Ogilvie and Orkom Dunn.

THURSDAY EVENING, AUGUST 30, 1883.

EAST YORK.

The petition in this case was yesterday dismissed. The remarks of Judge Burton are to the point:

"It appears," he said, "as far as we can judge, that the election has been as fairly and purely conducted as any election could possibly be. Not a single charge that has been made has been sustained, and it was almost painful to see witnesses put into the box when it was clear that their evidence would not be believed by enlightened people. I am satisfied, and every one in the Court during the progress of the trial must have felt satisfied, that the evidence of Strader and other witnesses was totally unreliable. Apart from every other consideration Mr. Badgerow must have been totally unfit to occupy any public position if he could have been guilty of any such folly as was credited to him. I think Mr. Badgerow is to be congratulated for the manner in which the election was conducted, and the petition is dismissed with costs."

GIVING OF DECISIONS.

On Monday Judges Patterson and Ferguson will give a decision upon the disqualifying charges, Muskoka election case, and, a few days later, points in the Welland case will be decided and a conclusion reached as to the wisdom or advisability of hearing further evidence. The Muskoka revelations have given the Tories a bad set back. They may have anticipated something lively as a result of the operations of John Shields & Co., but the Mail was not prepared for the story sent by its representative, and it is due more to surprise, to the awkardness of the situation, than to the difficulties of transmission that the "impartial" and "carefully prepared report" did not appear simultaneously with that in the Globe. It does seem that the Muskoka tactics of the Tory party are about to be repeated in Algoma, the same missionaries having been despatched to the constituency and doubtless the same trunks filled with whiskey of a superior brand. It is reasonable to expect, however, greater caution in the manner of circulating the fluids and money bribes. The punishment of the corrupt respondent in Muskoka will not have satisfied the law; nothing short of a severe penalty, levied upon each of the venal agents, will effectually check the debauchery which has held full sway in that outlying electoral district.

A SUGGESTION ADOPTED.

The Kingston & Pembroke RR. Company have adopted the suggestions of Messrs. Frederberg and Whelan, of Westport. They have agreed to take a bonus of $35,000, as an inducement towards the construction of the branch line with the promised addition of $2,500 from a few gentlemen, of whom Mr. Frederberg is the chief, he heading the list with $1,000. We presume by-laws will be prepared for submission to the people of the municipalities affected, and if these are carried, of which no apprehension is entertained, the road will be built as soon as possible, certainly within two years. The people of Westport, we are assured, are favourable to the scheme of a railway connection with this city, indeed they could not do otherwise and act the sensible part. The Kingston & Pembroke RR. project has something tangible and real about it, which is more than can be said of the venture put forward by the Syndicate represented by Mr. Cole, but the members of which are nameless because they do not want, apparently, to bear the opprobrium of failing. It did seem as if the meetings at Farmersville and Delta would have the effect of creating disunion and the consequent defeat of both schemes, but the K. & P. Company have received positive evidence to the contrary. It now appears that the indefiniteness of the syndicate's proposition has impressed others pretty much as it has impressed the Brockville Times. The appointment of an Engineer to survey the road does not satisfy the people that the B. & G. N. RR. plan is not attended by considerable moonshine; and they are wisely disposed to accept the offer which will give them at a reasonably early date a realization of their dream. The Westport people will never have occasion to regret their choice.

SALE OF COTTON.

The largest sale of cotton ever held in the United States occurred by auction in New York three days ago. The goods were the products of the York Manufacturing Company, the Everett and the Lewiston Mills, numbering nearly 17,000 cases, consigned to Messrs. George C. Richardson & Co. These goods have been offered for auction because there is an immense overproduction by the mills, which have been running night and day, the manufacturers imagining that there would be an unusual call for the staple. To get the stock out of the way the auction sale was determined upon. This was what determined Bliss, Fabyan & Co. to sell such a large stock at auction a short time before. At the conclusion of the sale a member of the firm said the goods had brought very good prices. The goods bringing the very best prices were the brown shirtings, known as the Bedford R's, 4½c. a yard, and next to these were the goods called the Bennington R's. The sale aggregated about $2,000,000, the prices being about 7 per cent. below the average. A large buyer, however, said that 25 to 30 per cent. below the current prices would be nearer the actual mark. Buyers for different houses stated that although the unloading of such a great quantity of goods was a very unusual and unlooked-for event, it was not likely that the sale would affect the market prices to a great extent, and when one of them was asked if a panic or depression in the business would cause he ridiculed the idea. The sale of $1,000,000 of the same goods, which occurred a few weeks ago, did not affect the market to any extent. This opinion seemed to be held by the majority of the buyers. Kingstonians have an interest in the cotton trade, the people of any town or city in which a mill is located must be concerned about the events that affect those industries. Mill men may regard "slaughters" like the above complacently, but the situation is not such as to provoke jubilation.

ALEXANDER HOPE CRAWFORD.

The Shorthand Writer, alluding to Alexander Hope Crawford, who yesterday visited the city as phonographer to the Judges of the Election Court, and who remained among his friends until to-day, says he was born in Alloa, Clackmannanshire, Scotland. He served his six years' apprenticeship to the printing business in the offices of the Alloa Advertiser and the Stirling Journal, and first essayed reporting when he was but 16 years of age. Coming to Canada in 1863 Mr. Crawford became connected with the Globe, and was a great admirer of Hon. G. Brown. Afterwards he held the position of Private Secretary to P. S. Stevenson, late General Freight Agent of the Grand Trunk RR., and for several years he was also connected with the Grand Trunk and Toronto, Grey & Bruce Railways. In 1876 Hon. Mr. Mowat appointed Mr. Crawford as one of three reporters attached to the law courts of Ontario. From that time forward Mr. Crawford has worked hard to bring the system of reporting in the Courts up to the high standard it has now attained. Now, with a staff of seven reporters in the Common Law Courts and two reporters in the Court of Chancery, the time occupied in Assize work is comparatively short. Mr. Crawford reported the case of Fisher v. the Georgian Bay Transportation Company, and the record of that trial, in two bound volumes of 300 pages each, attests to his skill as a manipulator of the type writer. As we said yesterday he has been nominated as the reporter on behalf of the Province, of the McLaren and Caldwell cases, and will go to England when they are to be argued before the Privy Council. He spent a pleasant hour with Mr. McRae, of Golden Lion Block fame, and others who smelt of heather.

STORM-STAID EXCURSIONISTS.

A very high wind has been blowing from the east since Monday morning, and at times on the lake it has increased to the severity of a gale. As a consequence those who have been out sailing for pleasure have had a sick time of it. The Royal Templars of Temperance excursion party, bound for Grimsby on Monday, got no further than the beach. The steamer Hastings took a crowd from Toronto on Tuesday to Grimsby Camp Ground, and on the return trip the wind and sea gave her a terrible shaking up. When almost opposite Port Credit the Captain found it necessary to put back to Burlington Canal, which was reached about 8.30. The water at times swept the decks, and it is said that it was fully a foot deep on her lower deck. Nearly everybody on board was sick, and those who carried flasks were anxiously sought after. The excursionists were glad, notwithstanding the inconvenience it entailed, at finding themselves once more on terra firma. Some of them put up for the night at the Ocean and Lakeside Houses, while others took the late train for the city. The Hastings is still at the canal. The waves are rolling completely over the piers, and the storm equals any that has been experienced in that section for a long time. An idea of its effect may be gathered from the fact that there were four men at the wheel, and even then the Hastings frequently got into the trough of the sea.

BELLEVILLE REGATTA.

A correspondent from Belleville says: In the morning the weather was black and rainy. The races began about 1:30 o'clock, and the first round was a close race, but the Garfield was a little ahead. Then she sprung a leak and it took two pumps and an heavy pail to keep her from sinking; the water at times would be two or three feet over the floor. The Garfield sailed the race out and got second money. She was then run ashore to keep her from sinking. The Garfield also sailed three miles out of the course, not seeing the buoy in time. The first-class race resulted as follows: Cygnet first, Garfield second, Norah third. Norah finished first, and the others won on time allowance.

The second-class race resulted as follows: Islandia first by 20 minutes 38 seconds, Gracie second, Victoria third, the latter being beaten by 21 minutes. The Victoria evidently did not show herself as anticipated.

MARINE NEWS.

Two schs. Pride of America is being fitted out at Oswego for the Fall trade.

The tugs Glide and Jessie Hall have cleared for Montreal with 12 barges when with 280,000 bushels of grain.

The schrs. D. G. Fort, Westside and Myosotis have secured coal cinders from Charlotte to Chicago at $1.25 per ton f.o.b.

When a diver went down and examined the prop. Prussia it was found that she had been very badly injured, having a large hole in her hull about midships and several others along her bow. It was at first supposed that her injuries were of a slight nature. It is now apparent that the work of raising her will be greater than at first anticipated, as the steam pumps will be of little use until the breaks are temporarily repaired. As soon as this is done she will be pumped out, raised and dry docked.

BAD SINK HOLES.

The sink hole on the Ontario & Quebec RR., near Malonby, still swallows up earth, wood and "all such" thrown into it. The opening of the road will be delayed until the spot is made safe. The K. & P. RR. have suffered much from sink holes, and only this spring they had a spot to fix that cost $1,000. The Company find that timber is the only feasible thing that will make a road bed over such holes at all passable. The place with the timber under it now appears as a floating bridge and will stand all the strain put upon it.

WAYSIDE INCIDENTS.

A Lightning Calculator and the Salvation Army—Why Men Wear Very Long Hair.

Last night a remarkable looking person erected a blackboard upon the market square, mounted a box, and proceeded to lecture on mathematics. He had but fairly commenced his explanations upon a difficult problem when the Salvation Army rounded the city buildings and marched directly upon him. The corps led on by Lieut. Nellie Ryerson—attired in a handsome blue black uniform, elaborately braided—did not look warlike, still the man of figures seemed to be struck with a panicky feeling as he jumped down off his perch. People wondered why he extinguished his light. A worthy restaurant keeper ventured the remarked that "he didn't want to countenance the Army," and a listening sobber lately reformed, "Men only fear the darkness because their deeds are evil."

A PLAYFULLING SEEL TAP.

Later on, when the Salvationists had retired, the mathematician took his place upon the improvised rostrum and astonished the multitude by the rapidity with which he made his calculations. During the evening an individual who paid more attention to the personal appearance of the stranger than to his mental accomplishments, asked why he wore his hair so long. It streamed loosely over his shoulders and in the torch's lurid glare was anything but an evidence of intellectuality. When the question was directly put to him, even in a spirit of curiosity, "our learned friend" halted and said: "Some years ago I received a sunstroke. I was advised by medical men to allow my hair to grow long as a protection to the back of my head. I have done so and now I feel as safe as if topped by a lightning rod."

The explanation was regarded as very satisfactory, and now we can understand why that other pretty dude in the gos in green suit combed his lengthy auburn locks over the cerebellum, and tied them there with a thread of cardinal wool.

ANGLICAN CHURCH NOTES.

The congregation at Enniskillen are spending $800 on repairs to the church and in adding a spire.

A parsonage is now being built at Omemee, the centre of the North Victoria mission, under the charge of Rev. C. O'D. Taylor.

A new chancel, vestry and spire will be added to St. John's Church, Leeds. The building will be re-painted and re-seated. The cost will be $630.

The Dominion Churchman reviews at length Bishop Lewis' lecture on Agnosticism, declaring it most admirable, and calling for a cheap edition for wide popular circulation.

A new church will be erected at Pierva to be called the Church of the Holy Trinity. Mrs. Dr. Elkington has collected most of the money for the new edifice, and another young lady has presented the church with an organ.

Rev. C. O'D. Taylor, of Clarendon mission, has now a parsonage at Omemee, congregations at Pierva, Omemee, Ardoch, Mattawachan and Levant mines; Sunday Schools at Omemee and Pierva; a fine choir at the former place, and a young lady who has trained it has made the present of an organ. Mrs. Elkington has collected nearly enough money for the new church there.

AN OLD MAN'S ADVENTURES.

A notorious thief named Fred. R. Willis has been sent to the Kingston Penitentiary for two years for assaulting and robbing a man named Henry Hover, of St. Catharines, of a watch, a chain and $33. Willis got in company with his victim while the old man was drunk, and seizing a favourable opportunity knocked Hovey down and relieved him of his valuables. Hovey, since his spree, has had a hard time of it. Being left without a cent he was arrested on a charge of drunkenness, and remanded in the cells all night. Next day he was discharged, and managed to make his way to Catharines, but was still suffering so severely from the effects of his spree and was so weak that he fell into the Canal and was nearly drowned. Next day he found himself in the cells of his native town, and now he is more than half dead as the result of his adventure.

THE LOST TURNS UP.

A gentleman informs us that Joseph Waddingham, jr., son of Joseph Waddingham, of Fort Bascom, New Mexico, and formerly of Kingston, has turned up all right. Our informant states that the young man, not liking the country he was residing in, decided to go further into Mexico. He studied the Mexican language and became an interpreter in a court. This life becoming monotonous he went up near San Francisco, where he worked and remained until taken sick, when he telegraphed home and William Waddingham went after him. It was at this time that our informant met both the Waddinghams.

JAVA'S RUIN.

Fuller Accounts of the Volcanic Eruption—Whole Towns Completely Wiped Out.

London, Aug. 30.—The particulars of the volcanic eruptions in Java show that it was even more disastrous than at first reported. On Sunday at noon the disturbance was supposed to be at its height, but later in the day the violence increased, threatening the destruction of the whole island. At midnight suddenly an enormous luminous cloud was formed over Kandang Mountains, skirting the southeast coast, gradually spreading until it formed a liquid red canopy. Meanwhile the eruption increased. Streams of lava poured down into the valleys sweeping all before them. In the midst of the molten sea of lava was a bed of solid ice emitted from one of the craters which was carried along and landed at the northeast corner of the island surrounded by a thick envelope of sand and storm which are non-conductors of heat. It is supposed that the ice formed a crust of some subterranean lake. At 2 o'clock on Monday morning

A GREAT CROWD SUDDENLY SWEPT

and vanished. For some time frightful rumblings were heard. Columns of fire and smoke over the south-east corner of the island ceased to ascend, while the craters in other parts seemed to open their fiery throats still wider. The hissing of the sea became deafening, and waves rushed up to an unprecedented height. When daylight came an enormous tract of land had disappeared, 60 miles square. In this were the villages of Negery and Babawang. None of the natives, scattered sparsely through the forests and on the plains, escaped death. The loss of life must aggregate 15,000. The entire Kandang range of mountains, extending sixty-five miles, had gone out of sight. The town of Tamerang, within 25 miles of Batavia, was swept away by a lava stream, and half the population, 1,800, perished. At Speelwick red hot rocks set fire to the houses and swept away all the thickly settled portion of the town. Ten bazaars, belonging to Europeans, were all destroyed. No lives were known to have been lost. The river Jacatare, on which Batavia is situated, was so dammed by the lava and debris that its course was changed. Fighnji was almost totally destroyed, and a large NUMBER OF LIVES WERE LOST.

The island of Onen, 20 miles east of Batavia, was inundated and a floating dock was destroyed. Cantayo, Claps and Troumers' islands are out of sight; Baby and Cherita islands of the north east coast, lost the few houses and the inhabitants upon them. In Batavia the loss was largely increased since the former reports. The roof of the Governor's house was crushed in by mud and three retainers killed. The town bridge was destroyed; the diamond and pearl bazaars were damaged. The Burran redoute was destroyed. In Cayhnand, Malabar and Lion the streets and principal avenues were damaged. Fort Antyer was entirely destroyed. The town of Fagpul was severely shaken and few of the buildings were left. Violent shocks were felt on the island of Sumatra. On Monday Midday Island, ten miles of the Javanese coast was almost wholly engulfed by the sea. The small island of Singtel disappeared. It was uninhabited. The aggregate loss of life is fully 75,000.

The starving population are in despair. The Soongepan volcano split in five portions; 704 bodies of the victims have been buried in the district of Tanare, and 300 in the village of Kramat.

MR. PARNELL'S SPEECH.

Dublin, Aug. 30.—Mr. Parnell, at a meeting of the Irish National League yesterday, spoke most encouragingly of the progress of the Land League movement in America. Testimonial from Capt. Joshua Sharpe.

SACKVILLE, N. B., Feb. 12, 1877.

J. H. Robinson, Esq., St. John, N. B.

Dear Sir,—Early in October last I took a severe cold which settled on my lungs. After having a bad cough for about six weeks I had a very severe attack of bleeding from the lungs while on a passage from Queenstown to Dover. I had daily spells of bleeding for some days until I lost about two gallons of blood, and was so weak as to be scarcely able to stand. I got back to Queenstown, where I received such medical assistance as enabled me to get home.

I saw an advertisement of your Phosphorized Cod Liver Oil Emulsion, in a paper. I immediately sent and got half a dozen bottles, after taking which I feel myself a well man again. My weight, which was reduced to 130 pounds, is now up to my standard of 152 pounds. Seeing what it has done for me I can confidently recommend it to others afflicted with lung diseases.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) JOSHUA SHARPE,
of the barque "Mary Lowerson."
