CITY AND VICINITY.

To-day's Probabilities.

Light to moderate winds. Fine weather. Not much change in temperature.

Take Notice.

F. X. Cousineau & Co. will close their store to-morrow to prepare for their great $5,000 silk sale, which commences on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

Ferguson v. Turner.

Aylesworth moved to change the place of trial from Kingston to Brockville. D. Black showed cause. Order made. Costs in the cause.

Harvest Festival.

Service in St. Paul's to-night at 7:45; sermon by Rev. E. P. Crawford. Magnificent musical service by the choir; several solos. Collections for the poor. Seats free. Strangers welcome.

Purchasing the Property.

"Willow Cottage," the residence of the late S. T. Drennan, has been sold by Mr. J. E. Hutcheson, auctioneer, to Samuel G. Brown for $3,103. The property is valuable.

Hunting on the Island.

J. G. King and Wm. Newlands, jr., returned this morning from Amherst Island, whither they were on a hunting expedition. They secured some fine duck and plover. The sport is interesting.

A Successful Fair.

Picton's Fair concluded yesterday. It was most successful. The exhibits were numerous and the show first class in every particular. On Tuesday evening there was a display of fire-works at which great crowds gazed with interest.

Electing Directors.

To-day the Roberts Iron Company met and elected the old directors, with the exception of W. K. Chapin whose place is taken by T. U. Foley, of Rochester, N.Y. H. C. Roberts, the President, is here. He goes out to the mines to-morrow. His health has been very poor.

Annual Prize Shooting.

The periodical shoot of the Gananoque Rifle Association occurs on Wednesday, the 17th, and following days, upon the Gananoque range. The matches are open to volunteers located in the 3d and 4th military districts. The competitions are five in number, and the prizes of the most liberal character.

An Enlarged Gymnasium.

"F" Company, 14th P. W. O. Rifles, has, with "E" Company, become interested in the gymnasium at the drill shed, and will also do drill as well as take athletic exercise during the winter. These are the kind of soldiers the country needs. They are not actuated by pecuniary but by patriotic motives, and their practices must ensure greater efficiency and steadiness upon the field.

Sitting on Him.

There were several interesting fights in Picton last evening, and we admired the way the Chief of Police raked in the offenders and transferred them to the calaboose. In one instance two officers collared a man, jammed him into an omnibus and sat on him while he was being conveyed to the station. In Kingston people would cry out in thunder tones if policemen handled offenders so gracefully.

Removal to Portsmouth.

The Kingston & Montreal Forwarding Company have decided to remove to Portsmouth. Manager Stewart was asked about it to-day, and said that the Company had not sufficient wharfage where they now operated, and that the change was purely a business one. He said the removal would take place early next month, and that at Portsmouth he believed all the accommodation necessary would be secured.

Holding Missionary Meetings.

The clergymen in the Kingston Presbytery are now holding missionary meetings throughout the district. Last evening Rev. Messrs. Gallagher, of Pittsburg, and Shearer, of Lansdowne, spoke to a crowded house at Rev. J. Cumberland's Church, Stella. The meetings are not held for the purpose of raising money but to inform the people of the condition of the mission and to urge them to assist the schemes more liberally than they have heretofore.

A Vacillating Mayor.

The News calls Mr. Livington a vacillating Mayor. This says remark is made in connection with the dismissal of Detective Sullivan. And yet he was not in the chair, had nothing to do with the passage of the resolutions (1) that Mr. D. Sullivan be dismissed because he became a police constable, and (2) that he be retained until further orders, the charge of base conveying within a few weeks. The less said about vacillation the better.

The special car containing the scenery for use in the Lights o' London, at the Opera House to-morrow night, arrives early to-morrow morning. The car, 60 feet in length, is worth visiting. It will be run to the city by the pilot engine.

"Kingston," says the Toronto Evening News, "has abolished its detectives. This class of people was always obnoxious to Kingstonians. They sometimes stood in the way of business, as business is usually conducted in that city." Our contemporary's meaning is not very plain.

The children of St. John's Church choir, Portsmouth, waited on Miss Walkem at Woodstone yesterday and presented her with a very handsome album as a token of their affection for her and an acknowledgment of her services to them. Miss Walkem leaves on Saturday by the Parisian for England.

Offence and Offender.

At the Police Court this morning three drunks were dismissed with the customary admonition.

Isaac Lee, a bad boy, was charged with stealing $20 from William Naylor. While there was no direct proof that he stole the money, yet he carried the key of the box in which the cash was kept. The Magistrate reserved his decision.

Bridget Keating, a decrepid and childish old woman, was committed to gaol for lunacy. She had been in Kingston many years, a portion of her time being spent in one of our charitable institutions. She thinks she is drowning, and has lately become dangerous. Her affliction was produced by intemperance.

A QUAKERS' SPLIT.

The Sensation Among an Unusually Quiet Community in Prince Edward County.

Some time ago we gave an account of a difficulty between two sections of the Quaker Community in Prince Edward County. The society is recognized by the laws of the Province, and the Quakers were until 1867 united with and sent yearly delegates to the New York yearly meeting of Friends, when they were set apart by the parent body and established as a distinct society, called and known as the "Canada Yearly Meeting of Friends." The Westlake monthly Meeting of Friends is a subordinate society and is recognized by it, and consists, it is said, of about one hundred members, the greater number of whom reside in the county of Prince Edward. In May, 1881, certain lots on which this meeting house now stands, in Hallowell Township were deeded to Jonathan Clark, Daniel Haight and Gilbert Dorland, trustees, for the consideration of $60. After the death of the above mentioned parties now trustees were appointed.

POINTS OF DIFFERENCE.

The same property is used as a burying ground by the Friends. In June, 1881, certain members of this Westlake Society left their brethren and formed another branch, which, it is alleged, was not recognized by the older Society of Friends either in this Province or the parent body in New York. The defendants now claim the use and enjoyment of the meeting house used by the Westlake monthly meeting of Friends. On Sunday, Dec. 24, 1882, the defendants forcibly took possession of the building and remained there for some time. This act of violence was repeated a few days later when an axe was used to demolish the door, and it is charged the defendants there beat those of the plaintiffs whom they found within the church of God. The latter ordered the former out, but they declined to go. The defendants continued to make threats that they would forcibly enter the church if they were not allowed to have possession peaceably, but this was refused to them. The defendants then appointed trustees of the property, claiming that the plaintiffs have not been legally appointed trustees under the trust deed.

THE CASE IN COURT.

John T. Dorland et al brought an action for damages against Gilbert Jones et al as the best way of determining their rights. The trouble began with the laying down of a new discipline by the Society of Friends in New York. A few years ago the delegates from the Westlake Society agreed to adopt the new discipline. The plaintiffs were willing to conform to the new rules and therefore contended that they were entitled to the church property, but the defendants demurred and signified their intention of worshipping in the same manner as in years past. The points of difference are peculiar. For instance one party does not believe in singing while the other does. Again one party wishes to wait in the meeting till the Spirit moves them, whereas the second part does not.

DECISION OF THE JUDGE.

Judgment has not yet been given in the case, but in the meantime the Chancery Court has ordered that the defendants should have the use of West Lake Meeting house on the same terms on which they occupied it previous to the suit.

Canadian and American Soldiers.

John Coulter, a gunner and driver belonging to "F" Battery, R.S.G., and Henry Meyers, a sergeant from a United States artillery corps, have been spending their furloughs in Toronto. Yesterday they met, in a barber's shop, and after each had expressed himself very strongly in favor of the uniform worn by the other, agreed to exchange, and to return to their batteries, each in his new uniform. Shortly after they separated the detectives set about arresting them—Coulter for disposing of the Queen's property and Meyers for stealing it. In the meantime Meyers had been told by some of his friends of the danger he was in, and he at once procured a suit of civilian's clothing, which he donned, still, however, wearing the Canadian boots. He was arrested by Detective Reburn.

A telegram says Meyers was before the magistrate to-day and remanded till Saturday. Coulter has not yet been arrested.

Prince Edward Fair.

The Prince Edward Agricultural Society Show was far in advance of any previous show held in the county. The weather was splendid and the attendance good. The entries numbered 1,400, twice as many as were received at the best show of previous years. There was a large display of live stock; 200 entries were received for horses, 130 for cattle, 100 for sheep, 102 for poultry, and 50 for swine. The horses in all classes were unusually fine, and Prince Edward still maintains its reputation for producing first class horses. The show of cattle and poultry was splendid; there was a large display of thoroughbred cattle. Among poultry there were some very high class birds that would have done credit to the Provincial Exhibition. There were 298 entries for grain and vegetables.

Sir John's Doubts in Kingston.

Sir John Macdonald has lately been a frequent visitor of the Salvation Army in Kingston, observes the Toronto Evening News. Now suppose Sir John should be converted, would his sins be forgiven? But the despatches from Kingston just say that the Premier visited the meetings and created a sensation. They don't tell whether he was visibly affected or not. Perhaps the wily statesman just wants to make a good impression on the Kingstonians, who are crazy over the Salvation Army. There is probably no city on the continent where the Salvation Army is so well treated as in Kingston. If Sir John wants to represent the Limestone city again he is pursuing a wily policy.

MORE THAN HONOR.

A Presentation at the Tuton Hotel—A Young Benedict's Gift and How it Surprised Him.

Some time since our young friend and citizen, Mr. W. J. Livingston, became a benedict, and the event elicited from the circle in which he moved congratulations in profusion. Some were not disposed to content themselves with verbal evidences of their joy. They decided upon a presentation, and this took place last evening in Thornton's dining hall. At 8 o'clock the following "boys" met Mr. Livingston and escorted him in to the feast of oysters and their adjuncts: Messrs. J. L. Whiting, R. J. Kilbock, A. Abernethy, H. Lecroix, W. Allen, F. N. Moore, S. Marshall, J. Hersey, W. J. Burns, J. McCammon, J. Wadhill, J. Crawford, W. J. Robertson, J. Murray, W. Gault, G. Smith and Captain Saunders. Mr. Whiting was called to the chair.

The Chairman later on said a grateful duty had been committed to him. He read the following:

BRIEF AND POINTED ADDRESS:

DEAR SIR,—We meet to-night for a double purpose—to congratulate you upon the auspicious event in which you and a dozen one were recently participants; and to present you with that which will mark our affection for you and be a remembrancer of our happy relations.

Some of us have been boys with you, have grown side by side to manhood, and developed simultaneously into that state whence begins the responsibilities of life; others have known you for a very long period, and, with the friends of your youth, have learned to respect you and become deeply interested in all that concerns your welfare. Our union to-night is happily conceived, and we hope you, with us, will carry away many lasting and pleasurable impressions of the occasion.

Accept at our hands a gift which silently expresses the emotions of our heart.

A MUCH SURPRISED MAN.

Mr. Livingston, whose face was wreathed with smiles, said he had been taken completely by surprise. In consenting to join his friends in an oyster supper he did not dream of such kindness as they had evinced. The gift—a beautiful silver waterpitcher, gold lined, suitably engraved—he accepted with gratitude, and hoped that he would be able to show them his appreciation by and bye.

The health of the bride and groom were drunk, Mr. Livingston again responding.

RECALLING A FAMOUS TOUR.

The Chairman recalled the circumstance, that a few months ago the member had been "presented" with a token of public esteem, at Gananoque, in the course of a pleasure trip and on the eve it was thought of an important matrimonial event. Things had not gone as they calculated; as the prospective father-in-law remarked the "token" was "a little premature." He hoped the occasion would soon arise for a realization of long cherished hopes. Every one in the room shouted "hallelujah," and with grace from Kilbock the company adjourned from Old Sam's to the Opera House.

Kerry Gow Performance.

Mr. Joseph Murphy, the popular Irish comedian, supported by an excellent company, appeared in the Opera House last night before a large audience. In the production of "Kerry Gow" he assumed the character of "Dan O'Hara," and his acting had a most telling effect. His devotion for his sweetheart, his love for his friend and manly bearing toward his enemy, accompanied with his natural Irish wit, won for him applause that any actor might be proud of. His acting is most natural, and at times one would almost realize himself in "Old Ireland" as a witness of the reality. The Company stand among the first in the rank, and is everywhere received with enthusiasm and delight. We trust that "Dan" may be in no hurry to "Leave the country."

The orchestra, under the leadership of Mr. Telgmann, gave evidence of improvement. The young men should be encouraged in their musical efforts.

The Lights o' London.

This play, which will be produced to-morrow evening, is one of the strongest of the recent productions of celebrated English melodramatic writers, written especially with a view to strong scenic effect and the introduction of stage mechanism and ingenuity not necessary or essential to the success of light dramatic works. The plot of Lights o' London has continuity, the characters are well developed, and the scenes and situations vividly dramatic and effective. It abounds in striking and sensational stage pictures, and exciting and holds the interest of the auditors from the opening of the first act until the closing scene of its representation. Lavish promise had been made of gorgeous scenic display, and faithfully were they fulfilled.

A Soldier's Death.

A melancholy accident at the Citadel, Quebec, yesterday, caused the death of Corporal Hunter, a member of the Shifting Ordnance team which is to participate in a competition with "E" Battery in Kingston on Monday next. The team was engaged in unlimbering a gun, and had reached the stage when the piece of ordnance was being rolled from the gun carriage to the slide, which were to conduct it to the ground, when the end of one of the slide slipped from the carriage and the weight upon that end caused the other to cant up in the air, striking the deceased under the chin with such force as to break his neck. He was aged about 25 and was to have been married next week. He had only lately arrived from the Shoeburyness competition.

Telephone Line Completed.

Mr. Freeman has gone to the head office, Toronto, to report we presume his completion of the Eastern district of the new telephone line. The force which he employed was disbanded before his departure. We will soon be able to talk to people in Belleville and Napanee as freely as we talk to each other a few block apart in this city.

LECTURE ON DIGESTION.

A Matter of Public Interest—Other Subjects in the Collegiate Institute Course.

The first of Dr. Fenlan's lectures on Physiology was delivered last evening in the Collegiate Institute at 8 p.m. The audience was small as it was not generally understood that the first lecture would be given so soon. The subject was Digestion. The lecturer proceeded to say that the lips conceal the teeth and close the mouth to prevent the food from escaping. The teeth are 32 in number in the adult; the first ones appear about the seventh month, the last ones, or wisdom teeth, about 20 years of age. The food is mixed with the saliva in the mouth, the saliva being secreted by the submaxillary, the carotid and sublingual glands. The saliva converts the starch of food into sugar. The food being fully masticated is passed into the pharynx and thence into the stomach. There it is mixed with the juices secreted by the coatings of the stomach and it undergoes certain chemical changes and is passed into the duodenum. At this point it meets the bile, a secretion from the liver. The main use of the bile is to emulsify the fats of food. The pancreas also adds its quota of secretion. As the food is passed along the intestine its nutritious portions are absorbed by the villi, passed in to the lymphatics, and finally carried into the torrent of the blood's circulation.

We have given a mere outline of his interesting lecture. The second one will be delivered next Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, and will be illustrated by diagrams, thus making the instruction clear and interesting. On Friday evening Mr. T. H. McGuire, Q.C., will give his first lecture on Commercial Law and on Monday evening Mr. D. A. Givens his first one on Political Economy. The lectures are all free to the public and should be attended by everybody.

SHORTHAND AND TYPE-WRITING.

Of all the arts upon the college curriculum, however, the most practical and just now one of the most remunerative is Shorthand. Along with this goes type-writing. These two are so extensively used in the United States that in a few years hence longhand or ordinary penmanship will be at a discount, and archeologists will be hunting for longhand writers as specimens for museums.

Principal Grant's Tour.

Rev. Dr. Grant, Queen's College, who has just returned to Ontario with Sandford Fleming from a trip through the Rock river route of the Canadian Pacific, reports Major Rogers, in charge of the Rocky Mountain survey, having successfully achieved a triumph for a direct line. There are three distinct passes, as follows: In the Rockies proper, Kicking Horse; in the Selkirk range, Gingers' pass; and in the gold or Columbia range, Eagle pass. This virtually settles a long disputed question, and gives the Canadian Pacific the shortest of all trans-continental railways. From Winnipeg to Port Moody on the Pacific is only about one thousand four hundred and eighty miles, whereas from Portland to St. Paul is one thousand nine hundred and eleven miles. Another interesting fact is that it will present the most striking and picturesque scenery of all trans-continental railways. The mountains on Bow River, on Kicking Horse, and in the Selkirks are singularly grand and beautiful. Principal Grant has proved the Rockies now by four distinct passes, and knows whereof he speaks.

Mr. Sandford Fleming made the quickest trip on record by the overland route from Montreal to Victoria, Vancouver Island. He left Montreal on the 11th August and Prince Arthur's Landing on the 17th, travelling on the Canada Pacific Railway to the end of the track. He then sailed up the Bow River to Calgarry, and made direct for the Kicking Horse Pass, 180 miles from the former place. Mr. Fleming next proceeded on horseback and otherwise to the Pacific, reaching Vancouver on the 27th of September. He thus made the overland journey in forty-six days.
