Dated 4th Feb., 82.

CITY COUNCIL REPORT,

the track with macadam. Trusting that at no distant date the population of Williamsville will increase and enable them to run their cars regularly, without such a heavy loss as has hitherto been sustained in operating that portion of the road.

Ald. Allen said the question occurred, can the Company abandon that portion of the road? He was informed that some had built houses in Williamsville in the expectation of having the cars to travel to and fro from the business part of the city. It would be unjust to these people to allow the cars to stop running altogether.

Mr. Agnew pointed out that the agreement with the Street Railway Company contained clauses which amounted to a covenant.

Ald. Smythe said that the question was largely one of law, hence he moved that the communication be referred to the Streets' Committee, which could have the City Solicitor, and if necessary the Company's Solicitor, before them. The language of the agreement led him to imply that the Company had the right they claimed in so far as the abandonment of a portion of the line was concerned.

The motion was carried.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From Johnson Day, offering to purchase lot 20, Hay Market.—Referred to the Committee on Streets.

From J. Duffy, in reference to taxes.—Referred to the Committee on Streets.

From Lieut. Donaldson, Secretary of Dominion Rifle Association, asking for a grant towards the funds for defraying the expenses of sending another artillery team to Shoeburyness.—Referred to the Finance Committee.

From G. A. Kirkpatrick, asking for a grant of $2,850 towards the maintenance of the High School, payable quarterly in order to meet the teachers' salaries when due.

From Dr. Lavell, on behalf of the Medical Council, asking for the use of the Ontario Hall for the medical examinations which commence on the 4th of April.—Granted.

From Samuel Self, applying for the appointment of poundkeeper, at $16 per month and fees.—Referred.

PETITIONS.

Ald. Allen—The petition of the Mr. Gallivan for "more light" on Ordnance street, between Rideau and Montreal streets.—Referred to the Fire, Water & Gas Committee.

Ald. Gordon—The petition of the widow of the late James Brown for assistance.—Referred to the Finance Committee.

Ald. McCammon—The petition of the Evangelical Alliance, mentioned elsewhere.—Referred to the Police and License Commissioners.

Ald. Allen created a laugh by suggesting the reference of the matter to the Committee on Tavern Licenses.

Ald. Gordon—The petition of Thos. O'Brien in regard to taxes.—Referred to the Court of Revision.

Ald. J. Carson—The petition of G. S. Swan respecting the taxation of a dog, of which he was not possessed.—Referred to the Court of Revision.

Ald. McIntyre—This is cur-sory business.

SIR ROGER DE COVERLY.

Ald. R. J. Carson moved that the Council adjourn.

Ald. McIntyre—You can't move an adjournment when there's a motion before the Chair. I gave notice of this. I move, seconded by Ald. Smythe, that Ald. McCammon be appointed to the present vacancy on the Streets' Committee.

At this time several Alderman had left the Chamber, and in it but eight remained.

Ald. Wilson—That's one on you.

Ald. Dupuis—We ought to go right on. The Mayor is not supposed to know that these men have retired.

Ald. McIntyre—No. I press the motion.

The Mayor read the motion, (amid laughter inside and outside of the Chamber.) and Ald. McIntyre declared the motion carried.

It is a significant fact that the Mayor did not pronounce the motion adopted. It was rather amusing to hear an Alderman say His Worship was not supposed to know that the Council had not a quorum when the general break up occurred in his presence and while he was attentively noting the proceedings.

The Council adjourned at 11 o'clock.

A Vexed Clergyman.

FOR EVER.

I loved you—loved you—love you now,
And loved you then—and shall love well
A thousand thousand years to come,
Whatever Death may have to tell!

I loved you then; you do not know,
But you and I were near together
A thousand thousand years ago,
In some forgotten Summer weather.

I cannot see the place; and yet
I think the heavens and earth drew nigh
In closer love; for Time was young,
The stars were budding in the sky.

And the great sun shone broad and bright
In new-born gladness; like a flower
The moon hung in the purple night;
And we, like children, hour by hour.

Learned some new lore at Nature's lips,
And with her growth went hand in hand
One with the stars and streams and seas
Of that forgotten wondrous land.

And now the ancient memories stir,
The ancient life wells fresh and strong;
The earth is old and gray—yet still
She keeps the rhythm and the song—

The song whose strain we still discern,
Although the words are lost for aye;
The anthem of the morning stars,
That rings throughout Eternity!

And all my later life has kept—
Since o'er the first Time's curtain fell—
Is this: I love you—love you now,
And love you then, and shall love well
A thousand thousand years to come,
Whatever Death may have to tell!

G. A. Davis.

MUSIC IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

DEAR SIR,—Among the varied accomplishments now bestowed so liberally in the education of youth none holds a higher place than the divine art of music. None is more cultivated, none more misused, and none more perverted. The causes are too numerous to be given just now. For many years I have observed the lack of facilities by which the great mass of the youth of our city could be taught the rudiments of vocal music. Instrumental music is common enough among a certain class of young ladies, but few gentlemen are musical. And how very few of the former have a correct knowledge of vocal music. A knowledge of vocal music very materially aids the instrumental performer. But there are hundreds of another class who are daily taught in our common schools whose parents have not the means to employ instrumental teachers. That provision should be made. Formerly there were singing schools in the city. Now there are none. Forty years ago I had the pleasure and profit of attending a singing school, with about 60 or 70 other youths and adults, in what was then known as the "Line Barracks," opposite the Sydenham Street Methodist Church taught by a Mr. Deane, a very efficient teacher, and more recently one in Colborne Street taught by the late Mr. Harback, also a very good teacher. Now, sir, if I had the means I would endow a scholarship of music in the common schools of Kingston, and also a chair in music in Queen's University. I may accomplish it some day. The School Board should adopt a musical text book and make vocal music an elementary study. If the present teachers are not competent they should employ a good teacher of vocal music. They would then immortalize their names. The teacher might spend half an hour in each school once a week, or oftener if required. To the honor of music it has been observed that it was the first of the arts, having preceded the rest in the order of time, and that it is much to be honored in this that it will exist when they can no longer be of use, and survive improved when all others shall be forgotten. If our intelligent School Board would introduce and establish this very valuable branch of education it would be a very pleasing relief and an exciting stimulant to the pupils in their other studies. Our children are taught to speak correctly, to read correctly, and they ought also to be taught to sing correctly. They would then be able to read and sing music at sight as they now read ordinary class books. In the elements of all science it is perhaps of as much consequence to avoid mistakes as to give knowledge, as it is more difficult to clear the mind from the wrong deductions arising from one false idea than to engraft on it new ones. Hence the greater necessity for inculcating correct ideas of vocal sound in the youthful mind. They would not then sing by imitation, but being once instructed they would use their own gifts. A taste for music would be cherished and be likely to find exercise in the songs of our sanctuaries, which is greatly needed at the present time. "Our congregational singing affects our national piety." It is a melancholy truth that many of the churches have given their singing over to a few, who praise God by proxy. Is it not painful to know that often while pious lips are mute this part of the service is a solemn mockery, conducted by a trifling choir and calculated to raise feelings bordering on disgust in the minds of educated Christians, or invite the censure and receive the scoffs of the worldly wise? In the worship of the sanctuary there is not a more solemn, interesting, spiritual and profitable part in devotional music. Surely a gift so helpful to moral and religious feeling should not be neglected. Especially should our School Board furnish the proper instruction to the youth of our city, so that music would be universally diffused. Music is potent for good. More anon.

Yours, etc.,

G. W. A.
