ADVICE TO TRAVELLERS.

It cannot against all reason that a man going to travel, no matter where, should have invariably to buy when having his travel-cases, it may be for every. Well, good bye! I have provided for everything that I know of, my own comforts and little indulgences, and all the necessaries to make my trip a pleasant and prosperous one. BUT I have not made any provision for you in case I should never return. In this it would be cool enough, but then I've spent so much upon myself that I can't spare the little it would take to protect me. It is possible for you, should anything befall me. What a brain of mind to start on your journey! And what a noble example of true consideration to leave impressed on the loved ones who have only you to look to, to care for and provide for them. Be advised, therefore, start with a clear conscience in the foregoing, and no doubt, every a little thoughtful, the poor fell of expense the note which will provide an instance another account.

To assure $2,000 in case of death and $10 per week in case of accident, costs but a few cents per day up to 10 days, and $6.50 for from 12 to 30 days. Apply for tickets to

MORTALITY.

Time worth is to-better—self assuming;
In course each our first goes by.
Some [illegible] and [illegible] the [illegible]
Of what things or are by and by.
For whatever man may in blindness,
And spite of the frowns of pride,
There is nothing so kingly as kindness,
And nothing so royal as truth.

We get back our more as we measure
We sow need feed wrong and do right
Nor can we give pain and gain pleasure,
For yielding avenges each slight.
The air for the wing of the sparrow,
The bread for the robin and wren,
But always the path that is narrow
And the straight for the children of men.

We cannot make bargains for blessing,
Nor catch them like fishes in nets;
And sometimes the things our life seeks in
Are more than the thing which it gets.
For good doth not in pursuing,
Nor grasping of great nor of small
But just in the doing, and doing
As we would be done by, is all.

Thus only, thro' makes thro' fighting,
Against the world early and late
No job of our courage abating,
Our part is to work and to wait.
And sight is the song of his trouble
Whose winnings are less than his worth.
For he who is honest is noble,
Whatever his fortune or birth.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

What is Being Said or Recorded by the Papers all Over the World.

"Keep a panic," says the New York Mail and Express, "is trying to find Wiggins great storm.

A Yale student swallowed his diamond pin and is 9 cents out of pocket thereby.—Norristown Herald.

Lord Alexander Russell, the new Commander in Chief of the forces in British North America, has arrived at Halifax.

Mitchell says he was not "knocked out." Sullivan cannot knock him off his legs if the little set to in New York is a fair sample of his power.

Mrs. Gedyn, Brockville, will enter a suit for $5,000 damages against the Canadian Pacific Railway, for the killing of her husband in the depot yard.

A London despatch announces that the British Government adopt the scheme proposed for Irish emigration it will deal directly with the Canadian Government.

The Tichborne case will be immediately opened on the arrival in England of the party now convening from Australia the lunatic Cresswell, who is alleged to be Arthur Orton.

Capt. Holt, a Commissioner for the Cork Exhibition in Italy, is at Montreal selecting exhibits, and will take charge of all sent to him at Montreal up to the 15th prox.

A fund of over $1,000 has been raised among French Canadians at Montreal, chiefly Liberals, for the widow of Delaramie, who was hanged in 1837 for his participation in the rebellion.

Mgr. Moreau, of St. Hyacinthe, and Mrg. Legrand, of Pembroke, have been appointed by the Roman Catholic Bishops of the Province of Quebec to enquire into the merits of the case between the Laval and Victoria Faculties of Medicine.

The New York Sun cable correspondent says, "grave doubt is expressed as to the wisdom of selecting Lord Lansdowne to succeed the Marquis of Lorne. It is a curious reward for the desertion of his party on the Irish land question."

Alexander Sullivan, President of the Irish National League of America, says in his opinion the Irish people throughout the country were never before so thoroughly united. The League now has a fund in Ireland to the amount of $125,000, which he expects to increase to a million within a year.

Considerable irritation has been caused among the Irish in Montreal by the Pope's circular on the Irish question. It will greatly diminish the subscriptions to the Parnell fund. A scheme was on foot there to affiliate the Irish Societies in Canada with the Irish American League, but the clergy condemned the proposition, and thereby gave almost as much offence to certain of their parishioners as the Papal circular.

It is said that Lord Randolph Churchill was so overjoyed at the rejection by the House of Commons of the Affirmation Bill that he sprang upon one of the seats and tossed his hat high in the air. As luck would have it the hat flew into the gallery reserved for ambassadors, and fell into the lap of a foreign diplomatist, who, with the echoes of dynamite explosions in his ears, called loudly for an attendant to take it away.

A curious incident happened before the recent division in the British Parliament on the Affirmation Bill. A cartoon of the Premier and Mr. Bradlaugh was affixed to the mantel piece of the "no" lobby, and formed the nucleus of attraction to a large crowd of Conservative members and Irishmen. Suddenly a young Liberal strode forward, tore down the picture and pocketed it—a piece of iconoclasm which greatly diverted those present.

Dr. Josephene Walter, a young woman of wealth who has devoted herself to the study of medicine, has just been appointed horse physician of Mount Sinai hospital in New York. There were twenty applicants and in the examination Miss Walter, the only female competitor, headed the list. She will begin her duties on June 2, and there will be no exception in her case because of sex. She will perform all the necessary duties of a house physician, both among male and female wards.

JOHN DUNN'S BROTHER.

Brothers in course of their life's battle often separate and often die in lands far apart. Thus the great African explorer, Livingstone, found his death in the land for which he had done so much, and his death was mourned by a brother living among us—a Canadian by adoption. A brother in Canada mourned the famous Carlyle, while relatives of Burbes, war correspondent of South Africa fame, gloried in his achievements as they had read them in their home in Ontario. John Dunn, another South African celebrity, will, when the news reaches him, lament the sad death of one of his brothers which occurred in the Canadian wilds—if Magantic can now be classed among the wild lands of our Province. This brother had chosen to settle near Agnes Post Office in the Lake Magantic district, and last week had been pulling some sawn planks in the English fashion, to dry. He then took some shingles and was placing them inside of the pile, when he noticed that it had begun to waver and was tottering to its fall. He saw his danger and made a leap toward the entrance to escape. It was too late. The whole pile fell with a crash, and the man fell upon him. His death was instantaneous. The deceased was a Scotchman, and had been but a few weeks in Canada.

GETTING HER SIGHT.

An Aged Woman Able to see after 60 Years' Groping About in Total Darkness.

(Philadelphia, Press.)

Mrs. Harriet Holmes, a coloured woman, who is 60 years old, was blind from birth until three weeks ago. She was several times taken to the Germantown Hospital, on Pemp street, and became known in that institution as "Blind Aunt Harriet." Dr. L. W. Fox, one of the surgeons at the hospital, was attracted by the peculiarity in the formation of her eyes, and made an examination, which convinced him that her sight might be restored. The old woman's consent to the operation was not obtained without difficulty. After the operation her eyes were bandaged for eight days, and she was confined in a very dark room for several days afterwards. When the bandages were taken off she was astonished. Although the room was dark, she could see objects several feet distant, but quite indistinctly or "all mixed up," as she afterwards declared. At last she was removed to one of the wards of the hospital which looked upon the street and the bandages removed.

The patient startled violently, and cried out as if with fear, and for a moment was quite nervous from the effects of the shock. For the first time in her life she looked upon the earth. The first thing she noticed was a little flock of sparrows. In relating her experience she said that she thought they were teacups, although, strange to say, a few moments afterward she readily distinguished a watch which was shown her. It is supposed that this recognition was owing to the fact that she heard its ticking and at once associated the two together. She was soon able to distinguish those objects which she had been accustomed to handle, such as a chair, a door, or a table. She said that everything seemed pretty, and although at first all objects appeared to her bright and shining like gold, she soon became accustomed to colors, and can now distinguish them very well. For a long time distant objects appeared so near that she thought she could touch them. She begins to distinguish distances, if not too great. Owing to her first impression of distance she was afraid for some time to walk with her eyes open, the ground or floor appearing a far way off, in strange contrast with her impression of distant objects. The popular impression that a person born blind who is restored to sight imagines that men and women are walking on their heads, and trees look like elephants, was not verified in her case, although she now even makes mistakes quite as ludicrous as in the case of the case of the mistake of the birds for tea cups.

The blaze from a lamp excited the most lively surprise in her mind. She had no idea what it was, and when it was brought near her wanted to pick it up. When night approached upon the day when she first used her eyes she was in a fright, fearing that she was losing the sight which she had so wonderfully found after sixty years of darkness.

TO CAUSE A SMILE.

Lady Brooks Carruthers is coming direct to San Francisco with her six unmarried daughters. Is it possible we've got to drop everything and take to the woods again?—San Francisco Post.

A man in Ohio has been in a trance two years. Should he rouse up about the year 1900 he will be surprised to learn that the star route trial No. 2 is still going on.—Norristown Herald.

An absent minded editor wrote a love letter and an editorial at the same time. The love letter he sent out to be set up in type by the printers and a long editorial on tariff to his girl. There was fun at both ends of the route.

"The best articles are always put up in the smallest quantities," observed a philosopher. "A woman who does not talk is the greatest blessing to man," profoundly remarked another. Taking both into consideration it seems that Minnie Mum is growing rapidly in philosophical favour.

I heard the other day a curious instance of the difficulty of very young children to realize the sense of words. A lady taught her child to say amen after grace. For a day or two all went well, but the child's mind had been working, and she surprised her mother by solemnly saying amen, women. I wonder how many children under five could give a reasonable explanation of the word amen.

Landlord to tenant: "Good morning, sir; fine day, sir; just called around to see if it would be convenient to settle your quarter's rent, sir." Tenant: "Did, eh? Do you know, landlord, that none of the doors in this house will shut?" Landlord: "New house, sir; new house, you know; takes time to settle." Tenant: "Ah, then, there's a pair of us. I'm a new tenant; it takes time for me to settle, too. Good morning. Call again."—The Judge.

When a young man says his girl is "worth her weight in gold" he is not putting a very high valuation upon her, unless she is a very heavy girl. At this rating 120 pounds of girl would be worth $30,000, and any young man who does not think his best girl worth more than $30,000 ought to be kicked clear over the front gate by an infuriated parent and have the dog set upto him.—Middletown (Del.) Transcript.

A Pittsburg lady doctor says that woman can understand women, and it often does a patient more good to talk to her of spring bonnets and wraps than is effected by medicine. Husbands and fathers want to look out for that lady physician. Instead of recommending fifty cents worth of aqua pura for a sick headache she may prescribe a $14 bonnet and a $25 Surah overskirt, or something that way.—Norristown Herald.

Mr. C. P. Brown, Crown Land Agent, Sault Ste. Marie, writes: "Two or three of my friends and myself were recommended to try Northrop & Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda, in preference to Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites. We prefer your Emulsion, and think it better for the system than the Syrup," &c.

Louis Riel, who made himself notorious by his capture of Fort Garry and the murder of Thomas Scott, and who was afterwards banished from Canada, was recently arrested near Benton, Mont., for complicity in election frauds in the territorial election last fall.

CZAR'S CORONATION.

A Very Touching Scene Between the Czar and the Czarina: The Royal Kissing.

The memory of the coronation cannot be effaced in a day. The scenes in the Cathedral of the Assumption still linger with me as I write. The Imperial family entered, preceded by the two boy princes, the Czarevitch Nicholas and the Grand Duke George in uniform, and their little sister, the Grand Duchess Xenia, and accompanied by the Grand Dukes and Duchesses of the Imperial family, and the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh. The three children seemed dazzled and almost afraid, and were led to places immediately to the right of the Empress throne. From the outside near the palace another loud shouting reached us, with the strains of the Russian national hymn, "God Save the Czar." There was renewed clangor of the bells of the cathedral, the sunshine burst through a window, lighting up the diamonds on the headdresses of the Russian court ladies. The shouting increased in volume, every minute while the dignitaries of the court and Ministers entered bearing

THE CORONATION REGALIA.

The clergy, who had been outside to await the Emperor, returned into the church, sprinkling the way with holy water. Then, amid the deafening shouts of those outside, the Emperor and Empress arrived, walking arm in arm. They mounted the steps and stood before their throne listening to the chanting of the choir and clergy. The Emperor, a strong, broad shouldered man, was nervously resting first on one foot then on the other. The Empress was pale, but looking very lovely. She glanced affectionately at her children and at the Czar, and both listened attentively to the wonderful voices of the choir as they chanted the psalms.

A TOUCHING SCENE.

After the crown had been assumed and the insignia were given back by the Emperor, the followed a very touching scene. The Empress rose from her throne, and her train being borne by eight courtiers, knelt before the Czar, bending reverently her head, upon which the Emperor rested his crown for a moment, symbolizing her share of his glories and his woes. This was a beautifully touching scene. Then four Grand Duchesses approached the Empress and assisted in the placing of the small and beautiful crown upon her head, where it rested, a mass of sparkling light. Rising from her kneeling attitude she approached the Czar and bent her head on one side to receive the Emperor's kiss.

TEARS THE WHILE FILLING HER EYES.

The great strong man, deeply touched and with moist eyes, too, bent down and kissed lovingly and tenderly the white, earnest face that looked up to him, and that seemed so expressive of mingled happiness and tender anxiety. It was a scene that will ever linger in the memory of those who witnessed it. The passing of the Emperor and Empress though the vast assemblage of people was greeted with marvellous enthusiasm. Every head was uncovered, every Russian heart was full of joy, every Russian eye was moist with tears. No imagination can picture the excitement, no pen can describe the impression produce by that vast sea of heads of a hundred thousand faces lifted up to gaze at the passing show. No words can suffice to describe the loyalty, the devotion, and almost worship of the Czar shown by the people. Last night Moscow was illuminated, and the streets were crowded with happy shouting humanity.

The Sting Within.

It is said there is a rankling thorn in every heart, and yet that none would exchange their own for that of another. Be that as it may, the sting arising from the heart of a corn is real enough, and to this land of tight boots a very common complaint also. Dr. Sanford's Painless Corn Extractor is a never failing remedy for this kind of heartache, as you can easily prove afflicted. Cheap, safe, painless. Try the genuine and use no other. N. C. AYER'S HAIR VIGOR,

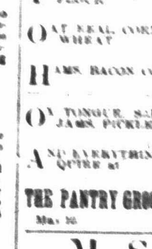
FOR

Restoring Gray Hair to its Natural Color and Vigor



Advancing years sickness, care, deep sorrow, and hereditary predisposition all turn the hair gray, and either of these causes time it to shed prematurely. Ayer's Hair Vigor by long and extensive use, has proven that it stops the falling of the hair immediately, stimulates the growth, and always—surely to restore its color when faded or gray. It also takes the nutritive organs to healthy activity and preserves both the hair and its beauty. Thus healthy weak or sickly hair becomes glossy pliable and strengthened; and hair regrown with lively expression. Falling hair is checked and established thin hair thickened and faded or gray hairs restored their original color. Its operation is sure and harmless. It cures dandruff, heals all humors and keeps the scalp cool, clean and soft—under which condition, diseases of the scalp are impossible.

As a dressing for ladies' hair, the Vigor is prized for its grateful and agreeable perfume and valued by the soft lustre and silkiness of tress it imparts.
