to reflect any discredit on him on that account. This was decidedly the most telling charge made against the Ministry during the debate.

ROW IN PRINCE EDWARD

A few days ago it was announced that Mr. Hart had been nominated by the Tories of Prince Edward Co. and that he would probably defeat Mr. Striker, who was long in the field as the Liberal candidate. The Times details the proceedings of the Convention at which the choice was made. The meeting opened quite lively, but the competition was finally narrowed down to two. Mr. McCraig came out strong against Mr. Mowat, while Mr. Hart swore allegiance to the Government on the leading questions of the day—the Boundary Award and the disallowance of Provincial Legislation by the Dominion Government. Less than half of the Convention voted McCraig with his straight Opposition platform, while more than half voted Hart with his support of the Government on the only question at present dividing the parties in Ontario. If Mr. Hart stands by the position he took at the Convention Conservatives who are in earnest in opposing Mr. Mowat must withhold their support. If he wavers, finally yields and swallows the Tory platform in toto, the men who gave him the nomination on certain grounds will have cause to desert him. It must be humiliating to the Tory party to find themselves encumbered with a candidate who stands mid-way between "the devil and the deep sea."

REPUBLIC IN DANGER.

Despite the assurances of statesmen and philosophers to the contrary the Republic of France seems to be in danger. Prince Napoleon has contributed largely to the crisis through which the country is now passing. His manifesto was bold and daring, not so timely and important as he flattered himself it was, but it caused agitation, it set spirits generally disturbing in rapid motion, and the event, regarded as a passing sensation, developed into the crisis which now deeply concerns not only France but all Europe. The Government is foiled, it is tottering, and may have vacated office before these lines reach the public. Three measures were before the Chamber of Deputies—the bills relating to the question of the expulsion of the Orleans Princes. At the Conference of leaders Duclerc considered Floquet's motion too extreme, and as offensive to the Ministry considering the vigorous measures adopted towards Prince Jerome. Billot laid stress upon the bad effect the adoption of Ballue's motion for confiscating the Orleans Princes might produce upon the army. He considered that inviolability of rank was a conservative principle in the army. A second meeting was no more satisfactory. The war of factions continued, and the result is one very widely deplored. The difficulty is disastrous, and must seriously affect the financial schemes in which Canadians are interested.

REVISING THE TARIFF.

Now that the session is past its prime Congressional prognosticators are busy prophesying the fate of pending legislation. The Tariff Bill was under consideration in the Committee for thirty-eight days, and two weeks' discussion has brought the House no nearer a settlement. The present indications are that, after parading the tariff in all its bearings, and fully discussing each item from goose to pocket knives, the revising experts will suddenly drop to a Compromise Bill revising sugar and steel, and put it through with an amended law for the administration of the tariff. It will be impossible to further reconcile the conflicting opinions. The talk of revision may proceed for a time, but, extensive changes being out of the question in the present temper of Congress, we may expect to see the matter lightly disposed of or hurled together for a year. The Americans have not got the tariff business down as fine as the Canadians. Our Finance Minister alters the Customs duties as he wills and as political necessity suggests, the amended list is submitted to the Commons and carried in a night. If our tariff were left to a Committee, composed of men of diverse and incongruous views, the experience would be just the same as that which has been gone through at Washington. The United States revenue is, per annum, millions of dollars in excess of its requirements. A modification in the taxation is demanded, but he is a bold man, looking to future legislative favours, who will run counter with the manufacturing interests.

COUNTY COUNCIL.

Presenting the Reports—Making the Yearly Appointments—Very Little Discussion.

THURSDAY.

Council resumed at 2.30 p.m.; Warden in the chair.

A report from the Select Committee, appointed last November to settle with the Bath Road Company, was read. A settlement was arrived at by the payment of $300 and the giving of a note for $700, signed by John Everett and endorsed by Wm. Braden, payable on this year at 6 per cent.—Adopted.

T. J. Vanloven, County Treasurer, asked for an increase in salary. He said the present salary too small.—Referred to the proper committee.

Messrs. D. J. Walker and Jas. Lancy were appointed Trustees of the High School Board, Sydenham. George Denniston was appointed Trustee for the unexpired term of G. R. Forsyth, late of Kingston.

Thomas Hogan and F. Elkington were appointed members of the County Board of Audit.

G. W. Dawson was elected Director on the K. & P. RR. Board.

The Warden was appointed a member of all committees.

The Council adjourned at 5.40 o'clock for the benefit of the Committees.

CHAIRMEN OF COMMITTEES.

The following are the Chairmen for the various Committees: County Property, T. Flynn; Finance, G. W. Dawson; Equalization, J. H. Quinn; Roads and Bridges, T. Tapping; Printing and Education, T. Hogan.

FRIDAY'S SESSION.

The Council resumed at 10.30 o'clock.

A. H. Ross, Clerk of Lennox and Addington, asked for the concurrence by this County Council in asking the Minister of Education, in view of the scarcity of teachers in the counties of Eastern Ontario, to grant certificates of a lower grade than those now obtained; also to establish a different basis for the distribution of the Legislative grant to public schools, the present mode tending to make the rich richer and the poor poorer.

APPOINTMENTS CONFIRMED.

By-laws were read and passed, confirming the appointments made by the Council.

The Auditors were allowed $30 apiece and the members of the Board of Audit $2 per day.

Mr. Flynn said he was in favour of larger pay to the Auditors. It was too small for competent men. For higher pay the work would be better performed.

THE LACK OF TEACHERS.

A discussion ensued relative to the lack of school teachers.

Mr. Flynn said that if the applications were made in time the Inspectors were clothed with authority to grant permits. The school money was distributed according to population a way which the Warden thought the fairest possible. Dr. Agnew made explanations.

The report was referred to the Committee on Education.

The name of Mr. J. Woodruff was placed on the Committee on County Property.

FINANCE REPORT.

G. W. Dawson presented the report of the Finance Committee. No action was taken on the petitions of the Ontario Bible Association and Pensioners' Aid Association. The sum of $10 was granted the County Clerk and $10 to the County Inspector for contingencies; the Sydenham High School gets $1,200; Britton & Whiting's account, $4, was ordered to be paid; two copies of the Statutes are to be asked to be supplied by the Legislature to each Municipality; concurrence was expressed with the petition of the counties of Simcoe and Peel; the Treasurer's salary was increased by $100; $25 and a vote of thanks were tendered to the County Clerk for the labor performed in connection with the settlement of the Government accounts; no action was recommended on the petition from the counties of Huron and Elgin; with pleasure the Committee reported, after paying all pending coupons and accounts, that there was $26,000 in the Treasury.—Report adopted.

Council adjourned.

P. M. TEA MEETING.

Last evening the members of the Primitive Methodist Church held their annual tea meeting, at which a very large number were present. The audience assembled in the body of the Church, from which they retired to the basement to partake of the good things provided. On account of the number present a second time the tables had to be prepared. After tea the pastor, Rev. H. Harris, opened the proceedings and said that it was no doubt a great disappointment to many assembled not to have Rev. Mr. Jolliffe with them. He read a letter, written by Mr. Jolliffe on Wednesday, which stated that he was suffering from inflammatory sore throat and would be unable to leave his bed for a week. His youngest daughter was also very ill. Mr. Harris expressed the wish that he might soon be restored to his usual health. The audience was entertained with speeches from Mr. McTavish, of Queen's College, and Revs. J. P. Wilson, of the M. E. Church, and Mr. Hagar, of Queen St. Church, both of whom in their addresses spoke in favor of the union of the various Methodist bodies. Mr. J. Galloway gave several sacred songs, accompanied by Mrs. McVeity on the organ. The meeting—a great success—was brought to a close at 10:30 by the doxology and benediction.

FORGERS WANTED.

The Chief of Police has received a circular from the Chief Constable of Edinburgh, offering a reward of £100 for information that will lead to the apprehension of Donald Smith Peddie, accountant of "Auld Reekie," who is wanted on a charge of forging. A man supposed to be Peddie was buried in the Philadelphia Potter's field under the name of John North. His forgeries are estimated at £22,000.

PURGATORIAL LORE.

What an Orthodox Roman Catholic Has to Say About the Mystic Shadowy Future.

To the Editor, British Whig.

SIR,—In reply to "Dispensator's" observations on Purgatory, as far as they relate to the Roman Catholic Church, I desire to speak.

The writer must take notice that "the Catechism of the Council of Trent, though fair enough authority in our Church, is not a standard authority. The Acts of the Council are, and in the one which relates to Purgatory (Sess. 25) not one word to be found which informs us the mode or kind of punishment to be by fire. Bellarmine, indeed, and Estius write, "It is the most probable opinion," but it is an opinion, and no more, for the Greeks, who, at the Council of Florence excluded fire from Purgatory, were nevertheless received into communion. With the Greeks I believe the punishment consists in the pain of loss, or in being precluded for a time from the beatific vision; nor will I be required to retract this opinion, as the Church has not defined the mode or kind of punishment to be by fire.

Roman Catholics do not, in many cases, rely solely on Scripture for the truth of some dogmas. We recur to tradition, and most safely in the case of Purgatory, because the Greek and Latin Churches combine to teach and admit it, a most cogent reason for believing it originated with Christ and His Apostles. The Greeks would not at any time receive a belief in it from the Latins, nor the Latins from the Greeks. It must then come from Apostolic times.

Nevertheless, Scripture is not so silent concerning these temporary abodes of punishment as the learned writer would seem to think. Not to allude to the II. Book of Maccabees, XII., the Canonicity of which he will not allow, we meet with several texts in the New Testament, which, if they do not make express mention of Purgatory, yet would seem to imply it, e.g., the text in Matthew XII., "Whoever will say a word against the Holy Ghost will not be forgiven in this world nor in that to come." In Hell it could not be forgiven, and nothing that is defiled goes into Heaven. That Purgatory is alluded to here is the opinion of Augustine and Gregory the Great.

In Luke, chap. 12, a prison is spoken of, "out of which persons will not come till they pay the last farthing." Tertullian understands this prison to mean Purgatory, and the farthing (quadrans) to mean punishment. St. Paul (1 Cor., chap. 3.) speaks of a person, who will suffer loss, if his work burns, but will be saved, yet as if through fire. Ambrose and Jerome explain these words of Purgatory. It must be admitted other Fathers of the Church explain this and the foregoing texts in a different sense so we must content ourselves in founding a most probable argument on them, in favour of Purgatory, if not an invincible one. Indeed to vindicate this dogma of a third or middle place, tradition alone should suffice, though Scripture were silent and we see tradition so clear on it, that it cannot be controverted.

The objections some correspondents make against Purgatory, the reasons they assign for not believing in it are often bordering on the ludicrous. Thus we are told by one writer, he must be informed of the location of this shadowy region of suffering with geographical precision, ere he believes it exists. If this reason for not admitting Purgatory would hold good, he must cease believing there is a Heaven, as he well knows, according to the Copernican System of Astronomy, its situation cannot be defined. Will he on that account cease believing there is a Heaven. I trow not, nor must he therefore withhold his belief from admitting Purgatory, because like Eden of old, he can not be told the point of the compass towards which to steer to reach this haven of hope, if not of bliss.

Dr. Wilson thunders against Romish Purgatory, because of the description some of our preachers give of it, because of the manner they represent souls to suffer in it, especially on the eve of All Souls' Day. He is reminded forcibly, he tells us, of the process heathens represented souls to undergo, ere they would "be received into Elysium. Virgil, in his 6th B. of the Æneid, would indeed seem to have some presentiments of Purgatory, but are we to reject it on that account? No, verily, else we should renounce all belief in Heaven, as the Heathens had their Olympus (Heaven) where the Gods ate Ambrosia and drank Nectar; they had their Hell (Tartarus) where the wicked suffered torments severe enough to satisfy the mind of a Jesuit ascetic. Are we therefore to cease believing in Hell? The Heathens believed in a supreme being (in God) are we, on that account, not to believe in God because the Heathens believed in Him, though they erred as to His nature? Soul of Tom Paine, Bob Ingersol, Pringle, et hoc genus omne, rejoice, persist in your raving and blaspheming against revelation, as a personage no less important than a priest of the Church of England, unintentionally I most say, furnishes you with a strong argument against believing in Heaven, or in Hell, yea, against believing in God! Belief in one or in all of these and other divine truths they denounce as fables fit to be believed by old women. They deem a belief in such rubbish the result of ignorance and heathen superstition. For a similar reason the Doctor throws Romish Purgatory overboard because heathens believed in it.

CONDENSED TELEGRAMS.

The Gist of Various Telegrams on Various Themes.

The stock market was very strong and active this morning.

The session of the Massachusetts Legislature thus far proves the dullest for years.

William Nesbit, the farmer of Longue Point who was shot by his hired man, Milloy, is dead.

Charles Kelly, book-keeper for the firm of Booth & Soul, Toronto, has skipped. His accounts are short.

A raid was made on illicit tobacco dealers of Ottawa and Hull and a large quantity of goods seized.

M. Armstrong & Sons, wholesale leather dealers, New York, have assigned. Liabilities $40,000.

At this morning's meeting of the York County Council the resolution calling for the abolition of toll gates was defeated by 30 to 21.

The Grand Jury, Washington, to-day returned a presentment against Dickson for corruptly endeavouring to bribe jurors in the last Star Route trial.

Some changes in the mode of collecting the duty on tobacco will be introduced during the approaching session of Parliament.

A number of photographers were before the Toronto Magistrate this morning charged with having followed their calling on Sunday. The cases were enlarged.

The boy Adams, of Toronto, struck on the head with a billiard cue by a companion named Hewitson, is in a critical condition. This morning lock jaw took place.

The treasurer of the state of Tennessee planned a nice little trip into the wilds of Mexico, the other day, and in packing his valise he put in, along with his shirts and collars, about $400,000 of the state's funds, and since his departure he has not been heard from, and and the people of the state are becoming alarmed for fear he will forget to come back.

DREADFUL CRUELTIES.

New York, Jan. 26.—A Callao letter says George Herbert, an American, aged 18, was induced to enlist on the Chilian gun boat. He signed articles for four years, supposing they were only for a year. He was treated badly and finally accused of stealing money. He stated that an English lad on the vessel gave it to him. Notwithstanding Herbert was given 65 lashes on the bare back with tarred rope, loaded with chains and sentenced to be whipped every morning for two months or until he confessed to the theft of which he asserted he was innocent. The English boy was also whipped. The American Consul, hearing of the case, secured Herbert's release, and he has left for the United States. English representatives also had the English boy discharged.

REPUBLIC IN FRANCE.

Paris, Jan. 26.—It is reported that the Ministry intend to withdraw their bill against the Pretenders.

London, Jan. 26.—The Times says it seems probable that the Duclerc Cabinet will be beaten in the Chamber of Deputies on Monday. A most remarkable feature of the crisis is the rapidity with which Frenchmen of all conditions have begun to be in dispair of the Republic. The discouragement does not yet show itself in the newspapers, but it is too apparent in private conversation. It would be rash to suppose that because the Republicans are disheartened therefore the Republic is doomed. It is on trial, but it has strength to survive many mistakes.

London, Jan. 26.—A Paris correspondent says the Government is disunited, it does not know what to do.

CONTRADICTORY STATEMENTS.

London, Jan. 26.—The crew of the steamer Argo state that for three hours before the collision of the Cimbria and Sultan, they (on a voyage from London to Bremen) perceived a large mail steamer through a fog coming at an angle towards them.

They starboarded the helm and passed clear. All declare that she was the Cimbria, and she was not sounding a whistle. The Chief Engineer of the Sultan is reported as saying that he was not on duty at the time of the collision. He was on deck an hour and a half afterwards and he heard no cries.

A GOVERNOR'S VETOS.

New York, Jan. 26.—The Sun's Albany say it is understood that the Governor will to-day send to the Senate a veto of the $250,000 appropriation for continuing the work on the new Capitol. The Governor has been looking into the manner in which the work is done and it is said has put his foot down firmly on the waste of money. He will recommend that immediate measures be taken to finish the structure on a business like basis and without unnecessary expense. It is understood that he favours the bill providing for a single Commission.

STAR ROUTE CASE.

Washington, Jan. 26.—The ruling of Judge Wylie, admitting as evidence in the Star Route trial, Dorsey's letter to Postmaster Clendenning, is regarded by the Government Counsel as of the greatest importance, establishing the origin of the conspiracy. The transfer by Brady, of his residence to Vail, is regarded as significant by those who know the strength of the case of the Government.

A CAVED-IN MINE.

Wilkesbarre, Jan. 26.—The cave in the mine affects over a hundred acres. Fifty houses have been vacated. Wilkesbarre is undermined by the working collieries. Rumours of the insecurity of the city are revived, but it is claimed that there is no danger. It is estimated that it will cost $60,000 to repair the damages.

GALE IN ENGLAND.

London, Jan. 26.—There was a heavy gale to-day, particularly at Southport and Liverpool, causing much damage to shipping and houses. A schooner has been lost with all hands at Yarmouth. At Oldham two men were killed and six injured.
