Ayer's Sarsaparilla! FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

This compound of the vegetable alteratives Sarsaparilla, Dock, Stillingia, and Mandrake, with the Iodides of Potash and Iron, unlocks most of the chronic ills of which a vitiated condition of the blood is the cause or occasion, and which are very prevalent and afflicting. In purifying the blood, people cast the lurking bane out of the system, that undermines health and settles into troublesome disorders. Eruptions of the skin are the outlet of the impurities which should be expelled from the blood. Internal derangements are the determination of these same humors to some internal organ, or organs, whose action they derange, and whose destruction they threaten. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA expels these humors from the blood. When these are gone, the disorders they produce, such as Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Dropsy, Blotches and Eruptions on the Skin, St. Anthony Fire, Tetter or Erysipelas, Pimples, Carbuncles, Boils, Pustules, Tumors and Sore Rheumatism, Scald Head, Ringworm, Scurvy and Mange, Blindness, Deafness, Pains in the Bones, Side and Joints, Female Weakness, Sterility, Leucorrhoea, arising from Internal Ulceration and Uterine Diseases, Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Constipation and General Debility, will their departure begin to retrate.

ORANGE INCORPORATION.

Last of the Debate on Mr. White's Bill. Offensive Speeches on Both Sides. The End.

(Ottawa Times.)

The debate on the Orange Bill was by long odds the most exciting feature of the session and crowded whenever it was on as could be seen by the eager faces in the galleries which were well filled in the afternoon and packed to suffocation in the evening, many people standing. It was generally anticipated that the Bill would somehow or other be shelved by the Government, and many thought that an arrangement would be made to talk it out by debating the King's County election case, but if any such idea was entertained it was abandoned and the Orange Bill allowed to be reached very shortly after the opening of the House. Mr. White's speech was studiously mild and conciliatory. He displayed at first a degree of nervousness which was not unnatural to a man occupying the position of handling political dynamite which he was in no way anxious to explode. He evidently desired to argue himself of his front satisfactorily to his Orange friends while giving as little ground as possible for a revival of the old time animosities or the starting up of controversy between the Orange and Blue wings of the party. All hope of having the vote taken quickly and without exciting sectional prejudice disappeared with Mr. Curran's fiery outburst of invective and denunciation. He spoke rapidly, vehemently and with a good deal of gesticulation and rhetoric of the thunderous order. His allusions to the possibility of being brought over again in Montreal were the Bill passed was generally regarded as ill considered and inopportune and as may be supposed provoked to pose in the same spirit. During the afternoon session the speaking was entirely monopolized by the Government benches. Mr. White, of Montreal, replied to Mr. Curran's production of a few battle of the Boyne by the suggestion that it could easily be avoided if the latter and his friends would only keep within doors on the 12th July and let the Orange processionists alone. Mr. Curran added fuel to the flames by placing the Orangemen in the same category with Nihilists and Fenians, and Mr. McNeil did not mend matters by his lengthy allusion to the Irish troubles and his eulogy of Orangeism as an antidote to Irish disaffection and disturbance. During recess, however, he was liberally met by Sir John Macdonald, and the remainder of his discourse after recess was in marked contrast to the previous portion, being tamely apologetic, and evidently intended to counteract some of the ill considered utterances before dinner. Mr. Tyrwhitt also threatened that if the Bill did not pass Orangemen would and elect men liberal enough to give them the desired legislation. Had the Orangemen displayed more indignation at times passed the menace might have been more seriously dealt with, as it was it was treated with contemptuous indifference. It is worthy of note that not a single member of the Ministry had a word to say in favor of the Bill. Sir John Macdonald, Sir Leonard Tilley, Mr. Carling, and even Post Master Burwell stood by and saw the pet measure of this faithful, to whom active political partnership they owe their seats, unceremoniously kicked out of the House without remonstrance. Such is Tory gratitude. Had Sir John chosen to exert his influence the result would, doubtless, have been very different. As the debate drew to a close the crowd in the galleries increased, and the vote was taken amid the breathless excitement of the spectators who occupied every available inch of space. The result was greeted with loud applause, both from the floor of the House and the galleries.

THE SAFETY OF THE QUEEN

BY A SINGULAR COINCIDENCE

the announcement of the vote defeating the Orange Bill was almost immediately followed by the receipt of a message from the Senate announcing that they had passed the bill incorporating Les Peres Oblates de Marie Immaculee in the North West. The significance of the incident was recognized by renewed applause from the triumphant antagonists of the bill. One of the most truculent and offensive speeches from the Orange side was that of Col. Tyrwhitt, whose attitude was well calculated to confirm the impression on the minds of Catholics as to the hostility of Orangemen towards them. Mr. Curran having asserted that the passage of the bill would have an injurious effect on immigration, Col. Tyrwhitt replied that on the contrary it will prevent a class of emigrants coming to this country which I for one do not wish to see here," a sentiment which Mr. Hackett, speaking with a good deal of feeling, characterized as a gratuitous insult to Irish Catholics.

SUICIDE IN A CHURCH AT ROME.

A startling incident took place in the Church of the Apostles in the Piazza of that name, in Rome. Alessandro Pombi, a watchmaker, well known as a steady religious man, and the father of a family, entered the church between 6 and 7 o'clock in the morning. A priest was saying Mass at a side altar, and the sacristan and workmen were busy with preparations for the exhibition of the Holy Sepulchre. Many persons were praying or engaged in confessing. Pombi, having confessed and communicated, went to the Chapel of the Sepulchre, knelt down, and pulling out a revolver, shot himself in the head, inflicting what is probably a fatal wound. The consternation in the church was extreme, especially among the clergy, because the act desecrated the church, and unless the reconciliation could be performed in all haste the great ceremonial of Holy Thursday could not be performed in that church. The church was immediately closed. Fortunately a substitute for the Vicar-General was found at once, and the ceremonial of consecration was instantly performed, so that the exhibition of the Holy Sepulchre took place the same afternoon. The event has caused a great sensation in the religious world of Rome. The cause of the attempted suicide is unknown.
