Instead of making the Act against corrupt practices at elections more stringent and a terror to evil doers La Minerve agitates for its abolition. It says: "We deem it right to state that the results of the present law are absurd, and that in the interest of the constitution, in the interest of public opinion, and in the interest of the candidatures this law should be repealed or greatly modified." Why should our contemporary give expression to such a thought? Because Mr. Mousseau cannot practice all manner of irregularities in his elections. He was forced once to step down and out in Jacques Cartier, and it was expected that his subsequent campaigns would be somewhat freer of corruption. His last battle at the polls, however, seems to have been attended by events which, make the subject of a judicial enquiry, must lead to his unseating. This movement La Minerve does not relish, and hence its bold suggestion. Better that the law than Mr. Mousseau should go.

Mr. Mowat's Kingston organ is so pleased with the result of the Algoma trands that it hopes "on the new election in Muskoka the same lines had down for that in Algoma will be followed by the Government." And it is safe to say it will not hope in vain.—Mail.

The assurance is very comforting. Late developments warrant us in giving utterance to another hope—that in future elections, in Algoma or any other constituency, care will be taken to have every deputy returning officer supplied with ballot boxes and ballots. We don't want a repetition of Port Frances' experiences—the improving of election machinery and the use of ballots which a Conservative scrutineer "took with him for an emergency." Such emergencies should not occur, nor should the Government agents be put under obligation to the representatives of the Opposition. Men who go about the country with their pockets stuffed with ballots need watching. The emergencies for which they are provided are more fraudulent than friendly.

CO-EDUCATION IN TORONTO.

Recently there has been an agitation in Toronto in favour of the education of young ladies, side by side with the young men, in the Provincial University. The suggestion is discouraged by by Dr. Wilson, President of the College, who says: "The minutes of the University of Toronto will also show that I have taken an active part in throwing open to women all the advantages and privileges of the University in reference to examinations, prizes, scholarships, honours and degrees. But the admission of lady students to this College involves a radical change in the whole system pursued since its foundation, and one which in the belief of many eminent educationists is by no means calculated to promote the best interests of women aiming at the highest culture. Any scheme for the admission of women as students in the College must deal with the question on the assumption of the numbers approximating before long to those of the young men, now numbering upwards of four hundred. To co-education under such circumstances I see many grave objections, and the more carefully I study the subject the conclusion is forced upon me that the system now favoured alike at Oxford, Cambridge, Harvard and other older universities, and finally adopted after mature consideration by Owens College, Manchester, during the present year—where separate Colleges, under lady principals and other efficient oversight, are provided for the lady undergraduates—is the one best calculated to promote the refined culture and high intellectual development of women. What I desire, and heartily aim at, is the establishment of a Provincial College for women, erected on the University grounds, placed under the charge of a lady principal and instructors of its own, but where also the professors and lecturers of this College might take some part in the instruction. The lady students could have full advantage of library, the philosophical apparatus, etc., as I would be cordially admitted to every privilege of undergraduates suitable for them. Any movement for carrying this into effect will have my cordial support; and I cannot doubt, if a proper appeal is made to the Provincial Government and Legislature, that it will meet with success." Co-education in the Medical College here has been a failure, but so far, in Queen's College, there has been perfect harmony between the sexes. Lady and gentlemen students attend the same classes and receive the same training without involving a radical change in the whole system of the institution. In the classical course there are no grounds for distinction, whatever objection there may be to mixed classes in the study of medicine. Toronto University is behind the age, and it will remain in that position so long as the governors of the institution are of the same opinion as Dr. Wilson. A hint is thrown out and it will be surprising if the people of the Queen city do not act upon it—to seek a separate College for ladies, to the maintenance of which it is desired that the Government shall contribute liberally. The province has not a need of this expensive luxury. Queen's will educate all the ladies who cannot, on equal terms with the young men, find admission to the Provincial University. An appeal to the Government and the Legislature is, therefore, not at all necessary.

A BLOODY ENCOUNTER.

THE AXMEN CHARGED WITH KNIFING ALEX. AGNEW AND WM. NICHOLSON—FIVE CUTS IN EACH.

The Opening Dispute on the Fair Grounds—Continued Last Evening on Queen St.—A "Whig" Man Right on the Spot—The Chief Circumstances of the Row—Interviewing the Wounded Men This Morning—Rosling Easy and on the Way to Recovery.

Yesterday one of the most shocking and disgraceful fights that has perhaps ever occurred in the city took place. The chief participants were Thomas, William and John McKee, and Alexander Agnew and William Nicholson. The dispute began on the fair grounds. The McKees were standing near where one of the hikers had been humbugging the people, rolling up bank bills of various denominations with little packages of soap and presuming to sell them for less amounts.

COMMENCEMENT OF THE ROW.

One of the McKees took the hat off a young farmer's head and tried it on his own. It did not fit and he threw it on the ground and kicked it, not once but several times and until the farmer struck McKee. Then there was a general scrimmage. Alexander Agnew is said to have spoken up and told the McKees to leave the young man alone as he had done nothing that deserved such treatment. A dispute followed, when Agnew was grabbed by the throat by "Jack" McKee. A crowd had in the meantime collected and surged violently about, a dozen or more blows being dealt different individuals. The policemen on the ground attempted to suppress the riot, and in the scuffle Police Constable Small's coat was badly torn. He emerged from the conflict in a very dilapidated condition. The disturbance, however, was quelled, and it is reported that the fakir came out of the affray greatly agitated, hatless, and with a damaged visage. He was deeply impressed with the importance of the fight.

THE EVENING MEETING.

The McKees, when they left the fair grounds, were not satisfied and appear to have determined to have it out. Backed by friends, as ill-advised and in-humoured as themselves, they met again on Princess Street, near the carriage manufactory of G. W. Robinson. They jangled and scuffled thence to Sydenham Street, and up Queen, to a spot about midway between Sydenham and Clergy Streets. One of our staff, who was on route home, saw the crowd approach and halted to see what the disturbance was all about. Prior to this telephone messages were sent to the police station, to the effect that an ugly fight was in progress and that the constables should be sent to the scene as soon as possible. The answer came that all the men were

TURN OUT ON DUTY,

and that a posse would be sent to the site of the riot as soon as they came in. Their arrival was tardy, and in their absence there was bloody work. A great body of men, shouting, shoving and cursing, had assembled, and in the darkness many innocent persons and peace-makers were struck. The friends of the pugilists were numerous and they kept back the throng as much as possible while the men pummelled each other in a brutal manner. The battle waged hotly for some time, and many sickened at the sight and left. Now and then our reporter caught a glimpse of the antagonists, whose garments were tattered and flesh torn and bleeding. From side to side they slashed and kicked and cuffed, acting more like demons than men. Sometimes the spectators closed in and sought to suppress the mill, but they did not succeed. One Nicholson, who took Agnew's part, was badly wounded, as the statements below indicate. Not until the men were exhausted and they had sprinkled the street and sidewalk with their blood was an end put to the fight, and even then it was not known to many that knives had been freely used and that two of the men were in need of surgical aid.

NATURE OF NICHOLSON'S WOUNDS.

Alex. Agnew and William Nicholson were waited upon by Drs. McCammon, Dupuis and Henderson. Dr. McCammon, who dressed Nicholson's wounds, reports that he has five stabs, all in the back. There is one on each shoulder, one on the side, one on the hip and one on the foot. The knife struck the sixth rib, glanced off and went in between the sixth and seventh rib, touching the lung. There was a slashing cut above the hip. Here an artery was severed. The wound on his foot was not discovered until early this morning. The knife went through the boot and made a gash an inch across. A great deal of blood flowed from this opening.

This morning Nicholson was interviewed. He was weak and low. The doctor, who was present, said he would recover. Nicholson stated that he saw the dispute on the Fair ground but was not a participant in it. Last evening he noticed the crowd collecting on the corner of Queen and Sydenham streets, went over to it and was confronted by the McKees. A row occurred. He was pressed into defending himself as the McKees "piled" upon him. He was struck and bitten on the nose by Thomas McKee. He was facing the three McKees but turned around to see who was pounding him from the rear. Then he was stabbed by John McKee. He fell. On rising he made a rush across the road and felt that he had been wounded. He lay down on the sidewalk until help arrived and he was conveyed home. The sidewalk leading to his home was spattered with blood. Nicholson did not give the names of the other participants. He could not tell all of them. He knew of no reason for the attack as he and the McKees were on good terms.

ANOTHER STABBED MAN.

Alexander Agnew was found in bed at his home on Earl Street, weak and sore. He has five flesh wounds, the most serious one being on his leg near the thigh. His clothes were slit by the steel and terribly bloody. He had also a bad wound in his breast. Agnew said he noticed the disturbance on the palace grounds when he went in and was immediately caught by the throat by one of the McKees. The affray was of short duration. Coming down town last evening he was met on Princess Street and struck by one of the McKees. The crowd then went around the corner. Friends of Agnew came along and he was urged to accompany them. He did so and a big row opened. The combatants fought up street as far as the residence of John Walker, where the stabbing occurred. Agnew says that while he was warding off the blows he felt a knife enter his body. He jumped over the fence and sat down on Walker's step. He was bleeding and felt very weak. The crowd at once dispersed, Agnew's friends alone remaining. The doctor was consulted and the wounds dressed. Agnew says he had had no feud previously with the McKees. He will recover.

OFFENDERS NOT YET FOUND.

The police hunted around for the alleged offenders but have not yet made any arrests. There are startling statements abroad regarding the affair, but we have secured the facts so far as we can. During the fight rocks were hurled into the crowd and it is reported that one of the McKees was knocked down by one of them. He was cursed off.

A FALSE REPORT.

It was rumored to-day that Nicholson had died from the effects of the stabbing wounds received last night. There is no truth in the statement. Both Nicholson and Agnew are in a fair way to recovery.

SEARCHING FOR THE MEN.

"Every policeman in the city is in search of the McKees," said a City Hall man this morning. "They are bound to be captured."

One of the McKees was seen about noon to-day going in the direction of Bryant's bush. It is said the boys left Chicago on account of some offence committed there.

PRESBYTERY MEETING.

The Kingston Presbytery Met Yesterday—Rev. A. Young, Moderator, pro tem.

The call of the Brock Street Church to the Rev. Samuel Houston, of Athelstan, was tabled. It was accompanied by a document guaranteeing him a salary of $1,0[illegible]. The call was signed by 117 members and 31 adherents. It was sustained, Mr McFaul, elder, and Mr. W. Robinson being heard on behalf of the session and congregation respectively. The call was sent to the Presbytery of Montreal with a request that it be issued as soon as possible.

Rev. Mr. Chambers resigned the Moderatorship of the Glenvale session, and Rev. Mr. Gallagher was appointed in his stead.

Rev. Mr. Gracie, Convener of the Committee, reported plans for the rearrangement of the Lansdowne field. The matter will be laid before the Brockville Presbytery.

A special committee reported that 12c. per family would be a sufficient assessment to meet all the requirements of the Presbytery. The suggestion was sanctioned.

In regard to the Assembly's recommendation, in the matter of stipends, deputations were appointed to do what they could to have the minimum established where it is not now—$750 and a manse, or $800 without a manse.

Rev. Mr. Kelso was appointed Moderator pro tem of St. Columba and St. Paul, Madoc, with power to moderate in a call.

A request was received from the Session of Melrose, asking that the Presbytery sanction the introduction of an organ into the Church. The Presbytery declined to interfere.

Kingston Commercial College.

The age demands a practical education. We live fast, eat fast, and travel fast, and the world is demanding such an education for young men as will fit them most quickly for the practical affairs of life. Thirty years ago there were only about 300 students in the Commercial Colleges of America; now there are over 40,000, showing that they fill a want in the land. To fill this want the Kingston Commercial College is to be opened on Monday evening next at 8 o'clock in the Collegiate Institute buildings. The staff will consist of the regular teachers of the Institute, together with the following special lecturers: Commercial Law, Mr T. H. McGuire, Q.C.; Physiology and Hygiene, Dr. Shaler, M.A., M.D., Professor of Physiology and Histology in the Ladies' Medical College; Political Economy, D. A. Givens, B.A.; Shorthand, Mr. R. Meek, of the Whig. Commercial subjects and telegraphy will be taught.

COMING EVENTS.

The Magistrate's Lever—Asking for Compensation—A Mistake at the Opera House.

There was a large attendance at the Police Court this morning, many being under the impression, no doubt, that there would be further developments in the stabbing case.

John Riley was accused of drunkenness and asked what he had to say. He answered, "'Tis a false statement," with a dramatic effect that could not have been surpassed by the late Julius Brutus Booth. Remanded until to-morrow.

John Sullivan was charged with drunkenness and candidly admitted that there was truth in all that was said about him. He was given until to-night to liquidate a fine of $4 and costs.

A MAN WITH A FRIENDLY AIR.

Edward Wilson, whose best care seems to have been spent upon the growth of his moustache and finger nails, was accused of stealing a silver watch and pocket knife from John Randall, whose vest best hung in the cabin of the scow Island Lassie. The articles were produced in court and identified.

"What have you to say to that?" asked the Magistrate in a firm but determined manner.

"I don't consent to have done the business at all," said the prisoner, as he leaned over the dock and critically surveyed the bench and its occupants. He went on to say that he only came from Ottawa on Monday, and continued a spree which he had begun about three weeks ago. He had a recollection, however, of purchasing the things from a man who came from Glasgow, who said he was hard up, and took $1.50 for them.

"Who was this man?"

"Oh, I'll never tell you. He was a tall man with a light moustache, a kind of a dude, and in having dealings with him I supposed. I was doing big business. I've a character for honesty and if this man (Randall) says the knife and watch's his why I'll let him have them and stand by the loss. Your Honour you must have a little compassion upon me; you know a fellow generally makes a fool of himself in liquor.

"Yes, that's characteristic of excessdrinkers," remarked the Magistrate.

The case was adjourned until to-morrow.

TAKING A COAT BY MISTAKE.

William McIlarey, a member of the London Field Battery and now taking a short course in "B" Battery, was charged with stealing an overcoat in the Opera House, the property of Dr. Curtis. He pleaded guilty, but excused himself on the ground of having been under the influence of liquor, and therefore, did not know what he was doing. He picked up the coat in a mistake, not knowing but that it was his. The Dr. considering that a mistake had been made, did not wish to prosecute. The case was adjourned for a week.

A liquor case was also adjourned till Tuesday.

A Special Visit.

B. Laurance, the celebrated optician, from London, England, visited Kingston to-day, and left a large consignment of spectacles of all classes with J. G. King, as special agent. On Tuesday, the 16th, Mr. Laurance will return and remain for a fortnight. He is a specialist of no common order, and can fit a sight to every eye with unerring skill. He is recommended here by Drs. Sullivan, Henderson and Phalen, and has hosts of testimonials from nearly every eminent man in Canada east of Kingston. He has fitted 2,000 glasses in Canada alone.

Peace and Truth.

Letters from Toronto say that the Ladies' Medical College opened with two students! Would it not be more sensible for the Toronto physicians, who have endeavoured to float their College on puffery by the big daily papers, to acknowledge at once that Kingston, with its well filled classes and its successful handling of this branch of education for three years, should have been treated to a weak opposition any longer.

STILL AGITATED.

Minister of War's Conduct Towards Alfonso—Awkward Position of Grevy and Ferry.

Paris, Oct. 4.—Illness was not the cause of the absence of Thibaudin, Minister of War, from the reception to Alfonso. He unmistakably held aloof so that the glaring gap had to be filled by an interim Minister of War. Ferry then thought himself bound to inform Grevy of the deplorable effect of Thibaudin's conduct in political circles and upon European opinion. Ferry, who is backed by all the Ministers, declares Millot will move, with his consent, become chief of the general staff, as the whole army acknowledge he is unfit for the post. Grevy shares this opinion, and if Thibaudin resigns on this question the President will not back him. Grevy thinks that Thibaudin, by forcing measures against the Orleans princes, renders a service to the Republic which no other general would probably have agreed to perform, and which imposes upon the Cabinet an obligation not to dismiss him now that no similar service is required. If Grevy defends Thibaudin he certainly will not mix up in any intrigues aiming at the overthrow of Ferry. It is certain Thibaudin has resolved not to resign.

Madrid, Oct. 4.—The Government is dissatisfied that the French journals merely officially mentioned that Grevy apologized to Alfonso and has resolved to ask for the full text of the apology. It is also reported that Sagasta has postponed making changes in the ministry until all matters between Spain and foreign nations are settled. The foreign powers have forwarded to Alfonso congratulations upon the enthusiastic reception accorded upon his return.

Paris, Oct. 5.—Figaro and Gaulois report that the Spanish Ambassador yesterday gave Ferry a note setting forth the grievances of Spain in connection with the arrival of Alfonso, demanding the punishment of the authors of the manifestation and satisfaction for Spain in proportion to the gravity of the outrage. The note was well received. Ferry subsequently conferred with Grevy.

Paris, Oct. 3.—Grevy has accepted Thibaudin's resignation of the War Office.

FLINGING BEER BOOTS.

Toronto, Oct. 5.—In the County Court recently Lilly Kelly, a young but hardened female, was sentenced to six months in the Mercer Reformatory for stealing a watch. On hearing the sentence the jailed Lilly drew off one of her boots and sent it with all her might across the court room at the prosecutor. She broke into a violent and obscene tirade and was carried out of the court room screaming.

AN INFORMER'S TROUBLES.

London, Oct. 4.—The steamer Melbourne has arrived at Marseilles from New Caledonia with Joseph Smith, witness in the Phœnix Park murders trials who was not permitted to land at Melbourne. Smith was recognized at Marseilles when he suddenly left the vessel. It is believed that he is taking passage for China.

HUNTING DOWN INFORMERS.

Dublin, Oct. 5.—It is reported that an Invincible Vengeance Committee has been formed to hunt down all the informers. The Committee has paid spies throughout the Colonies and North and South America.

A Cure for Diphtheria!

Mrs. Ellen B. Mason, wife of Rev. Francis Mason, Tounghoo, Burmah, writes:—"My son was taken violently sick with diphtheria, cold chills, burning fever, and sore throat. I counted one morning ten little vesicles in his throat, very white, and his tongue, towards the root, like a watermelon, full of seeds, the remainder coated as thick as a knife-blade. I tried the Pain-Killer as a gargle and found it invariable cut off the vesicles, and he raised them up, often covered with blood. He was taken on Sunday. On Wednesday his throat was clear, and his tongue rapidly clearing off. I also used it as a liniment, with castor oil and heartsease, for his neck. It seemed to me wonderful cures, and I can but wish it could be known to the many poor mothers in our land who are losing so many children by this dreadful disease."

GREAT EXCITEMENT UP TOWN!

EXCITEMENT ABOUT WHAT? IS THE question asked by many people down town.

BECAUSE

MRS. C. A. HICKEY

HAS OPENED OUT IN

BURGESS & SON'S OLD STAND

WITH A FULL STOCK OF

Fancy & Staple Dry Goods,

Which she has determined to sell less than any house in the city. Of course many people will say, Oh! It's so very far up. But don't let that stop you. The street cars pass the door every ten minutes. Take a ride up and give us a call. Examine our goods and see our prices. Everything and anything to suit our customers.

☞ You will save your car fare in the first article you purchase—on 15 or 20 cents worth you save 5 cents, which will pay your fare.

Mantles and Jackets cut to order

☞ COME AT ONCE. COME ONE! COME ALL.

C. A. HICKEY, Princess St.

Oct. 3rd. One door above Parkhill's.
