CITY AND VICINITY.

RICHMOND & BOYDEN advertise having received an immense stock new spring and summer dress goods, all new, choice and cheap.

PROBS.—Moderate to fresh winds, mostly from the southwest and northwest, partially clearing weather, but not much change in temperature.

SHIPMENT OF ORE.—The proprietors of the Mississippi iron mine shipped by rail to-day, for Erie, Penna. over 100 tons of ore, of which there is a scarcity in that city.

CATARAQUI BRIDGE COMPANY.—At the meeting of the directors this afternoon Mr. I. Simpson was elected as President, in the place of Mr. John Breden, resigned; and Dr. Barker as Director.

TEA MEETING.—This evening the anniversary tea meeting in connection with the M.E. Church will take place under auspices which promise well. The proceedings commence at 7 o'clock.

SOLICITING STOCK.—Stock for the iron smelting works to be established here is being solicited, and the promoters are meeting with success. The smelting will be done on the Wilson plan.

THE FORTY HOURS.—The devotion of the forty hours will close at the chapel of the L'Hotel Dieu Hospital this evening. The benediction of the Holy Sacrament will be given and the Te Deum will be sung.

COTTON MILL.—The provisional directors of the cotton mill were again out canvassing for stock to-day. They met with great success, and the $100,000 expected from Kingstonians are said to be nearly all promised.

HIGH WATER.—The water in the creeks along the line of the K. & P. RR. has risen so much that in several places it is nearly level with the track. No danger is apprehended. A gentleman from Belleville says men are blasting the ice in the Moira in order to prevent a freshet.

ABOUT CONCLUDED.—The suit of the owner of the prop. "Alpena" against the schooner "Hyderabad" for salvage, $15,000, will be concluded at Milwaukee in a day or two. No one entertains the thought for a moment that any such amount as asked will be allowed.

SHIPPING A BOILER.—This afternoon Mr. R. Dobbs, of Portsmouth, shipped to Owen Sound a boiler for the tug "Metamora" valued at nearly $4,000. The owner of the tug could not get a boiler manufactured in Owen Sound or Toronto at a cheaper rate or better made.

COST OF THE BUILDING.—The Treasurer of Queen's College has paid the contractors for the erection of the new University building, whose cost was $51,904. As the citizens have only subscribed $45,000 they will be asked to make up the balance. They can then point to the edifice with pride and say, "We built it."

INVADED.—The bycicle was a long time in reaching Kingston, but has arrived at last. Mr. C. Bayley brought one with him upon his return from England, and on Saturday cavorted along King street with his well trained steed. Frank Upper feels "cut out" with his velocipede, but is going to look up some big wheels for himself.

LAND LEAGUE.—The usual proceedings occurred at the meeting of the Land League, held last evening in St. Patrick's Hall. The speech of Ald. McGuire, on Irish affairs, was the most important item of the evening. A resolution was moved and carried approving of the establishment of a branch of the association at the village of Battersea.

RESOLUTION OF CONDOLENCE.—At a meeting of Gibson O. Y. B. Lodge, No. 29, Ingersoll, the following resolution was passed: "It is with the deepest feelings of regret that we have heard of the death of our much esteemed and beloved Bro. Berent Froiland, late Grand Secretary of our Association. We wish to extend to the wife and family of the deceased our heartfelt sympathy in their sad bereavement."

BATTERY AFFAIRS.—It was thought that when Battery "A" was isolated at Quebec its troubles as well as its desertions would cease. But it steadily maintains its reputation for excitement and frivolity. The latest newspaper report is that a court martial has sat at the Citadel on a gunner of the Battery "accused of not saluting a cadet of the Royal Gunnery School walking with a young lady in John Street." He should at the very least be taken out in the cool of the evening and shot.

Mr. Hay's Success.

Information was given us to-day regarding Mr. Andrew Hay's success in Ingersoll. The boys are not nearly so bad as reported although one mathematical teacher has had to back out of the room while the boys pelted him with marbles. He stood the treatment two weeks. This man's immediate predecessor was a graduate (B.A.) of Victoria College. A B.Sc. also took charge but bashfulness was his ruin. He taught a week. Mr. Hay has his hands full. He has a class of six for junior or senior matriculation; some are reading for honors. The mathematical work done is equal to the senior class in Queen's University. The three High School Inspectors recommended Mr. Hay, not Dr. McLellan alone. They were unanimously in his favor.

Kicked by a Horse.

A Cape Vincent correspondent of the Despatch says that George Pike, of Wolfe Island, visited the Cape on Thursday and bought a dog which he took home. During the evening he wanted a strap with which to tie the animal, and went to the barn for one. As he was gone some time his people became uneasy, went out to see what was wrong, and when they reached the barn found him lying insensible, about twelve feet behind the horse, with one leg and two or three ribs broken. When last heard of, he was lying in a critical condition.

TIMBER AND GRAIN.

Prospects of the Season—Man's Charters Reported—Storage Returns.

Timber men who have just returned from Toledo feel satisfied with the prospects of the timber trade for the coming season. Many charters have been made at very good rates. Early this year vessel men asked $90 per 1,000 cubic feet from Toledo, but the timber men held off. Eventually differences were compromised. The schr. "Florida" will carry oak, seven trips, from Toledo, at $85. The schr. "Elgin" has been engaged for the season at $85. She will carry timber from Toledo, Detroit and Lake St. Clair. While all the largest lots of oak in Toledo and elsewhere have been secured there are many lots of from one to two loads awaiting charters. These are being picked up by vessel captains that want to make trips early in the season and before entering the grain trade. The withdrawal, too, of vessels formerly in the grain trade makes those interested in the latter feel hopeful of good freights during the ensuing summer. Then the ore trade has assumed large proportions, and, it and the improvement in the timber business must give life and backbone to the grain transportation since there will be fewer vessels to engage in it. Already vessel men and forwarding companies are preparing all their property for active service. The Buffalo Telegraph says there are about 16,000,000 bushels of grain at Chicago, 7,000,000 in Milwaukee, 1,400,000 in Duluth, and the storage capacity at Toledo is well tested. The early closing of the ore trade last year had its effect on the grain trade. This year there will be a stiffening of rates in proportion to a shortening of the tonage. There is a dearth of ore at Erie, Ashtabula, Cleveland and Sandusky. The amount of lumber cut and deposited in the streams of Canada, Michigan and Wisconsin is at least 30 per cent greater than during any previous season, while there is a perfect boom in building, promising that there will be a ready market for this large cut.

CHURCH MATTERS.

Pulpit Changes—Special Subjects Discussed—Festival Observances.

Rev. A. Wilson being still ill, Rev. Mr. Kelloch preached for him at both services in the Brock Street Presbyterian Church yesterday.

Rev. Mr. Bone, of the Welland Canal, preached in the Baptist Church last evening. He gives a Bible reading in the same place this evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Rev. C. A. Cook yesterday morning preached, in the Baptist Church, a sermon specially addressed to parents and Sabbath School teachers. He enlarged upon the importance of bible study, upon the preparation necessary for efficient teaching, upon the diligence the work involved, and upon personal conversation as a means of impressing the truth. He urged parents and teachers to make Jesus the centre and substance of all their teaching.

Yesterday (the feast of St. Joseph, the patron of the church) Grand High Mass was celebrated by the Rev. Father McDonald, assisted by the Rev. Fathers Twohey and Hogan as Deacon and sub-Deacon. The sermon was preached by the Rev. Father O'Brien, who took for his text the cl. Psalm—"Praise ye the Lord in His holy places; praise Him in the firmament of His power." The reverend gentleman touched in an eloquent manner on the glorification of the saints of God, the necessity of their intercession, and concluded with a beautiful panegyric on the saint whose feast the church that day celebrated. The epistle read at mass was from the book of Ecclesiastes xlv, 1-6 and, the gospel from Matthew x, 18-22. Grand Vespers were celebrated in the afternoon. The altars were beautifully decorated, especially the altar of St. Joseph which was decked with natural flowers. The music and singing was very fine and appropriate to the high festival.

A Stolen Watch.

On Saturday evening a man startled the police force by informing them that he had been robbed of a valuable gold watch. He said that he was met by a man, aged about forty, who asked him the time of day. He pulled out the watch, and the enquirer snatched it and ran off. The loser could not describe exactly where the robbery occurred. Detective Macauley started out with the man, but could get no trace of the thief. The story told by the loser of the watch is contradictory. He and the detective visited one place where the fellow said he had a dish of oysters. None were sold to him there. The proprietor of another place, which he said he had visited with a companion, said he had not been there with any one. He had been there alone. At one time he said he had a seven shooter in his pocket and would have peppered the thief had he not known that it was illegal to do so, and soon afterwards he said that if he had had his revolver he would have shot the thief. Indeed, the police authorities are half inclined to think that the fellow was not robbed at all. He is a recent arrival in this city.

Martini Rifle.

A writer in the Canadian Military Review tells us that the Martini rifle has been subjected to climatic tests in Quebec and at Kingston, and that it has stood the trial with success. It was at one time thought that the mechanism of the Martini was too delicate for our climate but that appears to have been a mistake. A rifle was placed in a ditch for six weeks during mid-winter in Quebec and half a dozen Martinis were exposed to extreme cold for a week at Kingston, and their action was found not to be impaired in the least.

A Great Change.

When the last English mail left Derry arrangements were being made to celebrate the 17th of March, by a monster national demonstration, at which it was expected several Home Rule members of Parliament would attend. There are upwards of 15,000 Catholics in the city of Derry, being a majority of the entire population. This is significant when it is remembered that little more than a century ago there was not a Catholic within its walls.

QUEEN'S COLLEGE.

Rev. Mr. Gallagher the University Preach yesterday Afternoon.

The regular Sunday afternoon service in Queen's College was conducted yesterday afternoon by Rev. John Gallagher, of Pittsburg. His theme was "Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen." Heb. xi. 1.

The place that we give to faith is very important, as it affects very radically the whole character of our views of the economy of redemption. He who holds that a man must believe in order to have regeneration must also hold, in order to be consistent, that the will of man needs simply to be excited to activity by the grace of God. On the other hand he who holds that regeneration is the efficient cause and indispensible condition of faith must believe that men are truly, and in a proper sense of the term, spiritually dead, and need not merely a gracious exciting but a true and radical spiritual renovation and a substitution for the stony heart of a heart of flesh. In a mere technical sense faith is the belief of any fact or proposition upon the ground of testimony. Faith as described in the standards is a grace whereby the sinner is enabled to perform certain acts. This view is fully borne out in the scriptures. Faith is a gracious habit of the soul, and like all other habits is to be judged by the acts to which it gives birth. Notwithstanding all ancient and modern attempts to solve the

it remains a mystery. Faith partakes very much of this character, hence the scriptures dwell very largely on the achievements of faith and so sparingly with discussions as to its nature. The text is not a definition but simply a description of its characteristics. In the subsequent verses of the chapter we are requested to look at the lives of working, thinking, struggling men, whose outward career is a vindication of the reality of their profession. All things exist for them under two conditions, those of time and space. As regards time very much with which they are concerned is future to them. As regards space very much is out of sight. Considering faith as a substance it substantiates God's promises, making them pleasant realities. The word rendered substance contains a three-fold idea—fundamental and real and abiding. The things hoped for are the glories held out in God's word, the believer's inheritance in the future. Faith is real. There is no man that does not live in the future more or less. Expectation and anticipation make up a very considerable portion of almost every life. Here and there may be found one who does not wish for enjoyment beyond the present time. To such faith seems a superfluity, things hoped for are a nullity. But the larger majority look into the future. With them there is a good time coming. Their faith is abiding. It is a substance. Science up to the present time has discovered no means whatever of annihilating substance. It may be transformed or transmuted, its qualities may be removed, but its substance remains as the basis of

NEW FORMS OF EXISTENCE.

The primeval forests have been reduced to coal, coal burns away and leaves gas, the particles are absorbed by the leaves of the trees and plants and they bring forth food for man and beast so that not a particle is lost. Just as carbon may assume the form of coal or the form and quality of a diamond so faith may be embedded in any or all the forms of worship which are adopted through Christendom. Because a man belongs to a different church it does not follow that we have nothing to do with his faith. The faith of the church is a common faith once delivered to the saints though there may be different forms of church government. When we speak of the church we mean the whole body of Christ's people of whatever denomination. There is one common blood in the veins of all creeds, one faith that shall abide while the Eternal Creator shall abide. In looking at faith as an element it may be better understood by the word proof. Faith does not require us to yield assent to any proposition without evidence. It is the acceptance of certain testimony because it comes from a person whose evidence we are not able to reject. The next element of faith is confidence. Each has to fall back upon his own faith. The mariner has confidence in his compass because it is properly constructed. So faith must be founded upon an intelligent conviction of God's authority. Faith is not necessarily unsatisfactory when it cannot give satisfaction to all cavillers. Lastly, faith is an evidence of things not seen. Doubt has invaded the realities of the seen as well as the unseen world. We are in the midst of merely passing scenes, while away beyond the skies there lie realities of which we have as yet no experience. These bodies must finally succumb; yet we know we have a building of God, eternal in the heavens. Amid all the trouble and turmoil of life we can look to the hopes and glory of the future, because we have been put in possession of that blessed faith which is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen.

The attendance was not as large as usual. The sermon occupied about forty minutes.

CANADIAN MILITIA.

Official Rank—School of Gunnery Certificates—Promotions.

In the Militia General Orders, published on Saturday, appears the following:

It is to be understood in future that officers of militia attached for instruction to either of the Royal Schools of Gunnery will rank among themselves according to their militia rank and the dates of their commissions, but in all duties connected with the schools they will be of whatever rank they may hold and be considered as junior to the permanent officers of the batteries composing the Royal Schools of Gunnery. The permanent officers of the batteries of the Royal Schools of Gunnery will rank in the batteries according to the dates of the appointments to their respective ranks therein.

The following are the Royal School of Gunnery, "B" Battery, graduates: Third class, short course certificates—Sergt. Burchell, Welland Canal Field Battery; Bombardiers John Beatty, Durham Field Battery; Robt. Mason, Toronto Field Battery. Fourth class short course certificates—Sergt. McDonald, Gananoque Field Battery; Driver Isaac Miller and Osborne Wright, Durham Field Battery.

14th Battalion "The Prince of Wales' Own Rifles"—To be Surgeon: Assistant Surgeon, John Bigham, M.D., vice John Kennedy Oliver, deceased. To be Assistant Surgeon: William Henry Henderson, M.D., vice Bigham, promoted.

THE REAL ONE.

The Divinity Waited Upon by a World Reporter Upon Her Arrival.

(Toronto World.)

At three minutes to eleven to-day (Saturday) Sarah Bernhardt reached Toronto. In a moment after a carriage dashed up to the front entrance of the Queen's hotel and the noted actress, accompanied by many supporters, stepped in a sprightly manner to the sidewalk, and like a thin streak of wonder darted upstairs to the red parlor. The French consul called, and a few minutes after a World reporter sent up his card. He was introduced into the red parlor, and at a glance recognized the ethereal one. She was lying face upwards on a sofa with her long thin hands

CLASPED UNDER HER HEAD.

Her travelling dress lay open, showing an underdress of some soft grey material. Her big weird eyes were sleepy looking, and her wide, rather inane mouth, was pretty well open, showing two rows of irregular teeth. Her arms were bare to the elbow, and a glance at them showed that the reports of her thinness were exaggerated. Neither is she a tall woman, but certainly quite thin. She was talking rapidly to three or four ladies on dishabille about her, and when the reporter entered stopped short and looked anything but pleased. The reporter enquired after her health and with a shrug and a smile she said she was "ver tire." On being told that the clergy were

CRYING HER DOWN,

she shrugged her shoulders rapidly and laughed, a laugh which was joined in by those about her. She expressed extreme disgust at what she saw of Toronto, and in another moment, rose for breakfast, which was preparing in the same room. When the reporter left she extended her hand cordially and asked him to go to her matinee. Some one in her company exhibited a Detroit paper which contained comments on the

REV. MR. RAINSFORD'S LETTERS.

The piece was read in French, and Sarah laughed till she nearly choked herself on a muffin. Her laugh is sweet, short and characteristic. Her face is weirdly beautiful, and her figure spare but striking. Her last words were something about "too rain."
