The journal is, by all odds, the neatest publication of the kind with which we are acquainted, and reflects much credit on its youthful conductors. We should like to see the journal regularly." The Journal is printed at this office.

"B" Battery Dramatic Club.

We request the attention of our readers to the advertisement in another column of the performance of the "B" Battery Dramatic Club, in the Opera House, on Monday evening, 28th inst. We are assured that the histrionic abilities of our friends are of no mean order. In Quebec they had the honor of performing before the Governor General and H. R. H. the Princess Louise, who were pleased to express their approbation. We believe we can guarantee a pleasant evening to any of our friends who may patronize them. The names of Lt.-Col. Strange, R.A., Commandant of the Battery, and Capt. Short, which appear on the programme, cannot fail to attract. We also call attention to the object for which the performance is to be given—the local charities, the House of Industry and the House of Providence.

Mr. Birtrand built the "Reindeer" and "Idlewild" besides the "Ione."

LATE JOHN MURDOCH.

The Ministerial Career, Long-Wandering and Death of a Former Kingstonian.

From Latter friend departs
Who hath not lost a friend.

The following we take from the Belfast Witness of date Feb. 4th: We regret to announce the death of this estimable minister, which occurred in this town on Wednesday. Mr. Murdoch was born in Ballyclare in the year 1840. In early life he emigrated to America, and was for some time engaged in business in Kingston, Canada. (He was for several years, while yet a young man, a clerk in Mr. Ross' store.) Having a great desire to enter the ministry he prepared himself for college, and received his undergraduate education in Knox College and the University of Toronto. He then spent three sessions in theology at Princeton, always spending his vacations in laborious missionary work. Immediately after being licensed by the Presbytery of New Brunswick he was ordained over the congregation of Islip, in Long Island, about forty miles from New York, in 1863. When he had laboured there but a year his health, which had been undermined by the strain upon him during his college course, gave way, and he tried a voyage to his native land, where he remained for several months in hope of recruiting. He returned to his congregation, but after labouring only for another year broke down completely and resigned his charge. Four years ago he again came back to Ireland and has since been a confirmed invalid. He was a man of great spirituality of mind, deeply exercised on religious subjects, and consumed with a zeal for his Master's glory. During his long illness he was supported by the comfort of the gospel which he had preached to others, and when at length the dread messenger came to summon him from all earthly sorrows he could only quietly breathe the name of "Jesus," which he had loved so well, and whisper to his wife that he had no fear. He leaves a widow but no children to mourn his loss.

Annual Tea Meeting.

The annual tea meeting of the Primitive Methodist Church occurred last evening. The attendance was not as large as usual, but there was no lack of interest. The spread in the basement was excellent. At the after entertainment in the body of the church, the pastor, Rev. T. W. Jolliffe, occupied the chair. In his remarks he reviewed the church's work during the past year. While it was with feelings of sadness that he had to report several deaths it was gratifying to know that the membership had not decreased. The Rev. Jos. Young followed with a spirited address, his theme being the "Success of a church." He claimed that to attain good results the entire work should not be thrown upon the pastor, but that the laymen should perform their share. Harmony and spirituality were also exquisites. To fill up a church it was necessary to extend a warm welcome to all. He illustrated this point by an anecdote. A preacher one delivered an eloquent sermon upon the "Recognition of friends in Heaven." At the close of the discourse an old lady approached the minister and advised him to preach a sermon upon the "Recognition of friends on earth." She had attended the church for some time yet had not been cordially spoken to by its members. The preacher took the hint and a hearty welcome was ever afterwards extended to strangers. Revs. T. Hall and C. A. Cook followed with interesting speeches. The choir rendered an effective musical programme. This evening the children of the Sabbath School have their festival.

Protection of Life.

A number of captains, some being business visitors of the city, yesterday discussed the question of having life stations provided by the Government at Salmon Point and on the shore between Presque Isle and Long Point. The great loss of life last year has given the subject a significance which it never had before, and it is hoped that the present agitation may not be unfruitful of results. Our marine friends cannot excuse the Government's hesitancy on the ground of expense since economy does not seem to be the motto of those in power. The Government's duty is plain. The sailors of Canada are entitled to the same consideration as those of the United States, life on one side of the lake is as valuable as it is on the other side. The petition to Parliament respecting the carrying by vessels and steamboats of life-boats and life-preservers will likely lead to desirable legislation.

A Destructive Dog.

A few days ago a large Newfoundland dog entered the Winds hotel. Unnoticed he ascended the stairs, and seems to have made a general inspection of the rooms on each flat, walking in and out of several of them in a rather hurried manner. In an apartment on the second floor he finally made a halt. Pushing the door until it closed behind him he pulled the clothing of the bed and then attached the hair mattress, which he dragged unto the floor and tore and damaged quite beyond repair, on both sides at that. Nor was this all; he made a rush at the water pitcher, upsetting it on the floor, making such a noise as to attract attention. When discovered he was quietly contemplating the mischief which he had wrought. Of course he was detained by the proprietors of the hotel until his owner recompied them for their loss.

Seized Machine.

To-day Messrs. Roberts and Bartlett passed through the city en route to the iron mines at Mississippi. Mr. Roberts was asked if proceedings had been taken against him for the alleged valuation of a machine lately seized here, but liberated on a bond securing to the Government the payment of extra duty if demanded. He replied in the negative. His firm was ready for business as soon as called upon by the Government. He says he has evidence that the original invoice was correct.

LIQUOR TRADE.

The Report of Hon. Mr. Hardy, Provincial Secretary, on the Subject.

The annual report of the Hon. Mr. Hardy, on the working of the Tavern and Licenses Act, for 1880, contains information of considerable interest. By it we perceive that the issue of licenses in 1879-80 was larger than any preceding year, owing to two causes (1.) the repeal of the Dunkin Act and (2.) the growth of the population of the province. The income derived by the Province from licenses and fines during 1879-80, the last complete license year, was $87,198.19, of which ($2,220, being for vessel licenses) $84,968.19 represents the Provincial Treasurer's one third share, after payment of expenses. The other two thirds paid over to the municipalities, as required by the Act, amounted to $169,936.38, to which was added the sum of $101,335.54, the aggregate excess over statutory duties, payable without diminution to these municipalities, making together a total of $271,340.32.

ENQUIRY AND COMPARISON.

Four years having elapsed since the issue of licenses and the enforcement of the License Act were placed under the suppression and control of officers appointed by the Government, the Inspectors were requested, by circular, to make a comparison of results under the following heads:

1. The number of persons engaged in illicit traffic in intoxicating liquors as compared with the number so engaged under former Acts.
2. The quality of tavern accommodation as compared with that under former Acts.
3. The observance of law and order by licensed hotel keepers, compared with former Acts.
4. The observance of law and order by licensed shop keepers, compared with former Acts.
5. The standing and personal qualifications of the holders of tavern licenses as compared with the same under former Acts.
6. Public opinion regarding the change from the old to the new law.
7. The drinking habits of the people and the custom of treating at the bars, compared with former years.
8. Make a general comparison of the present working of the License Act with that during the license years 1876-7, 1877-8, 1878-9, and 1879-80.

CITY INSPECTOR'S REPORT.

Mr. Glidden made the following report:

Answer to Question 1.—While it is extremely difficult to determine the number of persons engaged in illicit traffic at any time, the opinion of close observers is that but little of that kind of business is done in the city at the present time, and bears no comparison whatever to the extent of its under former Acts. Licensed people complain about it at times, in a general way; but as they decline to produce any evidence for fear of being considered informers (as they assert), of course very little notice can reasonably be taken of such complaints, particularly when the names of the offenders and their frequenters are withheld, and there is no known means of ascertaining them.

Answer to Question 2.—The quality of tavern accommodation is good as a whole and up to the requirements of the Act, and compares as far as I can learn, very favourably indeed with that under former Acts, the table and bed room accommodation being much better.

Answer to Question 3.—The law, so far as my experience goes, is fairly observed by licensed hotel keepers, and the order, I believe, is unquestioned, no disturbance worthy of the name having occurred during my term of office.

Answer to Question 4.—I am unable to make a comparison of the observance of law and order by the licensed shopkeepers as compared with those doing business in former years. The present holders of licenses are certainly a very orderly and creditable class of citizens, but I am afraid they infringe upon the liquor law to a great extent. They are enabled to do this under cover of the grocery part of their business, and it is very difficult to detect them, for the reason that they are seldom complained of in a direct way, and of course they are not foolish enough to be found guilty when an inspector is on the spot. If I may be allowed to venture an opinion, I would suggest that it would be well to make this entirely separate from the grocery business and confine it to itself, and compel the proprietors thereof to close their places at an early hour—say five o'clock—on Saturday evenings.

Answer to Question 5.—On the whole, the standing and personal qualifications of licenses of taverns are better than were those under the old laws.

Answer to Question 6.—Public opinion regarding the change from the old to the new law is decidedly in favor of the latter, and has been brought about mainly through the beneficial effects of early closing on Saturday night.

Answer to Question 7.—The drinking habits of the people have become considerably curtailed, chiefly through the closing of the public houses at 7 o'clock just referred to.

REVENUE FROM LICENSES.

In answer to question 8 a tabular statement is given. In 1876-77 it is shewn that the revenue amounted to $14,565.00. Of this amount there went to the city $10,007.72, to the Province $2,941.35, Inspector's salary, counsel fees, and other expenses, $1,165.93, leaving a balance in the bank of $450. In 1877-78 the revenue was $14,744. The city's proportion was $9,137.07, the Province's $2,781.02, Inspector's salary, counsel fees, etc., $2,825.96. In 1878-79 the revenue was somewhat reduced, being $13,145. To the city $8,846.98 of this amount was paid, $3,435.99 to the Province, and $862.03 to the Inspector for salary and expenses. In 1879-80 the revenue was $13,300, of which the city received $8,856.23, the Province $3,428.12, and the Inspector for salary, etc., $1,015.65. In 1880-81 the revenue is stated to have been $13,105. There went to the city of this amount $8,104.17, to the Province $3,158.34, Inspector's salary to December $558.60, balance in bank $1,283.90. The city's revenue from shops and taverns (with a larger number of the latter than now) for 1871 and four following years was as follows:

	Taverns.	Shops.	Total.
1871	$4,354 00	$1,350 00	$5,704 00
1872	6,140 00	1,000 00	7,140 00
1873	5,355 00	1,586 25	6,941 25
1874	5,847 00	1,275 00	7,122 00
1875	5,400 00	1,550 00	6,950 00

REPORT OF FRONTENAC'S INSPECTOR.

Answer to Question 1.—More than under the former license law, as the license fee was low, and about every applicant was granted a license, but not so many as when the Duncan Act was in force. The persons now engaged in the illicit sale of liquor are some who held licenses under the old law.

Answer to Question 2.—Much better.

Answer to Question 3.—Better. Not so much drunkenness prevailing, and not much liquor sold Saturday nights and Sundays by licensed hotel keepers.

Answer to Question 4.—No licensed shop keepers in this district.

Answer to Question 5.—Better. A more respectable class are now engaged, and the poorer class wedded out.

Answer to Question 6.—I think the better class of the community are in favour of the new law.

Answer to Question 7.—In my opinion, the reduction in the number of taverns has decidedly decreased the drinking habits of the people.

Answer to Question 8.—1876-77. Nineteen prosecutions.
1877-78. Thirty-two prosecutions. Dunkin Act in force.
1878-79. Fourteen prosecutions.
1879-80. Seventeen prosecutions.
1880-1. Seven prosecutions, to November 30th, 1880.

Entertainment at Bath.

Social gatherings have been very numerous in the neighborhood of this city during the present season, there being scarcely a church that has not had its entertainment of some kind. The latest came off last evening, when the C. M. Church, of Bath, took its turn, giving a tea meeting and concert in the public hall of that place, the success of which was very marked. The edibles, abundantly served by the good ladies of the church, were of the best description, and consequently were relished by the large audience. After this very pleasant portion of the evening's entertainment had been dispensed with the chair was taken by Mr. Hogal, who, in a few words, introduced the choir of Sydenham St. Church, who had been invited to cater to the higher intellectual desires of those present, which they did to their entire satisfaction and delight. The programme consisted of two hours of song, made up of choruses, sacred and secular, by the full choir, quartettes and solos by various members of it, the solos by Mrs. Rockwell, Miss M. Bamford, Mr. Armstrong, and Mr. Baillie being especially well rendered and entertaining. During the evening readings were given by Mr. J. V. Anglin, which afforded a pleasing variety. Votes of thanks were tendered to the Kingston friends, in which the audience bore testimony to their gratification for the rare treat which had been afforded them. The choir returned home in the best of spirits, the drive proving very pleasant, and loud in their praise of their extremely hospitable entertainers, whose kindness was beyond the ordinary.

Military College Cadets.

Replying to Mr. Blake in the House of Commons Hon. Mr. Caron said it would be an easy matter to give the names of the successful competitors for Imperial commissions, but they might not be able to give any information as to the cadets who had gone to the United States. However, all possible information would be brought down. Mr. Blake suggested that the Government should devise means for learning where the cadets went, in case they might at any time be required. His motion for returns was carried.
