Daily British Whig.

[illegible]

To-day the polling on the Scott Act has been proceeding vigorously enough no doubt, in the city of Hamilton. Public feeling has been wrought up to a white heat pitch of excitement on both sides, two outsiders, Prof. Foster, of New Brunswick, and E. King Dodds leading to battle the Scott and Anti-Scott Act forces respectively. The prohibitionists have been conducting all day—from nine o'clock this morning—a public prayer meeting to invoke the Divine assistance upon their cause. They should be shrewd enough, however, to remember Cromwell's motto to "trust in God and keep their powder dry." They will not only have to pray but to work like beavers also for success. In order to win they will have to be at the polls as well as at the prayer meeting. The result of the vote has not as yet transpired, but the event will be awaited with much interest, especially in several places where similar contests are now pending.

As we anticipated there is likely to be an alliance between the Tories as a party and the Whig landowners against Mr. Gladstone's land bill. To counteract this there should be a coalition between the Liberals and the Land Leaguers in support of the measure. Even if the Act does not go the full length of Irish expectations this would be no valid reason for opposition. Parnell has expressed himself as fairly satisfied with its provisions and the whole Land League party would best consult their own interests by giving the measure their hearty support. Dillon and some others are threatening opposition but this is assuming a suicidal attitude for if the Government is defeated on this Bill and that too by the aid of Irish votes it will be some time before any statesman will have the courage—indeed the hardihood—to submit an equally Liberal measure. It is a poor policy to refuse all that is offered because all that is demanded is not conceded, and the Irish members cannot do better than to throw in all their strength and influence in favour of the Bill which Mr. Gladstone has submitted in their behalf to the British Parliament.

OKA INDIANS.

It seems to be the intention to remove the Oka Indians from their present location, near Montreal, to the Parry Sound region. The recent report to Parliament on Indian affairs insisted that the only true way to deal with the Indians was to induce them to take to the habits and life of agriculturalists. We question if the removal of the Okas from their present lands to the wild, rocky and inhospitable region above named is at all a move in the direction indicated. It will be taking them from homes to which they have an inalienable right, and, where they can make a self-supporting livelihood, and transporting them to a place where white people can scarcely wrest a bare subsistence from reluctant nature. The best of the land—and much that is bad besides—has already been taken up by white settlers, and to banish these Oka Indians from their present homes to such a place would be virtually relegating them back again to the nomadic and uncivilized existence of their ancestors, in which hunting and fishing would again become their precarious means of subsistence. It is asserted that the transfer is being made with the full concurrence of the Indians themselves, but this is a gross mistake, or something worse. The Indians have not been consulted, and if the arrangement is consummated it will be without their knowledge or consent. Such a procedure as this is too much like the Indian policy of our neighbors across the line, which has been attended with such unfortunate results, and such a policy must not be transplanted into Canada.

COTTON ENTERPRISE.

At the meeting of the Cotton Company to-night the matter of corporation aid to the new mill will be considered. The proposition of the Finance Committee to give $5,000 in money or money's worth—bonus or site—and exemption from taxation, is not, it is true, as much as the company expected, but still it is enough to prove of very material advantage to the undertaking. We cannot see why any one should deprecate the action of the Finance Committee, or the intended action of the City Council in this matter. Even were the proposed bonus a much larger sum it cannot be appropriated unless and until the people say so. The fact should not be lost sight of that the action of the Council will only afford the electors an opportunity of deciding the question for themselves. For this very reason the Council would not have been to blame in naming a much larger sum, although, it is true, in such a case they might not be consulting the interest of the company, which is to ask all that the citizens will approve of and no more. To submit a large bonus from the Council to the people might only be courting defeat at the polls, so that it is decidedly the best policy, from the company's standpoint, to ask for a moderate sum, which shall carry with it the virtue of being a reasonable requisition, and on this account all the more likely to carry. For these reasons we think the proposition of the Finance committee a feasible one, and we only hope, for the success of the enterprise and for the consequent prosperity of the city, that the amount will not only pass the Council, but that it will also be endorsed by the electors who will have the opportunity of pronouncing upon it.

At to-night's meeting a vigorous effort will also be made to increase the stock subscriptions apart altogether from the action of the council. Large expectations in regard to the city grant may indeed have caused a falling off in the private subscriptions to the stock book. We hope that either by the increase of stock already taken, or by the addition of names of new subscribers, the requisite amount may be realized and the scheme which bids fair to materially enhance our local prosperity, be successfully floated and become an established fact.

INSTITUTE FOR THE BLIND.

The deposition of Mr. Hunter from the Principalship of the Institute for the blind at Brantford will give much more general satisfaction than his transfer to another office. The latter he may fill efficiently but the public interest was naturally and properly much greater in the Institute, of which for some years he had been the head, than in himself and his personal affairs; and it had become manifest to all that he could never recover his lost usefulness in the position from which he has been, as we think, wisely removed. The charges against Principal Hunter were numerous and serious, and the investigation made it abundantly clear that that there was a good deal of truth in each and all of them. Like the usual verdict of a coroner's jury the finding of Inspector Langmuir has been "in accordance with the facts," and Mr. Hunter has been transferred to a sphere which will give him less scope for the exercise of his severe and peculiar methods of discipline and afford him much less opportunity for surrendering to the temptations of temper and resentment. Mr. Hunter is undoubtedly an able man in his way, but his abilities appear to have been completely neutralized by an inadaptability to the duties of a position where, if anywhere, humane and kindly methods should prevail, and where resort to the severities of discipline should be the rare exception to the rule. The unanimity of the evidence against him, both on the part of the teachers and pupils, left no doubt whatever that the government of the Institute had become simply intolerable, and that it was clearly the duty of the authorities to relieve him of the command. The Government has in this instance followed the precedent set in the case of the Wardenship of the Central Prison. Mr. Hunter, like Captain Prince, has been superseded but not dismissed, and it is to be hoped that he will take the lesson implied in the transfer to heart and "govern himself accordingly" in his new position. All will agree that Mr. Inspector Langmuir, has ably discharged the duty of thoroughly sifting this difficulty and will approve of the report on which, no doubt, the action of the Government was taken. Mr. Dymond, the new principal of the Institute, will make an efficient officer, although some surprise is being felt and expressed that he should abandon public life, for which he is so well adapted, to accept a position of this nature. Under him we wish the teachers and pupils of the Institute an era of harmony progress and prosperity.

QUESTION OF EXEMPTIONS

The Principle Which Should be Applied in Regard to Them in Kingston.

To the Editor of the British Whig.

SIR,—Though the whole basis of municipal taxation requires a revision in the direction of the total exemption of circulating capital, it will suffice for the present to guide municipal bodies if they will keep in view these facts relating to the assessment of manufacturing property, and it is clear that no violence to any principle will be done by acting upon them.

X. Y. Z. invests $100,000 in the purchase of house property, is assessed at its cash value and pays taxes accordingly. The value can be ascertained at any time.

O. P. Q. invests $100,000 in a cotton mill and machinery. The buyers of cotton mills are few and far between. The whiskey manufacture is or was a profitable business. Yet Morton's distillery was unsaleable for a long term of years, and as a distillery has been wiped out. Several tens of thousands of dollars would figure the loss on that property. Once the cotton mill is put up, should the owner want to sell he would have to submit to a reduction. If obliged to sell the reduction would probably be 25 per cent., assuming that buyers could be found. The commission on the resale of the machinery would be at least ten per cent., and if there was little demand for the machines the whole loss on resale might be easily 50 per cent. I defy anyone who knows anything about the valuation of manufacturing properties to disprove my estimate of loss as the average result of transactions in such property. The owner of the cotton mill will not sell for more than two-thirds of its satisfies the assessor that his property cost, and is assessed accordingly. But in converting his $100,000 into so much assessable property he has sacrificed one-fourth of it. He can only recover that one-fourth from the profits of his business, a business as dependent upon the risks of enterprise as any other.

I do not offer any opinion as to whether this or that manufacturing property should be exempt. Some effort should be made to settle the valuation of such property on a fixed basis. If every manufactory in Kingston were closed to-morrow the value of houses would decline, but their fall in value would be as nothing to that of the workshops. These have been sold time and again for a small fraction of their cost, and the machinery in them for its value as scrap iron.

Yours, etc.,
A CITIZEN.

April 13th, 1881.

Canada Pacific Railway.

It is reported that the Pacific Railway syndicate have completed their arrangements in England and are about returning to Canada. They have issued the following circular in England:

"The Canadian Pacific Railway Company, subsidized by the Dominion Government for the purpose of completing a continuous line of railway through British territory from the present Canadian system of railways to the Pacific Ocean, has a grant of twenty-five million acres of the best farming lands, situated between the Red River of the North and the Rocky Mountains, in what is known as the fertile belt of North America, and contiguous to the main line of the projected railway and its branches.—Witness.

Scene in Montreal Council.

The regularity of an amendment was questioned, and the Mayor decided that both motions were out of order. For a moment the Council Chamber was a pandemonium of discordant sounds. Several alderman rose simultaneously and attempted to address the chair. For a brief interval an uproar prevailed that transformed the chamber into what is aptly termed a bear garden. The Mayor was powerless for a while to control the excited Aldermen, and tranquility was only restored by his Worship informing the Council that they could appeal from his decision. The ruling of the Mayor was then reversed by a vote of 9 to 13.

Corner Ended.

Chicago, April 13.—The corner in the pork market is reported to have ended by the cornered parties paying $100,000.

LAND LEAGUE.

Land Bill Declared Inadequate—Parnell's Statement.

London, April 13.—At the Land League meeting in Dublin yesterday Mr. Parnell stated that, while not at present expressing a definite opinion on so complex a measure he pointed out that many of its provisions are illusory, particularly the provisions for securing free sale. The bill, he said, would not benefit tenants in arrears. The first portion of the bill, relating to rents and tenure was obscure, and distinctly prejudicial to the tenants. There were 32,000 holdings under £8 and 750,000 under £4, many of the tenants being in a bankrupt condition; and as far as it regarded these the bill did not secure free sale, and only increased the power of the landlords to enforce rack renting. Another important defect related to those small tenants who have been compelled to accept leases, and were thus deprived of those benefits which the Land Act of 1870 conferred on them. There were thousands of these leases which were of such a character as to make it impossible for the tenants to satisfy the clauses of the bill pertaining thereto.

Mr. Dillon said if the bill passed it would destroy the power of the Land League and the combined strike of the tenantry against rack rents.

The balance of opinion as expressed by another Home Ruler present was unfavourable to the bill, and a resolution was passed declaring the bill inadequate.

LADIES' LEAGUE.

Montreal, April 13.—A ladies Irish Land League is about to be established here.

LECTURE BY BISHOP O'MAHONEY.

Toronto, April 13.—At a meeting last evening of the Toronto branch of the Irish Land League it was stated that Bishop O'Mahoney would deliver a lecture in aid of the funds of the branch after the lenton season.

ARREST OF A TRAVERSER.

London, April 13.—Gordon, one of the Traversers in the recent Irish trials, has been arrested at Claremorris under the provisions of the Coercion Act, for language used at a recent land meeting. He was accompanied to the train by a band.

SCOTT ACT.

Voting Taken Place Upon the Measure in Hamilton.

Hamilton, April 13.—The all-absorbing topic to-day is the Scott Act, which is being voted on. Both parties come to the contest well organized and determined to win. The anti-Scotts, owing to the numerous interests at stake, appear to have the best organization, and certainly the greatest number of workers and have secured all the available cabs, but private conveyances and teams from the country are placed at the disposal of the Scott Act Association. At 9 o'clock, when the polls opened, a number were ready to vote. At none of the 29 polling places does business appear to lag. Each party has an outside checker who marks off each man as he thinks he votes. At noon the anti-Scotts say they are ahead, but no reliance can be placed on the figures before the total vote is counted at the close of the polls. Business is almost suspended so absorbed do all appear to be in the contest. Bets are very cautiously made or accepted. The Temperance Union has sustained a daily noon prayer meeting for about six weeks. To-day the meeting lasts from 9 until 5 and is well attended; both parties express perfect confidence in the result.

CATTLE TRADE.

The Issue of a New Order-in-Council Respecting It.

Ottawa, April 13.—A new order-in-council has been passed, regulating the export cattle trade so far as vessels that have carried cattle from the United States ports are concerned:

1. The previous order (which provides that no vessel shall embark cattle from a Canadian port that has carried cattle from the United States port until after the lapse of thirty days, and then only after a thorough cleansing under the superintendence of the inspecting officer) remains in force.

2. Any vessel, upon which has been found cattle suffering from the foot and mouth disease, shall not be at liberty to carry cattle from a Canadian port until after the lapse of sixty days, and then only after a thorough cleansing has been effected.

3. Vessels that have carried cattle suffering from pleuro-pneumonia shall not embark cattle at a Canadian port until after the lapse of ninety days and a thorough cleansing of the vessel.

Election of Benchers.

Toronto, April 13.—The interest taken by members of the bar in the election which has just taken place was much greater than it was five years ago. David Glass, Q.C., of London, and Messrs. H. W. M. Murray, J. F. Smith, J. H. Ferguson, and J. J. Foy, all of Toronto, form the new element in the Beach. The other twenty-five (including Mr. Britton) are re-elected, and come to their duties with their experience to aid them. The five retiring Benchers, who are not re-elected, are: Messrs. A. Leith, Toronto, H. C. R. Becher, London; Henderson, Kingston; Lees, Ottawa; and Osler, Hamilton. Mr. Murray takes the place of Mr. Leith, and Mr. Glass of Mr. Becher, and consequently the only change in the Benchers' body from a territorial point of view is the substitution of three Toronto men for representatives of Hamilton, Kingston, and Ottawa.

Cartwright's Position.

Such paragraphs as the following are frequently found in Conservative journals: "It is reported that Sir Richard Cartwright has taken twenty-five shares in the Napanee glass factory, thereby practically endorsing the trade policy of his successor in office." Surely it was not supposed that the members of any political party would fold their arms and go to sleep for five years because a tariff was adopted to which, looking to the general interests of the country, they were opposed. Sir Richard Cartwright has himself stated in the house that the tariff enabled him to make larger profits on certain lines of manufactures in which he was interested; but the consumers of the country paid the manufacturers this extra tax, and being a large majority they are entitled to the first consideration. If a tariff is framed specially to enrich the manufacturers, that is no reason why the men of one political party should be allowed to have a monopoly of the good things to be got under it, and no reason why they should not seek to frame a more equitable tariff when the time for doing so arrives.—Toronto World.

—The Baroness Ashmead-Bartlett-Burdett Coutts, like the fond and doting wife that she is, has nominally leased to her "hubby," for ninety-nine years, the immense revenues of the entailed St. Alban's estate, worth £100,000 per annum. The lease contains the provision that Ashmead is not to re-marry after his spouse's death.

MISSOURI FLOODS.

Inundation of Yankton—Stock Drowned—People Homeless.

Yankton, April 13.—Missouri is gradually subsiding. The ice is piled to a height of ten to thirty feet along the bank and on the bars and at the bottoms. Yankton is filling with refugees from the low lands outside. Help is needed as the resources of the citizens are not adequate. Thousands of people are homeless and all they possessed has been swept away. Nearly all the stock on the low lands and hundreds of thousands of heads are drowned. Farm houses and villages are submerged or are floating about in the water. At Green Island of twenty houses, but one remains, and the ice is ten to twenty feet deep. The bottom from here to Big Sioux, sixty miles long by five to twenty miles wide, is still under water. Yankton parties are still out in yawls bringing in people. The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul RR. which runs over this bottom, is still under water. It is the only means of communication with the outside. Yankton is almost destitute of fuel and short of provisions. Winter still holds on, increasing the suffering of the homeless families. Yankton can furnish shelter for about 1,000, and is making great efforts to supply clothing, fuel, and provisions from its limited stores. As soon as the gorge breaks boats can be sent below for supplies. All the railroads north and west are snowed in. The damages to the steamboat property are $60,000, including two boats sunk. Eight steamers are lying high up on the ice and far inland. The losses to property in general are very great. The season of floods has only begun. The entire Missouri slope is buried in snow.

Mrs. Augusta Sedaljob, New York, being in poor health, suicided yesterday by jumping from the roof of a five storey building.

Those who can are leaving the town. The disease is spreading to Burton village. The Governor was telegraphed to send somebody to bury the dead. He replied that the county authorities should attend to it.

Earthquake in Chios.

London, April 12. A Constantinople despatch says: Earthquake shocks of considerable violence have begun again in Chios. It is estimated that barely twenty houses remain habitable on the whole island. Forty five villages are totally destroyed, and the population in many localities has absolutely disappeared. The latest advices say the number of killed is less than a thousand.

Senate Debate.

New York, April 13.—The Times says as day follows day the debate in the U. S. Senate becomes more tedious and stale. It is possible a new aspect may be given to the contest after the return of the Senators who accompanied Carpenter's body to Wisconsin, but at present there are no indications of any change.

Railway Collision.

Jersey City, April 13.—A passenger train and a freight train, passing each other in Bergen cut, last evening, the freight car fell over in front of the passenger locomotive, which crashed through the fallen car and several others which had left the track. A GOOD SPRING MEDICINE.—We call attention to the advertisement in another column of "Warner's Blood Purifier." As this is the season of the year when everyone requires a thorough cleansing of the system from impurities of the winter which are ready at the first approach of spring to break forth in the form of fevers, etc., we advise all to try a bottle of this cheap and efficient remedy. Those who do so will experience great relief from the removal of that feeling of lassitude and dullness which affects us at this time of the year. Although this is a new medicine yet it has given thorough satisfaction where it has been introduced.
