McLaren, Rev. D. Lecky seconded the motion.

It was then decided to take a vote.

A member objected to the constitutionality of the roll but his objection was overruled.

Dr. Cochrane rose to make an explanation but he was prevented from doing so by the cries of "Vote, vote."

A show of hands was taken as to the choice between Rev. Prof. McLaren and Rev. Prof. MacVicar. The former received 71 votes and the latter 95.

A vote was then taken between Rev. Dr. MacVicar and Rev. Dr. Cochrane. For MacVicar there were 119, for Cochrane, 74.

Prin. MacVicar was declared elected amidst loud applause.

NEW MODERATOR'S APPEARS.

The newly elected Moderator was escorted to the vestry and robed. On his return, accompanied by his mover and seconder, he was heartily applauded. He most cordially thanked them for his election to the position of Moderator. He did not anticipate such a distinguished position, for according to the system in the Church it was an impossibility to say in advance who would be selected to occupy the chair. He had, therefore, not prepared what might be technically termed the Moderator's speech. He regretted that there had been a seeming conflict among them for the position, and also that he had not been left on the floor of the House, for he knew his insufficiency for the work devolving upon the chair. He congratulated them that it was his lot to come to the chair at the end of the year, when there had been unwonted progress in all the schemes of the Church. In closing he said there had been a great measure of success in connection with the colleges. He again thanked them for the honor and concluded by asking for Divine assistance in the discharge of his duties.

REPLIES TO ADDRESSES.

The ex-Moderator presented and laid on the table a despatch from the Right Hon. the Secretary of State for the Colonies, intimating that the address presented to Her Majesty, as ordered by the last Assembly, had been graciously received; also a reply from the Governor General to the address sent to him by the Assembly.

THANKS TO EX-MODERATOR.

It was moved and seconded that the thanks of the General Assembly be tendered to Rev. Dr. McCrae for the able manner in which he discharged the duties of the Moderatorship during the year, and for the excellent sermon delivered by him during the evening.

As the motion was about to be put, Rev. E. B. Mackay deliberately walked to the platform and entered his objection. He severely criticised the sermon. Referring to the criticism of the remarks of Rev. Prof. MacVicar at the Pan-Presbyterian Church, regarding the creed of the Cannibals, he said he believed the teachings of his were more in keeping with the Professor's remarks than with those of the Rev. Dr. McCrae. He took his seat amidst "hisses" and cheers.

Rev. Principal Grant said that he deeply regretted the criticism of the speaker, and in future to prevent such unjust remarks he would advise the Moderators to provide the brother with advance copies of their sermons, so that they might be in accordance with his tastes. (Cheers.)

Rev. Mr. McKay objected to these remarks.

Dr. Grant most emphatically expressed himself and stated that the brother was out of order, and extremely disorderly. He did not think that Mr. McKay's tastes—

Rev. Mr. McKay said it was not tastes he was speaking about; it was doctrine.

It was finally decided by the Moderator that the remarks and criticisms on what was said at the Pan Presbyterian Council should be laid over until the papers regarding it were brought down. The motion of thanks was then passed to the ex Moderator.

It was finally moved and seconded that the Committee be empowered to consider the whole subject.

RECEPTION OF MINISTERS.

Applications were received from various Presbyteries, asking for leave to receive ministers.

COLLEGE STUDENT'S CASE.

A discussion ensued regarding Rev. Joseph Andrew, a student of Queen's College, who wished to be received.

Dr. Grant raised the question as to whether he would have to make a personal application to the Assembly or merely to hand his application to the Committee. The latter course was decided upon.

The adjournment then took place.

The Reformers of North Ontario are proceeding to lock the door, now that the horse is stolen. The majority of Mr. Madill over Mr. Bigelow was a very narrow one, only about twenty votes, and a recount has been demanded. It is possible that a scrutiny may result in reversing the result, or, at least, of upsetting the election. This, however, is now a doubtful and difficult matter. Before the election, and on the day of polling, a difference of several scores of votes might have been much more easily made and with much less effort than will now be required to count out one man and count in the other.

A contemporary gravely points out that though the approval of the Imperial Parliament may be necessary to authorize the use of the revised edition of the bible in old country Episcopal and in the Courts Churches yet any individual can use it as much as he likes without its being authorized. This opinion will prove very reassuring to many who have already bought, read, and inwardly digested the new New Testament without so much as thinking of authorization from any quarter. It must be regarded as a very solemn joke, indeed, to inform people that they may read a book of this kind, or of any kind, without a special dispensation from Parliament to enable them to do so.

The Tory press is delighted with the discovery of the great Conservative reaction against the Mowat Government because the Reform candidate was beaten last Saturday in North Ontario by a majority of about twenty. The Opposition are easily comforted and delighted. The general verdict of the people of Ontario has been so nearly unanimous in approbation of the Mowat Administration that the fragments of an opposition cannot contain themselves, when by a mere chance they obtain any indication that they are not doomed to total extinction. The Government is not menaced in the slightest degree by the catch opposition success in North Ontario. The very fact that the friends of the Government were caught napping in this bye contest will so awaken them to action and organization, when the next general election arrives, as to enable them to regain possession even of the temporarily lost riding without any trouble. This slight reverse to the Liberal party will re-impress the old lesson, that eternal vigilance is the only sure price and condition of success.

The mulcted shareholders of the Consolidated Bank are being afforded an opportunity to recover a fraction, at least, of their investments in that unfortunate institution. The Exchange Bank offers them 22½ per cent. They are naturally enough reluctant to accept it, and are holding out for 33⅓ per cent. The offer of the Exchange Bank is the best it will do, and in all probability the best that will be made from any source, and the Consolidated people will likely have to take that or nothing. A heavy responsibility rests upon those who mismanaged the Consolidated Bank into its present wrecked condition, for in these bank failures the savings of many a careful life time are swept away and many helpless people reduced from comparative comfort to penury. The presence of so many ladies at all the meetings of the Consolidated shareholders is a sad illustration of this fact. In striking contrast to the indignant meeting of these unfortunates is the gratifying report of the Bank of Montreal, whose shareholders are to receive a dividend of ten per cent. without touching upon a laid-aside surplus of a quarter of a million.

Close following the appalling disaster at London comes the news of another at the ancient capital. For the second time in a comparatively short period the city of Quebec has been devastated by the devouring element. As will be seen by our despatches the fire was a terrific one, both as regards the extent and rapidity of it. The one great relief in this instance, and one which makes the calamity an endurable one as compared with the London tragedy, is the gratifying fact that no life has been lost in the Quebec fire. On the other hand it is simply execrable that human greed and dishonesty should give such evidence of unmitigated depravity as this fire has furnished the occasion for. When the flames were at their height the wreckers and thieves were at their busiest, stealing and drinking in every direction, as if the fiery element required to be aided by inhuman vultures in the work of destruction. The severest punishment should be meted out to all such stretches as could rifle the dead at London or plunder the burning dwellings at Quebec, or anywhere else. This fresh blow to the unfortunate people of Quebec, resulting in an estimated loss of two millions dollars' worth of property will re-awaken public sympathy throughout the Dominion and beyond its bounds.

The Times says: "For the first time since the beginning of the Senatorial contest there were last night indications that the Conkling line will soon break to pieces.

The Conkling men last night were hard at work trying to form a combination with the Democrats for an adjournment. Most, if not all, the Democrats in both Houses are ready to join them.

The Sun says the proposition was made to the "half breed" leaders yesterday for a combination to elect Conkling and Depew. This was rejected.

Albany, N. Y., June 9.—In the Assembly Bradly stated that he had received $20,000 to pay him if he would vote for Depew instead of Platt, which he had handed over to the Speaker. He asked for a committee of investigation, which was granted unanimously. The committee will have power to extend jurisdiction to other and similar cases. Draper moved, to table the resolution for the final adjournment from the 10th inst. until after the joint convention, was carried.

RAILWAY SMASH.

A G. T. R. and Narrow Gauge Trains Cross Each Other.

Toronto, June 9.—Yesterday evening, at Eastern avenue, near the Kingston road, two freight trains—one a narrow gauge, the other a Grand Trunk—were being switched off. Owing to some neglect the Grand Trunk train from the east was coming down the incline at a terrific pace several minutes before its time. The heavy mass pitched into the cars of the freight train, cutting clean through it and strewing the rails with wreckage. The fireman, seeing the danger, leaped off the engine, but was pretty severely shaken up, and had his head badly cut. The engineer was entangled among the debris of his wrecked engine, but got off with wonderfully slight injuries. The escape of the two men was marvellous, as the engine took a leap into the air, throwing the rear car of the freight train high up on the splintered fragments of the other six cars, which were reduced to matchwood. The affrighted passengers got off unhurt. Two or three ladies fainted, others betook to hysterics. At one o'clock this morning half a dozen trains were waiting to come in and the evening express and a lot of stock trains were waiting at the Don station trying to get out. The eastern express reached Union station at 4 a.m. and things are again beginning to move.
