RESERVE BID.—The Scott Hotel was not sold by auction, being held pursuant to a reserve bid.

TRUE.—Fresh to strong south easterly to south westerly winds, fair, warmer weather, with showers in some localities.

RICHARDSON'S hair works have been removed to the rooms over Walsh & Stacey's, 176 Princess Street.

CHILD INJURED.—In backing out of a yard on Brock Street this morning a truck struck a child of E. Saunders in the head, inflicting a serious wound.

SALE OF A COLT.—Pat. Clark has sold his 3 year old Kihan Allan colt to a Watertown gentleman for $400. The colt promises to be fleet of foot. He can now go a three minute clip.

SHIPPING ARTICLES.—These papers, done up in pads of a dozen or more and printed in handsome form, are at the Wigs office. The new Customs coasting reports, in the correct form, are also on hand.

PREPARING COMMITTEE.—Rev Mr Harris, general delegate of the Primitive Methodist Church, leaves on Wednesday for Toronto, in order to attend a meeting which prepares the programme for the General Conference.

M. STRACHAN & SON have opened a yard on Gore Street, between King and Ontario Streets, for the sale of lumber and home building material of every description manufactured at their mill, Barriefield. Orders taken for odd sizes and made at the shortest notice. Scroll sawing, turning and general jobbing done at low prices.

ANOTHER MAN WANTED.—The people of the Sydenham Street Canada Methodist Church now desire to secure as their next pastor, Rev. J. W. Sparling, B.D., of Montreal. They have intimated this desire to the proper authorities. Mr. Sparling is a popular preacher and would ably fill the pulpit here. It is said, however, that he has been invited to Quebec.

DEATH IN TORONTO.—A telegram from Toronto to-day announces the death of Hugh Cummings, for some years a baker in the city, and for a while overseer of the corporation. He was at one time a Penitentiary contractor, and lost heavily by it. He was a genial kindly person and numbered his friends by hundreds. His remains will be brought to Kingston for burial.

REFERENCE OF JUDGMENT.—At the last Belleville Assizes a cross action was heard by Judge Armour—McMahon (Kingston,) v. Lee (Trenton,) for the recovery of money paid on Portage in Prairie Lots, and Lee v. McMahon for the recovery of the amount of a mortgage. Decision has been given, sustaining the transaction. Mr. McMahon says he will appeal. The costs per side so far incurred amount to $1,800.

IN SUMMER ATTIRE.—Elizabeth Hagganbotham was the cognomen of a woman who appeared before the Magistrate this morning. She wore a summer hat, around which clung a piece of dirty tarlatan. Her arrival from Brockville was the occasion of a jubilee, and she drank deep and often. She said she would, if permitted to do so, clear out to Whitby, where her husband awaited her. The Magistrate reserved judgment in order to see if she meant to redeem her promise.

DOG AND DONKEY.—Henry Wells has an interesting collection of pets, but the most comical are a Newfoundland dog and a donkey. One of these was imported by St. George's Society some years ago. The animals have become greatly attached to each other, most of the love, however, being on the donkey's side, a not unnatural circumstance. They sleep together and whenever the dog goes out for a stroll the long-eared brayer follows, to the amusement of all who see them together.

GAOL ENQUIRY.—Dr. Kennedy, who is spoken of in the gaol enquiry at Welland, on our first page, is a graduate of the Medical College here and was House Surgeon for the General Hospital in 1872. Dr. M. Lavell is not at home, but his son, Dr. C. H. Lavell, tells us that Kennedy has not been in Kingston for some years, and that his father was never approached by Kennedy to help in securing the release of Angers. Kennedy was once here to see the convict and some other persons.

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHT.

Shortly after midnight a number of young men got into a fight on Princess Street. Cries of "murder!" were frequently heard to the annoyance of the people who resided in the vicinity. During the melee a window in Oberndorffer's cigar factory was broken. The police reached the spot as the row was about concluded, they had run from the head of Princess Street and arrested a young chap who claims to have been innocently drawn into the dispute. The case will be dealt with on Monday, the Magistrate desiring that all the guilty parties should be brought before him.

FEMALE MEDICAL COLLEGE.

Last evening, in the committee room of the Wesley office, another meeting of those interested in the establishment of a Female Medical College was held. This feeling was decidedly in favour of the scheme, so much so that this morning Messrs. A. P. Knight and Benjamin Robertson commenced a vigorous canvass of the citizens for subscriptions. The idea is to secure an endowment fund of $25,000, 10 per cent of which will be payable annually until the whole amount is called in and then it is believed the school will be self-sustaining. The Faculty of the Royal College and many others spoken to favour the scheme, and it is expected to be a complete success. The Kingston ladies will not, therefore, finish their medical studies at Toronto; on the contrary there will be additions to the number and such a course of education will be given as must become more popular as time progresses.

THE "NEWS" EXPLAINS.

Our local contemporary does not improve its position on the medical etiquette question by its apologetic explanation re Coffee case. It tells us that "no details were given" in order to invest the event with a fictitious importance; it did not praise the operator, and he did not know his name was going to be in the paper. A very happy excuse for a very palpable blunder. The statement is so absurd, so highly inconsistent, so becoming to a scribe that—but, stay! A light dawns upon us. Our offence lay in the description of an operation upon the lip. We may have been somewhat personal, uncourteously so, and revived the memories of a case whose particulars "we have been requested" to suppress.

SELLING GOVERNMENT LAND.

J. H. Metcalfe, M.P.P., has arrived in Winnipeg and begun the sale of Government lands. He first put up all the even, numbered sections of land lying within one mile of the Canadian Pacific railway from Fleming station west as far as Pasqua, beyond Regina. After the 80,000 or more acres are disposed of, the whole of the Government lands lying between the C. P. R. land belt and the international boundary will be put up at auction, and after that again a portion of the coal lands in the North Fork will be offered.

MANUFACTURING LAGER.

AN HISTORIC BREWERY—AN INSTITUTION WHICH DATES AWAY BACK TO THE LAST CENTURY.

The Changes That Have Occurred Since it Passed Into the Possession of the Bajus Family—Taking a Trip Through the Premises—How Lager is Manufactured.

The Kingston Brewery, at the foot of Wellington street, is an historical institution, one connecting the long past with the present. It is supposed to be over a century since it was established. A German, still living, remembers that in 1790 he visited the brewery in order to learn yeast. It was in those days a little frame building, but standing on the site of the present fine limestone pile. The first owner, we believe, was a man named Robbins. In 1816 Mr. Philip Wenz, who died a short time ago, came to Kingston and secured the property. He was a great uncle of the present proprietor. He conducted the brewery in a very efficient manner and was succeeded by J. Bajus, who arrived 43 years ago last Sunday. He hails from Dramstadt, Germany, and was unmarried when he reached Kingston. He worked for his uncle, Mr. Wenz, for about four years, when he rented the premises and carried on the business on his own account. He made beer in the old frame building until 1836, when it was razed and the front portion of the present structure erected. Here Mr. Bajus said he manufactured the beverage by hand, about 20 barrels at a brewing. The beer, after being brewed, was poured with gallon measures into puncheons and then the big barrels were to a building opposite, on the cellar of which, 6x13 feet, the beer fermentation process proceeded. Mr. Bajus told the history to a reporter yesterday, and that the lake came up now to the old brewery, in fact there was no street past the brewery, and half of the present hay market was submerged. Looking out of the window Mr. Bajus pointed to a great amount of land he had made. It embraces several lots opposite the brewery and a section of the property now occupied by Sabre's hay houses. This place was at one time swampy and unhealthy. A portion of Wellington Street, leading to Anglin's saw mill, was purchased by the corporation from Philip Wenz, the original owner. But to return to the brewery. About 1870 Mr. Bajus took his son Philip into partnership with him, and together they manufactured the delicious summer beverages which have during the past years become so popular. After several years Mr. Bajus, sr., retired and Philip rented the premises and has been sole proprietor until this day. About four years ago a fine building was erected in rear of the old structure for lager beer vaults. It is 32x28 feet and towers about 30 feet into the air. There is despatched from the brewery, ale, beer, porter and lager, all of which are manufactured from the best Bay of Quinte barley, of which from 10,000 to 12,000 bushels are yearly consumed. Mr. Bajus does his own malting so that he knows the quality of the above important constituent. About 6,000 barrels of beer are

ROLLED ACROSS THE STREET

which, at 36 gallons to a barrel, totals 18,000 gallons or 72,000 quarts. Allowing four to five "schooners" to each quart we come to the conclusion that the people quaff some 3,000,000 of the produce of the Kingston brewery. Its manufactures are sent to all parts of Eastern Ontario, and wherever a red keg is detected then it is safe to assume that Bajus' lager can be had. The lager and ordinary beer have became very popular owing to their clearness and good quality. No deleterious substances are introduced, nothing that would take away from the purity of the liquids. The greatest demand is for ale and lager. The former is most saleable in winter, the latter in summer. The two taken together, are sold in equal quantities. The business is improving at the rate of 20 per cent. per annum, clearly demonstrating the excellence of the establishment's product. There has been a great change in the drinking habits of the people. In early days about 20 gallons of beer were consumed to every 60 gallons of whiskey, but now to every gallon of whiskey as much as 40 or 50 gallons of lighter beverages are "gangled down men's throttles." The machinery of the works run by steam and the improvements made during recent years are evident on all sides. On the premises are steam engines and steam and air pumps. The air pump is a new invention and was only put in a few days ago. It is used in "racking off" the beer from punch rooms into kegs. The air which is rendered cool before it enters the punch rooms forces the liquor down and into the kegs, filling them without making foam. This is a decided improvement.

UNDER THE PREMISES.

With Philip Bajus as guide the journalist was shown through the building and explanation given as to the way in which beer was manufactured. He had an ocular demonstration of the various processes. The barley, which is clean, is first steeped and sprouted, then dried in kilns in rooms 24 x 24 ft. The malt is laid on iron plates 12 x 14 in. in which are little holes, and through these heat from coal fires is conveyed. After the malt is dried it is transferred to the bonded warehouses, of which there are two on the premises. When malt is desired an Inland Revenue officer delivers it on payment of a tax of one cent per pound. To make beer the malt is ground and then put into the mashing tubs, where it is mixed with water. Later on it is transferred to a great copper kettle, having a capacity for 70 barrels. Here it is boiled with the hops. The compound stands for a certain time in tubs, and is then pumped to a flat cooler at the top of the building, where the steam is drawn off by a revolving fan. Thence it trickles over a patent cooler—a row of copper tubes containing ice water. It goes through fermenting tubs and a number of other purchases, whence it is racked into the kegs. The process is interesting. One particular object is cleanliness. This is accomplished, as the machinery is regularly cleaned after brewing. The lager beer vaults are interesting. They are in the new building and kept at a temperature of about 30°. The floors are of cement and the ceilings of brick. The vaults are covered by 20 feet of ice, which keeps them perfectly cool. Mr. Bajus has at present in stock about 2,000 barrels of lager.

READY FOR SUMMER USE.

There are numerous other vaults about the premises and in these are stored ale and other liquors. Mr Bajus keeps two coopers constantly at work in manufacturing barrels and kegs from white oak. The barrels are kept perfectly sweet and clean, being washed and scrubbed after each return. The brewer is a man of wide experience, is a German named Julius Alexander. For many years he held an important position in a New York brewing concern. There is every indication that this year lager will be an attractive beverage. From what we saw yesterday we can particularly recommend the public to drink that manufactured at the Kingston Brewery if they want lager.

LATE YACHTING NEWS.

Yesterday afternoon Capt. Cuthbert and W. H. Campbell, of Belleville, arrived for the purpose of inspecting the machinery for Campion's new steam yacht, and close the contract with Oldrive and Horn for the canvas for the "Iolanthe," a name which may be changed owing to Kingston having a yacht already bearing that name. Two swift yachts of the same name would not do. The honors would get mixed.

Capt. Cuthbert says the craft is a twelve tonner, of beautiful model, and perhaps the finest second class boat he has yet built. She will be very fast. He hopes to have her in the water by June 1st. The Captain declares that there will be the liveliest water contests this season that yachtsmen have experienced in a long time. He regrets that Kingston is not better represented with yachts. A city with such a magnificent harbor should have a class of boats that could not be beaten.

There is a cool $1,000 up on the Emma, of Toronto, formerly of this port, that she can beat the new yacht. The challenge will be accepted. Oswego is also very flush, and say a count of money backs the crafts of that port. There may be a match, too, with Offord's new craft, the builder probably bringing her out in a race in order to try her speed.

The yacht Atalanta will be brought to Kingston to have her bottom smoothed before being taken to Chicago to compete in the regatta there. The Captain thinks he can run away from all the Yankee yachts with her. He assures that if he had the money he could take her to New York again and carry off the Queen's Cup. He went down before under great difficulties, and lost the race owing to the obstacles placed in his way. On his trip to Chicago he will probably be accompanied by several Kingstonians.

The yacht Laura, of Oswego, formerly of Kingston, has been fitted out with new canvas from New York.

DISTRICT BRIGADE CAMPS.

Col. Villiers, D.A.G., and Major Gordon have returned to Kingston after seeing the land at Belleville upon which the Brigade Camp will be located. The land proposed at first was very unfit for the purpose, but another site has been viewed, and it may be selected. So disgusted was Col. Villiers at the place first chosen that he telegraphed the Mayor of Cobourg to secure the grounds until last year. The Camp will be formed on the 19th of June for twelve days. The number detailed for drill is 2,520 men, but there will probably not be more than 1,800 Infantry and 8 files in camp, besides 2 squadrons of cavalry and 2 batteries of artillery. The infantry regiments expected to comprise the camp are: 43th Battalion, Cobourg; 46th, Port Hope; 47th, Frontenac; 49th, Hastings; and 50th, Peterboro.

TESTIMONY.

Mr. George Sawyer, of Memramcook N.B., writes from Moncton N.B., under date of May 7th, 1878, says:

In January last I came to Moncton from Memramcook to consult a physician, as I was in the last stages of consumption. When I arrived here I had at once to go to my bed, and was so low I never expected to leave it. A physician was called who pronounced my case as hopeless; that I might live a week or two, but not certainly more. As a last resort he recommended Robinson's Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime. I purchased a bottle and after taking the first dose commenced to improve. It seemed after taking a dose, as if I had eaten a good, hearty meal. I have continued taking it ever since and am rapidly improving. I am confident that had it not been for your Oil I would have been in my grave to-day. You are at liberty to use this in any way you wish, as I am anxious to let others who are afflicted in the same way know, in the hope that they too may receive the same benefit.
