GOOD FOR KINGSTON.

Yesterday the collectors of subscriptions for the Ladies' Medical College brought the guarantee fund up to $1,413 a year, or $7,073 in all, and when the meeting of the subscribers for organization purposes takes place to-morrow evening it is expected that all will have been guaranteed. This is the most creditable achievement Kingston has yet scored. It has faced prejudices against a Ladies' College which Toronto endeavored in vain to organize to overcome; it has gone further, and while Toronto was thinking about the matter has raised an endowment sufficient to give the experiment a fair trial, in face of the fact that Kingston has within a few years given doubly as much in proportion to Queen's University as Toronto has to any of its colleges, including Knox. The College is now assured and to-morrow nine trustees will be chosen, (three of them ladies) to secure a building and organize for an opening in October next. The city has taken an advance step in public opinion in this question. Let us hope that it is not a futile one, but that womanhood generally will have reason to thank it for its liberality.

BEATING OF DRUMS.

The Hamilton Tribune has no "hesitation in saying that so long as business and the natural use of a public highway as a thoroughfare is not unreasonably impeded by the Army, they have a perfect right to its use, and if their taste prefers one drum, they have as much right to exercise their taste as a regular band has to do so with a larger number." This is our opinion, and the opinion of all who have no particular interests to serve, but desire to see one rule, founded on equity, applied to all classes in the community. The point in this: Is the beating of drums, for the purpose of attracting attention—in the case of the Salvationists that the gospel message may be the more widely proclaimed—a nuisance? The London authorities have declared that it is, and they have no doubt based this opinion upon evidence offered by a "cloud of witnesses." These witnesses are not friendly to the movement and it is easy for them to condemn that against which they entertain a prejudice. There is no apparent occasion for opposition in Kingston; and yet there are no doubt some, who would, without much coaching, declare that the parades of the Army are a nuisance and should be stopped. We can quite readily comprehend the difficulty of London "soldiers." They must however, seek to win popular favour, rather that demand rights which are not so much legal as they are optional and dependent upon public opinion.

A new phase of the question has presented itself at London. On Sunday, one day after the conviction of the Salvationist for beating a drum, Orangemen paraded with drums also, and the police authorities, in order to be just, have either to remit the fine upon the Salvationist or fine the Orange drummers. As public opinion, apart from the Sabbatarian view, would not for a moment counsel the latter expedient there is a pretty dilemma staring the rather demonstrative authorities in the face.

PUBLIC ORNAMENTATION.

The dudes and æsthetes are the butt of the age. The characteristics of the former are not such as sensible people can envy, and they cannot add to the usefulness of any party or profession. There is a preponderance of idiocy in all they say and undertake, and that which indicates mental weakness is not so popular that it should be cultivated. But there is a great deal about the æsthete to be commended. Oscar Wilde's extravagances could not be understood. He talked so learnedly and so deeply about the beautiful as to befog and confound the people. He certainly veiled his thoughts in graceful but meaningless speech. There are many æsthetes, however, who do not follow his airy suggestions on one hand and have not descended to the ridiculous attitudes burlesqued in "Patience." These have moderate views of what is attractive and ornamental, and in Kingston they have scope for the exercise of their opinions. Here are opportunities for the cultivation of flowers, for the application of taste and the production of pleasing effects.

But there is a drawback, and a fatal one—that the handiwork of our refined and industrious people have no protection from thieving gamins and vagrant cattle. Everywhere one goes now-a-days he sees evidences of culture and of the security which have who spent their money freely in works of public ornamentation. There are in Kingston men who would supplement the corporation's deficiencies to a large extent, but they become discouraged at the ineffectual enforcement of loosely constructed by-laws, and abandon the plots before their house so the weeds and thistles which seem to flourish under the Council's special auspices. Walk out King street and note the obnoxious grasses which fringe the sidewalks, flowering and seeding and promising a plentiful crop in perpetuation. Note, too, how careful the desperadoes employed are not to strike down these public pests, and the inference is natural that our Aldermen have peculiar views on æsthetics, that their highest fancies of the beautiful are the cockle-bur and the thistle.

In Belleville there is a general agitation for the removal of fences enclosing private properties; the idea is to have the prettier plots exposed to view. This is done in Watertown, and the gardens are not invaded by biped or quadruped. The experiment was tried in Kingston, and Alf. McIntyre and Post Office Inspector Griffin can tell with what success. Why Kingston should be behind the age and appear less attractive than sister cities does not appear. Why the streets here cannot be kept as clean and as free from degradation as those of Watertown our Aldermen can best explain. If their ideas of the beautiful were but improved they would, in all probability, find some means of carrying them into effect.

PITHY PARAGRAPHS.

His Prospects.

Queen Victoria's first great-grandchild, born at Potsdam this week, is the direct line to the imperial throne of Germany, and he will get there when his great-grandfather, grandfather and father are all out of his way.

Testimonial to Sir John.

It is proposed, in 1884, to mark Sir John's 40 years in public life by a public testimonial of some kind. If any man ever deserved such a favor from a party Sir John does. He is the head, middle and tail of it, and but for his acute control it would many times oftener have become disorganized.

Queen's Lameness Continues.

The Queen's lameness is entirely cured, and she is now able to take her usual walking exercise. Her mental depression, however, still continues. She will not leave the country this Autumn as supposed, but insist on returning to Balmoral. The Princess Beatrice will go to Aix les Bains to take the waters there.

Bishops Justify their Action.

The English Bishops are so alarmed at the storm of criticism evoked by their opposition to the Deceased Wife's Sister Bill that they are preparing to publish a reply in justification, explaining their motives. The Royal Family is much vexed at the failure of the measure, which puts the intended marriage of the Princess Beatrice to her widowed brother-in-law as far off as ever, that project being said to explain the warm advocacy of the Bill by the Prince of Wales and his brother.

Uncle Sam's Complaint.

Special agent Howell, at Plattsburg, N.Y., has called the attention of the Treasury Department to the number of immigrants arriving at Quebec and Montreal, and says that they are almost destitute. He adds that a large number of state-aided immigrants are to leave Foynes, County Limerick, Ireland, by the next Allan steamer to be sent, at once from Canada on to the United States. The Treasury Department declares that there is no law to prevent pauper immigration through Canadian territory.

Mercer Case Argued.

The appeal in the case involving jurisdiction in the matter of the Mercer estate has been argued before the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council. Judgment was reserved. The case grew out of the escheating of the estate of Andrew Mercer, who died without legitimate heir. The Ontario Government assumed the property on the ground that it represented the Crown in such matters in Ontario. This is denied by authorities who contend that the Dominion Government represents the Crown in the Province even in such matters.

The Poor Buggahs!

A New York regiment in camp at Peekskill threatened to revolt if they were not furnished with napkins. As we cannot conceive of a more thrilling picture of the "horrors of war" than a soldier without a napkin—unless it may be a corporal without a dollar store scarf pin, we would recommend that Major General Luard go to their relief at once, and take Major Scott's towel along. It would cut up into two napkins, at least. He would see not only that every man had a napkin, but also that the horses' tails are all pointed the right way.

Phenomenal Enterprise.

The West Shore Road has been completed between Albany and New York, and travellers can make a trip by rail on the west side of the Hudson. Pullman cars are to be run on the road, not only between New York and Albany, but between Saratoga and Long Branch and Philadelphia via Albany. This is the one on which Joseph Upper, of this city, has had a large contract. It is the most remarkable railroad enterprise on the continent in the speed of its projection and completion, and the facility with which money has been raised for it. At one time it floated $30,000,000 of 3 per cent. bonds without any difficulty.

THE ORGANS.—It is expected that the Salvation Marquee will be opened and dedicated on the 19th inst., but the grand hallelujah service will not be until the 21st, circes day. They want to show as big a company as Barnum. This in his first Canadian rival.

A FLORAL SERVICE.—On Sunday next a floral mission service will occur in St. Paul's Church. Contributions from gardens are solicited. The custom of holding such services is a general one in the States and highly regarded. Kingston has had a flower mission in a private way among a circle of kind ladies, but until now it has not been taken up in the churches. It is hoped the people both of the city and county will contribute liberally. On Monday the decoration and flowers will sent to the General Hospital to cheer the inmates.

There is to be a firemen's tournament in Cape Vincent on the 16th August. The Kingston brigade has been invited to join in. Prizes amounting to $300 are offered.

Owing to the liberal patronage accorded to the Sand to-day the Ferry Company have decided to repeat the excursion on Friday next, leaving here at 1.30 o'clock and returning at 8 o'clock. See advertisement to-morrow.

LOCAL NEWS.

LIEUT. ATKINS' SERVICES.

We are asked if the Lieut. Atkins who spoke at the meetings of the Saved Army on Sunday is the same who conducted the meetings of the Salvation Army at Portsmouth. We believe so. It will be remembered that he was the originator of his suburban revival which became so influential and led to the conversion of so many. Lieut. Atkins received his inspiration at the meetings of the Salvation Army and used its hymns and methods, but he could not use its name. Those following his leadership became known as The Saved Army, and he and they caused a religious agitation which affected more, or less most people in the village. An effort was made to turn the Saved Army into a branch of the Salvation Army, but it was not successful, though during one of the visits of Major Moore the sympathies of Mr. Atkins were enlisted, and he was made a Lieutenant. Some of the Saved Army followed him as the officer of the new corps, but the bulk of them retained their old name and independence, and they have lately done a missionary service which is remarkable to say the least of it. Lieut. Atkins, after undergoing many disappointments, has returned to his first love. He is active, enthusiastic, possessed of good vocal and speaking ability, and is expected to have great success in his out post duty. He has gone entirely into the work.

GRAND PRIORY.

Col. Macleod Moore made a fine address at the opening of Great Priory in Ottawa to-day. An amendment provides for the election of Grand Prior for life and for the re-arrangement of districts. A PRESENTATION.

Last evening the members of the Primitive Methodist Choir met at Mr. Hales' residence, on Sydenham Street, and in the midst of a very social time William Coward, the leader, presented a gold chain to Miss Sarah Busch, who has been actively connected with the choir and Sabbath School for six years. Rev. Mr. Harris also spoke in most complimentary terms. Miss Busch removes along with the family to Troy, N.Y. She has been a very zealous young churchwoman, and her departure is much regretted.

DROWNED AT ST. JOHN, N.B.

A telegram from St. John, N.B., announces the drowning of Fred. G. Burpee, second son of Hon. Isaac Burpee, and brother of Mrs. J. B. Carruthers, of this city. He was drowned in the harbour, off Reed's Point at 8 o'clock this morning while rowing in a shell boat. It struck on a line extending from a wharf to a schooner and upset the boat. All efforts to save him proved unavailing. He was about 20 years of age. The body was not recovered at the time of sending the despatch.

KINGSTON CAR COMPANY.

Last evening the annual meeting of the Kingston Car Works Company occurred. The report was read and accepted. The business is in a fair condition. The election of directors resulted in the choice of A. Gunn, M.P., Hon. G. A. Kirkpatrick, M.P., G. M. Macdonnell, R. Wahlren, T. McMahon, J. R. Carruthers, W. Harty, W. R. McRae and W. Irving. The only retiring Directors were J. Mudie and P. Browne.

TOSSING A BENCH.

Thomas Barlow yesterday threw a bench at Joseph Gravelle, a workman in a house on Bagot Street. For so doing there was a Police Court action and Gravelle after minutely describing the bench pointed to a swelled cheek and a contused wound as the result of the blow. Thomas was assessed $2 and costs, in all $5, for his fractiousness in handling benches.

EXCLUDED FROM THE HOUSE.

London, July 9.—In the House of Commons this afternoon Gladstone, in reply to Sir S. Northcote, said he had received a letter from Bradlaugh, announcing his intention, to take his seat in spite of the orders of the House. The Government had proposed a method of meeting this difficulty, which had been rejected. It now remained for the House to act. Sir S. Northcote regretted the necessity for protecting the order, which was the duty of the Prime Minister and moved that Bradlaugh be excluded from the House until he engagés not to disturb the proceedings. Adopted, 23 to 63. Previous to taking the vote, Gladstone and several other members of the Government withdrew. The other members of the ministry voted with the minority.

MARINE NOTES.

Capt. Merryman's Exploits on the Lake—A Sufferer's Death—General Notes.

The schr. Eliza White has cleared for Oswego with tiles and posts.

The schr. Garibaldi is loading posts for Oswego. The sloops Pilot and Gazelle, posts for Deseronto.

The yacht Atalanta is now on the ways at Deseronto. She is being put in order for her intended trip to Chicago.

The cook on the schooner Oneida is in trouble. She cannot secure her wages, $29.50, from Capt. Saxie Brooks. The affair will be sifted in the Police Court to-morrow.

Marine matters are much improved. Rates are going slowly up and there is a better look all round. All the vessels in port are getting charters, and coal from the other side is coming in freely. So a Toronto telegram says.

Information has been received of the death of Captain John McGlynn, of Toronto. For a number of years he sailed the schr. Garibaldi, of which he was part owner. When she went ashore at Weller's Bay two years ago the suffering he endured during the terrible night brought a disease from which he never recovered. This season he was located in Chicago, and his death was somewhat sudden, the first intimation being a notice that the body was on the way home. The remains were interred in St. Michael's Cemetery, Toronto.

Capt. Merryman intends looking after the schooner Lillie Parsons, which sank some years ago near Brockville with 300 tons of coal. He believes that she can be raised without difficulty. It was generally supposed that vessels sank for a length of time, generally rotted or went to pieces, but this idea seems to be an erroneous one. Mr. Merryman states that in his experience he has raised vessels which had been under water for 18 years and found them still in a good state of preservation.

Capt. Merryman says that while working at the wrecked prop. St. Catharines, sunk in 125 feet of water, the men found the hulls of several crafts which no one seemed to know anything of and several which were as sound as when lost. When a wreck goes down out of sight in deep water it is located by means of grappling weights attached to enormous towing lines and dragged about one mile behind a tug. While working in this way last season to locate the St. Catharines, many curious finds were reported, including anchors, chains, towing ropes, wheels, spars, etc. One of the wheels brought up must have been a relic of the pioneer days of steam boating, as the blades were fitted into the hub separately instead of being cast all in one piece as at present.

Regarding the wreck of the Sam Cook work will be begun as soon as possible. It will likely be a week or more, however, before they get rightly at work, as they are not allowed to use their own apparatus, and will have to secure what they need from Canadian ports. The hooker will be procured in Kingston. Two divers will be brought from Port Huron, and two more will probably be secured in Ogdensburg, while the majority of the men employed will belong to Brockville. It is expected that it will take about six weeks to raise the vessel.

A BAD LIFE AND DEATH.

Atlantic City, N.J., July 10.—A beautiful girl, of humble parentage, Clarissa Bounds, was enticed by a white man and negro into the pineries, ten miles from here recently, and at the close of a debauch all three slept near a smouldering coal pit. In the night she found herself in a mass of flames. Some think the men poured oil on her and set fire to her. They kept her two days without medical assistance. The overseer of the poor, it is alleged was called but gave her no help. The poor house refused her admission and she was left in hut in the woods. Finally she was thrown into a waggon and brought to Atlantic. The body was a mass of corruption. She died last night.
