MISSIONARY MEETING at Queen St. Church Harbour.

CITY AND VICINITY.

PROBS.—Light to moderate winds, fair weather, not much change in temperature.

AT KIDD'S drug store, market square, rock salt, condition powders, anti oil cake for horses, English soft soap, Neat's foot oil, and black varnish for harness.

A LECTURE.—Prof. Dupuis will deliver a lecture on the "Microscope," in the lecture room of Chalmers' Church, on Friday evening, Feb. 18th, at eight o'clock. Tickets 15 cents.

LICENSE COMMISSIONERS.—The Globe to-day prints the names of the License Commissioners for the ensuing year. They are: For the city: Messrs. J. Redden, J. McKay and J. F. McDermott; and for the county: Messrs. C. Hamilton, S. S. Baker and Johnson Day.

AMUSING ENTERTAINMENT.—Those who want an evening's hearty laughter should see Alvin Joslin (Mr. C. L. Davis) at the Opera House this evening. The plan shews that an unusually large number of seats have been secured. The attendance promises to be most satisfactory. The performance will certainly be such.

SATISFACTORY EXHIBIT.—The annual statement of the Richelieu & Ontario Navigation Company, Montreal, shews a net profit of $90,722 on the business of last season, amounting to six per cent. on the capital. A dividend of six per cent. was paid and the sum of $22,400 added to the reserve fund. A very satisfactory exhibit.

THANKS OF POLICEMEN.—Our appeal on behalf of the policemen's library has taken effect. Last evening the officers were presented with a dozen numbers of Scribner's Magazine. We hope the gift will be followed by others. In Hamilton the police similarly appealed to the citizens for reading material and received a hearty response.

YOUNG IRISHMEN'S ROOMS.—The second flat of St. Patrick's Hall has been very neatly painted, kalsomined and furnished for the meetings of the Young Irishmen's Society. In connection with the association a library and reading room are to be founded, for the success of which we are hopeful. By young men patronizing such resorts they will have nothing to regret.

RACING CARMEN.—Recently a couple of cabmen indulged in a little racing en route to the train. One had a couple of passengers, who appeared to enjoy the sport until the depot was reached, when, the sleigh coming into collision with the gate post, they were thrown out and fell in a rather undignified heap upon the ground. The occurrence is not likely to be repeated.

ROYAL SCARLET CHAPTER.—At the annual convocation of the Royal Scarlet Chapter, Kingston, held last night in the Orange Hall, the following were elected officers for the current year:

W. C. in C.—Comp. J. Gaskin.
E. C. in C.—Comp. R. Montgomery.
Chaplain—Comp. J. Marshall.
Scribe—Comp. W. J. Arniel.
Treasurer—Comp. W. Corbett.
H. at A.—Comp. John Davy.
O. H.—Comp. Geo. Laturney.

STOLEN ROBES.—Last evening Mr. Thos. Draper, of Pittsburg, attended the missionary meeting in Sydenham Street Church, in the shed adjoining which he placed his horses. During the meeting his sleigh robe was stolen. Dr. Skinner saw several small boys making off with a robe (not Draper's) which he suspected they had stolen. He gave chase and they dropped it. The Dr.'s hired man also found a robe. These two articles are now awaiting identification by the owners.

Brantford Poultry Show.

Mr. McGillivray, whose success as a raiser of fancy poultry is so well known here, has returned from the Brantford exhibition and praises it highly. He made a number of good purchases, including the following: Light Brahmas, valued at $8; dark Brahmas, $8; partridge Cochins $10; silver spangled Hamburgs, $6; turkey hens, $15; Toulouse geese, $20; White China geese, $15; S. Butterfield's pair first prize Brahmas, $20; Pugsley's second prize Plymouths at $15. This choice lot of game is to be offered as premiums for the Hornet, the new Kingston poultry journal.

A Long Sleep.

On Sunday a man named Reid, formerly employed upon the Rideau Canal and committed to the Brockville gaol for contempt of court, died, having previously slept continuously from between seventy and eighty hours. An inquest was held and a verdict, "Death from natural causes," returned. Medical men thought that the heavy and prolonged slumber was occasioned by concussion of the brain, but they would not say so positively. A post mortem examination was not held. The News said this most remarkable case was brought to light "at the gaol here." Of course such stretches of imagination are nothing new to some people.

HOUSE OF INDUSTRY.

A Public Subscription Started. Election of Directors Postponed.

Last evening the adjourned meeting of subscribers to the House of Industry took place at the City Council Chamber under more discouraging circumstances than the previous meeting presented, in spite of the number of supporters drawn to the missionary meetings. There were several new faces seen at the Board, which, in itself, is a matter of congratulation.

Among those present were: Principal Grant, Rev. Dr. Jackson, Messrs. John Carruthers, A. Chown, J. M. Machar, G. M. Macdonnell, Geo. Robertson, D. Gibson, I. Simpson. The Mayor occupied the chair.

The Superintendent's report presented at the preceding meeting, as well as the audited accounts of the Treasurer, were received and approved. The balance now on hand is $238.

The Government allowance this year, it was shown, will be $1,100, and the expenses of the House $2,800. Granting that the same sources of local revenue could be drawn upon this year as were so helpful last year, there would still be a deficit of $300 to supply in the estimates. But the City Council having now more broken stone than it can possible use cannot make another grant of $400 this year, especially as the quantity paid for by the $400 grant last year is not yet nearly delivered) and therefore there will be a deficiency of about $700.

Principal Grant, Mr. Carruthers and Dr. Jackson advocated a public appeal for subscriptions, and ward collections were resolved upon, being placed in charge of the following gentlemen: Cataraqui Ward, E. Chown; Frontenac, D. Gibson; Rideau, A. Chown; St. Lawrence, J. M. Machar; Ontario, G. M. Macdonell; Sydenham, Geo. Robertson; Victoria, Dr. Grant.

Subscriptions of any amount will be received, as well as donations of clothing, a great need at the House, and an expensive one to supply by purchase. The collectors are to report at the regular meeting on Tuesday, March 8th. The meeting resolved to continue the fee for membership at $1, and to postpone the election of directors until the regular meeting above referred to, that there might be a wider choice.

The expenditure of the House for the past year was $2,994.59; the receipts $2,093.93, leaving a small deficit, it is true, but which has to be increased by debts owing for last year amounting to nearly $200.

CONVICTS RECAPTURED.

The Experiences of two of Them. Statement to a Reporter.

Early this morning a rumor was current that two of the convicts who escaped from the Penitentiary on Sunday night, had been re-captured near Cape Vincent. A telegram from a constable at Cape Vincent to the Chief of Police stated that two men, believed to have been convicts, were at Michael Halderbeck's, about three miles from that village. The Chief conferred with the Warden, and a request was forwarded to have the men detained until the prison officers could cross the ice. Chief Keeper McCarthy and Guard Weir left for Halderbeck's, near which place they found Morris Blake and James Wright. The men were having stolen goods from the Penitentiary tailor shop, and for this offence they were arrested. They objected to return to Canada, but upon extradition being hinted they agreed to come peaceably. They were immediately placed in a sleigh and brought over to Kingston in charge of Guard Weir, reaching here about 2 p.m. They were of course at once conveyed to the penitentiary. A picket had been placed on the road leading off the ice, and as soon as the trio reached the city the representative of the Whig was notified. Warden Creighton kindly allowed him to interview the re-captured men.

ACCUSED OF LARCENY,

INTERVIEWING THE MEN.

Sitting upon a chest at the entrance to the main corridor sat the two men, both heavy set fellows with downcast countenances. Standing around them were several of the guards and others to whom the convicts were conversing. The Warden opened the discussion with the men, who were trembling nervously. Morris Blake had the portion of an oilcloth wrapped around his fingers. He pulled this off and exposed to view several terrible swollen digits. The skin was white and festered and very sore to the touch. In some spots the blood could be seen beneath the skin. Both men were mutilated inconveniently. Wright complained that had it not been for the old man he

WOULD NOW BE FREE.

Suddenly Blake arose, took off his hat and, with a peculiar grin, remarked, "I was going home to Ireland." A little scene took place. Wright avowed that the Warden could do what he liked with him; he would not have him long around the place, anyway." The Warden said he would do nothing wrong and that he had always treated him kindly. This Wright acknowledged. At this stage the Whig reporter was introduced by the Warden, who said he wanted some information regarding their adventures.

"Have I," asked Wright, "got to give it?"

"No," said the Warden, "not if you don't desire it."

After a little he began to relate his story. His adventures were told in a somewhat disjointed manner. When he was

PUT IN THE DUNGEON

he had the two case knives tied to his feet, having carried them for some time previously. The guards were very vigilant but he fooled them. He had worked two holes into the cell wall and had placed the knives in them when apprised of the approach of the guards. He had pieces of white paper which he pasted over the holes with soap. He had been three weeks sawing at the bars. Soon after his incarceration in the dark cells he commenced his arrangements for the leave taking. He and his fellow convicts discussed the subject together. All were

SWORN TO SECRECY.

On Sunday last he got the last bar nearly sawn through when he imagined that it was time for the guards to pass around. He wrenched the partially cut bar so that a portion broke off and then he crawled out. Then he broke the locks of two other cells. He did not intend to let Morris Blake out but he pleaded so feelingly, to be allowed to accompany them, claiming that he had relatives in New York, that finally his release was effected. Out into the corridor he walked, the first time for upwards of two years. Wright, who engineered the scheme for escape, warned the others that no violence should be done to the guards. When they came in they were to be

POUNCED UPON AND OVERPOWERED.

Wright admitted that the guards fought heroically. They (the convicts) did not imagine that they were so strong. Our statement respecting the clothing taken was, we find, substantially correct. Shiotte secured the only overcoat. After scaling the wall they proceeded on the ice towards the Grand Trunk brewery, where they came ashore and went through the city nearly to the barracks, where they again took to the ice. They crossed the channel close to the Military College, thence over Cedar and Wolfe Island in a south-easterly direction. On Wolfe Island they their pants, as high as the knees, being wet and frozen stiffly. Finally the other side of the island was reached. During the trip Wright helped the half-witted Blake along. Part of the way Wright carried him. Again the ice was taken to. Wright would leave Blake in the charge of Shiotte and Rapson, but no sooner would he get a couple of hundred yards ahead than the two others would desert Blake and leave him lying on the ice. Wright would then return, and, picking him up, carry him until tired out. At last the American shore was reached about four o'clock in the morning. With a mighty cheer they stepped upon what they considered the land of liberty.

WALKED THROUGH A SWAMP,

WRIGHT'S FIRST UTTERANCE

was "Thank God I'm a free man and now I'll be an honest one." On they pushed, Wright leading the way. Again Shiotte and Rapson deserted Blake, leaving him to freeze, and again Wright carried the old man until both were compelled to lie down on the snow. Wright took cramps in his legs. They then managed to crawl to a farm house and at five o'clock feebly knocked for admission. This was granted them. Rapson and Shiotte, after breakfast, published on stating that they were bound for New York. The pistol Wright had he gave to the farmer asking him to return it to the penitentiary officials. Wright and Blake were so used up that they were unable to proceed any further. They rested all day. At night Wright's legs were so painful that he could not move them. He had to be CARRIED UPSTAIRS TO BED.

This morning, about 9 o'clock, he and Blake started west. While on the railway they spied the officers of the penitentiary, and forgetting his pains Wright threw his stick away and ran about a mile, but the officers gained on him and recaptured him. He showed a large red bruise on his forehead caused by falling on the gravel. At this point Wright broke down, and in a desponding way said, "Had it not been that I could not see Blake freeze I would now have been a free man. I will soon be out of the way, for I have given up all hope of seeing my wife and little child." These, he said, were in London. It was that he made the strike for liberty. Morris Blake was removed to the hospital, while Wright was one more returned to his cell. That he acted a noble part in assisting the decrepid man all will admit.

TO SEE HIS RECOVED ONES

AGAIN IN PURSUIT.

Chief Keeper McCarthy is now on the trail of Shiotte and Rapson, whom he expects to capture before long. Telegrams have been sent along the route taken by them. None of the convicts were injured by frost but Blake.

ANGLICAN MISSIONS.

A Very Satisfactory Meeting Held in St. St. James' Church.

The annual missionary meeting was held last evening in St. James' Church. There were present in the chancel the Rev. F. W. Kirkpatrick, rector, and the members of the deputation, Revs. E. H. Baker and E. P. Crawford. The Revs. Hy. Wilson and A. Spencer were also present. The Rev. H. Wilson read the evening prayers. There was a fair congregation present.

The Rev. F. W. Kirkpatrick addressed the meeting briefly, hoping those present would be impressed with the object of the work in hand.

CHURCH OF TODAY.

Rev. E. H. M. Baker said it gave him great pleasure to raise his voice in behalf of the mission work of the diocese. He had watched the career of St. James Church during the incumbency of Rev. Mr. Kirkpatrick, and he was pleased to find that it was onward, more especially so in regard to missionary work. He trusted they would listen to the call to aid and give as the Lord had given unto them. There was no period since the days of the apostles in which missionary work was carried on so vigorously. In the first quarter of the century there were but 40 Bishops in the church, but to-day they numbered 200. Forty years ago the people of the Fiji Islands used to eat human beings, but now 40,000 children there attended the Sunday schools. In 1775 there were but five clergymen in New York state, but to-day there were five vigorous dioceses and 500,000 communicants. He pointed to the work done by the Bishops of the church, instancing Bishop Tuttle, of Utah, who was doing great service among the Mormons. He trusted their offerings would be 20 per cent. better than last year. Was it not a reflection that their liberality only reached $8,000 last year, while their was such a cause to draw forth their sympathy and aid. There was fourteen townships in the county of Hastings in which a clergyman of the Church of England never placed his foot. Was not that fact to be deplored? The of the county of Renfrew was next touched upon, and the speaker said that they should rise to a sense of their duty and show their love for the people in the rear townships who were suffering so much for the word of God. The speaker did not approve of the system of deputations, but rather paid general agents, whose souls were in their work, and who go from church to church from congregation to congregation, pleading for the mission work of their church. He could speak for hours on this subject, and have still facts to recite to them of the spiritual wants of the people of this diocese. He urged liberal giving. They had but 43 missionaries in the Diocese of Ontario, while the Bishop had said he could find work for 100 more. Should they withhold the means of putting these 100 in the Lord's vineyard? He trusted not.

SPIRITUAL DESTITUTION

ADVANTAGES OF MONEY.

The Rev. E. P. Crawford commenced by saying that he would confine himself to generalities. They had come to ask for money. What was the use of money? Gold was of no value in itself. Money was only of value on account of the blessings and advantages to be obtained from it. He would ask them from a common sense point of view where could they put money to better advantage than in the missionary work of the church. If they were men and women who did not believe in a world to come he would say "Enjoy your money," but he was speaking to those who knew better. If they gave their money to this work they gave it to God. Christ said this was one way of laying up their treasures in heaven. He had no doubt that they would give a fair proportion of their means for the advancement of God's kingdom and God's work on earth. Was it not strange that such a large amount of money should be wasted in the world. Still when men were asked to give it to the cause of God it was found hard to get it. He pleaded for the sustentation of the men who were working for God in this diocese. The

WORTHY OF SUPPORT,

and if it were not for this mission fund they could not keep up the mission work of the diocese. In proportion to the gift would be the blessing. If they believed that God would do what He said He would why not try Him. He (C.) spoke of men and women who had tasted of the comforts of religion, but who were now practically cut off from the blessing of church service. The mission work of the diocese could not be advanced unless the people would wake up to a sense of their duty in the matter. The Mission Board was in debt. He wanted all to send in such contributions that this stigma would be removed from the diocese, and that the missionary would not have to suffer any more. The cause being a good one he left it in their hands to do it justice.

A FINAL APPEAL.

Rev. Mr. Kirkpatrick stated that the mission funds were derived from missionary meetings and collections. At least the sum of $10,000 would be required to meet the wants of the Mission Board. Although they were a small parish still he hoped that they would not fail in their duty, and he prayed that God would put it in their hearts to give liberally to the mission work of the church.

A liberal collection having been taken up the benediction was pronounced and the meeting dispersed.

COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE.

A Demand that the Institution be Extravagantly Managed.

To the Editors of the British Whig:

SIR,—If Taxpayer's letter, in Saturday's issue of the Whig, means anything it is intended to inform the citizens of Kingston that the Collegiate Institute Trustees have been extravagant in their management of the finances of the school, and that they have betrayed the trust reposed in them by the City Council. It insinuates also that the present Council made a grave mistake at its first meeting in re-appointing Dr. Sullivan and Dr. McCammon members of the Board. Now let us examine thoroughly this implied charge of extravagance, and see how the enormous cost of educating each pupil in the Institute here compares with the low rate prevailing in other schools of a similar kind throughout Ontario. The following facts are from the last report of the Minister of Education, and show city taxpayers the value set upon high school education in many towns not half as large as Kingston:

1879. Collegiate Institute.	Ann. Gov. Gr.	Average Students	Cost for Pupil	Money Spent
Brantford	$ 7,552	119	$ 63.50	$ 8,700
Cobourg	6,000	70	85.60	7,800
Guelph	6,000	91	65.94	7,700
Hamilton	12,553	158	79.90	11,700
Ottawa	5,775	90[illegible]	67.80	7,913
Peterborough	5,000	84[illegible]	64.50	4,004
St. Catharines	7,000	92[illegible]	52.86	4,920
Toronto	9,600	1,072	47.93	3,276
Kingston	4,100	80[illegible]	52.48	4,500

Is there anything approaching outrageous extravagance in the above? If so kingston suffers less than most of the places enumerated. Let me here explain that the basis for obtaining the cost per pupil in the above is the amount paid in each school for teachers' salaries divided by the total number of pupils entered upon the register for the whole year. I now beg leave to subjoin a memorandum of Municipal grants to high schools in other places:

Almonte	$2,190	Sarnia	$2,094
Brockville	3,000	Stratford	2,040
Chatham	3,064	St. Mary's	4,300
Guelph	3,642	St. Thomas	4,000
Napanee	3,940	Whitby	2,000
Perth	2,550	Windsor	2,040
Picton	1,804	Woodstock	2,000

Anyone can verify the correctness of the above figures for himself. Is a grant of $2,850 from Kingston too large a one? Or are the citizens willing to increase it to $3,000 and have a free Institute? The Institute Board have no axes to grind, and if the citizens demand it, will make the school free to-morrow.

Yours, &c.,
A. P. KNIGHT.
