THURSDAY EVENING, MARCH 29, 1883

CITY AND VICINITY.

PROBS.—Light to moderate winds, fair and slightly milder weather.

MISS READING.—Mr. Stuart Cumberland will, in all likelihood, have a large audience to night in the Opera House. He will give remarkable evidence of his power of mind reading.

THE CANTATA.—The cantata, the music of which was arranged by Mr. F. C. Heath, will be given in the Congregational Church, Wellington Street, on Monday evening at 8 o'clock.

WEATHER PROPHECY.—The Toronto weather prophet, Mr John Adam, writes us as follows: "There will be a heavy storm, accompanied with rain or snow, Friday and Saturday, 30th and 31st.

DRIED FRUIT.—The Golden Lion Grocery has received a fine lot of dried apples and peaches in bulk, green apples, sweet corn, tomatoes and green pease in cans, which will be sold cheap. See their very low price for tobacco in another column.

CURLING MATCH.—The match yesterday for the oysters, between teams captained respectively by James Stewart and Major Short, resulted in the defeat of the former by two shots. The score was 18 to 11. Several other matches are on the tapis if the ice holds out.

It is not generally known even among ourselves who ought to know it, that Canada, as a Maritime power, now occupies a most important position among the nations of the world. The United States stands near the bottom of the list while the Dominion is third or fourth.

LITTLE CHRISTIANITY.—Last evening, at the usual prayer meeting in one of the Presbyterian Churches, the pastor delivered a discourse which, while not directly naming the Salvation Army, condemned the manner in which the revivalists conducted their services. He said there was little Christianity in their work.

OFF FOR OTTAWA.—The following gentlemen left this afternoon for Ottawa, the members of a deputation to oppose the passage of the McCarthy's Railway Commission Bill: Messrs. C. F. Gildersleeve, B. W. Folger, W. R. McRae, J. Minnes, J. Muckleston and O. E. Sabre. Deputations from all parts of Canada will be present.

A GOOD COMPANY.—Such was the verdict of those who witnessed the performance of Tony Denier's Company in the Opera House last evening. The combination of song and dance, athletic exercises and jugglery was very interesting. "Silvers" tricks upon the slack rope being especially applauded. Humpty Dumpty was laughable, but somewhat tame. It is time it was shelved.

APRON SALE.—To day the apron sale, under the auspices of the ladies of the Brock Street Presbyterian Church, opened in the store on Brock street occupied at times by the Reform Committees. Aprons of beautiful design and of all kinds were for purchase. The tastes and fancy of the most cultured could be gratified. The sale room should be one of the places visited this evening.

FUNERAL OBSEQUIES.—This afternoon the remains of John McCollum, Pittsburg, were conveyed to their last resting place, followed by such a procession of teams bearing mourning friends as has not been seen in Kingston for many years. Nearly every farmer in the front Townships paid the last tribute of respect to the deceased. Over 120 conveyances crossed Cataraqui Bridge after the hearse.

RETURNED TO KINGSTON.—Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Thibodo, after an absence of fourteen years, have returned to Kingston. They come to visit Mr. Thibodo's father, at present quite ill. Dr. Thibodo is located at Tuscorora, Nevada. He is a graduate of Queen's University, and is welcomed here by many friends. He is an extensive owner of property in Nevada and is interested in several very valuable mines.

DIED IN THE HOSPITAL.—A young man named Thomas Irwin, aged 21, has died in the General Hospital. He suffered from brain fever and sank rapidly but hopefully. He was a member of the Salvation Army, being one of the first to join the corps. His funeral takes place on Saturday afternoon from his late residence on Barriefield, and will probably be attended by the Salvationists in a body. Affecting allusion was made at the meeting last night to the young man's sickness.

GANANOQUE BEQUEATS.—Under the will of the late George Robertson, after family bequests are paid, the residue of the estate is to be divided between the Congregational Church and Kingston General Hospital, amounting at least $4,000 to each. The deceased has reflected in these gifts the generous public-spirited character of his life. A new wing to the hospital has been lately proposed, for the sake of increased accommodation and greater classification and isolation. Would it not be fitting to call it the Robertson Wing?

HERE AND THERE.

Laconic Arrangement of Items of Local and General Interest—Gossip that is Readable.

The afternoon train was late by over an hour.

The thermometer was nearly down to zero this morning.

Stuart Cumberland in the Opera House this evening.

Iolanthe was performed in Watertown on Tuesday evening by a local Company.

A new Catholic Church will probably be built at Belleville for Mgr. Farrelly.

Veils for the ladies and colored spectacles for the gentlemen are now all the rage.

Corner loafing can now be indulged in again. We see the boys have not forgotten the comfortable places.

Some of the hotel keepers are said to have introduced the Order of the Grand Bounce. Few people like to take the degrees.

A hard case appeared to Napanee a day or two ago, and attempted to pass himself off as Mr. Dennison, M.P.P. Hard on Dennison.

The steamboat engineers talk of forming a union. They need to do something when no less than 480 boats can be run with uncertificated men.

Both the Strs. Transit and City of Belleville are broken down, and the only way to get across the river between Ogdensburg and Prescott is by the ice.

This afternoon Messrs. J. Galloway, R. Crumley, K. Cooper, W. Middleton and H. Rowley left for Napanee where they take part in a concert this evening.

Raffles have ceased in this city. One man interviewed the Chief of Police about one, found that it was illegal, withdrew the tickets sold and closed the affair.

The spring floods have set in. The sewers had better be repaired or the Council will be threatened with actions for damages. Many cellars are unfit for use.

Some men don't take stock in mind reading, they don't want their friends to know what they are thinking about. They will not be likely to go to see Cumberland at the Opera House to-night.

The Free Press congratulates the Store Department on getting such an efficient officer as Lieut. Donaldson appointed to the Department, as his services will be invaluable, he being so well conversant with all Departmental Stores.

The Kingston correspondence of the Mail stated that in consequence of a difference with Lieut. Little some members of the Salvation Army had become refractory and returned to John Barleycorn. The statement is denied, in declared to be untrue.

A sad accident occurred near Chaffey's Locks, to a young lad named James LeWay, while chopping in the bush, by a hanging branch of a tree falling on him. One of his eyes was completely gouged out and his face terribly smashed. The doctor has but faint hopes of his recovery.

REV. A. WILSON'S CALL.

The papers in connection with the call of the Rev. A. Wilson to the Carlton Street Presbyterian Church, Toronto, are on the way here, and will be brought to the attention of the Presbytery at its adjourned meeting on the 5th of April, when the transference of Dr. Smith and Rev. Mr. Leishman will be discussed. Rev. Mr. Wilson has been the pastor of Brock Street Church for nearly thirty years, and his retirement, if decided upon, will be regretted by many. There are reasons why he might go. In Toronto he would have a fine church, earnest and zealous members, and a salary commensurate with his ability. The church, however, is in its infancy, and will require considerable energy to place it on a good footing. No clergyman could work more arduously than the gentleman they have called. In Kingston the salary given to Mr Wilson is not large and the church is not as modern as it might be, though the members and adherents have been hanging fire for a long time on the question of erecting a comfortable and commodious edifice. The congregation is quite able not only to put up a grand building but to give Mr. Wilson a salary sufficiently large to retain him where he has spent so many years of usefulness.

PERSONAL MENTION.

B. M. Britton, Q.C., left for Toronto this afternoon.

Mrs. R. B. Conger, aged 73 years, died at Picton on Monday last.

Lieut. Col. Montizambert is now convalescent after a week's illness.

S. Hetherington, of London, England, is at the British American Hotel.

Police Magistrate Denison, Toronto, will leave about the beginning of May for a three months' tour in Europe.

The enthronement of Dr. Benson, Archbishop of Canterbury, took place to-day with appropriate ceremonies.

Hon. Chas. M. Dennison, of Utica, has awarded the contract for his cottage on Carlton Island to Prince Bros., of Rome.

Hon. Mr. Pope will be present at the grand opening of the Fish Exhibition by Her Majesty on the 12th of May, provided Parliament prorogues in time.

Two men by the name of George Paquet have been in the Penitentiary, one for two years and the other for seven. The third of that name arrived there to-day.

EXAMINATION OF BRAIN.

William Osler, Professor of the Institute of Medicine in McGill University, has made a report on the brains of Richards and O'Rourke, murderers. Richards, aged 32, a large powerfully built man, murdered a comrade in the Eastern Townships last summer. He was tried at Sweetsburg and condemned to be executed, but the evening before the appointed day he cut his throat with a small pen knife. His brain weighed 47 oz. O'Rourke, it will be remembered, on the 20th of January, 1882, in the County of Nelson, Ont., killed a farmer and his daughter. The characteristics of his brain are described at length, but the weight is not given.

A DAY OF SENTENCES.

A Pleading Prisoner—Demurring at the Plea Imposed—Priest's and Pauper's Position—Won't Serve It.

There were interesting scenes at the Police Court this morning. Poor humanity was sacrificed by the Goddess of Justice. The first prisoner to stand up was Charles Smith who related, "I have just come to town and I can assure your Honor I have not tasted a drop since I was here last. I did get a little mobrisated, but please be lenient with me and give me a chance to again leave town." This appeal was heard before and as a sentence was hanging over Charles since March 2nd he was ordered to get ready for six months' confinement in the Central Prison. Charley pleaded hard for pardon. "For God's sake give me a chance," he cried.

"Take him below" said the Sergeant-Major gruffly.

"Come along," remarked a police officer.

"Oh, Mr. Duff, give me a chance and I'll leave the town," said Charles.

"Yes, you'll leave the town without a doubt now."

"Please, Mr. Duff, won't you give me—"

The door closed between the prisoner and the assemblage.

"ONLY A SIMPLE DRUNK."

Neil McCaig had been absent from work since Good Friday and was drunk yesterday. He asked for a chance. $3 and costs or 30 days. "I'll give you a chance to pay it," said the Magistrate. "If it is paid before a fortnight all right, otherwise, you'll go to gaol."

Neil's breath was taken away and he remarked, "What! $3 for a simple drunk!" He began to show symptoms of anger when the Magistrate told him that if he was not satisfied with the offer he would be bundled off to gaol. Neil retired muttering to himself. He will take the time to pay.

SOME CIVIL WORK.

The charges against the second hand dealers were adjourned for another week.

Ex-Mayor John Breden was up for neglecting to remove snow from in front of his premises on Union Street. He admitted the offence and was fined $1 and costs. The sidewalk was blocked by an extraordinary bank of snow. Mr Breden promised to remove it at once, and was surprised when asked to leave $3.85.

CHANCE TO LEAVE THE CITY.

Charles Priest was red in the face as he stood up before the Cadi. Thomas Gallaher related the circumstances on oath which the fellow was arrested. He had frightened his little child by entering the yard and lying down at first near the house and afterwards in the barn. Charles thought there was no harm in this and Mr. Gallaher "didn't wadt to do nothing to the man for he didn't do no harm." The Magistrate looked at the matter in another light. He sentenced Charles to six months in the Central Prison, but gave him the opportunity of escaping punishment by skipping out of the city.

FOR THE PENITENTIARY.

George Paquet, horse thief, remarked that he was a stranger here, but that he had occupied honorable positions in Canada. He took the horse but he acted foolishly through drink. He had never been in the Penitentiary before. The Magistrate doubted the statement on his own confessions, but gave him the benefit of the doubt. He sentenced him to three years in the Penitentiary, a shorter term than he had intended giving him. Paquet on his way out said he would never put the time in.

SEEKING SPECIAL PRAISE.

The News prints a statement to the effect that Lieut. Wood had specially thanked it for its reports of the Salvation Army meetings. We did not understand Lieut. Wood to make such a discriminatory remark. She could not do so and speak fairly of the position of the Wars. We don't want any "special praise for what we have done. We have had evidence of the accuracy and acceptability of our reports in their reproduction in the War Cry, and in their endorsation by admirers of the Army, one of whom, a clergyman, writing to us this morning, said: "I feel thankful for the help both of the papers have given this work, and I think the Wars has been specially friendly by its full reports and kindly references." We want no better proof of the value of our service.

RELIEF FROM PAIN.

About nine years ago Miss Wallace, daughter of Guy Wallace, of Bath, contracted inflammation of the eye and since then she has suffered increasing pain. Doctors attempted to relieve her sufferings but unsuccessfully. For two years she did not leave her home, her rest being broken, her appetite injured. Several weeks ago she sought advice from Dr. C. H. Lavell, of this city, and it was decided to remove the eye. He performed the operation successfully, and Miss Wallace is now an altogether changed person. Her spirits are buoyant, the pain has ceased, her appetite is good, and her rest at night is no more broken. As soon as the swelling ceases she will have an artificial eye introduced.

A GRINDSTONE ACCIDENT.

Yesterday a large grindstone, a foot in width and five feet in diameter, burst in the Gananoque Spring Company's works. It was being driven at too fast a rate, some 275 revolutions a minute, and the prediction had been made that unless the speed was reduced a severe accident would occur. The stone broke into three pieces, one of which, about 800 cwt., went through the roof of the building and lodged outside some 20 ft. away; the others went in different directions in the shop. A Frenchman, whose name we did not learn, was struck in the left side and badly, perhaps fatally, hurt. His side was crushed, his arm broken in two or three places, and his hand cut.

It is said that Mr. McFullen, M.P. for North Wellington, will resign his seat on account of ill health. Mr. McMullen is the gentleman who so gallantly defeated J. Burr Planch last June.

CAPT. ABBIE'S RETURN.

A REGULAR HALLELUJAH MEETING—REV. DR. WILSON'S COUNSEL TO THE SALVATION SOLDIERS.

Counter Attractions Have no Effect—How the Removal is Viewed by Different People—Whiskey Manon Saved—Firing at London.

Last night there was a fancy ball (always a popular event, especially under the auspices of the bachelors) an Opera House entertainment and a meeting of the Salvation Army. The latter began first and as we had some interest in knowing to what extent the revival had affected the public amusements, or to what extent the public amusements were affected by it, our reporter spent an hour and a half with the soldiers. The barracks was as full as usual. The attendance was not at all diminished by the counter attraction, and a happier band could not be imagined than those who held the fort in the early part of the evening and sang songs whose airs are now hummed or whistled in the offices, workshops and houses, and about the streets.

ARRIVAL OF THE OFFICERS.

About 8 o'clock Captain Abbie and Lieutenants Wood and Little arrived. Abbie looked fatigued and she was as tired as she looked, having, she said, only had a few hours sleep since Saturday. Sunday night she spent in travelling; all Monday night she was at a jubilee meeting in London, and on Tuesday night she had but a short rest, having to make an early start for Kingston. The soldiers were pleased to see her; the Lieuts looked relieved, Miss Wood declaring that in Abbie's absence she was afraid of something going wrong; while the little Captain, in leading the singing, and finding so many gazing at her, silently, remarked that she didn't think she looked any different and that they should help her in a vocal way.

Her rebukes are usually well received and effective. The lesson for the evening was contained in the first eighteen verses of St. Matthew, being Christ's warning to His disciples to be humble and harmless, to avoid despising the little ones, and to learn how to treat the brethren when they offend. She emphasized the thought that except people became converted they cannot enter the kingdom of heaven. She said some, by pursuing a certain good meaning course, think they will wind up all right. But they won't. Attending church, reading the Bible, making prayers and giving occasionally good collections will not make any one a election sure, he must be converted.

THROWING THE MEETING OPEN.

Experiences followed at a lively rate, the rules being now generally understood that as much as possible must be said by the converts in as short a time as possible. About twenty young people spoke. Capt. Abbie interspersing the addresses by snatches of appropriate song. Many of the speakers quoted poetry. Young Stacey made the speech of the evening. He said he had had to fight down many temptations, temptations which were not, however, as numerous now as they had been. His first week was a trying one, and he would have failed but for his constant attendance at the Army meetings. He was now saved permanently, would be a Salvationist while the Army existed here, and when it ceased to be he would go where there was such a thing.

Capt. Abbie—"Oh, we've come to stay," a remark which found hearty endorsation.

DR. WILSON'S ADDRESS.

Rev. Dr Wilson, who had entered when the meeting had been for some time in progress, now ascended the platform and addressed the Army and its converts. He bid them beware (1) of the devil, a tireless enemy in whose tools they had been, and who would be active in his efforts to recover his hold upon them. He assured them that they had not surmounted all their troubles. As one longer experienced in Christian warfare he could say that often the hardest battles were fought after conversion had been accomplished. Then (2) he urged them to so comport themselves as to win the good opinion of the indifferent class, those who coldly watched their movements, and in the event of failure are ready to exclaim, "We told you so." It should be the aim of those who believe they have salvation to live consistently, to be a credit to both their earthly and heavenly Captains, to prove by their lives, not for six weeks or six months or six years but for all time that they possess Christianity really, earnestly, practically. Of a third class he spoke at some length,

THE YOUNG, BOLD PEOPLE,

who have not yet rallied to their support as they would perhaps do by and bye. He had himself held aloof from the movement for a time, not desiring to judge it in the excitement which attended its inauguration. Not until he had perceived its moral influences in the community had he spoken in its behalf and assisted in its advancement. There were many who thought of the Salvationists as a correspondent in one of the papers did and regarded their language as extravagant. He shut his eyes and ears to some things that were indiscreetly said, but he did not consider the speeches of the converts irreverent when he realized how earnest they were, and remembered that the impotent one, when healed by Christ, not only walked but leaped for joy and that when the heart is full of happiness the mouth must give utterance to the fact in song. He hoped, however, that the soldiers would, in the expression of their feelings, avoid saying what would shock and offend the most sensitive.

A PARTING SHOT.

As Mr. Wilson retired Capt. Abbie, who had applauded a great deal of what he said, arose and remarked that two weeks ago she had warned them that the time would come when the devil would be raging, and that time had now arrived. She didn't mind what the people said or wrote about them, and dismissed the case spoken of by Mr. Wilson with the observation, "Poor fellow, he don't know any better."

The usual prayer meeting followed, and we believe that a number went to the penitents' bench.

ITEMS FROM THE BARRACKS.

A young man who became a convert eight weeks ago is dying of typhoid fever in the hospital. Lieut. Wood last night spoke of her visit to the sufferer.

One of the soldiers says he has given the devil the sack, and that the old gent. can have the bag, too, if he wants it.

Capt. Abbie last night gave an account of the conversion at London of Whiskey Mason. He had been a bad man, but had turned over a new leaf, and, leaving the supper room on Monday night in his shirt sleeves, fired a big shot at the unsaved.

"Has the Captain arrived yet?" asked a citizen of the colored porter at the outer door. "Yes, de Captain's come," replied William, and you oughter hear her sing 'Glory Hallelujah!'" and he shook his head and laughed for joy.

One of the soldiers said that during Capt. Abbie's absence some said the army would "bust." But it didn't, experience belied the prophecy.

MY TELEGRAM'S GONE.

What wondrous methods God hath given—
Salvation wires from earth to Heaven
The Spirit's current runs up there,
I'll send a telegram of prayer.

CHORUS—

My telegram's gone, my telegram's gone,
To the Palace of Glory my telegram's gone,
My Father's there, He'll answer prayer
My telegram's gone, my telegram's gone.

God's telegraph is strong and free
My message goes without a fee,
God's mine is the stamp I choose,
God's promises the wires I use.

Faith works the wires by night and day
To-morrow, the message when I pray
Finds desk the God of Heaven guards,
I wore the best white on my knees.

I wire for God my soul to fill,
I wire for power to do His will,
I wire before the Throne of Grace,
I wire to reach the holy place.

I wire to get the Spirit's power
I wire for full salvation power
I wire for Blood and Fire to wave
I wire for God to save and save.

LITERARY NOTES.

The new edition of Geo. P. Rowell & Co.'s "American Newspaper Directory," now in press, reports that the total number of newspapers and periodicals issued in Canada is 398. There are 74 daily papers, the monthlies number 57, the weekly papers number 238. This is an excellent showing for the Dominion. The newly-settled regions of the North West are productive of newspapers as well as wheat, for the number of journals issued was nearly doubled during the year. The United States has 11,196 periodicals.

"Peterson's Magazine," Philadelphia, has a capital April number for the ladies.

The Co-operative Building Plan Association, of 24 Beekman Street, New York, has issued a book ("How to Build a Home") of the greatest use to prospective investors in brick, stone and lumber. It contains a great many plans and sketches of houses costing from $300 to $30,000 for city, town, village, or country. The styles are modern and the details and descriptions most practical. It is a good investment for every builder.

"Goldbeck's Instructor" bows before "Goldbeck's Musical Art," being greatly enlarged, containing more than twice the amount of music and instructive matter of the Instructor, while the vocal and instrumental pieces, printed upon full sized music plates, will be given entire. The price has been placed at $2.00 per year, and we hope very many will transfer their friendship to the "Musical Art," and encourage its growth. It is an excellent publication, of great use to those training young children.

"The Delineator," of the Butterick Publishing Company, New York, for April, is another marvel, through the amount it finds to say about the fashions.

"Ballou's Monthly," Boston, the cheapest of entertaining magazines, "American Agriculturist," the most prolific of farmers' journals, that useful guide, "The Phrenological Journal of Science and Health," and "The Electroman," telegraphers scientific instructor, all of New York, are out for April.

A new comer to our table is a monthly journal whose title tells its aim, "The Resources of British Columbia." Its typography is a great credit not only to the publisher, A. A. McArthur, but to the Pacific Province also.

To make a salad that is certain to please all tastes you need only use LEA & PERRINS' SAUCE. Nothing equal to it was ever offered, and none so popular. It is superb table sauce.
