BE WISE

And SECURE YOUR BUILDINGS and contents from the effects of lightning, so prevalent in this country, by erecting thereon the LONDON GLOBE PATENT COPPER LIGHTNING ROD, the safest and best known to scientific men, as shown by the late practical test in London made by W. M. CARGILL, ELECTRICIAN LONDON, MANAGER DOMINION TELEGRAPH COMPANY, which also during the month of August last when in or about $50,000 worth of property was destroyed by lightning in the County of Middlesex alone, as well as in many other places through the Dominion, not a building was injured where these rods were set up although thousands were in use all over the country. The COMPANY HAS OFFERED $500 to any person who can prove otherwise, and the DOMINION INSURANCE CO'Y OF HAMILTON will now insure property where these rods are erected for ONE-TENTH LESS when application is made by this Company or their authorized agents. One or two good reliable agents wanted. Apply to J. BROKENSHIRE, Head Agent for Kingston District.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

FOR DISEASES OF THROAT AND LUNGS, SUCH AS COUGHS, COLDS, WHOOPING COUGH, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA AND CONSUMPTION.

The few compositions which have won the confidence of mankind and become household words among not only one but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one ever secured so wide a reputation, or maintained it so well and for as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It has been known to the public about forty years, by a long continued series of marvelous cures, that have won for it confidence in its virtues, never equalled by any other medicine. It still makes the in at effectual cures of Coughs, Colds and Consumption, that can be made by medical skill. Indeed, the Cherry Pectoral has really robbed those dangerous diseases of their terrors to a great extent, and given a feeling of immunity from their painful effects, that is well founded. If the remedy be taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the early and prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering and even life is saved by this timely protection. The prudent should not neglect it, and the wise will not. Keep it by you for the protection it affords by its early use in sudden attacks.

A PROMISE.

BY DR. EGGLESTON BURROWS.

"Thine eyes shall see thy teachers, and thine ears shall hear a word behind thee, saying: This is the way, walk ye in it."—Is. xxx. 20.

Thine eyes shall see thy teachers—
The ones ye loved so well;
Tho' how or when ye'll see them,
But one "small voice" can tell—
The voice that just behind thee
Warns with, "This is the way,"
And, when ye would turn from it,
Prompts thee to watch and pray.

Thine eyes shall see thy teachers—
The ones who led thee on,
And turned thy eyes far westward,
Beyond the setting sun;
Beyond earth's painful turmoil,
Where dark the water rolls,
To Beulah, Land of Promise—
To Beulah's ransomed souls

Thine eyes shall see thy teachers—
See Elohim, and all
The prophets, saints and martyrs,
Those who in armor fall;
See Christ, the Greatest Teacher
Who bore up Calvary's slope
The Cross that saves each teacher,
The scholar's grandest hope.

Thine eyes shall see thy teachers—
The dear ones who have blest
Their Master in his service,
And from their labors rest.
How rests each Christian soldier,
His knapsack now laid down
For plaudits from his Saviour
The diadem and crown.

Thine eyes shall see thy teachers
Brightest thro' hottest tear;
Whose glory is the highest,
Whose light, as crystal clear,
Is like a stone most precious,
A jasper of the wall,
Whose gates are kept by angels,
And never close at all.

Thine eyes shall see thy teachers,
Thine ears a word shall hear,
A voice which urges onward,—
Thy soul must never fear,—
The lips pray—"Come, Lord, quickly!"
The lesson scarce begun;
Tho' when ye've suffered somewhat,
Thy Lord shall say—"Well done!"

UNHAPPY IRELAND.

ITS CONDITION AS DESCRIBED BY REV. J. BELL, OF BANAGHER PERSONAL EXPERIENCES.

The Land League Denounced—Effect of Boycotting, Intimidation, Etc—Imminent Danger of some Men—Threatening Letters Sent Him

Last evening St. James' School House was filled by those who assembled to hear Rev. J. Bell lecture on the condition of Ireland. Before entering upon his subject he said he desired to thank the clergy and citizens for the cordial reception he had been accorded, and to add that he would carry away a pleasant recollection of the city, of the scenery of the noble river, and the unrivalled beauty of the Thousand Islands. He spoke fluently, gracefully, eloquently. A more popular speaker has not publicly addressed the people here for many a day. He observed that he was not officially connected with the Irish society, in whose interest he appeared, but he was acquainted with its operations, its agents, and its work. He had no hesitation in saying that it was doing God's work, it had been signally blessed by Him, and he believed that if ever peace and tranquility are to be restored in his unhappy country the lines of this Society must be pursued, and a knowledge of the word of God circulated among the people. He would avoid speaking of the present condition of Ireland but that he could not help doing so when describing the position of the Society, because the one affected the other in various ways. The ground of his argument would be firm—free from the supposition that he was drawing upon his memory, and so he read, first a synopsis of the charge of one of

IRELAND'S MOST EMINENT JUDGES.

Mr. Justice (now Lord) Fitzgerald, delivered to a jury in December last. Life, he observed, was insecure, or it was rendered so miserable as to be worthless. Right was disregarded; property was unsafe. The spirit of lawlessness and disorder was marked by an insolent defiance of the law, and only by the aid of an overwhelming military force could the processes of the law be executed. There was, too, placed in his hand a list of outrages inconsistent with the public peace, such, as if unchecked and unsuppressed, threatened the very existence of law and society. The lecturer then read a few lines from the charge of Judge Barry at the Leinster Assizes. Day after day, he said, crime and outrage of every degree were occurring—murder, incendiary fires, violent assaults, injury to property, posting of threatening letters and intimidation. Mr. Bell then entered into a recital of the experiences in his own parish, in which he was born, resided for fifty years, and was now Rector. It was remarkable in bygone years for the peace and quietness that prevailed in it. Two years ago a branch of the Land League was formed with headquarters in the little town of Banagher. At first it was directed by respectable men, who took office because it was forced upon them. The latter spirits were not satisfied with them, however, and by and bye the respectable men were thrust out. Then ensued a reign of disorder. A good many tenants, the majority of them, were disposed to be true to their contracts, to pay their lawful debts, but they were intimidated, and in his own immediate neighborhood no less than 43 incendiary fires occurred. Farmers lost their houses, barns and contents, and cattle. From his own door he watched the flames devour the home of one who was "suspected," and wrongly, of having paid his rent. Then followed a series of boycotting, the recognition of which he read from Mr. Parnell's speech in the House. The Land League refused to have anything to do with such people, no matter how good, kind, and generous they might be, or how much they might be willing to do for them, or how much they might be willing to pay for the privilege of being allowed to live in the country. As he was leaving the meeting, he said, he was informed that a respectable gentleman, who was a respect or regular for was coming, and forthwith the public were warned not to have any intercourse with them. To such an extent was the boycotting carried that in order that the children might be married and their families should be maintained he had carried the food to them himself. He became by so doing the subject of their displeasure, and hence he received many threatening letters, two of which he exhibited and read. One had upon it the drawing of a gun, a bullet and a coffin, and in large letters there were the following words: "Bell, this is your last notice. Your grave is ready." The missive had been traced directly to the Land League. Not only was he threatened himself but his servants were intimidated. One became alarmed and left, and his successor was notified to quit the place as quickly as he settled upon it. The assassins had some pity for him; he had not known to what sort of a place he was going. As for Bell he was to fall when least he expected it, and the person to whom the note was addressed would meet the same fate if he did not take warning. He (Mr. Bell) had never been alarmed about his safety, but the Government deemed him worthy of watching, and wherever he went a couple of police also went. Others

HAD REASON TO FEAR

if he did not. Of those whose life is in imminent peril is a brother of Archdeacon Lauder, residing some 500 or 600 yards from the speaker. He was agent of an estate where incendiary fires burned freely, and, because he did his duty, was sentenced to be shot. Such is his danger that for months four Dragoons constantly watched him and sometimes occupied his house. When he goes out he has two Dragoons in front of him and two behind him, and occasionally the force is supplemented by a couple of policemen. A Mr. Seymour, too, is in great danger and is attended by a quartette of soldiers who go where he goes, and even attend the lawn tennis matches between the neighbouring families. Mind you, he said, this is considered a peaceful district! What must the disturbed districts be like? Their condition can be scarcely imagined. The situation was the more dangerous when Capt. Moonlighter and his band of marauders went abroad, their work and that of those identified with them be such as only Mr. Forster, of all Mr. Gladstone's Cabinet, could understand. What about the future? There was little hope when they considered the sort of education the young people were receiving. At one time he thought the smallest amount of learning a blessing. He had changed his mind. What was the literature of the young? The Irishman and the Irish World, which teach that paying rent is robbery; that property holding is an invasion of other men's rights; that dynamite is the great moral agent of the future, and that assassination is the orthodox.

MEANS OF REDRESSING INJURIES.

Allusion was made to the letter written by Mr. P. J. Smith, M.P., from Tipperary, who was asked to resign because he was not in harmony with the League. He said that until that conspiracy was removed Ireland could do no good; on the contrary, it would sink deeper into shame. What is to be done? The evil must be counteracted by the Word of God; as Mr. Smith (a Roman Catholic gentleman) says: "The people must be thoroughly imbued with the principles of the moral law, in which case they will not tolerate for a moment the crime producing platform and the Satanic press." Mr. Bell sketched the labours of the Irish Society, quoting the same figures which he used on Sunday, and which were printed in the Whig of yesterday. In Ireland there were some classes who could not be reached except by the use of the Irish bible and the Irish tongue. The cause was one which he thought interested every subject of the British Empire. Their system was not calculated to add the fire of controversy to the other elements of disorder, it merited cordial support, and if the Society persevered in their work, Ireland, so long a disgrace to the British Empire, would soon be strengthened, and become as loyal as Canada herself. He concluded with a recital of three instances of the power of the bible. In Japan one testament had converted 68 persons; in Germany one drunken man had by it been made a sober, God-fearing man, and 177 others, anxious to see what reformed Hans, read the same book and likewise became converted. Finally Mr. Bell read a beautiful poem on the death of Florence Armstrong. The lines were very touching and a fitting finale to an address of marked power and eloquence.

The Dean, Rev. Messrs. Spencer and Carey were present. Rev. Mr. Kirkpatrick was Chairman.

Worse Than War

"The throat has destroyed more lives than the sword," by imprudence in eating and intemperance in drinking; but when the health becomes impaired the miserable dyspeptic may find prompt relief in Burdock Blood Bitters. It regulates the bowels, acts upon the liver and kidneys, purifies the blood, and stimulates all the secretions to a healthy action."

Lame Back and Weakness.

Toronto, Oct. 10th, 1878.

DEAR SIR,—About three weeks ago I fell from a ladder about twelve feet, across the banister of the stairs, and was taken up for dead. Since that time I have suffered from severe pains in my back and side, with great weakness, unfitting me for business, and got little ease until I used one of your Electric Belts and Insoles, which have relieved me very much.

Yours truly,
JOHN OVENS, 126 Yonge St.

Mr. W. A. Wing, Westport, writes: "I wish to inform you of the wonderful results which followed the use of Northrep & Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of lime and soda. A cough of six months' standing had reduced me to such an extent that I was unable to work. I tried many remedies without effect; at last I used this Emulsion and before three bottles were used I am glad to say I was restored to perfect health."

Mr. Peter Vermett, Hochelaga, P.Q., writes: "Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil cured me of rheumatism after I tried many medicines to no purpose. It is a good medicine." Just think of it—you can relieve the twinges of rheumatism, or the most painful attack of neuralgia—you can check a cough and heal bruised or broken skin, with a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, costing only 25 cents.
