Hancock's Inspirator

IS THE MOST ECONOMICAL APPLIANCE KNOWN for feeding boilers or pumping purposes, on account of the great range of its duty, and the small expenditure of steam required for working it. It is intended to take the place of Pumps and Injectors and may be used in their stead to great advantage. It differs materially, both in its

Construction & Working Qualities

from the class of boiler feeders known as injectors—inasmuch as it has one set of tubes for lifting and another set of tubes for forcing water—a combination entirely new, reliable and efficient. They are simple to operate, always ready for use and altogether a very reliable feed for boilers.

PAMPHLETS OF INSTRUCTION furnished on application, also testimonials if required. We guarantee every Inspirator according to recommendation or no charge.

WILL YOU EXCHANGE A CASE OF Dyspepsia!

—OR—

BILIOUSNESS

—FOR

75 CENTS?

It is awfully unwise to agonize under the many ailments arising from Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Disordered Stomach and Liver, when this offer is made to you in your own home in all sincerity, with an absolute certainty of curing you.

ZOPESA (from Brazil) cures Dyspepsia and Biliousness. A single dose relieves: a sample bottle convinces: a 75 cent bottle cures.

It acts directly upon the Stomach, Liver, and Kidneys.

Cleansing, Correcting, Regulating, Zopesa gives energy and vim to the Brain, Nerve and Muscle, simply by working wonders upon the Digestion, and giving activity to the Liver.

Cut this out, take it to any dealer in medicines, and get at least one 75 cent bottle of Zopesa, and tell your neighbor how it acts. It is warranted to cure Dyspepsia and Biliousness. April 18.

IN MEMORIAM.

(Almonte Gazette).

Bessie, the beloved young wife of the Rev. A. C. Chambers, minister of the Canada Methodist Church at Easton's Corners. She went home April 22nd, 1882.

"She is not dead."

She is not dead, the beautiful evangel,
Although the shroud her once fair form enfolds;
She lives enfranchised in the 'bright hereafter,'
Where her dilated eye sweet heaven beholds.

She is not dead, 'twas more like bright translation,
She pass'd so calm, like sighing winds away,
Or like some lovely flower, each day slow fading
Nipped by the early frost of death's decay.

She is not dead, she lives among her people,
She won their hearts, and still she's fondly there,
Enshrined with all their sweetest recollections,
And all their hallowed memories bright and fair.

Can she be dead, with that calm sweet expression
That glorifies her sleeping form the while?
Is it a giant, sent from heaven's open portal,
That lights her pale face with such peaceful smile?

Strange fancies come to us, what she'll be doing
Amid the mighty wonders of the skies,
What vast, stupendous glories she'll be viewing,
What gorgeous scenes will burst upon her eyes!

What rapturous meetings with departed kindred,
And dear friends fondly loved in days of yore;
What tales they'll tell her of heaven's fadeless beauties,
The exquisite delights for her in store!

What thrilling songs, from heaven's uncounted millions,
Like floating waves of joy shall on her roll,
And she will join the hallelujah's chorus,
Feeling that Christ's sweet peace pervades the whole.

We wonder if she'll leave these joys ecstatic
And come at times to soothe the crushing grief,
And fill the void again her flight created
And give the hearts that mourn for her relief.

Oh, yes! She'll come and over the loved ones hover,
With all the yearning fondness still her own,
She'll fondle o'er her child with that affection
Which in the spirit land has stronger grown.

She'll come to him, her love, in dark hours lonely,
When like a pall the heavens seem o'er him bowed,
And she will show, mid darkness, brightest sunshine,
A silver lining round each sombre cloud.

She'll touch his lips with coals from off the altar,
When preaching Him who doth delight to spare
She'll thrill his soul with hallowed inspiration
When wafted heavenward on the wings of prayer.

She'll come unseen among his congregation,
And with that small still voice, say, "Peace, be still."
And those who knew her worth before translation
Will feel their hearts touched with such rapturous thrill.

Sister, farewell, and may thy ransomed spirit
Still like a halo round our pathway shine,
And may the lessons of thy pure existence
Be laid away in memory's holiest shrine.

And when we come to pass the dark lone valley,
We trust thy angel form will light the gloom,
And guide us safely o'er death's chilly river,
And land us safe on shores of changeless bloom.

Ah! There within the 'All Father's' many mansions
We fondly hope to meet the loved again,
And clasp the once pierced hand of earth's Redeemer,
And crown him love's triumphant King to reign.

Then we will bow before this dispensation,
The garb of grief fill his the Christian's form,
'Our Father's at the helm!' O! sweet assurance!
He'll land all safe triumphant o'er the storm.

Friends far away, we send to you the casket,
The jewel's gone, the spotless soul has fled.
Mid songs of birds, go deck her grave with flowers,
Emblems of her that's gone. She is not dead.

W. H. MAGEE.

Merrickville, April 24th, 1882.

DANGEROUS YOUNG WIDOW.

A Pretty Organist, a Clergyman and a Club-Swinging Acrobat—Leading in a Love Story.

(Philadelphia Times, 12th.)

A pretty widow, a clergyman and a muscular young Christian who turned flip-flaps in Barnum's circus and was billed as "the champion Indian-club swinger of America," have just created the most paralyzing sensation of the year in the social circles of the sleepy little town of Millville, New Jersey. The minister has given up his church and become a pedagogue in Newark, Barnum's club-swinger languishes in Bridgetown jail, and the fascinating young widow who caused all the trouble is in a state of lachrymose misery in Millville.

Three years ago the Rev. E. M. Braden, the son of a well-known Episcopalian divine of Salem county, became Rector of Christ Protestant Episcopal church of Millville. He was at that time about twenty-six years of age and the Millville church was his first charge. He said to be tall, dark, handsome, intelligent, studious and very bashful. When Mr. Braden came to Millville, Mrs. Kate Wells, a beautiful brunette, was the organist. She is the sister of George Payne, late member of the New Jersey Legislature, and the widow of Robert Wells, son of ex-Mayor Wells, of Millville.

SHE FALLS IN LOVE WITH VANETTA.

When Robert Wells died in a lunatic asylum, in 1877, he left behind him a widow and three children, all of whom are alive. In the following spring, before the violets bloomed on Robert's grave, his widow became quite intimate with, or, as the natives express it, "took up with" Henry Vogt, a circus acrobat, known to the public as "Harry Vanetta," who left the sawdust arena and became a shipping clerk for the glass manufacturing firm of Whitall & Taitem, of Melville. When Mrs. Wells became acquainted with Vanetta she was a teacher in one of the public schools and played the organ in Christ Church. Vanetta's marvellous tales of adventure in all parts of the world, his anecdotes of circus and threatrical life, his seeming knowledge of all sporting matters soon made him well known in the community. As his habits were regular and his associates reputable he was appointed Superintendent of the Gymnasium attached to the Melville Institute. After basking in the sunlight of Mrs. Wells' fascinating black eyes a few weeks he joined the choir of Christ Church and sang there regularly until a few days ago. It was soon set down that he and Mrs. Wells were engaged, and the Rev. Mr. Braden made his appearance on the scene.

SETTING HER CAP FOR THE MINISTER.

Then, it is said, the widow became infatuated with him, and the muscular charms of her acrobatic and club-swinging admirer were no longer appreciated. Ex-Mayor Wells, the father of her dead husband, declares that as soon as she sets eyes on the new clergyman she informed her feminine confidants that she considered him a valuable matrimonial prize package and intended to win him. Her acquaintances say that she even went so far as to map out a line of social policy that she intended pursuing when she should change her name from Wells to Braden. The radical changes she proposed making in the social circles is said to have terrified the leaders of the said circles and they took the first opportunity to warn the minister of his danger. His friends assert that after being warned he shunned the woman as a plague, but, on the other hand, Mrs. Wells' friends as stoutly assert that his vanity was tickled by the impression he had made on the susceptible relict of Robert Wells and he sought her society. For months the town was filled with the the most contradictory stories about the behavior of the minister and Mrs. Wells to each other.

BEGGING HIM TO MARRY HER.

All this time the vitals of the jilted club-swinger were being slowly but surely consumed by the fires of jealousy that raged within him. As, however, he sang in the choir and was a member of the vestry of Christ Church he was compelled to assume an air of patient resignation and grin and bear it. Finally it was currently reported that Mrs. Wells had thrown her arm around minister's neck and begged him to marry her, and that on another occasion she lured him to her home, on Sassafras Street, near the church, under the pretext of asking his advice on an important business matter, but reality to make love to him. These stories inflamed the already disturbed mind of the unhappy acrobat and he publicly declared war against his ministerial rival. Vanetta's jealousy, the undaunted widow's advances, and the scandalous rumours that were circulated made the clergyman's life anything but happy. About this time he delivered a sermon on the suffering poor and in it spoke vigorously against the hard heartedness of wealthy people. This sermon hurt the sensitive feelings of several influential members of the congregation and increased the minister's troubles. At this point the club-swinger, unable to longer control his volcano of jealousy, began publicly denouncing the clergyman and advocating the cause of Mrs. Wells, who took him back into her heart.

THE MINISTER LEAVES THE TOWN.

A meeting of the vestry was called a couple of weeks ago to consider the situation, and just after the session began the widow and her acrobatic champion entered the room for the purpose of raking the clergyman over the coals and, as Mr. Wells puts it, "raising—generally." The moment Vanetta opened fire on Mr. Braden, Vestryman Reuben Meredith, Superintendent of the Milville Gas Works, who is over six feet high, interfered and quieted the excited visitors. At the suggestion of Mr. Braden the meeting adjourned at once. Last week Vanetta wrote an open letter to the minister, and before sending it to him read and exhibited it to a number of citizens. The letter covered four pages of foolscap, and in it Vanetta charged that the minister was "a liar," "a perjurer," "a robber of female virtue," and so on. Those who have seen the letter say it is one of the most scathing, bitter and vulgar documents they ever saw. This letter created a sensation. On Saturday last Judge Alfred Reed issued a bench warrant for the club swinger's arrest on a charge of slandering Mr. Braden. Sheriff Husted arrested Vanetta on Saturday evening, and he was lodged in Bridgeton gaol. The clergyman's attorneys are Col. Potter and J. L. Van Syckel. On the same day that Vanetta was arrested the minister resigned his charge of Christ Church and went to Newark to take charge of a private school. This leaves Christ Church without a rector, but the dashing Mrs. Wells is still there to play the organ.

The Wimbledon Team.

There has been considerable talk in social and military circles about the selection of a commander for the Wimbledon team. Heretofore merit and rank have been taken into account. The gentleman, who is to have the honour is a member of the Civil Service, and until very recently was called Captain. A few years he was a strong social card and great society man, a pleasant gentleman, who was found very useful as a kind of factotum by the President of the Dominion Rifle Association when he wanted to give a lunch at the range. At the opening of the matches latterly, society has not generally smiled on the gallant Major. Society has a reason that it would not be discreet to mention, and the gallant gentleman would, no doubt, like to flourish in pastures new, and has urged his patron to get him the appointment. What he knows about military matters might easily be forgotten by a military cadet, and not be plucked at an examination, and as for his shooting ability, I am told the elephant jumbo would be quite safe, barring accident, at a hundred yards. Military men who have seen service at the front, and at the annual camps, and have honourably obtained to the rank of Colonel, feel that it is rather hard, and a step in the wrong direction to put this carpet knight into the position, over their heads. It has been suggested that he be made a Colonel at once by our War Office, so that at least he would be all right so far as rank is concerned.—Ottawa Letter.
