GOD'S LOVE.

(1 John iii—1, 2.)

My heavenly Father's love to me
To deeper than the unfathomed sea
So wonderful, so full, so free,
He makes me his dear child to be.

His only Son He sent to die
For such a worthless one as I;
Ah, this was love indeed, so great
No mortal yet could fathom it.

He cares for me; He knows I'm weak,
And if I lost His guidance seek,
O'er every thorny path I'll look,
His help will give in time of need.

His holy Spirit He doth send
Into my heart, a faithful friend,
To keep me from all harm and sin,
To make and keep me pure within.

A home He has prepared for me,
Where I my Saviour's face shall see,
And I shall dwell with Him above,
To sing the praises of His love.

METHODIST MISSIONS.

Very Able Sermons by Rev. Dr. Young and Rev. T. G. Williams—The Coming Meetings

The missionary sermons were preached in the Methodist Churches yesterday. The attendances were good and the services of an interesting and appropriate character.

Dr. Young occupied the pulpit of the Queen Street Church in the morning and dwelt on the duty and mission of the Church. His text was:

"Come from the four winds, O breath, and breathe upon these slain, that they may live."—Ezekiel xxxvii. 9.

He said he would not attempt a full exposition of the vision which the prophet saw and which is reported in the chapter; he would rather develop and apply certain important truths which the vision suggested. The remarkable scene before the mind of the prophet indicated not death but life. He looked upon a valley which was occupied by dry bones. There was a period when this valley contained an exceeding great army, but amid the shock of battle life had departed and now after ages the bones remained, in wildest confusion, bleached by the action of the elements. Here is a striking symbol of the experience of humanity in this world of ours. As originally constituted man possessed life in the fullest sense of the term—physically, intellectually, spiritually. In the hour of temptation he fell away from the fountain of light, and suffering defeat in the contest also lost his life. So the world of humanity out of Christ is found to-day. All through the ages it has been devoid of spiritual life. The prophet was impressed with the extent of death, and just as soon as he began to contemplate this world he became impressed with the thought that death reigns to a wonderful extent. The

DEAD OUTNUMBER THE LIVING.

A greater number have been living than are living to-day. We have a great many reminders of those who have passed away—in the works of their hands, their monuments, their tombstones, their former habitations. There are, too, more devoid of spiritual life than have it. Of this fact we have many reminders. The millions in China, in Africa, of heathens elsewhere, indicate the vast reign of death. Even in Christendom there are multitudes of dead. In the Churches so many are spiritually dead, dead in their trespasses and sins. Men and women walking on the streets, transacting business with us, interesting themselves in the politics and fashions and amusements of the day, are dead in the highest sense of the term. The question arises, Can these live? The prophet heard the question and did not answer it. He contented himself saying, "Lord, thou knowest." Had he essayed a reply he would have probably said, "How can they? How can these bones, perfectly dry and scattered, be brought together, making the complete skeleton, the complete body as aforetime?" In the world to-day there are those of whom it is asked, Can these live? Can they be filled with spiritual life, elevated and saved? Can those for whom even a mother has lost hope be spiritualized? Can the drunkard of 40 years be reclaimed? Can the blasphemer of 30 years learn to

LOVE THE PRAISES OF GOD?

Can the vile and reckless one be christianized? Then there are the superstitions debased and cruel heathen, and some think nothing can be done for them, that there is no encouragement to send missionaries among them. Are we warranted in taking such a course? Nay, there are many monuments of what has been done for these people. Many of the worst swearers, liars, thieves, prize fighters have been raised to heavenly places and gone forth zealous workers for God. Christianity is fast taking the places of heathenism in some parts of the world. On the Fiji islands Christianity has taken a fast hold. The cannibal chief who presided at the feast of human flesh when the missionary arrived became a legal preacher. A church has been erected on the spot where stood the oven in which were prepared the bodies of the slain, and here the once noted cannibal chief has preached over and over again. Multitudes have sprung to spiritual life under the efforts of the Christian missionaries, in answer to prayer, under the power of the Holy Ghost. The great desideratum the world over is spiritual life. What is the Church's mission? The call to the prophet indicated a three fold duty, and that

DUTY IS THE CHURCH'S.

1. A spirit of devout contemplation. The prophet was called to make a survey of the valley in order that he might clearly perceive the extent to which death reigned and see the need of some great power to change the face of it. The Church is called to contemplate the field so that it may realize what is required of it and act accordingly. Too often the case is, out of sight, out of mind.

2. The call to prophecy. Ezekiel was told to preach to the bones. It seems absurd but it was the command. Here is an illustration of the Christian's duty—to preach, proclaim, unfold the word of God to spiritually dead men and women. As Ezekiel prophesied he heard a noise, a shaking, a marvellous movement of bone to bone. Then flesh came over the bones, and sinews and skin soon formed. The bodies were complete and perfect, but they lacked one thing, the breath of life. The Churches can do a great deal towards educating the people and improving them morally, but these will not be complete until they are converted. There may be fine churches and wealthy congregations and eloquent preachers, but unless the people are saved they must remain as the dead in the valley that the prophet saw.

3. Ezekiel cried unto an Infinite Being, "Come from the four winds, O breath, and breathe upon these slain, that they may live." In a moment the bodies sprang to their feet, not a disorderly mob, not a confused mass, but an organized army ready for service. The Church should cry to the same Infinite Being in order that its members may be filled with the holy spirit and made ready for action. Some Christians cannot go to the battle fields, but they can send proxies.

AN APPEAL FOR MISSIONS.

The rev. gentleman in conclusion made a touching appeal in behalf of the missions of the Church.

In the evening Rev. T. G. Williams preached to a large congregation.

The annual missionary meeting in connection with this Church takes place to-morrow evening, the addresses to be delivered by the above clergymen and others. Last year's aid to missions exceeded the offerings of previous occasions of a similar kind.

SYDENHAM STREET CHURCH.

Rev. T. G. Williams, Chairman of the Brockville District, occupied the pulpit in the Sydenham street church in the morning and delivered a practical and eloquent sermon from the first four verses in the II chapter of Acts. He pointed out that all God's designs regarding man were good. The truths he has enunciated, though possible beyond our comprension, are revealed in His word. While we may not be able to comprehend their full meaning yet we can rely on their truthfulness. It is hard for finite minds to comprehend infinite things. The unfolding of truth to man's mind has, however, been gradually going on. The Speaker traced its advancement in the past dispensations, following with the development of doctrine in the New Testament. Repentance was the foundation stone upon which a new life was erected, and the last teaching of Christ previous to his crucifixion was in regard to it. Truth was exemplified in the lives of the Apostles. The speaker referred to the methods God had adopted for the spreading of His Gospel. The object which God required from man and the part he will do in the great scheme of salvation were dilated upon. On our part there must be obedience, and a waiting on God in a spirit of expectancy. God gives his blessings upon all those who thus wait on him. The marvellous harmony that exists between Christ's methods formerly and now were clearly portrayed. The wide diffusion of the word of God and the unsacrificed labours of men who have gone forth, preaching in every country and every tongue, were also referred to. The sermon concluded with an appeal to aid in the extension of God's Kingdom.

In the evening Dr. Young preached in this edifice, a familiar place, having many years to occupy it as pastor to the congregation.

The missionary meeting in this church takes place this evening.

HUNTING AN HEIR.

There is a certain lawyer in Detroit who will hereafter make a wide detour to avoid Livingston Co., Mich., when he starts to go West. A few weeks ago he appeared in that county in search of of an heir to $25,000 worth of property left by a woman in New England. He found a man by the right name, and answering in other respects to the party wanted, and while intending to investigate further he betrayed the fact that $25,000 was to change hands. The supposed heir was fully convinced that he was the party mentioned in the will, and the results astonished the community. He sold a piece of property at about three-fifths its value and gave notice that he would like to see all his creditors. They came. They were like the leaves of the forest. They had claims for whiskey, vinegar, clothing, provisions, borrowed money, wagers on horse races and elections, and even for the coffin in which one of his children was buried twenty-two years ago. The heir squared up like a man, made arrangements to remove to Chicago and go into business, and for a few days was a gun of the largest calibre. Then he took a drop. The lawyer found the right party over in Macomb County, and the Livingston man was crushed flatter than a pancake. Those who can't imagine just how he feels should see him walking up and down the track of the Detroit & Lansing Railroad with a shot gun, in hopes to get sight of the lawyer's face on a passing train. He represents Melancholy in search of Revenge.

Oh, What a Cough!

PEOPLE WHO READ AND REFLECT, after reading, upon the many published testimonials regarding Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, can scarcely fail to perceive that evidence so positive and concurrent could not be adduced in behalf of a remedy of doubtful efficacy. The facts proven by such evidence are that it roots out impurities of the blood, restores digestion, enriches the circulation, and regulates the bowels and liver.

SAYS DAVIDSON.

Mr. Alexander Robinson, of Exeter, in writing about one of the most popular articles, and one that has done more good to the afflicted than any other medicine has during the short time it has been in existence, says: "I have used four bottles of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, and have been cured of dyspepsia that troubled me for over ten years. Part of that time I had it very bad, and I was at considerable expense trying to get relief; but this excellent medicine was the first and only relief I had received."

Mr. W. A. Wise, Westport, writes: "I wish to inform you of the wonderful results which followed the use of Northrop & Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. A cough of six months' standing had reduced me to such an extent that I was unable to work. I tried many remedies without effect; at last I used this Emulsion, and before three bottles were used, I am glad to say I was restored to perfect health."

LEISHMAN LEVANTS.

A Capias Issued for Her Arrest, But too Late—Twelve Hours' Start of the Officers.

After all the trouble and anxiety to which Rev. Mr. Beattie, of Brantford, has been put by Lilian Leishman, alias Maybee, he has met with a disappointment in the hour of his anticipated vindication. Lilian folded her tent late on Thursday night and stole away, no one appears to know where. Twenty fours hours before that she told a reporter of the Mail that she had her claws in Mr. Beattie's hair, and intended to hold on. She did hold on until holding on any longer would have been dangerous to herself.

Rev. Dr. Cochrane, who has been watching this trial in the interests of the Presbytery, arrived in Toronto on Friday and was met at the depot by a gentleman who advised him to have a capias issued against Miss Leishman, as it was altogether likely she would leave the city on finding that her hubby in Toronto had been so fully described. Acting on this advice he at once visited a law firm. The capias was issued. Dr. Cochrane had in his possession certain telegrams and letters written by several parties of good standing in Toronto, giving most damaging reports as to the antecedents of Miss Leishman. He hoped to bring some of his informants face to face with the girl, in order that she might be identified, but found to his surprise that she had left the city.

A reporter called on Mr. Galbraith to make inquiries regarding the whereabouts of his guest.

"I know nothing whatever about her," was the reply of Mr. Galbraith when interrogated on this point. "I told her on Thursday afternoon that after what was said regarding her character in Toronto she could not remain any longer in my place. Some time that night she went away in a hack, but I cannot say exactly at what hour, as I was from home."

"And you know nothing as to her whereabouts now?"

"No, and I don't want to. I never saw the girl until she came to my house, and I have had no communication with her. It is rumored she had left the city. Perhaps she has, but I can't say."

"She went away in a hack, you said?"

"Yes, but I only know it was some time during the evening. As I said before I was not home when she left."

Mr. Jarman, the Grand Trunk ticket agent at the Union Station, sold a ticket for New York, via the Erie Railway, on Thursday night to a girl answering Miss Leishman's description. The following is taken from the Brantford Expositor of January 31st: "This morning Miss Leishman left for Toronto. On the way to the station she dropped a $5 note from her muff, which she used as a purse. It was the extent of her wealth, and she had to return and obtain the loan of enough money from some friend to carry her to Mrs. Beattie." The question which remains to be solved is, where did Miss Leishman get the money to pay her fare to New York? Whatever can be done to bring her back to face the accused will doubtless be done. She has twelve hours' start of the detectives."

PUTTNER'S EMULSION

Has triumphantly marched to the front rank as a Pharmaceutical preparation with victorious results.

READ THE FOLLOWING:

HALIFAX, Oct. 3rd, 1882.

Messrs. PUTTNER EMULSION CO., Halifax, N.S.

GENTLEMEN:—We have pleasure in stating that our sales of your EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL are steadily increasing, amounting now to about a thousand bottles monthly, and that it seems to give very general satisfaction. During our long experience (over fifty years) in the Drug business, we have seldom met with any preparation of similar character which has obtained to large a sale, or so wide a popularity, not only with the general public, but amongst Medical Men. These results, we believe, are largely due to the merits of your specialty, as well as to the skill with which it is prepared, and the moderate price at which it is supplied to the consumer.

Yours respectfully,

BROWN & WEBB,

Wholesale Druggists, &c.

N.B.—The physicians of Canada inform our agent, who lately interviewed them, that one great advantage PUTTNER'S EMULSION holds over all others is that it is so easily digested, and their delicate patients after rejecting all other Emulsions can retain PUTTNER'S with ease.

The trade can be supplied in Kingston by R. SKINNER, Wholesale Druggist.

ALL DRUGGISTS KEEP IT.

Price 50 cents per bottle.
