CITY AND VICINITY

[illegible] Dunnville is [illegible] weather's work, but [illegible] slightly lower than yesterday.

[illegible] Mr. C. Mc[illegible] the old Rose bakery building, Queen Street, [illegible] this city. The property belongs to [illegible] Carruthers.

[illegible] The Mr. Armstrong [illegible] Prescott [illegible] Opera House, [illegible] last year, will be repeated. Capt. Robertson and Pat [illegible] will be [illegible] here.

[illegible] The Schooner Clara, from [illegible] with lumber from the Lake Ontario [illegible] Kingston.

[illegible] The Royal Military College Club are preparing for several field days [illegible] from the Military College. The Kingston boys will play [illegible] shortly. I have a talk of [illegible] club being organized. The [illegible] Kingston are at the head of [illegible] in Canada.

[illegible] This was pay day at the [illegible] and work is going the [illegible] R.M.C. [illegible] of the G. T. & M. R. [illegible] He should report [illegible] Fair. The pay list of his division is [illegible] 2 carting some $1,000 per month. Much of the money [illegible] Kingston.

[illegible] Concerning the legal [illegible] of the City Council [illegible] Dr. Smith [illegible] Lively one [illegible] Report [illegible] Mr. McIntyre will [illegible] Mr. Cunningham, the Mutual Transportation Company and R. & M. Forwarding Companies from [illegible] Alice.

[illegible] A new stereoscope [illegible] best pictures will be used on the [illegible] at No. 1 Rideau-street Terrace. The owner, Charles Thomas, says, can not afford the luxury of a Kingston picture in his travels. He brought twenty [illegible] The public would do well to avail themselves of the opportunity of getting a good [illegible] stereoscope.

[illegible] William Snowden intends to tear down the old Methodist Episcopal Church, on Johnson Street, and erect four connected tenement houses. Their length will be 63 feet, their depth 30 feet. There will be six tenants in each. Double back kitchens, two stories high, 14x24, will be added. The houses will be rough cast.

[illegible] Another body from the wreck of the schooner Folger has come ashore at Gull Point. It is that of Nathan Livingston, seaman. This is the fifth body recovered from this wreck. There are four more not yet recovered. The father of the young man lost at Pickle on Saturday and took the body to Clayton for burial.

[illegible] Dunning's Park. It is said that several persons have driven across the park by night, short cuts. The park is not for such, they are known and offenders may expectably be fined against them before the Magistrate. If the park is to be kept open the citizens must conform to some sort of rules. Driving across the grass at the moment would certainly be wrong.

A LAST NOTE. The ice is going in [illegible] earlier than usual and within the same given spell of hot weather in previous years. From Cedar to Garden Islands there is clear water. The steamer Pierrepont started this afternoon for the Island and got through quite easily. On April [illegible] the boat made her first trip, and on March 6th, 1882, she resumed operations.

[illegible] To-day a boiler wandered upon Queen's wharf and at unexpected intervals [illegible] The animal jumped off the dock and had down in the water, which was two feet deep on the ice. Eight men hooked the animal out, but after a few moments the critter again jumped in and tried to end its life. The animal was hooked out a second time and tied to a post until the owner arrived.

RE-OPENING OF ST. JAMES'. Announcements were made yesterday concerning the re-opening of St. James' on Sunday next, April 22. An early Communion service will be held at 8 o'clock, as well as one after morning prayer at 11. The offertory at morning service will be for the Church Improvement Fund. Subscriptions as well as money may be given. These subscriptions may be payable over four years where so desired. In the evening the collection will be for the Diocese of Algoma, except so far as may be enclosed for the special object of church improvement. Further announcements will be found in the parish magazine, to be issued during the week.

SUBMERGED TRACK.

Trains did not run over the K. & P. RR. on Saturday, and only at 1:30 o'clock to-day was a train sent out. Assistant Superintendent Taylor went out this morning and found the track submerged at Jackson's Mills to a depth of two feet. The water lies in a beautiful sandbed. It was subsiding. The track was hauled down so that there was no danger in running through the half mile of water. It has never been so high, but the quantity of snow was unprecedented. In a day or so it will have all disappeared. Train will be changed track at Elbow Creek, near Parham.

PROCESSION OF ST. JOSEPH.

The High Mass at 10:30 was celebrated by the Rev. Father Hartigan assisted by Fathers Twohey and Kelly as Deacon and Sub-Deacon. At the conclusion the Rev. Father Ryan S.J. preached on the Festival of the Day, the Patronage of Saint Joseph. The Rev. Father took for his text St. Matthew xxiv. 45. "Who thinkest thou, is a faithful and prudent servant, whom his lord hath appointed over his family to give them meat in season."

The preacher told the congregation that that day was celebrated the festival of St. Joseph as Patron of the Universal Church. Why did the Church make a Patron or Protector? Was not God able to make the Church able to stand against the Church? And the Church was in need of a guardian; it had always have required this helper, whenever this office was needed, recently established by the late Supreme Pontiff. These two questions are answered, the first by God, the second by the Church. God answers the first by making St. Joseph the Protector of Christ, his own Divine Child. The Church answers the second by making St. Joseph the father of the Christian Child. The child is a member of the Christian family and of the supernatural family. The father towards the Christian child and the Divine towards the Catholic child. St. Joseph is to be both in the model of the Christian father and by his prudence the model of the supernatural father. The preacher developed these points from the question of faith and prudence attributed to the servant in the text by our Divine Lord and then sum up as the various characteristic of St. Joseph, whereby he is made the father of the Christian and faithful parent and model of the prudent father.

SERMON BY THE BISHOP.

In the evening at 7:30, His Lordship concluded the sermon by a sermon on the parable of the seed. The Bishop developed this beautiful parable by comparing the seed the element of humanity in the natural order, with the Divine seed which is the eternal word, the immortal word, the vivifying and creative principle of supernatural life. Applying this to the preaching of the mission, he showed three souls were prepared the good soil for the fruitful produce. From the divine seed of faith implanted in them souls in the sacrament of baptism, the spiritual womb of the church through which they were born again children of God in the kingdom of Jesus Christ, he earnestly hoped that the element of humidity in the spiritual order would continue to fructify in their hearts and now more abundantly than before. His Lordship warmly praised his people for their attendance during the mission. The benediction with solemn Mass concluded the services of the day. The music was very fine.

SATURDAY OF THE WEEK.

This evening a meeting for men will be held in the Cathedral at 7:30, to practically arrange and formulate the constitution of the Holy Family. On Tuesday evening at the same hour a meeting of the women will take place for the same purpose.

Missions such as those just closed are held frequent intervals in the Catholic Church and are intended to stir up the people to piety and devotion.

Rev. Father Ryan, the principal of the Jesuit Fathers, is one of the English preachers in the Jesuit Church in Montreal. He is exceedingly eloquent, and has made an impression on the people, the effect which there has been some since the visit of Rev. Father Langenhe.

A JEWISH JOURNAL.

We have received another journalistic curiosity, The Daily Jewish Gazette, published in New York, and printed wholly in the Jewish character. It is said to be the only Jewish daily in the world. Besides the quaint appearance due to the unacknowed characters, it has another noticeable peculiarity due to the Oriental fashion of reading from right to left. One of the Salmic services in this office is reading up to but we can talk business to the compositors in the Jewish tongue. One of the editors of the Jewish Gazette is, we believe, Rev. Jacob Freshman, a Methodist minister, who spent his sick leave in Kingston some three years ago.

NINETY-NINE ON EARTH

Mr. Loyd a Veteran Interviewed—Relating Incidents of Long Ago—a Native of Kingston.

John W. Loyd, who resides near Gananoque, was recently interviewed, and as he is one of the oldest inhabitants of this district his statement regarding events of long ago are interesting. He was found in bed, confined from natural infirmities, but suffering from no disease. Mr. Loyd was born in Kingston in 1784. It is home then situated where the City Palace now stands. His father who was a German and who fought in the Revolutionary War, married a native American girl whose father had been killed and scalped by Indians. When Mr. Loyd was two years old his father removed to Leeds and settled on the 1st farm. There Mr. Loyd grew to manhood. He was married in 1821 and had issue of seven sons and three daughters, most of whom are still living. His wife died in 1870. In Mr. Loyd's younger days he engaged in lumbering and took many rafts to Quebec. Afterwards he purchased a Durham boat and freighted on the St. Lawrence until steamboats began to ply. He

WAS AN OLD WARRIOR

[illegible] 1814 assisted to defend Gananoque from attack by Americans. After the Canadians had discharged all their ammunition, killing one American and wounding several others, they broke ranks and fled. Mr. Loyd and ten others were captured and taken to Sackett's Harbor and thence to Ogdensburg, where they suffered much from measles and other ailments. They had no beds, no medicine and very little food. The Loyd one day sent a note to the officer commanding, who, being humane, released him on his honour that that he would not escape. After two months Mr. Loyd was purchased and sent home. Mr. Loyd did garrison duty in Kingston during the war and about seven years ago was put a pension of $20 per month, since increased to $26. During the rebellion of 1837 Mr. Loyd was called out and ordered to Prescott but the Commissariat orders were countermanded when they had only gone a little distance from home. Mr. Loyd's first remembrance of this country was a wilderness in all directions and only

TRACKS TO GO THROUGH ON THE WOODS

He told the interviewer a representative of the Gananoque Reporter, that he when his father's there were only two houses between Gananoque and Kingston, one of them was Mr. Franklin's 18 miles west on what is now called the middle road; the other was about the same distance west, but on the river front. Gananoque contained one small log house and a better one occupied by Colonel Stone who was building a saw and grist mill on the west side of Gananoque River. Sir John Johnston who also owned Sir John's Island afterwards built two similar mills on the east side of the river. The only house east of Gananoque for 14 miles was a small shanty at the mouth of Loggie's Creek, occupied by a man named McIlowan. Before the grist mill was built, Mr. Loyd's father had to get his grinding done at Larne's mill down near Escott, and going to the mill was quite an undertaking.

THREATENED BY INDIANS

Indians were a terror to the settlers, but mostly on account of their reputation. Mr. Loyd only remembers once when actual blows were come to with them; this was before he was married. Five aborigines entered his father's house and demanded food which could not, of course be given him without depriving the family of all they had; the Indians then proceeded to help themselves, and despite the efforts of the male members of the household, were likely to take what they wanted and do bodily injury besides, when Mr. Loyd's mother suddenly grasped a large iron poker and laid about them so lustily as to soon drive the intruders out of the house, which was then barred and defended with guns.

HIS VIRTUES AND VICES.

Mr. Loyd has smoked tobacco for 65 years, he never was drunk, never learned to swear, never was struck in anger by any man and only struck one man once when the circumstances justified the act. During all his life he appears to have been a quiet inoffensive, hard-working honest, and virtuous man, enjoying the confidence and respect of the community, but never accumulating much worldly wealth. For a long time he has been a member of the M. E. Church, and says there is no cloud between him and the Heaven he expects soon to enter. At present his son, William, has the charge, and all comfort and attention is cheerfully provided. He was asked, "Would you like to live your life over again?" "No," he replied, "I have lived long enough, and feel tired. I will be glad to rest when I am called to go."

A DYNAMITE SCARE.

Last week an old gentleman from the Township of Kingston gave his neighbours a great scare by stating that he had discovered an explosive and believed that the dynamiters were at work in the vicinity. He was asked for an explanation, every one was curious to know what reason he had for coming to such an alarming conclusion. He said that in travelling along the railway track his son, a mere youth, had picked up a little tin box, the lid of which he could not remove. The more the strength of his fingers failed to open the canister the greater became his curiosity to see what it contained. He finally laid it upon the railway track and struck it with a heavy stone. It exploded with a loud report. "By jings," said the rural, "the shock was bigger n a cannon could make." The old man ventured the opinion that the explosive was dynamite, tl at it was being made somewhere in the vicinity or dropped in the evil work of some secret society. We are not inclined to this opinion. What the lad found we don't know, but we fancy it to have been some sort of a fog signal, discharged by concussion, in this case being that produced by the blow of a stone. There is no reason to suppose that the dynamiters would presume to blow the British Government by blowing up this or any other Canadian city.

HIS WORSHIP'S LEVEE.

An Interesting Docket—the Administration of Justice to Whom Justice is Due.

James Murphy a stranger drunk was embraced by a policeman. After a night in the interior cells he was discharged—punished enough.

THE ALLEGED ROBBERY CASE

The evidence of Charles Bryant a conductor on the K. & P. RR. was taken in the Collinsby robbery case. He stated that at Morvale Station the prisoner got off. He slipped and was caught by the witness. On the prisoner being searched his ticket as far as Collinsby was found. He had no ticket for Tyrone. He fully identified Babcock as the man who had gone out on the line.

Mr. McKeown thought it was unnecessary to put in a defence.

The Magistrate said there were some circumstances now that he did not like. The evidence was however circumstantial. Owing to the suspicious charges of the prisoner he would adjourn the case until the 8th of June, when he hoped something would turn up to remove these suspicions, clear the man's character, and show where the money went to. The adjournment was made so that the case, if not disposed of, can go to the Sessions. Bail was given.

THE CASE DISMISSED.

Robert Davis appeared in court. His face looked shocking. The purple spots had turned black and the skin was of a saffron hue. The punishment he had received was more apparent than ever. He pleaded not guilty to the charge of assaulting Andrew McKee. The evidence was taken. It was practically the same as that given in the case of Davis v. McKee. Owen for Bennett testified that McKee struck the first blow that Davis was intoxicated and that after being knocked down he got up and staggered like a drunken man.

The lawyers then addressed the court.

His Worship said that Davis was to blame. Had he kept away from the saloons no row would have occurred. His punishment already had been severe, therefore he would only fine him $1 and costs, a sum less than he had already suffering.

ARRESTED FOR LARCENY.

Patrick Gannon came from Cataraqui Lake, where he had been employed by Bannerman & Co. on the K. & P. RR. extension. He was one of the striking gang. When here he got drunk and was arrested several times. When he had wasted his money his appetite for liquor remained and he calmly walked west into several houses and stole various articles. In Dr. Curtis' office he secured an inkstand from Capt. Orr, Malone an umbrella. His hand came in contact with a pair of scissors and a prayer book in Capt. Coughlan's. These things he sold to a pawn broker and applied the funds in liquor. The prisoner was punished this morning. He admitted that he should be punished but it was the first time he had thus offended. He was sent to gaol for one month.

Mr. Gordon Stewart of Moncton, N.B., writing from Moncton, N.B., under date of March 26, 1883, says:

In January last I came to Moncton from Montreal, to consult a physician, as I was in the last stage of consumption. When I arrived here I had at once to go to my bed and was so low I never expected to leave it. A physician was called who pronounced my case as hopeless, that I might live a week or two but not certainly more. As a last resort he recommended Robinson's Compound Oil with Lactophosphate of Lime. I purchased a bottle and after taking the first dose commenced to improve. It moved after taking a few as if I had eaten a good hearty meal. I have continued taking it ever since and am rapidly improving. I am confident that had it not been for your oil I would have been in my grave to-day. You are at liberty to use this in any way you wish as I am anxious to let others who are affected in the same way know of it in the hope that they may receive the same benefit.
