WISE

A STRONG APPEAL.

Conclusion of the Speech of Dr. Platt in the House of Commons on the Life Saving Stations.

I suppose that there are many gentlemen within the sound of my voice who can tell us good instances of vessels wrecked within their own knowledge on which lives were lost, when, had life-saving apparatus been at command, many lives would have been saved. Within my own recollection on the coasts of the country which I have the honor to represent, two of these cases occurred. Some ten years ago the schr. Jessie took shelter behind Salmon Point during a northern gale on Sunday afternoon. They thought that was all right, but on Monday morning they found that the wind had suddenly veered to the westward, and they were completely trapped between the points. It was impossible to escape. The wind blew up to a gale. In the morning the whole neighborhood was aroused. The vessel had dragged anchor and stranded within 200 yards from the shore. Hundreds of people were collected along the coast. Fishing boats were sought, the largest were brought which were to be found in that section of the country. Heroic men manned them, and tried to our very utmost to reach the vessel, but all that faced the storm were turned back like cockle shells, and thrown contemptuously on the sands. Well, sir, that was a day never to be forgotten. There, almost within a stone's throw of the land, men were clinging to the wreck and suffering but no man could reach them. Had a mortar been there a small line could have saved every man on board, but not mortar was there. The whole life-long day the spectators remained on the beach and wondered what could be done. It was a sight not to be forgotten by those who witnessed it. Men and women fell on their knees on the sand and prayed, and strong men, with tearful eyes, wrung their hands and cried, 'What can be done to save these men,' but all in vain, and one by one, succumbing to exposure, the poor victims dropped from the wreck and sank into watery graves. The story is soon told, and will be soon forgotten by most but not by those who witnessed it, and never by the wives and families of those poor seamen who perished by that wreck. Only last November the schr. Henry Folger was discovered one stormy morning stranded on a reef off Salmon Point. It was thought when she was first discovered that men were seen moving on her decks. Whether so or not, we know that the story was soon told. In a few hours she became a complete wreck, and in a few days the mangled bodies of the helpless crew were found on the shore.

UNATTAINABLE AIDS FOR HELP,

IMPERTINENCE OF LIFE-BOAT SERVICE.

It may be said by some that in most of these circumstances the tempest and the waves would be so great that it would be impossible to reach and succour them, but such is not the case. I believe that the history of the life-saving service of all countries will give that supposition a most triumphant denial. We know that from the Atlantic coast of the United States, as well as from the storm-beaten shores of the angrier sea, the same heroic exclamation is heard: "To discover a wreck means to reach it and rescue the imperiled ones thereon!" We know, sir, that there is nothing man cannot do if he is supplied with the proper means against the elements, and when we read the history of the life-saving service, both of England and the United States, we become convinced that there are very few wrecks on our coasts at which lives could not be saved. I know, sir, that I am running the risk of tiring the House; I have spoken, perhaps, longer and more earnestly on this question than becomes so young a member of this House. My only excuse is which imperatively demands that some action should be taken, and if I have spoken longer than may be seeming in a new member of the House, the charge may, perhaps, be laid at the door of the hon. the First Minister, who, by a motion for adjournment yesterday, gave me opportunity for extending my remarks over a longer period of time than would otherwise have been done. Before leaving home I asked the captain of a vessel, who is well known, what he knew about life saving stations, and what had better be done. "Well," replied he, "tell the Government that if they do not care to save the lives of their own sailors, they should save the lives of the American boys who have saved my own life and the lives of many of our sailors on the southern coasts of our great lakes." Let me say in conclusion, Mr. Speaker, that I take it for granted that no defence will be necessary for energetic action on the part of the Government, either on the floor of this House or in the country, for

THE IMPORTANCE OF THE QUESTION

The voices of the drowned
Whose numbers will be read;
The tones of speechless moaning
Their tale to the dead;
The memory of sorrow
In man's enlightened soul,
All for the fear of life-boat
In union will plead.

(Cheers)

AMONG THE WARMEST ADVOCATES of the use of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure are ladies formerly in delicate health, whose vigor and bodily regularity have been restored by it. Cases of activity of long standing, obstinate biliousness, weakness of the back and kidneys, sensitive stomachs, and obstinate cases of nervous indigestion, are overcome by it.

Mr. Henry Marshall, Grove of Penn, writes: "Some time ago I got a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery from Mr. Harmon, and I consider it the very best medicine extant for Dyspepsia." This medicine is making marvellous cures in Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, etc., in purifying the blood and restoring manhood to full vigor.

"Why should a man whose blood is warm wants let the hot grandfather cup in the house?" Or, as his hair grew rusty, want to dye. When "CYNOSURE RESTORER" will make it grow the same.

PENSION LIST.

Some of the Draughts upon the British Treasury—Handsome Votes to Warriors

The pensions granted by Charles II. to the Duke of Richmond were redeemed early in the present century by a payment of nearly half a million, and those of the Duke of Grafton have been bought up at various times for about £330,000, except one of £900 a year, compensation for an office which was abolished in the reign of Charles II. The Duke of Marlborough, however, continues to receives £6,000 a year, and the Duke of Wellington has the same amount. Nobody knows to what extent the first Duke of Marlborough was rewarded by the country, but nearly £500,000 was paid by Parliament for Blenheim, and and even a larger sum was voted to purchase and lay out Strathfieldsaye and the estate for the Duke of Wellington. The Duke of St. Albans receives £1,200 a year as hereditary Grand Falconer, but this is paid by the Sovereign. Earl Cowper's predecessor in the title received £113,000 as compensation for hereditary poisson conferred by him as heir to the Earl of Bath and as the Lord d'Ayrer querque, and less than seven years ago the Duke of Leeds was given £24,000 as commutation for his pension of £1,083 as one of the heirs to the Duke of Schomberg. The Earls of Kinnoul receive £876 per annum, but they sold this pension many years ago. Howeeff, it will go on being paid till the title becomes extinct. There are several other pensions, but of smaller amounts. Of parliamentary grants we find Colonel Stuart receiving £4,000 a year granted 1799, as heir of William Penn. Lord Rodney receives £1,000 and Lady Rodney £4,000, which pensions, granted in 1782, are to last as long as there is an heir, male, of the first holder of the title. Earl of Amherst has rejected in £3,000 a year since 1826. This pension was voted to compensate him for the loss of a grant which had been illegally made by George II. Karl Nelson has a pension of £5,000, which is to last as long as the title. The widow of the Admiral received £2,000 a year from 1806 till her death in 1831. After Trafalgar each of his sisters (three) received £10,000, and £60,000 was voted to purchase the estate in Wiltshire now known as Trafalgar.

Pleasant to the Taste.

Children and persons with weak constitutions have always found great difficulty in taking Cod Liver Oil, and from this fact it has not been universally used, but with Northrop & Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda, this prejudice is removed. It is so thoroughly disguised that you cannot detect the Cod Liver Oil. One physician writes us that it is used almost as a beverage in his family; another person informs us that he had to hide the bottle from his children. For Coughs and Colds, broken down constitutions, and all Lung Diseases, it has no equal.

Shiloh's Consumptive Cure.

Lottie Howard writes from Buffalo, N. Y.:—"My system became greatly debilitated through arduous professional duties; suffered from nausea, sick headache and biliousness. Tried Burdock Blood Bitters with the most beneficial effect. Am well as ever."

Mrs. Redman, of Bothwell, says: My daughter was very ill with Bilious Fever and Dr Carson's Stomach and Constipation Bitters with wonderful results; one bottle entirely subdued the fever and thoroughly restored her to health and vigor.

MESSRS. PUTTNER EMULSION CO., Halifax, N.S.

GENTLEMEN:—We have pleasure in stating that our sales of your EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL are steadily increasing, amounting now to about a thousand bottles monthly, and that it seems to give very general satisfaction. During our long experience (over fifty years) in the Drug business, we have seldom met with any preparation of similar character which has obtained so large a sale, or so wide a popularity, not only with the general public, but amongst Medical Men. These results, we believe, are largely due to the merits of your specialty, as well as to the skill with which it is prepared, and the moderate price at which it is supplied to the consumer.

Yours respectfully,

N.B.—The physicians of Ontario inform our agent, who has lately interviewed them that our great advantage PUTTNER'S EMULSION holds over all others is that it is so easily digested, and their delicate patients after rejecting all other Emulsions can retain PUTTNER'S with ease.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

FOR DISEASES OF THROAT AND LUNGS, SUCH AS COUGHS, COLDS, WHOOPING COUGH, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA AND CONSUMPTION

The few compositions which have won the confidence of mankind and become household words, among not only one but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one ever uttered to mankind a respectful word against Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It has been known to the public for about forty years, during which time its reputation has been kept up to the standard of excellence in its virtues, never equalled by any other medicine. It still maintains its most effectual curse of Coughs, Colds and Consumption, that can be made by medicine. Consumption, that was so common a disease a few years ago, is now of comparatively rare occurrence, because the use of this preparation has checked those dangerous diseases of these tender organs, which, if neglected or improperly treated, generally fasten their fatal grip upon the lungs. Hoarseness, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Incipient Consumption, yield to its influence, and even those of long standing and of the most alarming character, which had resisted these dangerous diseases of these tender organs, which, if neglected or improperly treated, generally fasten their fatal grip upon the lungs. RHEUMATINE

A SURE CURE

Edward Mitchell, Esq., Manager of the Bank of Commerce, Hamilton, writes under date of January 19th, 1888:

J. N. SUTHERLAND

St. Catharines.

MY DEAR SIR,—I am reminded of your favor of yesterday's date, asking my experience in regard to RHEUMATINE, and I have no hesitation whatever in pronouncing it a success in my case, and in heartily recommending the remedy to those suffering from Rheumatism. I suffered for months with that trouble in my right arm and shoulder, and often was unable to use my hand, and at night the pain was frequently so great as to render sleep an impossibility. I must confess that I believed in a repugnance to "patent medicines" but some of my friends persuaded me to try "Rheumatine," and although it may be true that I MIGHT have got well without it ONE THING I DO KNOW, that after taking four bottles THE PAIN TOOK ITS DEPARTURE, and I HAVE NOW THE FULL USE OF MY ARM. I therefore wish you unbounded success, if I fully believe your remedy in all that you advertise it to be.

I am yours, most truly,

E. MITCHELL.

WILLIAM MAGRATH, Esq., Credit Post Office, under date of Jan. 8th, 1888, says:

"I determined to try your Rheumatine, and the result is that I am now FREE FROM PAIN, and enjoy the full use of my arms."

J. PATTISON, Esq., Hamilton, under date of Jan. 15th, 1888, says:

"It gives me much pleasure to inform you that Rheumatine has been of great benefit to my wife, who has been a sufferer from Rheumatism for the past eight years."

Mr. W. S. Wiser, of the Great Agricultural Implement Works at Brantford, concisely writes:

"I was completely cured with three bottles of Rheumatine."

Mr. Thomas Murray, for many years bridge conductor for the Great Western Railway at Niagara Falls, and now in Michigan looking after his timber interests, writes home to say:

"The two bottles of Rheumatine I took with me have completely cured my Rheumatism."

Mr. Percy Parsons, the old and reliable mail clerk of the Great Western Railway, writes to Mr. Sutherland:

"Four bottles of Rheumatine completely cured my son, who was a terrible sufferer from Rheumatism."

Mr. Wm. Harris, the well-known bread and cracker baker, Hamilton, says:

"After years of suffering with Rheumatism I gave your Rheumatine a trial, and I am happy to say, with the best results—a cure."

Mr. Wilson, salesman in a large dry goods house in Lindsay, writes that:

"Four bottles of Rheumatine completely cured me after years of suffering from Inflammatory Rheumatism."

Mr. Wm. Burger, of Warwick, writes to his druggist, W. P. McLaren, of Watford:

"I procured a bottle of Sutherland's Rheumatine from you and am entirely cured of Rheumatism, and have thrown away my stick."

Mr. W. B. Hooper, Druggist, 43 King Street West, Toronto, writes most encouragingly of the good effects Rheumatine has had on some of his customers:

"Do not fail to give Rheumatine a trial if you are suffering from Rheumatism, Sciatica, Neuralgia, or other diseases of a Rheumatic Nature."

From DR. MAITLAND COFFIN, F.R.C.P., Parson Court, W. London, England:

Having taken Sutherland's "Rheumatine" myself, I can bear testimony that it will prove a great boon to all who suffer from Rheumatism.
