A FAIR OFFER.

The Police Commissioners, in a spirit of triumph probably, transmitted to us on Monday a memorandum, in very bad grammar, stating the denial of the men of the force that they had endorsed ex-constable Hoyle's statement. To-day we make a proposition to one of the Commissioners, to name a reliable man outside of their own body to whom we will submit indisputable proof of our statement, on condition that the names are kept secret from the Commissioners. This secrecy it would be unjust to break, as the Commissioners are simply dilbustering with the papers in order to get at the names to execute summary vengeance. Will they accept?

The Police Commissioners have, as expected, expressed themselves content with Sergt.-major Bolt's unprofitable services. He is in the height of favor. A minute of the Commissioners of December, 1881, ordered him to do night duty. Two years nearly have passed and he has not done it. The Police Magistrate explains that he excused him from the duty; then what need of a Board to make regulations at all, and why had not Constable Hoyle a right to a similar excuse?

The Commissioners probably think the press is unduly officious in this matter. We can assure them they never were more mistaken. For a long time it has been known that the force has been divided into two partizan bodies, the one withholding support and information from the other in order that it should have the credit of arrests; that the force has been steadily declining in public respect, in consequence, as well as in system and morale; that there was almost an entire absence of nightly supervision when it was most necessary; in fact the men were on a go-as-you please, in spite of the large proportion of five officers to eight men and useless and unnecessary appendages. This, we hear, has been already satisfactorily shown in evidence before the Commissioners, and additional counter charges are said to be forthcoming. If the Commissioners know of the condition of the force they refrained from acting. It was, therefore, left for the press to speak. The public feel as earnest in the matter as we do, and are awaiting the result with as great interest, especially as the evident tendency is to damn men who give information of the irregular state of things, and thus preserve evils. The moral apparently is: "Submit to every kind of partiality and misconduct on the force, for if you complain you shall lose your situation."

We regret that it is necessary for the press to take the initiative in order to effect public improvement, but the fact remains. It was not until we had exposed the treatment of the late Elizabeth Burns and the disgraceful place she was incarcerated in for no crime whatever, that a very energetic cleansing of the cells took place. The Police Commissioner who in open court a few weeks before, as reported by both papers declared that the cells were not "fit to put a pig" or a dog in, turned about and did his very best to oppose the local press in their efforts at improvement. We hope the same hand will wave a greater regard for the public interests on this occasion.

REPUBLIC OF THOUGHT.

J. H. Burnham, of Michigan, an ex-preacher, was one of the prominent speakers at the Freethinkers' Convention, and the theme which he most eloquently discussed was the "Republic of Thought." In the following extract from his speech he makes some remarkable prognostications:

"In the coming republic of thought the incentives to virtuous and upright lives will be only as men vie with each other in striving to throw out those things which distress and degrade the world, to do away with all that is abnormal and hateful and low and vile and get into the debris of ecclesiastical domination. The word morality will dip upon the lips of human progress and celibacy will take its place—the moral code will fade away. The time will come when antagonism will not be a synonym for conflict, when strife will not engender hate but respect, when a hundred battle fields will not disclose one drop of blood. In this coming republic of thought there will be unity and strife and emulation, but all will be in the march of progress. The time will come, too, when wealth will cease to be the synonym of power. Then for a man to own 300 acres of land will bring a blush of shame to his face. It is a great mistake for this republic to sell her domains to foreigners and corporations. Give all your citizens homes and they will defend your flag. In that day money will cease to be king. There is another feature which will do away with the invidious distinctions which denies to woman equality with man."

The infidel's sense of perfection, it seems, cannot be achieved without a complete unsettling of all moral and religious relations. Col. Bob Ingersoll is one of the happiest men in the world. His home is called a paradise. Each member of the household has all the comforts and enjoyments of life. Each one is taught to abhor selfishness, and to cultivate a love not only for one another but for all mankind. The great atheist sees glory in his surroundings, in nature, in art and literature, in the esthetic or distinctly his own an that was distinctive which Oscar Wilde made his fortune in unlibling. This life is all in all to him. Beyond the grave he knows nothing and cares nothing. He has no belief in the invisible. To him man indeed cometh up like a flower and is cut down, and he has no disposition to speculate upon the destiny of the soul. He was not in Rochester to give dignity to the proceedings of the Freethinkers' Convention, to move the audiences by his estate language and superior oratory, to communicate the sunshine of his smile to others, to banish gloom and give crispness to the discussions. His colleagues were there, however, in great force, and if the above extract is an index of the general feeling they must be in a very hopeful mood. It will be a happy day when hate and strife and warfare cease; when monopoly is crushed; when the wealth of centuries is evenly distributed; when the women have indisputable rights, as "equality with men." In the accomplishment of all these things, however, in the republic of thought, it should not be necessary to ignore the existence of a personal God, to repudiate a future state, to live in defiance of scriptural law and scoff at simple faith. We have had in this city an opportunity to contrast religion and irreligion, and to found an opinion upon the results; and it does seem that the men are few who can live correctly without motives and principles somewhat higher than those which actuate the average free thinker.

MAGISTRATE'S COURT.

A Charge of Larceny Dismissed—The Life of a Tramp—Burning of Wilder's Barn.

Cornelius McMahon, who was held on a charge of larceny, was dismissed, the evidence submitted not being such as to secure a conviction.

A VERY REMARKABLE FAMILY.

Thomas Brisco, his wife and two children, appeared in the dock, about an hour, a looking lot, as ever struck the city. Wife and children were poorly clad, dusty and travel worn; the husband had an unsteady step, his hair stood on end, and his jaws, ornamented with a scraggy whisker of auburn hue, chattered as he eyed the Magistrate. When his name was called and the charge (drunkenness) read he bounced to his feet and piteously wailed.

"Oh, I know I done wrong, but if I'm excused I won't be ten minutes in the city. For God's sake let me go."

The Magistrate surveyed the cringing culprit in a kindly manner, and noticing an ugly scar upon the left cheek asked how it came there.

"I had the fever, your honor and I fell."

"What kind of fever?"

"The fever and ague, sir. I got it on the railroad back of Peterboro."

"Where's your home?"

"In St. Lawrence County, back of Ogdensburg."

"And how are you going to get there?"

"I'm going to walk to Brockville and see some friends there."

"The sooner you and your family start the better, then," said the Magistrate, and four much scared mortals disappeared through the door like a flash.

A CHARGE OF ARSON.

James Jamieson was charged with firing the barns of Joseph Wilder on the night of the 3rd. The prisoner had a dazed and simple appearance, and it did not require a medical expert to pronounce him a crank. When asked what he had to say about the accusation he stared at the Magistrate, his coal black eyes fairly blazed, and he stood mute and motionless. After a moment he seemed to catch the meaning of the proceedings, pleaded not guilty and asked to be tried by a jury. He was thereupon remanded for a week. He has no friends here.

EXHIBITING THEIR WARES.

The corridor of Queen's University (upstairs) is occupied by a number of enterprising firms who have taken advantage of the opportunity to advertise their wares.

J. Stevens & Sons, of Toronto, represented by L. G. Christie, have a fine collection of surgical instruments, trusses, &c. This Canadian firm is largely patronized by the doctors, who state that the appliances stand very high in their opinion.

J. H. Dickey represents E. A. Smith, Toronto, and shows surgical instruments, chemical apparatus, drugs and physicians' supplies. The collection is worthy of inspection.

R. L. Gibson, of R. P. Osborne, Toronto, has a well appointed table, on which are to be found various preparations, such as Maltine, Beef, Peptonoids and Lactopeptine.

John Wyeth & Bro., of Philadelphia, has Mr. E. Muir, of their Canadian branch at Montreal, here, with a fine collection of pharmaceutical preparations. He shows elixirs, fluid extracts, compound syrups, compressed powders and pills and dialyzed iron, a compound of beef, iron and wine. The latter was tested and found quite palatable. This preparation has been highly recommended by physicians for debilitated persons.

REV. M. F. BLAND SPEAKS.

Rev. M. F. Bland contended, in the union debate, that if the basis were adopted one hundred and thirty-eight of those present would not be required. Accordingly the colleges must take a Rip Van Winkle sleep. Of those surplus men 60 might be sent to the North-West, but what should be done with the other 78 men? He suggested that 40 married men from Nova Scotia might be sent to the Maritime Provinces, which had been subsidized by England for men. The eighteen surplus men might be sent to Anticosti, Labrador, or Northern Newfoundland, where, if they could not get heaven, they could secure fishes. He objected to union because it would lessen the working power of the Church. What was needed was federal union. The union would not be a harmonious whole, and would be fruitful of scandal. He was opposed to organization. Many hymns who supported the basis would not vote against it.

WHOM CHRIST?—A doctor said the other night that salvation could be had at one corner and damnation at another. Did he mean the saloon or the Police Court?

MARINE NEWS.

Change at Kentes—Running on the Shoals—The Prop. Prussia Aground—A Launch.

The tubs Foster is taking on ore for Fairhaven.

The tug Active and consorts have cleared for Toledo.

The steam barge Garden Island will probably be launched on Tuesday.

The pumps have again got to work upon the prop. Prussia and she is bound to come up.

The schr. Penokee, Chicago, 21,000 bushels of corn, and the schr. Monitor, Milwaukee, 20,000 bushels of wheat, have arrived in port.

The Indian and barges have cleared from Dessmonds with ties for Niagara. From there she clears for Byng Inlet, where she will load timber for Collingby.

The steamer Passport ran into the Armstrong at Brockville yesterday. The latter's guard in front was smashed in and some of the upper works considerably shaken up.

The schrs. Bismarck and Prussia have arrived at Garden Island with pine timber. They load iron rails at Stewart's for Algoma Mills, then go to Byng Inlet for another load of timber.

The dredging of Belleville harbor will proceed at once. E. Munson has the contract. The Belleville Council have supplemented the $6,000 given by the Government by a vote of $4,000.

Mr. Senecal, the President of the Royal Mail Line, has issued orders that if there are indications of foul weather the steamers must not leave port. The upbound steamer in consequence lay here last night.

It is proposed to take the steamer Bethesy off her present route, between Clayton and Dickinson's Landing, about the 15th inst. The Prince Arthur, however, will continue to make regular trips to Montreal every other day.

Nearly all the ore has been taken out of the sunken schooner Sam Cooke, and the final work of raising her will proceed. An old barge is to be sunk across her bow for the purpose of breaking the force of the current. When the work of raising the Cooke is completed the barge will be blown up with dynamite.

The schooner Monitor, from Milwaukee, while endeavoring to make port yesterday afternoon, ran upon the shoal off Point Frederick. She went on hard, rising out of the water two feet forward. Tugs tried to pull her off but failed. A barge and elevator went to lighten her. The Captain made his first trip to this port and was evidently not aware of the proper courses to take.

Mr. Curran, engineer, and McPherson, diver, have returned to the city from Brockville, where they operated upon the sunken propeller Prussia. Mr. Curran says the boat sunk after being got up part ways, in consequence the pumps stopping, but the fault was not his. He left them all right and went to dinner, leaving the machinery in charge of a man from Port Huron. He hardly sat down to his meal when Capt. T. Donnelly said there was no water in the pump boiler forward. He found that the feeds had been choked, that the suction had been put into the grain and burst. He had to put the fire out, and before the pumps could be got in working order again the propeller had sunk in deeper water. The diver says he patched the propeller as well as he could. He says the whole forefoot is gone, and there is a hole 8 x 4 in the starboard bow. It is not likely the propeller can be raised by pumps.

RETURNED FROM MANITOBA.

Messrs. Wm. Miller and Ogden Hinch, of Napanee, have returned from their trip to Manitoba. Both gentlemen were most favorably impressed with the country—especially South Western Manitoba. They drove over four hundred miles through this section of the county and had an excellent opportunity of seeing it. Mr. Miller says that the land is well adapted for hop growing—hops growing wild in some sections, also for grain and roots. Mr. Donald Fraser, formerly of Ernestown, has an excellent farm of 640 acres near Emerson and has 180 acres crop. Mr. Davy, who rents Mr. M. W. Freyn's farm, has a crop this year of 300 acres—130 wheat and 400 oats and barley, besides a large crop of timothy hay. Mr. Chas. McPherson, late of Ernestown, has 130 acres of grain. Other people from this section are doing well. Every settler they saw expressed himself as perfectly satisfied with the country. They say they found the climate a great deal better than they were led to believe it was, and the opportunities for making money are much more numerous than in Ontario. They paid a visit to a small part of northern Dakota and report that the settlers are mainly Canadians. Mr. Miller says that Rev. John Scott of Emerson, formerly of Napanee, has done more to make settlers from this section of Ontario comfortable and contented in their new home than a score of Government emigration agents. The rev. gentleman is held in the highest esteem by the entire community.

A PRIEST'S ACTION.

Atlanta, Sept. 3.—Rev. Father Hennessy on Sunday ordered all the male Catholic children to attend school in the basement of the Church. He said the sacraments would be withheld from the parents who refused to obey. Fifty of the 200 Catholic pupils have left the public schools as a consequence of the above order. The reason for the priest's action is on the refusal of the School Board to permit Catholic religious instruction in school after school hours.

WEST INDIES ERUPTION.

Sept. 4.—The Governor of Dutch East Indies telegraphs that the town of Tabkhalong was probably totally destroyed by a recent Volcanic Eruption. The district in which the town is situated is entirely inaccessible. All the roads are obliterated. Nothing is heard from Lampong, on the southern coast of Sumatra.

SAVING A CREW.

New York, Sept. 5.—The str. Macdonald, arrived to-day, reports taking off part of the crew of the Swedish bark David, which was abandoned. The Captain, second mate and carpenter were washed overboard.

Dr. Benson's Celery and Chamomile Pills for the cure of Neuralgia are a success.—Dr. C. P. Stinson, Chrisfield, Md. 60 cents at druggists.

ONTARIO DIOCESE.

The Regular Committee Meetings—A Quiet Session—Very Little Business Done.

The Quarterly meetings of the Ontario Diocesan Committees were opened yesterday, or rather were not opened in most cases, according to appointment. The attendance of the clergy is not so large as usual either, probably in view of an expected short session.

The Rural Deans, a very serviceable body, met and made arrangements for the missionary meetings in the parishes during the winter. Of the ten committees called for work on Tuesday only two assembled. The Finance Committee passed a number of accounts, and the Foreign Mission Board did general business. The Archdeacon of Kingston was elected Chairman. The Secretary presented the financial report of the past four months, showing a gratifying increase over the same period of last year. A resolution passed, asked the Bishop to request the clergy of the Diocese to hold thanksgiving services and to suggest the giving of offertories to the mission work under the charge of the Board.

The only Committee meeting this morning was that of the Mission Board with a fair attendance. The Archdeacon of Ottawa was elected Chairman for the ensuing year.

Financial statements were presented by the Secretary, showing an improvement in the funds. A long discussion arose over matters relating to the omission of returns from various parishes. Instructions were given to the Archdeacons in reference to the cases referred to. Upon an application from the Rev. E. F. Kehlin, for a temporary grant to the parish of Hillier, $100 a year was voted from Oct. 1st. An encouraging report from the clergyman in temporary charge of the mission work in North Hastings was read.

Complaints were made of some collections being omitted in Wolfe Island, Bath, Gananoque and North Frontenac among other parishes.

The Archdeacon of Kingston reported upon his visit to Camden East and the financial encouragement received.

A comparative statement showed that the balance due Bank of Montreal was $1,768.20 as against $3,840.12 at same date last year, while $9,217.34 had been paid in mission grants as against $7,182.98 the year before.

HELD HIS OWN WELL.

The late Hon. Zach Chandler was not only a strong man and an expert boxer, but it didn't take all day to rile him. Just at the close of the war the Senator visited the Michigan cavalry. The boys were in high spirits, and many of the Sixth were interested spectators of a boxing match with the gloves. Zach took his place in the circle unknown to all, and attracted no attention until one of the boxers was driven back upon him. Leaning forward the Senator whispered:

"Young man, I saw a dozen good chances for your left in there."

"Say, old coon, maybe you're on the box?" called the other, as he overheard the remark.

Zach pulled off his alpaca coat, put down his hat, and took the gloves from the one who had been worsted. The other man was the best boxer in the regiment, and there was intense excitement as the two squared off. Not a pass was made for a minute, and then the Senator found an opening and sent a left-hander so straight and solid that his opponent went down like a log. He got up slowly and in a dazed condition, and removing the gloves from his hands approached the Senator and asked:

"Say, did you hit me with a brick bagatel?"

"No, I struck with this," replied Zach as he held out his left.

The man surveyed it, ran his hand up and down the Senator's arm, turned to the boys and observed:

"That settles me. I prefer the brick bagatel."

A FOOL FOR LUCK.

It was a great day at Monmouth park, New York, when a sweepstakes of $300 each, with $4,000 added by the management, was run for over a mile and a half course by six or seven horses. One of the horses was Pierre Lorillard's "Iroquois," the winner of the Derby in England two years ago, but it was left behind by "George Kinney," belonging to the Dwyer Brothers of Brooklyn, which won the race handsomely. At the very "heel of the heat" came in "Eole," a brown horse belonging to Freddie Gebhardt, who appeared to the crowd to have thrown away $300 for the honor of running his horse in such distinguished company. Lorillard, vexed that his Derby winner should be thus quietly beaten in America, demanded another trial, and was accommodated two days later. To the general surprise, Gebhardt entered his horse again. As nobody expected "Eole" to win, bets against him at long odds were easily obtained. The start was made, and, when the rest of the horses had apparently done their best, "Eole" rushed to the front, kept gaining, and came out the winner by four lengths. Gebhardt raked in the sweepstakes of $7,300, including his own $300, and won $50,000 in bets besides. This will pay all the expenses of his tour with the "Jersey Lily," and still leave a considerable margin for future operations.

Testimonial from Capt. Joshua Harper.

SACKVILLE, N. B., Feb. 13, 1877.

J. H. ROBERTS, Esq., St. John, N. B.

Dear Sir,—Early in October last I took a severe cold which settled on my lungs. After having a bad cough for about six weeks I had a very severe attack of bleeding from the lungs while on a passage from Queenstown to Dover. I had daily spells of bleeding for some days until I lost about two gallons of blood, and was so weak as to be scarcely able to stand. I put back to Queenstown, where I received such medical assistance as enabled me to get home.

I saw an advertisement of your Phosphorized Cod Liver Oil Emulsion in a paper, I immediately sent and got half a dozen bottles, after taking which I feel myself a well man again. My weight, which was reduced to 120 pounds, is now up to my standard of 152 pounds. Seeing what it has done for me I can confidently recommend it to others afflicted with lung diseases.

Yours very truly,

(Signed) JOSHUA HARPER,
