Oakville's David Clement has been nominated as the Libertarian Party of Canada's candidate for the new Oakville North-Burlington riding in the upcoming federal election later this year.

"I am extremely excited about the opportunity to represent the residents of Oakville and Burlington in Ottawa," Clement said.

"I'm running for Parliament to give voters the option of voting for principled, small government again."

Clement is a native of Oakville and attended Wilfrid Laurier University, where he earned an Honours Bachelor of Arts degree in Political Science, and a Masters in International Relations.

He grew up playing hockey for the Oakville Rangers and attended White Oaks Secondary School in Oakville.

Clement has also volunteered for numerous local charities over the years.

More recently he's worked as a market risk analyst for Scotia Capital, a segregated fund analyst for Manulife and as a research assistant to the Canada Research Chair in Human Rights.

Clement said he now works locally in the consulting field and is looking forward to hopefully taking "both fiscally prudent and socially liberal" policies to Ottawa.

"The Conservatives have failed voters, and unfortunately the Liberals and NDP are not offering the type of change that will make a difference today or in the foreseeable future," he said.

"The Libertarian Party of Canada, on the other hand, is a renewed party that is eager and committed to bring accountability and honesty back to the table."
