CITY AND VICINITY.

PROBS.—Moderate winds, mostly east and south, fair weather, probably local showers to night, stationary or higher temperature.

ONE TIMES AGAIN.—An Olde Folke Concert is to be given in the Opera House on Friday evening, May 18th, at which the popular amateurs of Kingston will bloom as ladies and gentlemen a hundred years ago.

SOME 25,000 militia are to be drilled in camp this summer, and for 23 days. This is a sensible movement. With better pay and longer service our volunteers may be expected to make a presentable appearance.

A SPOKEN STALLION.—On Friday night some one entered the stable of S. Barber, living between Harrowsmith and Hartington, and stole a stallion, aged 3 years, and of dark colour. The police have been asked to look out for the animal.

NOT YET FOUND.—Anthony English is still eagerly in search of his adopted daughter, abducted from his house a few weeks ago. He has procured a trace of her within the past week, and thinks the detective might ere this to have procured her.

RUN THEM UP.—Two navvies on the O. & Q. RR., near Sharbot Lake, were prying a hole in the rock in which was a blast that had gone off. While they were drilling the charge went off and sent them heavenward. They were severely injured about the head, eyes and arms. One of them will probably lose his sight. Dr. Coutlee dressed their wounds.

WAYS A BIG STICK.—The man who provided the gallows upon which two unfortunates, Prevost and Burnette, now in the Penitentiary, were to be hung, is suing Sheriff Merrick for his pay. The County Council offered him $80, but he would not accept the amount; the action goes on. The suit will be a strange one. Lots of people are dying to see the Canadian Calcraft.

NEARLY A BLAZE.—On Saturday evening the wind blew a corset over the gas jet in Bowes & Bisonnette's handsomely decorated window and immediately there was a blaze. Before the fire could be extinguished silk handkerchiefs, feathers, ribbons, flowers and laces were slightly damaged, more by water than by fire. The firm intend selling the partially damaged goods at a sacrifice.

COMING TO THE QUARRY.—Hamilton has done well, and the moral tone of the place will be improved by the cleaning out of its criminals. At the recent Assizes there the following were sent to the Penitentiary: Charles Lynch and Michael O'Neil, larceny, five years each; Thomas McCoid, larceny from the G.T.R., five years; Silas Riley, bestiality, five years; Theodore Tymett, outrage, five years. The last named is an old offender. He was once tarred and feathered at St. Catharines.

COMPANY HERE.—The members of Collier and Rice's "Iolanthe" Company arrived on Sunday morning about 4 o'clock. There are forty-two of them. Twenty two are stopping at the Burnett House and the remainder at the other hotels of the city. The performers had quite a time in reaching the city, some of them having to walk from the depot, sufficient cabs not being on hand. It was a long two miles to the pedestrians.

"THE UNIVERSAL BOY."—Though the last lecture of the season, it is confidently believed that President Stafford's "Universal Boy" will be pronounced the best. The large audiences which listened to its delivery in Ottawa and Montreal were delighted with its point and humor and eloquence. All who take pleasure in hearing a first-class lecture should not fail to be present to-night, at 8 o'clock, at the Sydenham Street Methodist Church.

CONFIRMATION TOUR.—The Bishop of Ontario commences a confirmation tour on Wednesday. That day he will be in Belleville; on Friday at Harrowsmith; on Saturday in Kingston, (he will not confirm here, however, on that day); on Sunday at Gananoque; on Monday and Tuesday at Morrisburg. On Monday, May 14th, he will be at the Diocesan Committee meetings in Kingston. On Sunday, May 20th, he will confirm the candidates in this city.

RECEIVED AN APPOINTMENT.

D. J. Waggoner has had his party services and sacrifices rewarded. He has been made an Inspector of Timber Limits in the North-West. He is now awaiting orders before leaving for his new home. He will be on the border of Manitoba, and will have about 600 square miles of timber limits to look after. He will also see that all necessary mills are erected in accordance with the Government regulations. The appointment is a very good one.

GANANOQUE STORE ROBBED.

On Friday night the safe of Mr. Thos. Haimer, watchmaker, Gananoque, was blown open, and the contents, consisting of a number of watches, mostly belonging to customers, and some jewellery, taken. The burglars first broke the knob off the combination and tried to push in the lock. This failed. The same was tried with the door knob and failed. Then a hole was punched through the plate near the bottom and powder put in and exploded, splitting the door in two. The contents were carried up to the Albion Hotel shed, where the drawer and cheap jewellery were found. The store of Alexander Brown, across the street from Mr. Haimer's, was also entered and some change and tobacco taken. Mr. Haimer claims to have lost sixty-six watches. He estimates his loss at $700.

VOLLEY FIRING.

Services of the Salvation Army in the City Hall—Pleasant "Military Despotism"

Rev. R. McKay gave a bible reading at last night's meeting.

Capt. Ludgate relieved Abbie of duty yesterday. She deserved a rest.

The noon prayer meetings are continued in several industrial establishments.

The converts are talking better. They speak more to the point, are pithy and sharp.

Captain Abbie don't care what the people say. There's not much military despotism about her.

The singing of Lieuts. Ryerson and Wood is very pleasing. The former's "Moses Smote the Water" and the latter's "There's a light in the Window" have a fine effect.

The double meetings are continued at Portsmouth. A convert says the split is regrettable. At any rate the village is a moral place. There is family worship in nineteen out of every twenty houses in the place.

"Everybody come early if you want seat," was Capt. Abbie's admonition in regard to last night's meeting. It had the effect of taking a crowd to the City Hall at 8 o'clock. The place was packed half an hour before the proceedings commenced.

The Syracuse Herald reporter does not stand in well with the Salvation Army. The other night an officer prayed: "May God bless the Herald reporter. If he is here he might may be speak the truth for once in his life, and shame his master the devil."

The Army usually make a sensation when they fire a volley. Fixing bayonets is an attractive sight. All who are saved and glad the soldiers came to Kingston are asked to join in the act. Yesterday there was not as much hand kerchief shaking as Abbie liked, and so she remarked: "What's the matter with you? You're glad we come, of course you are. After this there was a perfect cloud of linen and silk.

At the meetings of the army yesterday afternoon and evening especially were largely attended. Capt. Ludgate of the Toronto corps, a visitor, led in the proceedings, and he proved an additional attraction. He has a musical voice which is the envy of every [illegible]. The services were lively, intelligent and, in a saving sense, we learn were very successful. The new Lieutenant has become a general favourite.

Again yesterday the Salvation Army appeared with a band, and its appearance brought together a host of children who ought to be at Sunday School and whose attendance is not desired or useful at the Army meetings. This, apart from the fact that the playing of a band is offensive to people tactily in sympathy with the Army here, will, we hope, counsel the abandonment of this part of the Sunday parade. So far, thanks to the gentle guidance of Capt. Abbie, the movement here has been conducted without wilful offence to any person, and with a respectability that has helped it amazingly. She is willing, we learn, to abolish the band on Sunday if it be offensive, and she will show her shrewdness in acting at once as she will disarm the few hostilities still shown.

Capt. Ludgate is said on Saturday evening to have boasted of his defiance of the Toronto police, upon his arrest for blockading the street. He made a great mistake. In the Kingston movement there must be nothing of that spirit shown, or the Army will begin to lose its admirers fast. Here the object has been to enlist the law and good order on the side of the Salvationists, and if a policeman gives a warning of overstepping the work it is at once respected. The consequence is that the Police Magistrate and policemen night and day give the Army meetings the fullest protection, until they are as free from interference as the Mayor's private table. This is the proper policy.

The wrecking str. Conqueror towed the schr. Pride of America to Brockville yesterday. The schr. will load rye for Oswego.

The schr. Ariel, (Capt. Phelps) of Port Hope, is aground at the Thousand Island Park. She is about 18 inches out forward. Capt. T. Donnelly guaranteed to pull her off for $100, but the Captain would not give that amount. This guarantee would have covered all the costs. Had the vessel come off easily only a small sum would have been exacted. The Captain will work the vessel off himself.

The Western Express Line of propellers this year includes the following eleven large steamers: Mylos, St. Magnus, Acadia, Glenfinlas, Shicklona, Scotia, Canada, Prussia, Europe, Lake Michigan and Lake Ontario. These steamers will during the summer keep up regular services between Duluth on Lake Superior and Lakes Ontario and Michigan.

RETURNS FURNISHED.

The Minister of Militia has placed on the table of the House of Commons the names and salary and duty of each officer on the instruction staff of the Royal Military College with the roll of appointments. There is a return attached showing the full staff of officers of "A" and "B" Batteries respectively, with salary.

CRITICISM OF METHODS.

REV. A. WILSON IN OPPOSITION TO THE SALVATION ARMY—ITS PRACTICES REPUDIATED.

The Apostle Paul Would be Surprised at the New Way of Getting Religion—The Excitement Has a Dangerous Tendency Aspects of the Times.

Last evening Rev. Andrew Wilson, in the Brock Presbyterian Church, preached on the religious aspects of the times, with special reference to the Salvation Army. The text was composed of the following selections: II. Timothy iii. first seven verses; I. John iv. 1; and Mark xiii. 21. He said there are times when the watchmen on Zion's walls cannot hold their peace. The servants of God should not take notice of all the errors and sects and parties that may arise, but there are occasions when it behooves them to speak. He noticed but three of the aspects of the times, (1) The indifference to truth and true religion; (2) the rationalistic views of the word of God and of true religion, especially among the cultivated and learned classes of society; (3) the prevailing desire to modify and mould religion in order to make it agreeable to the tastes and fashions of the times, in order to make religion pleasant and popular to the carnal mind. Reference was made to the Tractarian movement in the first quarter of this century, a movement in which Dr. Newman, Dr. Pusey and others led, an æsthetic sensuous movement, termed Ritualistic, beginning with an effort to elaborate and make more attractive the English Church service and ending with

THE SECESSION OF THOUSANDS

to the Romish Church. Then he Mr. Wilson read from an English publication a sketch of the work in England of the Salvation Army, whose plan of operating was an improvement upon that of Moody. General Booth, he said, sent out his bands of earnest women to preach the gospel, but first invested them with flattering military distinctions such as Corporals, Sergeants, Lieutenants and Captains. Their religion is hardly Christian, at any rate it would surprise the Apostle Paul. There is nothing serious or solemn about it, but the very reverse. Whether like the Father Matthew temperance movement it will pass away in a few years, or whether it will remain and become a mighty power none can tell. On the supposition that it will remain and influence public opinion and the Churches it is pretty clear that the religion of the future will be widely different from the Christianity of the New Testament. This led him to speak of the principles and practices of the Salvation Army. In 1844 the Millerites arose and swept the country; many were affected by the doctrine; some became insane; some sold their property, and on the day fixed for the end of the world went out, dressed in white, to meet the Lord. Where are these people now? After he (the speaker) came to this city sensational meetings were held in the Church yonder (presumably the Methodist) and hundreds were reported to have been converted? Where are they all now? Judging the Salvation Army movement by those preceding it all its work will come to naught. "When a party rises and claims to be the great power for the salvation of sinners, we have a right," said he, "to examine its principles and practices." What he had to say was in reference to the organization. He observed that by the Wesleyan Methodists, had become connected with the New Connection, had travelled through England as an evangelist, and at last turned his attention to the salvation of the East Londoners. He read from the testimony of Rev. Mr Brown, a missionary in East London, and he believed a Baptist, printed in the Christian Banner that, the Salvation Army's work there had been a failure. The fiddles, tambourines, military titles, uniforms, and "all an imaginary clap trap of the army" seems to have greatly offended Mr Brown, and he writes strongly against them. He grieves over the injury done by passing the cup of sensation to the people, creating a fondness for what the Churches would not allow and breeding hypocrits wholesale. Now the preacher attacked the principles of the Army. He quoted from the official publication that "if by organization is intended a regular system of government then the Army is organized, seeing that from one central head its authority reaches through the varied grades of office, controlling and directing all until it reaches the weakest and latest acquisition to its ranks." He made reference also to the difficulty at Portsmouth, stating that the Saved Army was asked to join the Salvation Army or the Churches would destroy it, and that with union there would be no difficulty about the officers as they would be appointed from head quarters. The Lieutenant appointed by Major Moore could not get the Saved Army to accept his conditions, especially that having reference to submission to headquarters. Here is evidence of a military despotism, of a Jesuitical doctrine, of the existence of popery itself with General Booth as Pope. The regulations of the Army are not, he contended, according to Scripture. In the government established by Christ the people have a voice in the selection of office-bearers; in the government of the Salvation Army they have not such a right. Again the Salvationists say

GOD'S BOOTH HAD BEEN CONVERTED

THE END JUSTIFIES THE MEANS

—another Jesuitical doctrine—and so they have their banners bearing the words "Fire and Blood," their flaming placards, their store houses of salvation, their tambourines and fiddles and anything and everything calculated to "draw" the populace into the ranks of this military despotism. The wonder is that men claiming to be Presbyterians and Protestants will follow and support and sustain them. Mr. Wilson objected to the teachings of the Army, i.e., that, having reached the anxious bench, one will be able to love God with all his heart and soul and mind and strength, and his neighbor as himself. Any one who can do this is a perfect, holy, man. The Presbyterians believe that only at death can one be made perfect in holiness and meet for the kingdom of glory. "If we say we have no sin we deceive ourselves and the truth is not in us." The speaker objected to women preaching. The Salvationists say, "There is one solitary passage in Paul's writing which at first seems to favor such prohibition, namely, I. Cor. xiv. 34, 35, but rightly understood this passage simply means that the Apostle thought it a shame for women to take part in the Jewish assemblies at that time." The Apostle wrote to the Church in Corinth, which was not a Jewish but a Gentile one, therefore the Army's explanation is not tenable. Mr. Wilson quoted I Timothy v. 11, as embracing another strong admonition against women assuming the

and yet, said he, some men, weak minded, ignorant, wilfully, resignedly, place themselves under the government and control and teaching of a woman in this town in the face of God's holy word and the injunctions therein contained. He held that the Salvation Army practices were inconsistent with true religion, that they were to a certain extent profane. True religion made men humble and diffident about speaking, and yet some, just out of the Central Prison, convicted of crime, reckless in society and wallowing in sin, proclaim themselves saved. The sum and substance of all they say is "I am saved, I know I am saved, hallelujah!" As for their poetry it is very profane. It encourages familiarity with one to do with whom he wanted very little. For instance, "The devil is mad and I am glad," or "The devil hates me and I hate him." Allusion was made to what the Sabbath Reformation Society had done in the way of stopping processions and bands playing on Sundays, "but," said he, "there is an Army which defies the authorities, which defies public sentiment, which has its band and procession, which sells newspapers and books on the Sabbath day and realizes a profit thereby." The preacher regretted that the Army was in opposition to the churches. He said the converts were expected to attend the Army's meetings and their only indeed after those brought into its ranks have drunk of the cup of sensation they have no taste for the simple worship of God in our churches. He referred to the "experiences" of the converts, said they were supposed to take the place of preaching that the officers are confined to exhorting and not allowed to set forth the truth in a theoretical and doctrinal way.

PENITENT BENCH REPUDIATED.

He did not believe in any being called to the platform to get their sins forgiven. Jesus Christ only can save, and one need not go to a platform to get Him. He read from the writings of Dr Alexander, Princeton, to show that the playing upon one's emotions led to self deception, that during his ministry 600 had made a profession of their faith and not one of them had done so as a result of salvationism. He recalled the Plymouth Brethren's service and said that the only effect of which he knew was the insanity of one whose feelings had been tampered with. He felt some such results might follow the present excitement in the city. Doctors had already told him of cases of nervous prostration, and the end was not yet. Most remarkable of all some ministers endorsed the movement. Of late years the love of sensation had increased, and it needs only a stranger to come to the city and say "Lo, here is Christ," or "Lo, there is Christ" and the crowd will follow him. Many are ready to adopt anything new, to take up a religion which has the merit of novelty, only to find afterwards that they have not a religion at all.

The reverend gentleman spoke from 7 until 9 o'clock.
