JERRY THE MAN'S DUE.

It is you, I know it, Jerry
Your footsteps I hear
With engine, bow and hatchet
And helmet in their rear!
Like an arrow going to an aim
When the fire is in the hold
Against such fires courage
The boy has never yet!

It's every fireman's duty
Home to the sick wife
There comes a message swift and sure,
Of the outbreak of a fire.
To you will shift, hold every and will
And see to discover pipe
"Dash water" work shall win the day
And "Fire, give up the ruse."

It's every fireman's duty
No matter where he be,
To attend his chief's instructions
And other magistrate
Thus whether he with branch pipe stand
Or on the ladders swing,
His work will average 10 to down,
If only he "obeys."

It's every fireman's duty
When fire is made with fire
To be an steadfast and true
And labor with good courage
And if a friend, or foe, have need
Of helping on the way
Why, lend a hand and then you'll do
Your duty every day.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

Yesterday morning Mr. E. Wands, driver of Mr Spafford's horse, met with quite a severe accident. When near the village he stopped and picked up Mr N. Sullivan's little boy Freddie. He had just started again when his hat blew off and frightened the horse. In turning the corner at Stewart Bros. store the cart upset, throwing the man and boy on the road. Strange to say the boy escaped without injury, while the man received four or five cuts on his head. The wounds were dressed by Dr Day. The horse was caught before he had done much more than injure himself.

For the past two or six months a number of small robberies have been perpetrated on the K. & P. RR. station. A young lad named Walker was suspected but nothing could be proven against him. About ten days ago he entered the station and broke open a trunk. The circumstances of the case are as follows: A Mrs Howe, of Perth, had been visiting some friends at Sydenham and was returning home when, through an oversight, her trunk was left behind. It contained some gold coins that had been given to her at the time of her marriage and she prized them highly. In a few days it was found that the trunk had been broken open. After this the boy's father went to the city and bought a suit of clothes for him, they did not fit him and he went down to Mr Hobbs to have them exchanged. Mr. Hobbs did as requested and at the same time gave a clue that led to the boy's arrest which was effected, as stated by the Whig, by Detective Sullivan. The clerk who waited on Mr. Walker remembered a perfectly and described the money he paid, which answered to the description given by Mrs. Howe.

The C. M. Sunday School scholars will picnic in Mr. R. Patterson's grove on Monday, June 25th.

A VERY PARISIAN CLERK.

The Napanee Express has been pointing out the peculiarly pure resolutions that actuate A. H. Roe, M.P.P., the Clerk of the County of Lennox and Addington. The pious remarks: "Mr Roe has now more to say about the management of county affairs than any member of the Council, and when anything is said that is not in full accord with his peculiar views, the unfortunate member who spoke it, metaphorically speaking, 'sat upon' by the would-be censor. He strains the powers of his office in order to make things unpleasant for those politically opposed to him who happen to have business relations with the Council." It appears that during the sessions of the County Council Mr. Roe has seldom had occasion to refer to the official minutes and reports of the Committees, but strange to say the County Clerk demanded 10 cents per folio from the editor before he would be allowed to make a single extract. This was done in the face of the fact that the reporters of the other papers were allowed to make extracts without charge. Mr. O'Beirne resented the impertinent of any charge. Mr. Roe thought he had the judge on the newspaper man, but he hadn't, for the reports in the paper were as accurate as if the official records had been strained. The attempt to bulldose the Express is scandalous. In this city our contact with the County Clerk has always been of an agreeable character and we sometimes hear the reporters annoy Mr. Elkington by the way they capture "official reports," but he has never yet asked to be paid for letting them look at and copy them. It certainly should be the aim of all county officials to let the public have all the light possible on county matters. The Express man is not through with Mr. Roe as he says "the Council will at its next meeting have an opportunity of showing whether it is actuated by a desire to promote the interests of the county or whether it is merely a political machine worked by A. H. Roe."

THE GREAT NORTH WEST.

The great increase in travel to the Northwest has forced the "Famous Albert Lea Route" to put upon its line new, efficient dining cars, in which passengers will be served meals second to none by any first class hotel, for the small sum of twenty-five cents each.

The Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway, which controls this route, has always maintained a reputation for giving travellers first class meals on its dining cars, and in putting on this line the same class of cars, it tells a want that the travelling public will appreciate.

"The Albert Lea Route" is carrying a very large share of the Northwestern travel, and, although early in the season, has commenced to sell excursion tickets to the various pleasure resorts in a volume sufficiently large to assure us the season will be unprofitable.

CANADIAN WANTS.

A Talk with the High Commissioner—What He Says about Independence—Imperial Federation.

Montreal Herald.

Sir Alexander Galt stated this morning to our reporter that the right of Canada to make her own commercial treaties had been practically conceded by England. The main question was that the representation of Canada should be associated with the British Minister, and that the proposed treaties be submitted for approval to the British Government. To these conditions England reserved the right of judgment, especially in cases where treaties, in the opinion, were objectionable or would lead to national complications. He thought the Governor General would be always appointed by the British Government, and though the Dominion did pay his salary, he thought it very unlikely that the Canadian Parliament would have the right of choosing who should be governor, especially as the governor General was responsible to England, and to Canada. The independence question was not only a dead issue, but in fact had never been a live one. The relation between Britain and her colonies were being drawn closer than ever before. Lord Derby expressed this idea to the Colonial Colonies when he said that the depended more on the feelings with its own possessions than to foreign countries. The trade relations since 1879 showed conclusively that the great advances made have been entirely with India and the colonies. He had no hesitation in saying that the bonds of unity between the Dominion and the British Empire were stronger to-day than they have ever been in the history of the country. He did not think it practicable to appoint Canadian sub-consuls in the British Consulates over the world and had had no faith in that idea. He admired the American consular system, which did a vast amount of good in distributing information, promoting emigration, and developing the importation of American industries. On the question of trade management he said that the Dominion was taking its share. He had always been extremely particular in selecting for assisted passages only such people as had physical force to fill positions. With such it was not a question of assisted passage, but "employment existed when they arrived. Under no circumstances would he accept a pauper or one who had been in the workhouse, but was always ready to lend a helping hand to those who had kept out of the poor house. On this point he would not yield, though he specially solicited to do so by ratepayers and overseers of the poor. In consequence of this need unfortunately all the Irish immigrants who come to this country are too strong handed.

FUTURE OF THE BRITISH EMPIRE

SPICY GLEANINGS.

According to the report to the Louisiana General Assembly there are 2,000 polyglots empty in that genuine nation of Venus the United States.

Did you ever notice how suddenly a proud woman who is hastening an especial errand will stretch off on to a reading, or by an when a storm comes up and she hears the first clap of thunder?

In New England, notwithstanding the nervous salaries paid in occasional instances, the average salary of the Methodist Episcopal Church is $583 than that of the Baptists a little more, that of the Presbyterians $700, and that of the Episcopalians $8.3.

The common middle which has heretofore been a source of great trouble to the men, has been found to yield a fibre which will supplement cotton in the manufacture of cloth. Cloth made from it, on trial, has been adjudged equal in texture and appearance to linen.

Sir, we're speaking, when not
How I wonder what thou art
Never can I find you nigh

When the clouds and sun is out,
And the storage will not are not
Then you would you little flight,
But when speaking bids and night.

WOMAN'S WORK.

The U. S. census reports show a great increase in the sphere of woman's work. In 1881 there were 270,807 women and girls employed in manufactories in the States. In 1880 the number was 531,698. The manufacture of art goods throws a vast employment to 3,000 women, bookbinding 4,000, shoe factories 25,000, making men's clothing 80,000, making women's clothing 242,000, making confectionery 2,000, making twine 1,000, making corsets 2,000, making fireworks 217, 1,500 are engaged in canning vegetables and fruit, 17,000 in making honeys, 207 in dressing skins, 1,120 in making friction matches, and over a hundred pose for models. To these may be added 900 photographers, 65 pipe makers, 13 plumbers, 418 pocket book makers, 2,220 elastic manufacturers, 21,000 shirt makers, 10,000 tobacco manufacturers, 14 refrigerator makers, and so on in smaller numbers.

THE ORANGE CONCERT.

The Editor, British Whig.

Sir,—I see by the paper of last evening that some parties are enquiring about the Orange concert. I would inform them that it is coming off on July 20th.

The Results of Lies.

Between comfort and discomfort is often very slight. Have you rheumatism or neuralgia? or are you a sufferer from chronic nervous pains? Why suffer longer? You can purchase for 50 cents a bottle of that king of pain, Polson's Nervoline, or you can get a large bottle for 25c. It cures promptly. It is sure, pleasant to take, and never fails to cure all kinds of pain. Don't wait an hour, but send to Polson's or King's drug stores and get a trial bottle. Nervoline, the pain cure.

HATHAWAY HORROR.

A Full Confession by the Doctor's Wife—Tossing Babes to the Pugs—Horrible Exhibition.

A Philadelphia despatch says: Street Commissioner Stokes, to-day the little wife of Dr Hathaway entered police headquarters and asked to see the Chief of Police. When she saw him she walked up to him and said:

"Mr. Stokes, I hold part of my life of sorrow yesterday afternoon. Since then I have resolved to make things plaintiff and I want to say here, in the presence of three witnesses, everything I told the detectives yesterday is true in every respect, and I am willing to repeat it." I came to the Commissioner to interview all the capital. Now, to begin at the beginning, I have to go to Baltimore. When we lived at No. 2,245 North Fifth Street, a house occupied by two women, old and young, rich and poor, or so there. Children were

BORN AND CHOKED DEPENDING ON

"How?" asked the Chief.

"Well, continued the woman, "in different ways. I will tell how it was done, but it takes all my strength to relate it. Usually little baby would be born. The functions which would pack on the dead body as if it was an old bucket, or something of that sort, and toss it down the cellar steps. Large and ferocious hounds were in the cellar, and you could hear them, knowing and tearing the tender flesh from the little bones. The brutes were allowed to feast as more than one human body, and they seemed to relish the awful meal.

"Then again the babies would be buried in the cellar, and a few inches of earth thrown over their remains. I can tell the skeletons and bones have all been recovered, for there were lots of them buried there, and——

"Any of them burned?" interrupted the Chief.

"Yes, some of the small children were placed in red hot stoves and destroyed. While the fires was burning there would be a powerful and sickening stench for a time, but the doctor did not appear to mind it. I think that the detectives will find something, they visit the house on Rising Sun Lane, where we lived, to-day."

CHANGE INTO WARDROBE.

The woman said that while they were at No. 2,245 North Fifth Street scores of old and young women visited the house. She was fully aware of what was going on. She declared that many of the prematurely born infants were buried in the cellar and that the detectives had not dug up half of them. She then surrendered an instrument which Hathaway had used. She said she had been the victim of his violence, and had been married that she had been tricked by a bogus marriage and appealed to the officers to protect her. Hathaway's account book, containing a large number of entries of the names of female patients, was found. His fees ranged from $5 to $50.

A MAN'S LOVE.

A man who had probably in not one Buffalo played a powerful mean trick on a Detroit bridal couple at Niagara Falls the other evening. They went to a hotel and retired, had supper, and then started out for a night view of the Mighty Energy. They had not gone far when a man called to them and said:

"Have you just been married?"

"We have, answered the young man, "going to stay here a day or two?"

"Yes."

"Having no, should at any hour you probably intend to remain there?"

"Yes, sir.

"Well I want to say a word to you. I don't want any dark deeds committed around my house. I want no peper wopey business on the verandha. I want no squeezing hands on the balcony, or hooking each other at the table."

The young man has seen he'll room for bedbugs, want in a show and go out and never met, said the stranger continued.

"The first time you end up peaches and cream, or she coils you her dreaming, out you go."

"Yes, s."

"She is no sweeter than ten thousand other girls, and you are no more of a darling than I am, and I won't stand love sick nonsense."

He walked away with that, and people at the Falls who knew the bridal couple were amazed to hear them address each other as Mr. and Mrs., and to see what precautions they took to prevent touching hands or betraying any symptoms of love. They put in two wretched days, and it was only as they were on the point of taking the departure that they discovered how a bare villain had duped them.—Detroit News.
