CITY AND VICINITY.

Fire in the Bleacher.

On Saturday evening when an alarm was rung fire was discovered in the sawdust bleaching box of Bates' broom factory, Princess Street. It was soon put out. The Chief will draw Mr Bates' attention to the fact that he is not acting in conformity with the fire by-law.

No Trace of Him Yet.

The furniture and books of Trevelyan Ridout, the eccentric barrister, Toronto, who mysteriously disappeared some days ago, were sold under a distress warrant for rent by the Court Bailiff. No one has heard of him yet, and many believe he has absended.

Montreal Presbytery.

A special meeting of the Montreal Presbytery was held on Friday to moderate in the call of the Rev Mr Houston, of Athelstan, Quebec, to the Brock Street Presbyterian Church, Kingston. Mr Thomas Cumming, moderator, was in the chair and the usual proceedings were taken.

The Digging of Wells.

Owing to the high water rates several manufacturers are sinking wells from which they hope to secure a sufficient quantity of water to feed the boilers and supply other purposes. A great well is being blasted out at Bajus's brewery and another at Stevenson & Co's. piano factory.

Mr. J. N. Gibbon's Statement.

John N. Gibbon insists that his indebtedness to the Republic Iron Company was incurred legitimately. He admits that he owes $300,000 but claims that his assets in iron mining stock, metal, vessel property and real estate are appraised at a value of $1,030,000. He says that he has secured debts not to exceed $75,000.

What She Plays Here.

Mrs. Langtry appears here on November 13th as "Lady Teazle" in "A School for Scandal." The agent will be in Kingston this week, when the question of prices will be settled. In Montreal the seats sell at $1.50, $1 and 75 cents. From the very flattering criticisms of the English papers it may be taken for granted that the actress has greatly improved during her vacation.

Regrets Her Departure.

Mrs. Smith, of Toronto, went to Winnipeg some time ago and became the proprietress of the Brunswick House one of the best hostelries. She recently sold out and skipped, leaving many creditors. Frank Rigney, the well known liquor merchant, has reason to mourn her very sudden departure, as he had a little bill against her for groceries and liquors to the extent of $1,000 or $1,100.

Send it Over Here.

The Rome banks are still receiving Canada silver at par, but the officers say that if the banks in other places make a discount on it they will be compelled to. They say that about one-quarter of the silver handled by them is of Canadian coinage. This is why we are so scarce of change. The move of the Americans will have a most desirable effect in sending back here the silver which we so much require. Keep the discounting up.

Accident to Col. Villiers.

Just after mounting Adjutant Ponton's fine Vespucius horse at the Dufferin House Friday afternoon, Col. Villiers, says the Ottawa, met with an accident which inconvenienced him considerably for the balance of the day. The animal being a high-spirited one, though perfectly gentle and easily managed, the rider was not sufficiently cautious about the use of the spurs, and in front of the Central Wood Yard on Pinnacle Street, Col. Villiers was thrown to the ground. He struck on the back of his head which rendered him almost insensible for a time, but with commendable pluck he sprang to his feet, ordered a carriage and proceeded to the cricket field to inspect the 15th Battalion.

A Handsome Present.

During the past summer R. C. Murray, B.A., has been labouring as a missionary in the Grand Valley group of Presbyterian mission stations embracing Chatsel, Elton and Humeville. As the result of Mr. Murray's labors, the people of Humeville, about ten miles north of Brandon, have been led to erect during the past season a neat and commodious church. The subscriptions for the building fund will be sufficient to finish the building free of debt. The church was opened for divine service a short time ago by Rev. D. McCannel, of Carberry. Mr. Murray, before returning to Queen's College to continue his studies in the theological department, was presented with a purse of $420.

The Ontario Diocese has done its full share in the contributions.

Kingston Diocese.

The Bishop's health upon arrival at Rome was excellent.

Father Fleming, late of Picton, after his month's trip west, will do duty in Kingston.

Father O'Shea, the priest lately arrived from Ireland, officiated on Wolfe Island for Father Spratt yesterday. Father Nixon, who accompanied him out, was ordained priest in Toronto yesterday and left for Kingston to-day. In a day or two both will be assigned to places as assistant priests in the Diocese.

The Bishop's late pastoral, a powerful exposition of the Roman faith and most eloquent and ornate in its diction, has been distributed and will reach every house in the Diocese. His Lordship's reference to the Salvation Army is unmistakable and severe. He laments the absence of a "popular Catholic press" here. Yet that is precisely what the Kingston papers are—Catholic, universal, open to all.

"B" Battery Sports.

On Saturday afternoon the continuation of the sports in connection with "B" Battery occurred on Barriefield Common. The following were the prize-winners:

Old Soldiers' Race.—Bomb. O'Halloran, Sergt. Pugh.

Non-Commissioned Officers' Race.—Bomb. Potts, Bomb. Brough, Sergt. Jordan.

Three-legged Race.—Gnr. Wallach and Campbell, Gnr. Robinson and Tuplill, Gnr. Hutchinson and Whanley, Gnr. Wright and Fetterson.

Hurdle Race.—This was no race, as the first hurdle was not jumped.

Half-mile handicap race (foot) ran instead of throwing hammer.—Gnr. Hutchinson, Gnr. John, Gnr. Potts, Gnr. Tuplill.

Weather Probabilities.

Moderate fresh winds, cloudy in this neighborhood with local rains, stationary or slightly higher temperature.

DULY CONSECRATED

THE NEW ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH AT SHARBOT LAKE—THE PROCEEDINGS OF YESTERDAY.

Excursions from Kingston and Cataraqui—Full Trains—First Mass—An Eloquent Sermon by Father Stanton—Offering of Nearly Five Hundred Dollars—Pleasant Trip and Safe Return.

As expected the Sunday pilgrimage to Sharbot Lake, in connection with the dedication of St. James Roman Catholic Church, was largely attended, in spite of this being the second within a few months to the same place, with only a difference in the ceremonies. It was, however, another of those popular testimonials to Father Twohey, which it gives Roman Catholic citizens pleasure to repeat. This zealous young priest, as Chairman of Separate Schools, Chancellor of the Diocese, Chaplain at the Penitentiary, priest in the Cathedral and House of Providence in regular service, was so regarded as loaded with work that it was a surprise when he undertook also mission work in North Frontenac, where the administrations of all the churches have been badly needed. For many months he has visited the scattered homes of churchmen in all weathers, holding services occasionally, that none should lack the sacraments. That his laborious visits and pleasant manners are appreciated cannot be doubted, since many have now seen most affectionate greetings and demonstrations of gratitude from his new parishioners. This Spring Father Twohey resolved to venture upon the erection of a church, and the people of the district subscribed very liberally out of their limited means. The parishioners of Kingston, Loughboro and Bedford, supplemented by handsome gifts from the railroad contractors operating in the section, made handsome offerings in cash. In May the corner stone was laid, and within three months mass has been held. Father Twohey's energy had again borne rapid fruit. People do not realize the weight of such work because the railroad has brought it near home, but there is as laborious, as trying, as zealous work done in the rough, sparsely settled regions of North Frontenac—by Anglican, Presbyterian, Methodist and Roman alike—as in many foreign lands, missions to which are surrounded with all the romance and sacrifice the mind can picture. The experience of any week in winter will easily provide the proof of this.

THE TRIP OUT.

The weather was charming, the trip a delightful one, none too cool. The Administrator of the Diocese, Monsignore Farrelly, headed the party, which as Glenvale, Marvale, Harrowsmith, Verona and almost every other station, received large accessions. At Bedford Station Father Stanton and over two hundred of his parishioners (all of whom had driven many miles and thereby demonstrated warm interest) took passage. The liberal accommodation secured by the Committee did not fully meet the need, but such miscalculations have their pleasant features. The incidents of the trip were few, but chief of them was a collision with two cows of Patrick Judge near Sharbot, one being killed and a second injured. One agreeable omission was noted, of all appearance of work on the farms, lamentably conspicuous in a few cases on the last Sunday trip. Sabbatarians will say that this remark savors of a Satan rebuking sin, but there is some apology even in their eyes for a trip to a religious ceremony. It was also impossible not to notice that the credit of Kingston ladies for good looks is shared in more generally than their home admirers will set out by the healthy, well dressed girls of North Frontenac.

ARRIVAL AND DISPOSITION.

The train's arrival at Sharbot Station was preceded by that of over 200 visitors from the North as far as Calabogie, whither Frank Cicolari had gone to take charge of the excursion. A still larger crowd would have come but for a kindred ceremony taking place in Ottawa Diocese and dividing attention. More vehicles could not have been accommodated in the Church, and a greater crowd might have led to disappointment. All that happens is for the best, as says the good old maxim. St. James' is a neat brick church with lofty ceiling, well ventilated and lighted. Its site is a high and beautiful one commanding a long view of the lake in front and rear, and overtopping the village completely. Almost alongside stands the Presbyterian Church, an evidence of still more rapid progress, as it has grown into form and been dedicated since the laying of the corner stone of St. James.

MANY KINDLY OFFERINGS.

Conspicuously displayed was an acknowledgement of these offerings to the new church:

Wm. Doran, Sharbot—Site.
John A. Griffiths, Sharbot—Timber.
House of Providence, Kingston—White Vestments.
L'Hotel Dieu, Kingston—Red Vestments.
John Ronan, Kingston—Stations of Cross.
Boys of Christian Brothers' School, Kingston—Crucifix, candlesticks and pictures of the Sacred Heart.
Mrs. J. McGowan, Kingston—Chalice.
Mrs. R. Cunningham, Kingston—Chasuble.
J. Kelley, Kingston—Book stand.
Mr. and Mrs. Balmer—Missal and Altar Cards, presented on their wedding day.
Capt. Sughrue, Kingston—Sanctuary Chimes.
Mrs. Sughrue, Kingston—Holy Water Vase.
Miss M. B. Waters, Kingston—Crucifix.
Misses Keith and Brannigan, Kingston—Vases.
W. M. Drennan, Kingston—Pyx Dove.
John Twohey, Lindsay—Sanctuary Lamp.

THE CEREMONIAL.

The ceremony of consecration was performed about 10 o'clock within and without by Monsignore Farrelly, the procession around the outside of the Church being composed of Bishop, priests and acolytes, followed by St. Mary's Cathedral choir, of Kingston, chanting the invocations. Upon the admission of the people High Mass was celebrated, with Father McWilliams as priest, and Fathers Twohey and Spratt as Deacons. Father McWilliams had done a deal of laborious service in North Frontenac prior to Father Twohey's visits, and none could more fittingly perform the first mass. The selection was Millard's Mass in G, which is interspersed with a number of beautiful solos and duets. The solos in the "Kyrie" were spiritedly sung by Miss A. Kane. In the "Gloria," Mrs. P. O'Reilly sang "Qui Tollis" with much expression. In the "Credo" the solos "Genitum non Factum," was rendered with light and shade by Miss Lillie Walsh, and the "Incarnatus" by Mr. C. Kane displayed his high tenor voice to much advantage. The "Sanctus" and "Agnus Dei," by Misses M. Kane, Walsh and Mr. J. Ryan were fitting accompaniments. The choruses were all artistic, and Prof. Des Rochers presided at the organ with his accustomed ability.

THE SERMON

was an eloquent, chaste deliverance of Father Stanton, of the adjoining parish of Westport and Bedford. The text was

"Indeed the Lord is in this place and I knew it not, and trembling he said, How terrible is this place, this is no other but the House of God and the gate of Heaven."—Genesis 28 16, 17.

The preacher spoke of the joy and pride which stirred the hearts of the people when they contemplated the marvellous change which in so short a time had taken place upon that spot. Who would have imagined a few years ago that the awful loneliness of the forest, broken only by the Indian and the hardy trapper, would give way to the sound of a church going bell, calling people to that chaste building, fitting emblem of apostolic zeal, a joyful spectacle, since it was the very abode of God. From the good old city of Kingston, rich in its examples of devotion and generosity, like a true mother, tenderly mindful of her less favored children in the diocese, many came to witness a grand act of devotion, this dedication to the true and living God. Mother Church, through one of her prelates, transmuted the material character of the edifice to the highest purpose, true worship, the source of all help and consolation. He congratulated the zealous priest, whose presence alone prevented his speaking of his energies and virtues as he deserved.

OUR OWN MISSION.

He then sketched the rise of worship at altars and in churches. The ground upon which Jacob's ladder rested, where an angel touched the ground, was made sacred to God's service; Abraham erected altars of sacrifice; David longed and fainted for the Courts of the Lord; Solomon raised the first temple and filled it with His majesty, as His own chosen place for habitation. Thus patriarch, priest and prophet had laboured to fittingly serve the living God. But passing realities had replaced types, in the fulfillment of prophecy, until seal in the erection of homes of God was world wide and beneficent. The Church meets man in his infantile weakness and hereditary taint of original sin and places the heavenly sign of forgiveness upon his brow; in confirmation it recovers him, commits him and places the helmet of salvation upon his head; in holy communion from a table of love and mystery it gives forth the Saviour's oil of salvation, and welcomes the penitent wanderer with joy; and at last it pronounces the last blessing and sends him in holy rites and blessed privileges to rise in judgment, thus shielding him, loving him, wooing him from the

CRADLE TO THE GRAVE.

What would the faithful men of old have given to kneel as they had done that day before the Babe of Bethlehem? There were in and about this temple no thunders, lightnings or mystic stars, but yet He was there at the sacrifice of body mass, that offering through which sins were forgiven, the weak strengthened, the fallen raised, the sick healed. For the Christian privileges of to-day they should be reverent and grateful. If there was not cause for gratitude there would be no church, no altar, no service. Of old men dug up hills to get the choicest marble for a magnificent cathedral, and brought adornments from all quarters of the world, and the preacher made a fervent appeal to the people to help according to their means to relieve the debt upon the Church. The sermon was very highly spoken of for ability and also made an impression, for an offering of $400 was made immediately, including $100 from Hugh Ryan, the contractor, and $50 from P. Browne, Kingston. The Church will cost over $4,000.

REMOVAL THANKS.

Monsignore Farrelly, in the name of the Church, thanked all who had assisted in building a church so creditable to the diocese, to the benefactors, to Father Twohey and to his scattered parishioners. He was aware of the sacrifices made and prayed for a continued blessing upon their labors.

AN INTERESTING CONCLUSION.

Father Twohey announced several banns of marriage, the service on the following Sunday, and the obligations of All Saints' and All Souls' Days, and as a concluding ceremony called before the altar Martin Cannon and Margaret Trandran who were united and received a fervent blessing for a happy future of the first union consummated in the new church. Dinner was partaken of at Perry's Hotel, (300 meals being served) and at four o'clock the train left for Kingston, arriving at 6:30. Supt. Folger took personal charge of the trip for the Company and the following committee organized and conducted it for Father Twohey: John O'Brien, A. Hanley, Jas. McManus, P. Daly, John Behan, F. Cicolari, Dr. Phelan, W. Leahy, Wm. Duffy and F. Smith. The Sisters of the House of Providence decorated the altar on Saturday. The organ sent out broke down, and the Presbyterian Church authorities showed good fellowship by lending theirs for the service.

WHAT THE PEOPLE SAY; OR

Jottings from Conversations with Our Customers.

"What a splendid Store you have now. The alterations are a great improvement."—Miss M.

"Well! you certainly can claim now to have the finest Store in the city. It looks exceedingly well when lighted up."—Mr. D.

"You must do an unusually large trade. I have repeatedly noticed that you are busy when others are doing nothing."—Miss Mac.

"Tell me how it is that you can retail these goods lower than I pay wholesale for them in Montreal."—R.G., Country Merchant.

"I was attracted first to your Store by the One Price system. I often found, when buying at other places, that my neighbour had purchased the same goods at the same price for fifty cents a pair less than I did because he beat down the price and I didn't."—Fraser.

"We have bought from you ever since you opened, and have been well satisfied. You get all our trade now, and it amounts to considerable in a year besides those that we have recommended to you."—C.C.

"We have come 20 miles to buy our Boots and Shoes from you, and have saved enough on these few pairs to pay our fare several times over."—C. from B.

"I have friends in the Shoe business that I have to deal with sometimes when I want Boots for the children; but if I require a pair for myself, I always come to you. I find you have a better assortment of new fitting Boots."—Mrs. H.
