CITY OF UNION PARK.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, MARCH 21, 1883.

At the Sportsmen's Convention, to be held at Ottawa on 26th instant, representatives from the various counties throughout the province are to meet to discuss measures for the better protection of game. Colonel Von Straubenzie, who has been elected to represent this neighborhood, has signified his intention of proceeding to Ottawa to attend to the welfare of the sporting fraternity of Kingston.

Townships which vote "solid," or nearly so, are, it seems, not at all uncommon. In our own neighbourhood Garden Island, with its own vote of 80 to 1, has long been celebrated as the most impregnable of Conservative fortresses, while further west the sister townships of North and South Easthope are almost as staunchly Liberal. The little village of Lanark, however, seems to out-do even those mentioned, for there the vote at the last election stood, Caldwell, (Lib.) 257, Rosamond (Con.) 10. Majority for Caldwell, 247. This is a pretty good record to beat.

Those enterprising members of the House of Commons who are circulating a round robin, asking the Government to increase the sessional indemnity to $1,600, have chosen an unfortunate time for their petition. Parliament has been in Session for more than six weeks and almost nothing has been done. The Budget has not yet been brought down, the important public measures foreshadowed in the Governor General's speech have not been introduced, in short the time has been spent in the transaction of minor business which should have been left until the Estimates, at least, had been disposed of. In view of all this the public will not be inclined to regard with favour any proposal to increase the members allowance. The public would be foolish if they did.

The uncertainty of greatness was never more apply illustrated than in the case of Ex-Senator Ferry, of Michigan. A month ago he was a proud, honoured Senator well assured of re-election, after a service of twelve years. But a long struggle for his seat set in, leading to 81 ballots, and Thomas W. Palmer, of Detroit, was elected. Almost simultaneously family difficulty brought him down to bankruptcy from the supposed height of millionaireism, and he went home from Washington a man broken down in health and spirits, but yet bearing the kind wishes of all with whom he has been associated. During his first term the death of Vice-President Wilson made Mr. Ferry the acting Vice President of the United States from November, 1875, until March 4th, 1877.

The Mail, for a journal which poses as the very embodiment of literary culture, and which frequently finds it necessary to administer a paternal rebuke to its contemporaries on the score of this alleged imperfect and "slangy" English, admits some curious expressions into its own editorial columns. For example in its issue of a few days ago the remarkable statement was made that "the Grits had been licked" in the recent Provincial election. How is that for a newspaper whose eloquent appeals on behalf of the Queen's English have excited such general admiration? What conciseness, what force, what elegance, and above all what a truly literary regard for truth? We commend this sentence to the thoughtful consideration of everyone. It is valuable, not only as an accurate statement of an undoubted fact but also as a very fair sample of what Mark Twain could call the "literary gorgeousness" of the Mail's style.

The Belleville Intelligencer has become frantic over the remark of a Liberal in the House of Commons that it was not the business of the Opposition to assist the Government in its treatment of the liquor question. The organ continues: "Fortunately this policy of malignity cannot produce much harm, as the Government is strong and able enough to get along measurably well, even without that assistance which the Opposition have so churlishly refused to accord them." Our contemporary forgets plain and important facts: (1) That the Liberals made no promises to effect legislation designed to nullify and defeat the Crooks Act; (2) that they oppose Sir John his attempt to oust "the little tyrant" (Mowat) from power, and crush the miserable Grit of Ontario; (3) that they dispute the necessity of a Dominion enactment in consequence of the judgment in the case of the Queen vs. Russell, inasmuch as that judgment did not deal with the points alleged by the Tories; (4) that they are not disposed to countenance in any way an encroachment upon Provincial Rights; (5) that they have no reason to believe the proposed measure will restrict the liquor trade, that such is not and never was the intention. The Government can, of course, get along without the assistance of the Opposition—it would not rule very long if it were not so fortunately situated—but the idea was to involve the Liberals in the issue, and great has been the chagrin that such a trick has failed.

THE SAINTS' REST.

Last evening the members of the "Saints' Rest" entertained Mr. G. Drummond, a departing saint, previous to his leaving for Hamilton. There were toasts proposed and responded to, but the most feeling one given was that of "Our Guest." A memento was given him in the shape of a clock whose constant moving will remind him of his many friends in this city.

ARMY FIRING AWAY.

The Salvationists' Attack on Sin—Dipped in the Fountain—Experiences of Results.

The meeting of the Salvationists last night was again a large one. Standing room was at a premium. The soldiers are now more conspicuous in their uniform, and can be distinguished in active service everywhere.

The first part of the meeting was of the usual character—singing and prayer and scripture reading. Captain Abbie Thompson, whose action constantly reminds her friends of the well known line, "Her bright smile haunts me still,"—led the meeting with her usual tact and life. The singing was of a very spirited character, the words being familiar and the music popular.

SOLDIERS TAKING A DIP.

Interest centred in the experiences of the converts. She hoped they would be brief, then bid the speakers "fire away." And they did so. The fusilade was a hot one. Very general reference was made to the meeting the night before, when most of them had another "dip in the fountain." One said he was glad he got this wash; it made him white, and he felt that he needed it as the devil had painted him as black as the stovepipe. Another said he had been so happy he wanted to roll on the floor and laugh. Another observed that he had not been prepared for the event; that a brother prayed that the Holy Ghost would come as a 80 pounder, and he had come as a 40 pounder. Still another said the dip was an everlasting one; that he wanted it repeated again and again until he reached heaven, and then he would receive the dip glory hallelujah. They said they had missed a dip at the hall but get it at home, or at the hall next day.

At occasional intervals Capt. Abbie led off in in song, her selections being aptly chosen and appropriately sandwiched between the speeches.

CLERGYMEN TO THE FRONT.

There were five clergymen present—four of them upon the platform, Dr Jackson, Revs. R. McKay, Harris and N. Hardie, the last being the Governor of the Stanstead College. All these gentlemen spoke, impressing upon the audience the necessity of salvation, its freedom to all, and the happiness of those possessing it. Two of them justified the expressions of the converts that they know they were saved, that believers had a consciousness of sins forgiven, and that faith and trust kept them from temptation.

A POINT EASILY SETTLED.

Capt. Abbie made use of an expression which effectually disposed of the thought that she and her Army are desirous of injuring the churches. She did not want all who get down at the penitent's bench to join the corps. They should put themselves right with God, and after that rejoin their churches.

The prayer meeting later on was attended by most of those who were present at the Salvation meeting, and the converts were again numerous.

SECURING STEAMERS.

The latest move on the part of the Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Company is to gain possession of the only steamer which is now left to carry on an opposition to the large Company between Lake Ontario ports and Montreal. This vessel is the Bay of Quinte Navigation Company's steamer Alexandra, which plies between Picton, Brockville, Belleville and other ports on the Bay of Quinte and Montreal. This steamer in the past has, through low rates, secured a large share of the traffic which would have gone to the Upper Canada Mail Line steamers. At present she lies in Cantin's dry dock, Montreal and having been thoroughly refitted and furnished with two new powerful engines, promises to be a much more formidable competitor during the coming season. The directors of the Richelieu Company have made an offer to her owners for her lease, and express themselves confident of gaining possession of her.

At a meeting held last week the contract for provisioning the boats of this line was given to Victor, the well known caterer. On the boats at this end of the line meals will be given on the European plan. All the old Captains will be retained.

DIED IN THE GAOL.

Yesterday morning at 11 o'clock Thos. Sturdy, who was committed on the 12th inst. for one month, as an insane vagrant, died in the County gaol.

Of course, as usual in such cases, an inquest was held by Coroner Shaw. The following were the jurymen:

Thomas Gaskin, (foreman), James Christman, Anthony McGuire, Irving Pugsc, Thomas Abbott, Peter Welsh, James Baird, Thomas H. Oakman, Thomas Hayward, Thomas Savage, jr., Alfred Ockley, W. H. Blodgett, John Dolds, jr., Thomas Bird and William Roach.

Four persons were examined—Governor Corbett, Turkey Ballard, surgeon Oliver and a prisoner named Stanton. The old man, (past four score years) was inclined to violence when first imprisoned, but in a few days collapse occurred. He was confined to his bed, and was given good medical attendance, the extras allowed in case of sickness, had lights burning in his cell all night, and was carefully waited upon by the prisoner whose name we have given. The doctor's opinion was quite clear, and the jury had no difficulty in reaching the conclusion that the man died of natural causes—old age and general debility. Sturdy was formerly lighthouse keeper at Knapp's point.

BLASTING ACCIDENT.

Rock cutting is now progressing upon the Ottawa & Quebec R.R. at Sharbot Lake. On Monday a heather was thrown up by a blast, and went so far and with such force as to knock down the chimney and corner of the house occupied by Mr. P. Rublee.

All that can be supplied towards making the natural hair beautiful and abundant is contained in Ayer's Hair Vigor. It keeps the scalp free from dandruff, prevents the hair from becoming dry and harsh, and causes it flexible and glossy. It stimulates the roots to healthy action, and promotes a healthy, vigorous growth.

GANANOQUE'S CARNIVAL.

A Successful Event—Somewhat Marred by the Storm—An Array of Handsome Costumes.

The fancy carnival of the season, held at the Royal Skating Rink, Gananoque, on Monday evening last was another brilliant success, though not to the extent that it would have been in point of attendance if the weather had been more propitious. All day Monday, and on through the evening, a terrific storm of wind and snow prevailed, blocking up the streets and sidewalks to such a degree that walking to the rink, especially for ladies in costume, was a most difficult undertaking, and the livery men refused to allow their horses to go out in such a pelting storm, but where there is a will there's a way, and as this carnival was for the special benefit of the Battery Band, a large number of people were determined to be present in spite of the elemental disturbance. So by half past eight o'clock were skating over the ice in glittering array, and a goodly number of spectators were enjoying the scene from the side seats and platform. The rink was tastefully decorated as usual with banners, pictures &c., and brilliantly lighted, the effect being increased by the introduction of red, blue and other colored shades over the burners at regular intervals. The costumes were in many cases similar to those worn on former occasions, but there was a sufficient number of entirely new characters with their appropriate dresses to do away with all appearance of sameness or repetition. The ladies costumes were tasteful, true to the characters assumed, and evidently the result of much painstaking labor and careful study. Without an exception they were all attractively arrayed and set off the figures in such a manner as to afford the spectators a pleasant amusement in watching the swift and graceful motions of the wearers. The gentlemen were also in great variety of characters, many of them novel and well conceived.

THE MUSICAL FEATURE

The band excelled all previous performances in their rendering of new music, particularly the waltzes and medleys arranged especially for the occasion by the talented leader, Mr G. H. Hogan. And as piece after piece was given the skaters seemed to become excited by the music and flew round in wild circles waltzed, cut fancy figures, and otherwise entered into such a wild and merry set yet graceful commotion as to their many colored robes and flashing tassel to compare with the rapid changes of a kaleidoscope view and nearly turn the brains of the on-looker. During the evening, at intervals, sets were formed down the centre of the ice and the lancers were danced with all the ease and grace of a ball room performance while a whirl of merry skaters was passing round the outside. At 11 o'clock the music ceased, and the carnival was ended, but so fascinated are the skaters with this form of amusement that before they left for home another was arranged to take place next week, probably on Wednesday evening.

A SKATING RACE.

Next Monday evening a test of speed will take place at the rink. A circle 12 feet wide will be roped off all around the outside portion of the ice; this will be kept clear of all except competitors, the other skaters occupying the enclosed space in the centre. A Committee of five men has been appointed to start and manage the race. The skater who makes the greatest number of laps around the circle in fifteen minutes takes 1st prize, a silver medal, costing $7.50; 2nd prize, $6 cash; 3rd prize, $3 cash. Entrance 50cts. Open to all comers. Parties intending to compete in the race will be admitted free to the rink.

OTHER COMPETITIONS.

In the same evening a silverware prize will be awarded to the best lady fancy skater.

At the next carnival, prizes will be awarded to ladies wearing first, second and third best costumes, to be judged by parties appointed for that purpose.

ROBERTSVILLE IRON COMPANY.

Mr. Bartlet, of the Robertsville Iron Company, was in the city to day, and our reporter had a brief chat with him in regard to the increase of the duty on iron ore going into the United States from 50c. to 75c. per ton. He says he expresses the opinion of many members of Congress and other public men when he says that the change was a shameful piece of business. It was the suggestion of a prominent New Yorker, a man of great mining interests, who had a conference and used his influence with the House Committee having the matter under consideration. Mr. Hewett, connected with the mining business since a boy and capable of expressing an opinion on the subject, regards the importation of Canadian ore as a benefit, that every ton of it leads to the utilization of two tons of native ore. The ore mined in this District is very rich, and mixed with the mineral of the United States produces an excellent quality of metal.

Exalted Testimonials.

All over the land are going into ecstacy over Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. Their outlook for recovery by the timely use of this great life saving remedy causes them to go nearly wild in their praise. SECURED THE BOOTY.

Detective Sullivan Arrests the Man who Stole Grant's Money—Little Episodes on the Way.

On Sunday, March 11th, the office of Alexander Grant, Verona, was burglarized and $200 stolen. The work was not that of a professional, as the entire pile ($800) might have been taken. Persons were suspected but no action taken to make an arrest until Saturday, when Detective Sullivan was asked to work up the case. He went to Verona, made an investigation, then passed on to Levant. Mississippi Station was reached late on Saturday night. He arrived to reach Levant on foot, but the storm was so severe to admit of his accomplishing the task. On Sunday the trip was made and the detective hit on Marshall Sly, the station master of the K. & P. RR. at Levant. He at first strenuously denied having stolen the money, but after a time admitted that he was

THE GUILTY PARTY.

The $100 bill was traced to Craig's store, Levant, where Sly had changed it. Some $132.38 were found in Sly's trunk at the Kingston & Pembroke RR. Station, the balance he had invested to advantage, having purchased a considerable ward robe. The young man evidently premeditated travelling, for on Tuesday his resignation as Station Master was received at headquarters. The detective conveyed him and his property to Verona, where justice was thwarted by the prosecutor failing to appear, thus causing a dismissal of the prisoner. The case was set down for Monday evening before Mr. Thos. Gouge, J.P.

RAILWAY EXPERIENCES.

Detective Sullivan having successfully accomplished his business turned his steps homeward. The storm had blocked up the railway so that progress was slow. The train from Mississippi was undertroded for the night at Verona and yesterday started onward. The heaviest cuts on the line were between that village and Harrowsmith and through these the engine driven by Vona had to force its way. It was hard work, but the "G. W. Flower" plunged into the banks and got through one bank only to encounter another. Harrowsmith was reached last night. The detective having had enough railway experience, left the train arriving home this morning greatly fatigued. Too late awaited orders at Harrowsmith, the line between there and Kingston having to be cleared.

Duty of all Christians not Exactly Performed—Good Work of the Salvation Army.

To the Editor, British Whig:

SIR,—I heartily agree with your correspondent, "One With Experience," that it is the duty, not of ministers alone, but of all earnest Christians to visit the homes of the poor and seek to bring them within the sound of the gospel of Christ. But if he had had as much experience as I for one have had in the very work he talks of he would know that it is not such an easy matter to persuade poor and shabbily dressed people to show themselves in the upholstered and carpeted pews, or indeed in any of the seats of our ordinary churches. Poor people have their feelings and unsophisticated as well as rich ones, and a very slight knowledge of human nature, a moderate degree of experience, will show that it would be much harder for poor men and women in soiled and frayed attire, to bring themselves to appear in the midst of a well clad and fashionably attired congregation than it would be for any lady or gentleman to invite them to a seat. Undoubtedly there might be more hospitality and cordiality shown by pew holders to strangers, but this question hardly affects the class your correspondent refers to. It is simply impossible to induce them to enter a church at all unless they have what they consider suitable clothing, and the lack of this is the great barrier that keeps many find the benefit of our ordinary church services. Our average congregations are too well dressed for them, and it is not easy to see how this can be remedied, since, as a rule, people will go to church in their best attire. There certainly might be much more Christian simplicity shown in this respect, and perhaps the example of the Salvation Army may have a good influence in this, also; but still I fear ordinary congregations will remain too well dressed for the man in a ragged coat or the woman in a soiled or faded gown to be willing to brave the notice which he or she is sure to exaggerate in anticipation.

What then can be done? Just what the Salvation Army is doing—open public unoccupied halls, with comfortable but homely benches, where the poor will not feel themselves out of place in their poor garments, especially if they can hide themselves in a crowd. I have, for years, desired to see such Mission Halls opened, not only in one central locality, but in several close to the very doors of many who will hardly go farther. There are many mothers of families who might go to such halls and take their children with them, who never have the opportunity to go to church. Let us be thankful for what the Salvation Army has done in gathering in so many, but more yet might be done if all our evangelical churches would unite in conducting a City Mission which should thus take the gospel to the very doors of the poor. It was a token of Christ's first coming that "to the poor the gospel is preached."—Yours,

COURT OF REVISION.

Yesterday afternoon a meeting of the Court of Revision occurred. Aids. R. J. Carson, Whiting, McGuire and Smythe were present.

The assessment of Queen Street Church property was reduced by $400.

The Statute Labor taxes of Henry Orew, jr., Henry Talbot, John Donaghue and Wm. Skelton were remitted.

The taxes of the following were remitted: John Shaw, Camargo Ward; Mrs. Thomas Boyle and Mrs. Thomas Massey.

The tax of James Fitzgerald was reduced by $1.

The dog taxes of the following were remitted: Alex. Varatsky, Mrs. Purvis, Robert Holden, John Pewen, John Goodman and Edward Futsch.

Then closed the business so far as the roll of 1883 is concerned.

To make a mild that is certain to please all tastes, you need only use Burdock Blood Bitters. Nothing equal to it was ever offered, and come so popular. In an experienced table sense.

QUEEN'S ACCIDENT.

Queen's Fall on Saturday More Serious than Anticipated—Apprehensions Feared.

London, March 21.—The injuries received by the Queen on Saturday by slipping upon the stairs of the Palace at Windsor now turn out to be more serious than was at first supposed. It is believed that she will be confined to her room for some time. After the accident the Queen took a rest, but on returning and attempting to leave the carriage she found that she was unable to do so and attendants had to carry her to her room. The physicians found her knee badly swollen.

"Later—The Queen's physicians authorize the statement that her injury is in no immediate danger. She may, however, be confined for an indefinite time to her room. It is understood that the Queen is suffering quite as much from the taking of the long ride after the accident, for the purpose of disabusing the public mind of the impression that she was faint from the consequences of the wound itself. This fortunate is the theme of universal comment. The working people seem to glory in talking about the bravery of the Queen.

SEVERE PAIN.

2.30 p.m.—Bulletins announce that the Queen is resting comfortably. The physicians claim that they have recovered all the elements which might prove troublesome.

SUSPENSE ON IT'S ROUTE.

The crowd surrounding the bulletin was so great that those in the rear could not make it out. A strong voiced man mounted a passing stone and read out the intelligence. When a man first made an action to read the bulletin the crowd, mostly workingmen, uncovered, and all were still. The bulletin produced a most profound depression.

THE VERY LATEST—5 P.M.

Newspapers all next special correspondents to Windsor and made complete arrangements for the bulletins. The House of Parliament was crowded, the streets in many places were blocked by labouring people who knocked off work in the anxiety to keep informed.

It is not believed by those having access to authentic information that the Queen's injuries are not absolutely dangerous in themselves, but there is universal fear owing to her advanced age and the somewhat delicate condition of her health for some time. Dangerous complications may arise.

LADY DIXIE'S STORY

New York, March 21.—The World's London says: "Those likely to be the best informed regard the statement of Lady Dixie as to the attack upon her as a pure fabrication. Not a trace of the struggle can be found on the damp mould. Two large men dressed in women's clothes could not possibly have reached her alone without been seen. A soldier, footman and the gardeners, all within a few rod of the scene allege that no struggle took place at the time alleged."
