FOR THE

KIDNEYS, LIVER AND URINARY ORGANS

THE BEST BLOOD PURIFIER.

There is only one way by which any disease can be cured, and that is by removing the cause—whatever it may be. The great medical authorities of the day declare that nearly every disease is caused by deranged kidneys or liver. To restore these therefore is the only way by which health can be secured. Here is where WARNER'S SAFE CURE has achieved its great reputation. It acts directly upon the kidneys and liver and by putting them in a healthy condition drives disease and pain from the system. For all Kidney, Liver and Urinary troubles, for the distressing disorders of women, for Malaria, and physical troubles generally, this great remedy has no equal. Be wary of imitations, imitations and concoctions said to be just as good.

ADELPHI.

The prize poem, written by George E. Cameron, read in Convocation Hall yesterday afternoon. It is a simple story, beautifully told, and must greatly please all who read it.

Fraternal love and truth and honor gone?
All faith divorced from life? If this be so
Man's star sinks westering, and the world he walks,
Untouched of any ray of future hope,
Past all redemption, dead indeed in sin,
Bearing the burden of the primal curse,
Reels on to ruin and her ancient dusk,—
Wheels through the darkness to her final time!
But is this so? I think it were in me,
The veriest heresy to hold it so.
When I, not seeking, stumble once, or o'n once
In a whole lifetime, on a love like that
Of Edgar and of Albert Henderson
A love beyond the love of woman's love,
A love beyond the love of woman far,
Two brothers, one is living still—from him
I heard the story—Edgar Henderson
And Albert, older by a year or two,
Loved one and the same maiden, Minna Vane.
The toast and boast of all the country round,
As fair as starlight, sweet as summer morn
In trope isles, and pure and good withal.
She was their cousin, and from infancy
Had dwelt beside them, mingled in their sport
Whilst they were children, and when they had grown
To manhood in their sober studies joined
Till she became (and not unconsciously)
A part and portion of the life of each.
While they in turn became as dear to her.
To neither brother gave she preference,
Or, if she preference gave it was not marked,
And if she preference had she told it not
When Edgar saw that Albert loved the girl
He would not speak to hurt his brother's hope,
When Albert saw that Edgar also loved
He would not throw a pebble in his way;
When Minna saw that she was loved of both
Not dreaming wrong she fed them both on love.
Yet envy never crept between them; they
Were formed of proud material in the which
No dross was mixed. They only wrangled thus.
In half or hunt an ever ready theme
which made all others servant to itself:
"Now Edgar, go to Minna, make her yours.
She loves you vastly; you have but to call
And down the bird will flutter to your hand
And thus: "Nay, Albert, you who love most,
And are the elder, as the better, man
You shall go to her, you shall make her yours
Each chided each so twenty times a day.
And were it forty times twere all the same.
Each loved his brother more than his desire.
Once Albert sought and asked her secretly,
"Do you love Edgar, cousin—yes or nay?"
But she made answer with a rose-red blush.
(Which Albert might interpret as he would.)
"I love you both." And Edgar also went.
Unknown to Albert, and desired to know
Whether she loved his brother. But the maid
Replied as ever, "I do love you both;"
And when he fain would press her harder still
For certain knowledge, in her woman way
She led him on to talk of other things
Till he forgot his mission, and went home
Wise as he was the day before he asked.
So, many suns set circling; many moons
Increased and waned,
Three summers came and went
And still the matter doubtful hung in court.
But when the fourth year opened Edgar said,
"See, brother, full three years are dead and gone,
And Minna sends all others from her side
Awaiting one of us. You will not go
To speak her, nor will I alone; now let Us go together, hand in hand, and say
"We love—you, cousin, each of us, so choose
Which one of us shall add you to his joys
By your decision, be it what it may,
We pledge our honor we shall rest content."
And Albert rose and cried, "So be it then."
And forth they went and bade her take her choice.
Then she, sweet Minna, of the golden hair
And perfect form and face and starry eyes,
Said only over when they came to her
Being weak, desiring, but not knowing right,
"Agree between yourselves; I love you twain;
By your decision, be it this or that,
I pledge my maiden faith I will abide."
Now had she spoke in otherwise and said,
When Albert came, "I love your brother," then
Edgar had won her; or when Edgar asked
Had she, "I love your brother, Albert," said
Albert had had her. But "I love you twain,
Go settle the affair between yourselves,
And I by your decision will abide."
Perplexed them much, and they could not agree,
And so another year was born of time,
Was stricken with extreme old age, and died,
And slumbered with its parents of the past.
While Minna knew not who should be her lord;
But when the second summer closed its bells
And on each calyx preest a parting kiss,
When Autumn came with cooler winds and showers
And lowering clouds foreboding winters reign
When late green leaves were tinting to their fall
And Northern birds were looking towards the South
And sighing for its cane and genial fruits,
Breaking the seal of silence from his lip,
"For the last time, my brother, she is yours.
So answer will you wed her—yes or no?"
Said Albert. "She is yours," was the reply;
"For you her heart hath waited many days;
For you she puts all other suitors by;
For you she hoards the honey of her lips
Wooed, as you know, my many a vagrant kiss;
For you she hopes to wear her orange wreaths;
Now this being so, (and well I know it so,)
I pray you, by the love you have for her
And by the love I have for her, make not
A victim of her life, as you will do
Not taking her unto your heart, for see
Being that beyond all change, or chance of change,
I swear I will not wed her whilst you live.
And swearing, wish you three score years and ten,
Nay, more, so that they be not burdensome.
A golden age with golden joys annexed;
Nor think that I will envy you your bliss,
That she will be my sister is enough.
Then Albert leaned his head upon his hand,
And cast his brow, and bit his nether lip
As if he rolled the matter to and fro.
Which Edgar, marking, thought, "He yields at last
And he will wed her. But he knew him not.
Albert he was the brother of his soul
At length, "Well, leave me for an hour alone
An hour ere this has settled weightier things;
An hour shall loose or cut this Gordian knot.
Come at its close, your answer will be here."
Then Edgar, with a laugh upon his lip,
And yet another tippling round his heart,
Rejoicing in the sacrifice he made
And quaffing in anticipation from
The cup of joy he thought should soon be full.
To Minna went and told her all was well.
They having settled it in quiet wise.
But scarcely had the word fall'n from his tongue
When one came to him running. Calling him
Aside with trembling speed he told his tale.
"You had but left the park when Al came
Into the armory, biting at his beard,
And muttering ever strangely through its maze,
Not dreaming I was watching him the while.
"It is the only way, the only way,
And since the only way it is the best,
Plucked from its rest a rapier and ere I
Divined his purpose sheathed it in himself.
I rap and caught and laid him down, when he,
With gentlest smile, said, 'Maurice, you are late.
It was the only way, the only way:
Tell Edgar twas the only way and best
And tell him that I loved him to the last
Far more than life and more than my desire,
And tell him, farther, 'tis my will and wish,
And he will work it, seeing it is my last,
That he should wed his cousin. Here the blood
Which left his wound as water leaves its fount,
Choked other utterance, and he drooped its head
And with your name half spoken gasped and died."
Then Edgar, groping as a blind man might,
And bending neath the burden of the blow,
The bitter burden of a new found pain,
Walked through the stillness of the starry night,
And through the giant shadows of the elms
Unto his home, and knew it all too true.
With funeral rite, but nought of pageantry
Albert was laid to slumber with his sires.
And Edgar sorrowed for him many days.
And Minna sorrowed with him for her friend.
And when the accustomed time of mourning passed
(Albert he mourned fifty ever in his heart,)
Holding his dying wish in due respect,
He went to Minna, none his rival now,
And took her to his heart and hearth and home.
To love and cherish her forever more
As one who had been purchased with a price.
Such is the story as it came to me
Not wrapt nor woven in cunning word or phrase.
But unadorned, unvarnished, simply clad
It may not cap your confidence in man
Nor rivet fast your mind to that I hold,
But yet I hold, above the voice of all,
Though thrice a thousand rise denying it,
That noble faith is not divorced from life,
That love fraternal still abides on earth
And I do hope to hold it to the end.

"Dr. Benson's Celery and Chamomile Pills for the cure of neuralgia are a success." Dr. G. P. Holman, Christiansburg, Va. 50cts., at the druggist's.

A Secret.

The secret of beauty lies in pure blood and good health. Burdock Blood Bitters is the grand key that unlocks all the secretions. It cures all Scrofulous Diseases, acts on the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, Skin, and Bowels, and brings the bloom of health to the pale cheek.

Puttner's Emulsion.

In cases of prostration and emaciation its restorative powers have been manifested in the most remarkable manner both in children and adults, its peculiar tonic and nutritive properties having restored health to the most enfeebled constitution.

Street Talk.

"How much better you look, Mr. S—" "Yes, I have gained 32 pounds on Hall's Catarrh Cure. Have not felt so well in 10 years. It has made a complete cure and is worth $100 a bottle to any one that has the Catarrh."

Nervous Debility.

This dreaded and miserable disease is immediately relieved by the use of Allan's anemic salts. Ask for them, take no others. Every bottle guaranteed. Circular and consultation free.

Mr. H. F. MacCarthy, Chemist, Ottawa, writes: "I have been dispensing and jobbing Northrop & Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda for the past two years, and consider that there is no better preparation of the same kind in the market. Tens very palatable, and as chemists ought to it has no equal."

C. A. Livingstone, Flatlands Ont., says, I have much pleasure in recommending Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, from having used it myself, and having sold it for some time. In my own case I will say for it that it is the best preparation I have ever tried for rheumatism.

No person can enjoy health while suffering Constipation of the Bowels. Hatch purgatives always do harm. Burdock Blood Bitters is Nature's own Cathartic; it unlocks the secretions, regulates, purifies and strengthens the system.

NEW LICENSE LAW.

How It Strikes One Citizen Favoring the Liquor Men—A Critic at Work.

To the Editor, British Whig.

SIR,—It behooves the temperance people and all others favorable to the curtailment of the liquor traffic to be on the alert in regard to the proposed legislation at Ottawa on the above question or they will most likely be outwitted by the liquor manufacturers and dealers whose friends the Tory Government undoubtedly are, and who are evidently acting in favor of an extension of the accursed traffic.

It appears by the Ottawa correspondence in the Mail that the sub-Committee, to whom the consideration of the question was referred, are of opinion that in cities one "tavern should be licensed for every 250 of the first thousand of the population and one for every 300 after that, while nothing in this respect is suggested for the rural sections which plainly foretells a loose state of affairs. If the above plan were carried out there would be 40 taverns in the city of Kingston, which is twelve more than the present Ontario statute allows.

This ratio is altogether too large, but for all that it will doubtless be so fixed unless strong opposition from all sections of the people is offered, because influential deputations of liquor dealers are working hard at Ottawa, urging the Government and Committee to frame a measure favorable to their interests, and their demands will be granted unless counteraction on the part of the public at large be taken. It is a well known fact that the Conservative party has always received the unwavering support of the liquor element, and it is therefore, likely, if they legislate at all, that the Tory Government will do nothing but that which will suit the manufacturers and vendors of liquor. That means greater facilities for the disposing of [illegible] greater quantities than they [illegible] unless public opinions compel them to do otherwise. What is to be done to counteract this vicious cause? Why, let every Conservative or Reformer cast for once party aside and be true to himself and country, and agitate by petition and otherwise against any part of the license system in a manner which cannot be mistaken at Ottawa. Let them show in an unmistakeable way that this question cannot be trifled with; and if they have the power to legislate on it which is more than doubtful, and attempt to touch it at all, it must be in the direction of greater stringency. Then "up and at them" ere it be too late, for if loose legislation and looser administration be introduced in place of the present efficient system of Ontario acknowledged on all sides to be the best license law this or an other country has ever had, it will be almost impossible once established, to uproot and banish it.

Yours truly,

OBSERVER.

Kingston, 21st April, 1883.

AROUND DESERT LAKE.

No scarcity of water for river driving this spring. Come along with your logs. Hoppers.

John Abrams, of Dresden, paid a flying visit here. He came to take his mother to his Western home.

Who took Bert Page's chickens? Why, a fox, of course. Bagward, beware of that double breasted gun.

Farmers in this vicinity are putting in their spring crops. Spring wheat is peeping from the ground.

Samuel Rothwell has sold his farm with the intention of removing to Dresden. We wish him every success.

The winter was hardly long and cold enough to freeze out the frogs and mosquitoes. Both are singing lively airs.

Benjamin Abrams held a sale on the 9th inst., disposing of his farm and personal property. The farm was purchased by Dr. Claxton, of Verona, for $700. Everything else was sold at a high figure.

A prominent young man invited a few friends to partake of warm sugar in his sugar bush. The road to the said place was in a horrid condition, and the gentler sex had a very hard time in getting within hearing distance. If S. came to their assistance and gallantly carried them one by one over the mud holes.

B. Abrams and wife had occasion to cross Desert Lake on the 14th inst. to visit some friends. It was rather late in the evening when they started for home. When they reached the bridge the water, which had been rising rapidly for the past week, had washed it away. Abrams' better half wanted to retrace her steps, but Ben. didn't feel inclined to keep bachelor's hall, and where there's a will there's a way, so each mounted a horse and forded the creek, leaving the waggon behind. It stays till the water goes down.

Teething! Teething!

Teething time is very hard on children when they do not wear one of NORMAN'S ELECTRIC TEETHING NECKLACES. Decoctions sold in bottles to soothe, benumb the nerves and cause many kinds of injuries, but Norman's Necklace does them good every way. Mothers, try one and you will never use any other. Price 50c. Sold at the Pharmacy 140 Princess St., by W. J. Wilson.

Mr. H. McCaw, Custom House, Toronto, writes: "My wife was troubled with Dyspepsia and Rheumatism for a long time, she tried many different medicines, but did not get any relief until she used Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. She has taken two bottles of it, and now finds herself in better health than she has been for years.

Be Aware in time, and do not allow what may appear to you as a simple back ache now, to run into a disease of the kidneys, which invariably proves fatal in the end. Dr. Van Buren's Kidney Cure will at once ease your pain and positively prevent those unfortunate results. Take it at once. Any druggist will have it.

John Myers, Druggist, Bothwell, says: I have a very large sale for Dr. Carson's Bitters. It is one of the few medicines that does all it is recommended to do. We use them in our "Family Medicine." My experience is that they will cure Headache, Biliousness and Indigestion. For sale by all Druggists at 50 cents a bottle.

G. W. Mount, Parkdale, Toronto, writes: My wife had several very severe attacks of cramps in the stomach. Hearing of Dr. Ayer's Pain Cure and its pleasantness to take, I gave her two bottles, she has not had an attack since, and her health is much improved." For sale by all druggists.

The injurious effects of alcohol on the brain and nervous system relieved and cured by the use of Dr. E. C. West's Nerve and Brain Treatment. Sold by W. J. Wilson.

IMPORTANT TO STEAM USERS AND ENGINEERS.

How to Keep Boilers Clean.

FORBES PATENT AUTOMATIC BOILER CLEANER, which properly applied to a steam boiler, never fails to remove all

MUDDY DEPOSITS AND SEDIMENTS

from water before they become baked into scale. The change is noticeable and surprise is the result, and will no longer a new feature. A boiler kept clean makes a saving in fuel and repairs, as well as a reduced liability to explosion.

Having the agency for this section of the country, we are prepared to fit them up and guarantee them to be all the patentee claims for them.
