THE SILENT VOICE.

BY JOHN PEAT.

There is a sighing in the wood,
A murmuring in the beating wave,
The heart has never uttered
To tell in words the thought it gave.
Yet oft it finds an answering tone
When wandering on the lonely shore,
And could the lips but utter made known,
'Twould sound to thee the ocean's roar.

And oft beneath the wind-swept pine
Some chord in struck the strain to swell,
Nor sounds nor language can define;
'Tis not for words nor sounds to tell.

'Tis all unheard, that silent Voice,
Whose goings forth, unknown to all,
Bids hearing heed and bids rejoice,
And fills with music Nature's hall.

Gen. Luard's Tender.

(Montreal Gazette.)

Major General Luard's usefulness has gone in so far as the volunteer force of Canada is concerned. We sincerely trust that the enquiry will be prompt and thorough. The active militia of Canada is a volunteer organization which confers upon the country much greater favor than it receives from it. Its officers are men who make sacrifices both of time and money to keep up the force. A strictness of discipline and a submission to the regulations is essential to an efficient force. But the conditions at least entitle the volunteers to respectful treatment. This they have not received. The boss of a gang of shoulymen could hardly be more violent, more taunting, more profanely bullying in his tone than General Luard has shown himself to be. That the Major-General is an imperial officer, selected by the Imperial authorities, makes the consequence of his conduct all the more mischievous. In very plain terms, he is not fit for the position he occupies, and the sooner he is recalled the better it will be, not only for the volunteer force but for the maintenance of kindly feeling between Canadians and the Imperial authorities.

Another Prison Break.

At Oakland, Md., John Smith, a convicted colored murderer, called his jailer into his cell, knocked him down, took a hatchet and broke the chain which held him to the floor, locked the jailer up, and escaped with his shackles on. The Governor was to sign Smith's death warrant next day. Smith has since surrendered. He had received a severe wound from the jailer, and, hearing he would die, returned.

JAIL TO A FORTUNE.

An Ex-Convict Marrying the Daughter of One of His Former Keepers—Prospective Senator.

Honesdale, Pa., October 10.—Wayne county, Pa., has a character with an eventful history. His name is George Avery. In 1870, when only 21 years old, he was charged with the murder of John Haynes, of Rowlands, Pike county. The evidence was said to be so conclusive that he could not escape hanging.

While on the way to Milford in charge of a Deputy Sheriff, the official became helplessly drunk. Avery secured the man's keys, and, unlocking his handcuffs, he placed them in the bottom of the waggon. He took the reins and drove to the nearest hotel. He put the drunken man to bed, roused him the next morning, drove on to Milford, and after he had put the Deputy to bed at the hotel walked to the jail and delivered himself up to the keeper.

Three months later he was tried for murder and acquitted. The day after he was discharged he was arrested, charged with burglary, convicted and sent to state prison for eighteen months. He served the full term, reading law during his confinement. When he left the penitentiary he opened a law office, and had several citizens arrested who had testified against him when he was on trial for burglary, charging them with perjury. Failing to make out his case he was sentenced to pay the costs.

He had no money, so he went to coal again. Finally he became a free man. From that time burglaries were numerous, but there was never evidence enough to convict Avery. He went to Oil City, where he hung out his shingle as a lawyer. Clients were numerous and fees large. Avery was reaping a golden harvest when he was convicted of forgery and sent to the penitentiary for four years. He fell in love with the daughter of one of the prison keepers, and she offered to assist him to escape. He refused to leave until his time was out. At the end of the term he went back to Rowlands, professed religion, began preaching a little, swindled a neighbor out of $100, and was induced by the neighbor, who enforced his argument with a shotgun, to refund the money. Avery then left for Luzerne county, where he got into difficulty and was sent to the Eastern Penitentiary. Upon his release he stole enough money to take him to the mining regions of the far West, where, under an assumed name, he opened a law office and speculated in stocks. In 382 he struck it rich, cleared $750,000, gave up stocks, invested his money in Government bonds, and sent for his fiancee, the prison keeper's daughter, who joined him in Chicago, where they were married.

Anglican Church Work.

This week a remarkable gathering will take place at Philadelphia—the conference of American church workers among the deaf. The proceedings will be conducted orally and in signs at the same time, and will be interpreted from one language into the other. The church work among deaf mutes was begun only only a few years ago, but it has already three organizations. The church union to deaf mutes in New York and New England, of which Bishop Potter is President; the diocesan commissions of Pennsylvania and headed by Bishops Stevens and Howe; the general and diocesan boards of missions. The deaf mutes themselves have organized "the guild of silent workers," New York, and "All souls' guild," Philadelphia.

The last census showed nearly 34,000 deaf mutes in the United States. Among these there are now seven clergymen laboring, three of whom are themselves deaf mutes, besides a large number of lay-readers and bible-class teachers, nearly all of whom are deaf mutes. Services are conducted every Sunday in the language of signs at St. Ann's Church, New York city; St. Stephen's and Emanuel Churches, Philadelphia, Grace Church, Baltimore. Other cities throughout the States are provided with bible-classes for the deaf. In Great Britain there are four churches built expressly for the deaf and used expressly by them. Two of these are in London. There are none in America.

A deaf and dumb preacher, Rev. Henry W. Syle, Philadelphia, will be ordained a priest on Oct. 14th by the Bishop of Pennsylvania. He will be the first deaf and dumb ordained. He is a son of Rev. Edward W. Syle, D.D., a missionary in China and Japan.

James Brayley, Hamilton, says:—"I read the testimonials for McGregor's Speedy Cure and found that I had not to go to New York, Philadelphia, Louisiana or Texas to find living witnesses of its value. We had plenty of persons right here to prove its merits. I got a bottle and it helped me right away. I was so bad with Bilious Fever and Indigestion so I think any one could be. I have taken three bottles and am nearly well and one cut any kind of bad without it hurting me. I may say that I am better than ever I expected to be." Free trial bottles at Clowes's Drug Store.

Mrs. J. McPhee, Appin, writes:—During the last eight years I have used almost every medicine recommended for Biliousness, but found nothing equal to Carson's Bitters. If you suffer try it. Price 50 cents.

The Most Delightful message of humanity is Bright's Disease of the Kidneys. Commencing with a little pain in the back, it carries the sufferer to a premature grave. Dr. Van Buren's Kidney Cure is the only known remedy that prevents the fatal result. Take it in time.

The Wheat Crop.

The wheat crops of America and Europe are now gathered, and estimates of the Vienna congress show a shortage in Europe. The total crop in eighteen countries is only 260,000,000 bushels, or 14 per cent. below the average, the deficiency being nearly 140,000,000 bushels. This means that there will be a considerable demand for wheat from America. The crop in the United States will be 417,000,000 bushels, against 504,000,000 bushels last year. In Canada the crop is far below the average and may not exceed the demands of home consumption. This includes the North West, for there is no export of wheat from Manitoba or the territories worth mentioning. These facts would indicate a stimulation of prices of wheat and flour during the winter.
