CITY AND VICINITY.

A JOLLY TRIP may be taken to morrow with the Butchers' Association.

PROBS.—Eastern gales and cloudy to rainy weather, followed to morrow by northerly to westerly gales; storm drums are up throughout the lakes.

THE PRISON CASE.—Dr. Sullivan, who examined the convict Delaire at the Penitentiary, yesterday, denies that he has given any opinion in the case, or spoken of it to anyone outside of the prison.

BURNED DOWN.—A shed adjoining the dive of Mrs. Ann Coulter, at the G. T. R. depot, was fired last evening and destroyed. The intention was, no doubt, to burn down the house which for so many years has had such an infamous name.

LOTS OF FREIGHT.—The amount of freight brought in on the K. & P. RR. is beyond all anticipation. Two engines have frequently to be used in bringing in a train. As the road becomes completed northward the business grows in proportion.

BUOYING THE SHOALS.—The work of buoying the shoals in the harbor has been completed. Two new buoys were placed on the upper and one on the lower shoals. On the upper shoal there is an average depth of twelve feet of water and on the lower shoal about nine feet.

ANXIOUS FOR SPORT.—Brockville people are moving to offer a prize for each race rowed there between the different parties who have been exchanging challenges as an outgrowth of the recent regatta in Toronto. Hanlan is coming east next week, and will visit Gananoque.

LACROSSE MATCH.—The 21st inst., has been decided upon as the day the Athletic Lacrosse Club, of this city, will attempt to wrest the Gildersleeve cup from the present holders, the Peterboro Club. The match will occur in Peterboro. A good team has been selected to go from this city.

A LONG RACE.—The 24-mile steeplechase will take place at Bell's Corners on Friday in connection with the County of Carleton Fair. The following strong field of horses will take part: Kenzie, Vic Harcourt, Young Jack the Barber, Galatea, Emma, and an imported horse belonging to Col. Montizambert, Kingston.

AN OLD COUNTRYMAN.—Living near Cataraqui is an aged patriarch named Bushey, who has seen 102 winters. A few days ago he walked six miles, feeling no ill effects from the tramp. He was a regular attendant at Glenvale Camp Meeting, and there gave his testimony in a forcible manner, and in such a way as to place beyond dispute the scoffings of sceptical persons relative to christianity.

VARIOLOID CASE.—This morning the first case of small-pox of this year was disclosed in the city. A five year old child of Mrs. Freak, Ontario Street, was found to be suffering from a mild attack, and it was thought best in the public interest to quarantine the whole family in the small-pox hospital. Great difficulty was experienced by the Mayor and officials in getting the transfer made.

PROVINCIAL EXHIBITION.—The expected conference between the Industrial Fair and Provincial Exhibition Committees has not taken place, and no opposition to Kingston's claim for 1882's Provincial show, we are officially authorized to say, will come from Toronto. Sheriff Ferguson, Warden Dawson, Messrs. Fair and Starke will go as delegates from the Midland Fair and the county of Frontenac upon the united delegation to London.

REMOVED HIS HAT.—Sir Samuel Tilley yesterday, while speaking, found it necessary to refer to a friend whom he had had a conversation with, and pointed his finger over his shoulder at him. The granger was astonished to see the eyes of the company turned on him and with a modesty becoming the occasion, quietly removed his hat of straw so that the audience could see him. It was then seen that he had a bald head, too.

ARRANGING AN EXCURSION.—Mr. H. T. Frary, general passenger agent of the R. W. & O. Railway, has been in the city arranging for an excursion to New York on Oct. 4th, the tickets to be good for 15 days, and to cost but $10 for the round trip. The route chosen is by the R. W. & O. RR. and N.Y. Central roads—the pleasant way for the season. The time is the longest that has yet been given on a cheap trip, and it ought to take. Folger & Hanley are the agents here.

POISONING CASE.—Some time ago we referred to a cattle poisoning case in Oso. The person accused of the crime, Alvah Adams, an ex-Methodist minister, aged 74 years, was tried before Messrs. Doran and Shibley, J.Ps., and found not guilty. The poison had evidently been placed on the ground, but they considered that it was not put there by Mr. Adams. It is said that the complainant was adjudged to pay $11.80 fees to the magistrates. These will have to be returned, as there are no fees collectable in criminal cases.

SELECTION OF JURORS.—The County Judge and Sheriff, and Treasurer, the Mayor and Clerk of the Peace met today to make a call upon the municipalities for the Grand and Petit jurors for next year. The reduction made last year of petit jurors for the County Court and General Sessions from 48 to 36 is to be continued. This year the Clerks were particularly notified to have the voters' lists legally prepared, but they have failed to do it in at least three instances. In two of the cases the printing was done outside of Kingston.

Dissolving A Camp Meeting.

Yesterday occurred the breaking up of the Methodist camp meeting at Glenvale, successfully carried on for the past two weeks. It was an occasion that will be long remembered. The attendance was large. From early in the morning until one o'clock a fellowship meeting was held, at which hundreds gave their testimonies in relation to the verities of religion. With singing, prayer and speaking the time flew rapidly. In the afternoon the sacrament of the Lord's Supper was partaken of, followed by general hand-shaking and farewells. A grand circle was formed around the camp, and amidst songs of praise to the King of Kings the campers dispersed. During the holding of the meetings much good has been accomplished, and yesterday upwards of seventy persons announced their intention of connecting themselves with the church as a result of the services. On Monday a meeting will be held, and it will then be decided whether the camp meeting will become a permanent institution of the churches in this county.

Harvest Home.

A very successful harvest home dinner occurred at Millhaven on Tuesday last under the direction of Rev. Mr. Kellock, the resident pastor of the Presbyterian Church. Some three hundred persons assembled, among them several Kingstonians. Three long tables piled with good things, kindly provided by the ladies, made a harvest home dinner unequalled in any part of the Midland district. After the edibles had been disposed of addresses followed from Revs. Kellock, McCuaig and several ministers from Bath and Napanee. The large company heartily enjoyed themselves, returning home filled with gratitude and pleasure at the bountiful harvest of the past season.

GANANOQUE PIC-NIC.

SIR SAMUEL TILLEY SPEAKS RELATIVE TO THE PROSPERITY OF CANADA, AND AUGURS A GLORIOUS FUTURE.

A Slim Attendance—Only Five Hundred Appear to Honor the Cabinet Minister—Remarkable Absence of Announced Orators, Excursions and Other Amusements.

Yesterday the pic nic, announced to be held at Tremont Park for the benefit of Christ Church, Gananoque, occurred. A small number of Kingstonians went down the river on the steamer "Pierrepont," which during the day ferried the pic nicers from Gananoque to the park upon an adjacent island. The ground selected for the pic nic was very suitable as well as picturesque, facing as it does, the village front, which in the distance, has a pleasing appearance. There was great disappointment in consequence of the absence of the principal speakers who were expected to be present. About noon the ground was reached and quite a party found enjoying dinner. The crowd was not such as was expected, especially at the reception of a Cabinet Minister. A large stand was erected in a open space in the grove, but this structure was abandoned for one of less proportions, speaking under the circumstances in the large area not being agreeable. The assembly numbered about 500. Among the notables present were Sir Samuel Tilley, K.C.B., D. Ford Jones, M.P., Father Kelly, Revs. W. B. Carey, Austin, Wright and Osborne, Dr. Allison, Messrs. G. Taylor, Ex-Warden, D. Preston, ex-M.P.P., Dr. Giles, ex-M.P.P., J. H. Earle, Reeve of South Crosby, W. Webster, Reeve of Front Leeds and Lansdowne, H. Green, R. Latimer, W. Byers, Reeve of Gananoque, and W. B. Carroll.

THE INAUGURAL SPEECHES.

After order had been secured Rev. H. Austin took the stand and made a few preliminary remarks. He was proud to see so many present to aid the church and do honor to one of the chief ministers of the cabinet. He then introduced the Rev. W. B. Carey, of St. Paul's, Kingston to address the audience.

Rev. W. B. Carey said he expressed regret that so few Kingstonians were present and the pleasure it afforded him to do honor to the speaker of the day. He said that Gananoque people were held in high appreciation by the residents of the Limestone City; that there was no parish in the diocese that had been sustained under such circumstances as Gananoque and that, he hoped, the receipts of the pic nic would be adequate for the purpose for which they were intended. He said he was not a political parson but he kindly intimated that he could not help thinking that the past and future of this country were inseparable from the party now in power. (Cheers.)

Rev. Mr. Wright, of Newboro, made a few pleasant remarks, but regretted the absence of the speakers that were announced to be present.

The Chairman apologized for the absentees, alleging that their absence was unavoidable. He then introduced who in commencing, referred to his recent return from the Maritime Provinces, and to the number of political addresses he had given, owing to which he was suffering from a sore throat. He had declined several invitations to be present at similar gatherings elsewhere, to attend the one of Gananoque. He was glad to be able to renew acquaintanceships formed in 1879, and to learn of the increased prosperity in Gananoque. He was somewhat embarrassed as to what topic to speak upon. Although he was a minister, he had no sermon prepared; but he would endeavor to say what would be beneficial and of encouragement to the people of Gananoque and Canada. On his previous visit he inspected twenty seven manufactories, and in no place, with a like population, had he seen so many industries. Prosperity was at that time but beginning. On his return to Ottawa, after this trip, he would be compelled to say that he had heard nothing but a hammer in a blacksmith shop, but he would have an explanation to make and that was that there was such a feeling of liberality that a public holiday had been proclaimed in order to allow the residents of the village to attend the pic-nic. The state of affairs in the country at present was such as to warrant the farmers and manufacturers in entertaining a feeling of satisfaction, and nothing could speak stronger for the prosperity of the country than the fact that during the past twenty-seven months some $19,000,000 had been placed in the savings' banks by the people in excess of the sum deposited at the same time in previous years. The proportionate increase in bank stock was $15,000,000 and the value of the securities of this country had been improved. The 4 per cent. securities which were sold in the English market some years ago at £90 discount were now worth $105, premium. Some would say that this was owing to the abundance of money and to the eagerness to invest it, but he would say that the securities of the Australian colonies had been worth more than these of Canada when they were sold. Now the New South Wales securities are now below the Canadian securities, although the former have sold 5 per cent. better.

CREDIT OF CANADA AT HOME.

Sir John A. Macdonald had written that "never has Canada stood so high in the appreciation of the old world as now." (Applause.) The speaker then touched upon the exodus which had existed a few years ago, and contended that the Canadians were gradually returning to Canada and so great was the demand for labor both in agricultural and manufacturing centres that men could not be got, while on the Intercolonial Railway soldiers from Halifax off duty were pressed into service with the consent of commanding officers. Agents of manufacturers and others were sending abroad for laborers for without more help orders for work and supplies could not be filled. Now there were no longer inducements for men to remain in the United States, especially when they could secure as good wages in Canada. During the past twelve months 14,000 hands had been added to the number employed in the manufactories, making an increase in the population of 30,000 or 40,000. New Brunswick, which was opposed to the National Policy, is now feeling the good effects of it, and cotton mills and other industries are going up, and a general enhancement in the value of real estate is felt. Money is decidedly more plentiful, bills are paid freely, and business, as a rule, is more prosperous. The future of Canada is hopeful. The great change thus wrought did not benefit the few but the masses and it was the policy of the Government to do this, otherwise there would be no prosperity, but rather anarchy and confusion. There was no place in the world where property was more evenly divided which has a better constitution where there was

than in Canada. The necessaries of life were cheaper, all things considered, than in 1877 and 1878. Sugar was cheaper, and there was more money in the Treasury for what was imported of it than in 1878. Woollens were cheaper, and could be manufactured at a lower rate than by the Americans, without the duty. He alluded to grain bags, which were manufactured and sold at $23 per 100, while they cost in the States $24 per 100 without duty. The natural products of the country generally were sold in the home markets cheaper than in the United States; and besides these goods were from 10 to 20 per cent. cheaper than in 1878. The day was fast approaching when the present policy of the Government would be accepted by all, and instead of being a political question would be regarded as a patriotic one; that policy would be fixed on the minds and hearts and affections of the people. His heart was rejoiced to see the prosperity of the people, and the only thing to further add to this prosperity was the suppression of the traffic in intoxicating liquor, so that every Saturday night the workmen could roll into the laps of their wives the money that in the aggregate made up the $15,000,000 annually squandered in drink. By every honest man saying, "I will resolve to drink no more," over one-half of the money so expended in liquor could be saved. He invited his audience to look at the future of the country, its constitution and educational advantages unequalled in the world; its hearty race, with temperate habits; its healthy climate, and its vast extent of territory. Sir Samuel particularly dwelt upon the exodus of people from the United States, claiming that thousands were crossing the borders for the North West, where more fertile land could be secured, and also that the natural attractions of Canadians was to return to Canada sooner or later. Wages were as good here as in the States.

DISCUSSING THE C. P. RR.

Probably before next year there would be laid, from the head of Lake Superior to 400 miles beyond Winnipeg, (altogether 800 miles) a railroad able to take into the North-West hundreds of thousands of persons to settle and till the land and bring back their products; and in two years from date the road would be completed to the foot of the Rocky Mountains. A belt of land five miles on each side of this railroad would produce as much wheat as the whole exports of Canada amounted to—some $80,000,000 in value. The great advantages and blessed prospects before them should induce the people to be thankful and take courage. Some doubted the wisdom of building the railway, but the whole interest of the subsidy could have been paid last June had the line been completed, and there would still have been $2,500,000 in the Treasury. He referred to the surplus of last year, and said that the condition of the country was such that more revenue had been received than was anticipated. He referred to the reciprocity treaty and the way in which the United States could be induced to enter into a treaty again. When the fisheries treaty expired Canada could give the United States some ground for a reciprocal agreement. The speaker again referred to the North West, and said that the wheat belt in that territory would be worth nothing but for the railway. Land was being given away, and still the Government would have 75,000,000 acres to sell, which, even at $1 per acre, would pay back to the Treasury the $53,000,000 of railway subsidy as well as the interest paid, as the country was filled up, the new comers would pay their share, and thus would reduce the taxes in the old provinces. Already $50,000 was being paid weekly at the Winnipeg Customs House in duty. There was no reason why there should not be a population counted by millions in the North-West, as that was a better land for the settler than the United States. The railway facilities, too, were good. Many miles of branch lines were projected, too, and in the course of the next 25 years he inhabiting the Dominion west of London than east of it. He again touched upon the temperance question and averred that if less was spent in liquor there would be more happy homes, more contentment among the people and a grand future in store for Canada. The churches and clergymen had done for the temperance cause more in the past five years than other agencies had accomplished in fifteen years. He touched upon the syndicate terms, and said that never before had such terms been offered, and the very best arrangement, in his estimation for the running of the road, had been made. He dropped a few remarks of encouragement to the people of Gananoque. He hoped he would return to the village to find it largely increased and a great manufacturing centre. He denied that he had been a free trader, and said that in 1855 he brought down the first protective tariff submitted to the people of New Brunswick. In 1861 he had been a delegate to arrange a Zollverein between the Maritime Provinces, and it was during that time that he was asked to assist in forming the larger and happier union that had since been consummated. He saw no reason why in ten years Gananoque's population should not have increased to 10,000, and with a prophetic eye he viewed the place with this increase.

EXPECTED TO SEE MORE PEOPLE

During his address, which he claimed was unpolitical in character, excepting so far as the future of this country was concerned, he was cheered, but in a very faint manner.

OUR CLOSING OBSERVATIONS.

At the conclusion of the addresses cheers were given for both Sir Samuel and D. Ford Jones. At 4 o'clock a large party embarked on the "Pierrepont" and enjoyed an excursion amongst the islands. The Gananoque Silver Cornet Band, of fifteen pieces, under the leadership of Mr. J. McMarchy, went aboard and rendered several selections of music in fine style, and serenaded several Kingstonians as their rustic dwellings on the islands were passed. After an hour's sail a return was made to the island, where supper was served. As the shades of evening approached the company broke into groups, and set out for home.

The pic-nic was by no means a success and this fact will be of small importance if unpleasant feelings among the churches does not follow the political aspect which the pic nic took. The ladies performed their part with the greatest satisfaction.

As we hinted yesterday the object of getting Sir Samuel Tilley to Gananoque was to induce him to put in a good word in the Cabinet meetings for the appointment of D. Ford Jones, M.P., for South Leeds to the vacant senatorship. Sir Samuel has a great influence and to get his ear was the object of the invitation to Gananoque so soon. He was dined (but not wined, we presume) by Mr. Jones at whose residence also a large deputation of South Leeds electors assembled and urgently pleaded the cause of their representative. These matters they kept dark, but the Whig representative heard afterwards the drift of the conversations. Several old staid Tories poured into the ear of the gallant knight remarks of a most eulogistic character, in relation to their member, and one old fellow said: "We put in some strong talk for Mr. Jones." This gentleman anticipates the appointment, as his remarks at a recent agricultural show. He stated that "he expected to retire shortly from the position he had so unworthily filled."

If Mr. Jones is made the Senator, the appearance is good for the return of a Reformer for the constituency so vocated. The yeomanry did not "enthuse" over the coming of Sir Samuel, preferring to remain at home fighting bush fires or ploughing their fields rather than travel to hear the worthy knight boil over with his descriptions of the life inspiring National Policy.

MARINE NOTES.

The number of arrivals during the past few days has been very slim.

A heavy gale blew to-day from the eastward. The water was greatly agitated.

The schooner Gearing is still ashore at the Gull shoal. She has been on the reef a week and no tug or steamer can be secured to go to her rescue. A pretty state of affairs!

The steamer Passport went out last evening for Toronto, but only reached the Ducks when the angry state of the water compelled it to run back here. The steamer Corinthian passed down this morning three hours late.

The steamer "Prince Arthur" will run between Alexandria Bay and Dickinson's Landing, connecting with the "Maxwell," and making a daily line as heretofore. Montreal passengers will take the "Island Belle" at Cape Vincent.

Arrivals.

Schr. A. G. Ryan, Fairhaven, 188 tons coal.

Running the Lachine Rapids.

A Montreal correspondent pooh pooths the recent "feat" telegraphed about all over the continent of a tug running Lachine Rapids with an empty barge in tow. He says that thirty-five years ago the tow boats between Montreal and Kingston and Bytown always ran the Lachine Rapids with their full tow of from four to twelve loaded barges, and these barges generally drew from four to five feet of water, and carried deck loads of pork or flour. Some of the boats were: The Erie, Captain Wells; Porcupine, Captain Chauchoron; Bytown, Captain Kelly; Lilly, Captain Stewart. He saw thirteen loaded barges coming down in tow with the steamer Erie at one time. They were all safely landed in the old canal at Windmill Point, without any great wonder being made of it. It does seem strange in this light that the passage of a light draught tug having but a light barge in tow should be made such a great wonder of in the year 1881. Truly we are not smarter in some things than our daddies were.
