SEVERE FROM LUMBAGO.—W. I. Hamilton, Inspector of Inland Revenue, suffers from lumbago, and the way the public were made aware of the fact was through Stuart Cumberland, the mind reader. He treated Mr. Hamilton's lower behind his back and placed it in the painful spot. The town shouted with merriment.

TRYING A FIT.—Last night a woman in the Victoria Barracks took a fit and created much excitement. She was carried out and taken to Dr. Sullivan's where she remained unconscious for a considerable time. There were many kind and sympathizing friends in the surgery who did all they possibly could to secure her relief.

A SUNDAY DEATH.—On Thursday last Mrs. John Dougherty, of Barrie Street, was attacked with inflammation the result at a cold. She gradually grew worse and yesterday expired. She was to be confirmed yesterday, but her death occurred at the hour the ceremony was being performed in the Cathedral. She was aged 28 years. Her husband is to be deeply commiserated with over his loss.

PLEASING ENTERTAINMENT.—On Saturday evening a number of intimate friends of W. J. Harvey, of the Federal Bank, entertained him at the British American Hotel, prior to his departure for Guelph, and as a mark of his popularity. A very pleasant evening was spent. Mr. Harvey leaving on Sunday morning for his new position, attended by many kind wishes.

PACIFIC EXCURSION.—On Friday, the first of Raymond & Whitcomb's California excursion trains passed through here at noon. It consisted of six Pullmans, one dining car and one baggage car. The passengers were wealthy people who have with them a host of servants, and seem determined to have a pleasant journey to San Francisco. There is a special time table for those trains, each of which will pass on the 13th inst. and another on the 26th.

ANCIENT PLACES.—The Belleville Intelligencer is agitated because we said that that town should put itself on the list for an ancient place in the Albert College Museum, and retorts that when the Bellevillo authorities look for ancient relics they generally go to Kingston, the most ancient place in Ontario. True—they visit our graveyards—its more like home to them, and then our city clock don't stop at night for fear of disturbing the slumbers of the citizens.

A RESTITUTION ASKED.—On Friday evening the Garrison Theatricals will be repeated at the request of a great many people who were so charmingly entertained last week. The proceeds are to be presented to Bandmaster Trombell for the Battery Band, who played gratuitously on the last occasion and who deserve a good benefit from the citizens of Kingston. The plan is now open at the Opera House office. The tickets have been reduced in price to 50c. and 25c.

CLOTHES THAT DON'T FIT.—To day a young man applied for police assistance to secure the money he paid on a suit of clothes which he said did not fit him. He said he was willing to give the seller's $4 to take the clothes back. The police could do nothing for him. He will have to take suit for the recovery of his money. The firm agreed with a tailor that any defects in the garments should be righted, but the purchaser holds that to fix the coat, it would require a cut he does not admire.

A TRIBUTE.—A Pittsburg correspondent of the Ottawa Free Press, in speaking of the late John McCallum, says that he was noted for his long life of piety and industry. It is a remarkable fact that living to the age of 82 his own death was the first and only one that ever took place in his house. Yet his whole life was a preparation for that call, and no death could have been happier or more edifying. The funeral was the largest that has taken place for many years in Pittsburg.

NATURE'S JUBILATION.

On Saturday Robert B. Rooney and Edward McCartney, who during the winter toiled hard to earn money on the Ontario & Quebec RR. at Sharbot Lake, came to Kingston with overflowing purses. They began drinking in a social way and McCartney became completely "paralyzed." He lay stretched out on Princess Street after being hailed to sleep by the liquor and sweet strains of music from Victoria Barracks; consequently his pockets were rifled and $18 taken. For drunkenness both Rooney and McCartney were arrested, but both were discharged at the Police Court this morning, their loss of wealth being sufficient punishment. Rooney declared that he would not be put in such a crib again, referring to the police cells.

ST. MARY'S CATHEDRAL.

Confirmation and Communion—Address by the Bishop—The Men's Mission Commenced.

The services in St. Mary's Cathedral yesterday were of an imposing character. The day throughout was a busy one. The first Mass occurred at about 6 o'clock, the second at 8 o'clock, when the mission for the women concluded. The number of communicants during the week was between 700 and 800. In church, at the 10:30 o'clock Mass, was packed. High Mass was sung by Father Lory, S.J., of Guelph, who has been Father Ryan's assistant during the week. At the close of the service Bishop Cleary administered the sacrament of Confirmation to about 400 persons, principally children. The ceremony began with a prayer and imposition of hands followed by the anointing of the candidates. The sign of the cross was made upon each one's forehead by His Lordship with the oil of chrism.

The ceremony was imposing and was witnessed by a very large number, chiefly the parents and friends of the young candidates for confirmation. After administering the sacrament the Bishop made a short address in which he warned the children of the dangers their faith would be exposed to from three sources, namely bad companions, bad books and bad newspapers. In speaking about newspapers His Lordship earnestly besought the parents in defence of their sacred rights over their children, to keep carefully guarded their minds from the danger of indiscriminate reading of papers wherein are often depicted impure details of criminal depravity. He said that frequently it was a friend for the most virtuous to read a vile impunity the cause of seduction and divorce published in the newspapers. His remarks have provoked considerable discussion throughout the city. At 7:30 o'clock the mission for the men of St. Mary's Cathedral opened, and will be continued throughout the week. The church was completely filled with a congregation composed entirely of men. The ladies were even prohibited from singing in the choir and only male voices were heard singing the Benedictus. The services during the week will be at 5 a.m. and 8:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

SPECIAL SERMONS

The Work of the Methodist Educational Society—Rev. Messrs. Awde and Bond's Addresses Yesterday.

Sermons in behalf of the Educational Society of the Methodist Church of Canada were preached in Queen St. Church yesterday. By the report presented by the pastor it appeared that some $6,000 were raised last year for the support of the objects of the fund. This amount was raised by collections made in the congregations throughout the Dominion. The fund is devoted to assisting promising candidates for the ministry to obtain such an education as will qualify them for the ministry in an age of the universal diffusion of knowledge. Grants are also made from the fund to the several Theological Institutes of the denomination located in Cobourg, Montreal and Mount Allison, Nova Scotia.

The sermon delivered at the morning service by Rev Mr. Awde was logical, scholarly and according to that Reverend gentleman's well known finished style, giving evident satisfaction and instruction to the congregation.

Rev Mr. Bond, of Gananoque, was the preacher of the evening, and his sermon was characterized by his usual breadth of scope, depth of thought, and earnest tones of manner. The sermon was followed by an after service of testimony and spiritual song in which was manifested an earnestness and overflow of religious feeling that almost reminded us of God. Abbie and the Salvation Army. This plucky little Church is evidently getting its share in the show of hosannas which are now visiting this city.

The collections and subscriptions in aid of the educational fund were quite in advance of last year.

The services in Sydenham St. Church were also of an educational character and were conducted by Rev. S. Bond in the morning and Rev James Awde in the evening.

AN EDITOR ASSAULTED.

Mr Wilson, of the Guide, has, for the 27th time in Port Hope, been the victim of a personal assault. The last attack was made by Mr Marshall, late Chief Constable. He approached Mr. Wilson on Wednesday and after a word or two struck him across the face twice. The blood flowed freely. The matter was looked into by the Mayor and Police Magistrate and Mr. Marshall was fined $20 and costs. Next day he received an anonymous letter containing twenty dollars "from friends" to pay the fine. The row was regarding articles in Wilson's newspaper.

The Police Magistrate who imposed the fine was present when the assault took place, and heard the complainant say that it was only the first instalment. This threat was also repeated in court and yet he refused to bind the defendant over to keep the peace. His theory was that it was well that the publisher should have the fear of assault hanging over him. We hope the refusal will be reported to the Attorney-General, as it is stated it will be, since the Magistrate has failed very seriously in his duty. He has, by refusing protection to the victim of a public assault, now under threat, proclaimed that arming is a necessity for self protection and in thus doing more in one day to encourage lawlessness than his 120 fines will counteract in a year. It is very plain that personal feeling has warped his judgment, and most of that weak constitution have no right to sit on the bench.

MARCHING TO WAR.

THE ARMY'S PROGRESS—THE MAJOR ATTRACTING GREAT CROWDS AT THE BARRACKS—A WELCOME.

The Singing of a Wonderful Character—Grand Attack in the Evening—Thirty-five in the Point and Many on the Ragged Edge.

Early on Saturday evening the doors of Victoria Barracks had to be barricaded to prevent the crowds from swarming into the Hall and crowding the place to a suffocating extent, as it was, they were packed in like sardines. The great attraction was the Major. He occupied a front seat on the platform with Capt. Abbie and the lieutenants on his right and surrounded by the company of converts. The meeting partook of a social character, consisting of songs and prayers were heartily entered into. One of the chief features of the meetings is the captivating vocalism. The popular airs are known to every body and are sung with refreshing enthusiasm. Major Moore, who resembles a local Colonel in appearance, made a short address. He is a pleasing speaker and seems fully moved with a desire to further the cause of religion—not a modern kind of sanctification but the consuming and satisfying salvation of old time Methodism. His address was made up principally of aphorisms or detached sentences, containing important truths. The language used is simple, plain, and spoken with vigor and demonstration. He was evidently deep in sin previous to conversion, for he intimated in his address that he had been plucked as a "brand from the eternal fire." Touching on salvation he declared that God brought it.

SATAN'S SORE RELIEF.

In a sad and soul pleading for pardon. He M. had a two fold object in visiting Kingston. The organization of the corps in a larger basis and the erection of a barracks, an absolute necessity to accommodate the crowds. He intended to make the people pay for it. Capt. Abbie spoke while the collection plates were circulating, and of course she was interesting. Her figures of speech provoked laughter. She wanted much money, not for herself, but for God. They were going to have a barracks and the people would have to pay for it. She asked those who had their cash laid away in stockings, in trunks, or in the bank to get it out and do some good with it. You can't take it with you to spend it. She produced a laugh by adding in a moment afterwards, "Spend it in the Salvation Army." The service was then thrown open, and for over an hour the audience listened to testimonies. Some of the speeches were eloquent others very crude. Odd expressions were frequently introduced and caused ripples of merriment. The opening testimonies told of hardened lives, and throughout the evening most of those who spoke told of their sinful careers. The service concluded with a prayer meeting.

YESTERDAY'S ATTACK.

Sunday was a great day in the Army's history. In the morning the services were well attended and an earnestness exhibited in the work of salvation. The afternoon was a veritable field day. Barnum's circus could not have drawn greater crowds. The streets were packed in the vicinity of the market. About 2:15 o'clock the parade took place to the market square. About 200 were in procession and they marched to the beating of a bass drum, two snare drums and the music of a cornet a bass horn two triangles and two tambourines. About 2,000 persons heard the service on the market when many gave short experiences. While the service was going on there hundreds crowded into the hall filling the seats, the aisles and and every available space. It was wonderful where the people all came from. It was about 2:45 o'clock when the service began. The singing was strong and harmonious. The band was a great addition to the musical effect. One of the most interesting sights was the boy not exercise while a song to the tune of "Marching to War" was given. Hundreds of pocket handkerchiefs red, blue, white, floated hither and thither around the owner's head. To the imaginative spectator the mock roar of the trumpets, the roll of the drums, the clang of the triangles and the rattle of the tambourines with the melody of so many voices was a very pretty and impressive sight. Major Moore made numerous short addresses and with remarkable tact conducted the services, saying a proper word at one time and introducing a song at another. The Major said that he was often asked if the Salvation Army

NEVER INTENDED TO SETTLE

down and become a distinct organization. No, he said, "did you ever hear of an army settling on the battle field? We must always be on the move." The difference between the ministers and the Salvation Army was that while the ministers went where they were wanted the Salvation Army went where they were not wanted and where they had to fight their way to stay. He said (pointing to the large audience) now it clearly evidenced that a barracks is required here. Hundreds have been turned away. The meetings all over the country, he said were as well and largely attended as in Kingston. He spoke of Queen Victoria's interest on the Salvation Army's work and the letters she had written Mrs. General Booth expressing sympathy with the movement. They hoped some day to have crowned heads marching with the Army. "I'll have a crowned head, any way," he added, to which Capt. Abbie responded, "So will I, hallelujah." A member writing of prophecy said that the stone cut out of the mountain without hands and which was to grow until it filled the whole earth was the Salvation Army. He prayed that the prophecy referred to them. He gave a short resume of the Army's operation. It had 82 stations in full blast and over 70 officers. He urged greater liberality, pointing out that the money given by Kingstonians would not be taken out of the country. It would not be sent to the States but would all be used in extending the work in Canada. He hoped to secure many officers during the next three months in Kingston to do work in other cities in Canada, and in the summer sufficient squads could be secured to take the Word into all the towns in the vicinity. Kingston must be taken for Christ. The meeting was then opened for testimonies, many of which were given.

THE EVENING SCENE.

Last evening the heavy artillery did mighty work at the meeting. The Major in command marshalled his forces with true military strategy and poured upon the immense audience the red hot shot of conversion. Every gun was ready for active service and loaded to the muzzle with gospel grace. The meetings of the day were only preparatory to the grand scene of the evening, when it was expected that the devil's battalions, even in solid squares, would be routed horse, foot and artillery, and they were. The right and left flanks of the Army did good service, and the sharp shooting was well performed. The dense ranks were thus rifled. These places being taken by other squads, while the reserves at the last moment came to the rescue and filled the breach. The singing, which was wonderful and soul inspiriting, can only be called the powder that discharged the hole fire. The room was so densely jammed that many left with fear, but when one went out ten entered. The Major read, spoke and sang, as did Capt. Abbie. Their whole conversations were pleadings to the unsaved to turn in with the overtures of mercy, accept Christ and be happy. The day's work concluded with a prayer meeting and the opening of the fountain. The day's results were 85 souls and many on the ragged edge.

BARRACK NEWS.

Major Moore is now in the P. M. Church for a short time last night.

The new band is quite an acquisition to the Army. Abbie says she's proud of it.

The Army fired bayonets twice during their service on the market square yesterday.

The waving of handkerchiefs in their choruses by the Salvation Army is a very pretty sight.

The Salvation musicians play well. Most of them have been connected with volunteer bands.

Wait until the corps gets it colours and then for the parades. The procession takes place to-morrow evening.

One young man reported that he had passed the first toll gate on the down ward path, but he was on the up grade now.

Capt. Wass, Toronto, and Capt. Shirley, London, will be present at the presentation of the colours. Abbie says it is worth 50 cents to see the latter, who is a lady.

Abbie thinks the public had better eat their supper before they go to the banquet to-morrow night, as she has issued 1000 tickets and probably some might get nothing to eat.

Complaint is made because the Salvationists kneel up on the sidewalk in front of the barracks and march upon the sidewalks. The soldiers do not intent to be obstructionists, and if requested to take the middle of the street will no doubt do so.

THE BICYCLE FEVER.

The prospect is that there will be a large number of bicyclists in the city during the next summer, the exercise of riding the "critter" being as popular as it is healthy. We understand that a number of persons have ordered machines, and that they will be here as soon as the roads are in fit condition for light and cleanly travel. The invention that is now attracting considerable attention is the marine bicycle, for circulars respecting which a gentleman has sent to the manufacturers. It is said to be capable of making eight to ten miles an hour the machinery being operated by the feet as one drives an ordinary bicycle, but the propulsion of the boat being effected by a small wheel at the stern. One of these machines will be tried, and if successful others will be got. It will be fun to see the bicyclists heading the steamboats across the harbour and down the river.
