CITY AND VICINITY.

FRIDAY.—Moderate winds, mostly southeasterly to southwesterly, fair to cloudy weather with showers or thunder storms.

JOINING THE BATTERY.—Drill Instructor Sergt. Keeley, of "B" Battery, has secured a number of recruits at Port Hope. William Jones, late of the Governor General's Body Guards, will join the battery band.

BEGINNING FOR WATER.—Water pipes were ordered some months ago to be laid to Louise school, but so far the instruction has not been carried out. In the meantime the children have been scouring the neighbourhood begging for water for drinking purposes.

NO LONGER UNKNOWN.—The second picture of Lake Lomond, entered at the Midland Fair, and unidentified by us, is, we learn, the production of Col. Oliver, Royal Military College. The work is very artistic, in fact such are all his sketches at the exhibition.

RECEIPTS OF IRON ORE.—Great quantities of iron ore are arriving in the city, and the esplanade contains great heaps of it. The owners hope to deliver a large quantity at Charlotte for winter use. The new hoist at the Mississippi mine is doing its work splendidly.

BOWLING MATCH.—Mr. George Mitchell, of the Black Bull Hotel, Toronto, is coming to Kingston next week to try and arrange for a bowling match between ten Toronto men and a like number of Kingstonians. Mr. Mitchell has picked out a good team of well known Toronto bowlers for the contest.

STREET CARS.—The street cars did a rushing business yesterday. All the cars passing up and down Princess street were greatly crowded, some of them so much that on the up trips the horses could hardly draw them. In places some of the passengers had to alight. Several cars ran off the track but were soon put on.

A BAND SERENADE.—This office was serenaded by the Gananoque silver cornet band last evening, though at a time when few of the employees were present to enjoy the music. The performance was very good, though apart from it we knew the band to be in a good state of efficiency and a decided credit to the village whence it hailed.

A BAD SELL.—Quite a sell occurred last evening on Princess street. A merchant had a fire in his cellar for certain purposes and the smoke was allowed to go through a front window. Every few minutes some one would rush into the store to announce that the place was ablaze. Laughter would follow and the excited people retired very much chagrined.

THIRD OF NONSENSE.—Mr. Wm. Taylor, the claimant of a fabulous sum of money, is getting quite demonstrative. In a trenchant manner he addressed the Chief of Police and Police Magistrate this morning, informing them that he would no longer put up with the nonsense to which he had been subjected. His case had to be brought to an issue in some way.

TRIP TO THE CAPE.—To-morrow the last cheap trip of the season occurs on the steamer 'Maud' to Cape Vincent. That should be an interesting consideration, but when it is added that the profits are for the benefit of a most deserving charitable institution the event the move commends itself to the liberal support of the people. We hope the weather will be fine.

N. T. & Q. RAILWAY.—Thirty-seven more labourers have arrived for the Napanee, Tamworth & Quebec Railway, which will increase the number now employed to 300. This week 23 miles of the grading will be completed, leaving five miles of the road, a part of which is the granite cutting near Tamworth. The President asserts that the grading of the road will, without doubt, be completed next week.

OPERA HOUSE.—Again last evening the Keene Company had a fair support but not such houses as on the two previous nights. The play was 'Rip Van Winkle,' in which Keene is a great success. To-night 'Hazel Kirke' will be reproduced; it will be repeated to-morrow evening with the addition of 'Old Solon Shingle' a capital farce. At the matinee on Saturday afternoon 'Uncle Tom's Cabin' will be put upon the boards.

NOT A JOKE.—Some young men, in playful humour, while stopping at the British American Hotel last night, played what they considered a joke, but which is not accepted as such. They took unwarrantable liberties with some of the guests' property, going so far as to throw the boots of several persons out of doors. These could not be found in some cases, and one gentleman left the city this morning with a boot on one foot and a slipper on the other. The offenders will have to foot the bill.

Bonnie's Body Found.

The body of William Bonnie, a young Kingstonian, recently drowned in Toronto Bay, was found yesterday afternoon. The body was much mutilated, much decomposed, and the features were quite unrecognizable. Two pen knives, a bunch of keys, and 40c were found on his body. The remains were placed in the morgue and will probably be sent to deceased's parents in this city. Bonnie was a fine young fellow and much respected by his associates. He was a broom-maker, having learned his trade with Mr. Bates. But a short time before the accident he had gone to Toronto to work in a large factory there.

Patrick Wheeler, an unfortunate fellow from Stone Mills, was retained until the afternoon, and then shipped for home on the "Hero."

Mary McCrotty, of diminutive proportions, was charged with letting her cows run at large. The woman denied the offence and the redoutable Peter Toland took the stand and gave positive evidence. Mary averred that the animals had only been on the street for a short time. She was driving them to the water. Peter was too gallant to resist Mary taking the cattle away from him before they could be impounded. Peter Roach informed the Magistrate that he had served 24 years and 3 months in Her Majesty's service and was bound to tell the truth. He corroborated Mary McCrotty's remarks. He was a second George Washington and repeatedly assured His Worship that "he could'nt tell a lie." The case was dismissed.

Sir D. Nicol's Prize Essay.

The Council of the Provincial Agriculture and Arts Association offered prizes this year for essays on the following subjects, viz., forestry, including the best methods of preserving our present forests and the varieties of trees best suited for forest planting, and the best method of restoring the fertility of partially worn out lands. A public meeting to hear these essays read was held in London on Wednesday evening, the President, J. B. Aylesworth, in the chair. Prof. Bell, of Albert College, Belleville, announced that of four essays on the first subject that of Mr. D. Nicol, of Cataraqui, near Kingston, was considered most meritorious and awarded first prize. The essay was then read by Prof. Bell. It embraced a list of all trees indigenous to the country, with the habits and values of the same, and their adaptability to the different soils. Directions for planting were also given at length, and some valuable information in regard to the destruction of forests by fire and other causes. The essay included a description of shrubs suitable for hedge plants, and the white cedar was highly recommended for that purpose. A mass of valuable information on the subject is contained in the essay.

KINGSTON V. MONTREAL.

The Cricket Match Yesterday a Drawn Virtual Victory for the Local Team—Game Criticized.

The match between the Montreal and Kingston Cricket Clubs was played, according to announcement, yesterday afternoon on the ground of the home team, but on account of the unfavorable weather in the early part of the day but one innings a side could be played and scarcely that, as it was agreed between the captains of the respective clubs that the stumps should be drawn at 5:30 o'clock, and that arrangement cut Kingston out of a victory, as but six runs were required to win the game when time was called and three wickets were still standing. Therefore, what was virtually a victory, had, according to rules, to be called a draw. We think that when a game is so nearly completed it is childish for parties in any contest to take advantage of an accidental technicality, as was done in this case, to evade defeat; for the result is not satisfactory, generally speaking, to either side.

A DECIDEDLY PLEASANT GAME.

The game was a very pleasant and harmonious one, even though short, and the Montrealers established the reputation which had preceeded them of being a fine batting club. Two or three of their best men were unfortunate, having been disposed of for very little, while Guerrier, who is one of the best batsmen in Canada, was on the other hand exceedingly fortunate as he gave an easy chance when he had scored but three runs which was not taken. He gave three other chances afterwards, which were also missed, and this (for him) good luck enabled him to run 31 before he was disposed of by Galloway. Messrs. Dean and McWilliams also showed superior skill in handling the willow. The bowling of Galloway, Ireland and Smith was good as usual, as the analysis shows.

PLAY OF HOME TEAM.

The Kingstonians commenced their innings by sending in Jones and McMurray to the bowling of Badgley and Fraser. The former was splendidly caught out by Pick after having made 7 runs, and McMurray was bowled out when he had made 10 runs in very pretty style. G. Drummond was the next man to make a stand, and exhibited good form throughout his excellent innings of 21 runs. In fact he played as he knows how, and exceeded all his previous efforts this year, good as many of them have been. Greet came next with 8 runs and Galloway close after with 11 (not out) in his usual brilliant style. The rest of the team had no chance to take part, as time was now up thus leaving the game a draw, Montreal having made 75 runs and Kingston 70, with three wickets to fall. This is really a victory for Kingston, as the result have proved had time permitted.

BOWLING OF RESPECTIVE SIDES.

The bowling of the Montrealers was fair, though our fellows did not seem to be at all alarmed at the assaults with the leather by "the little demon," as Fraser is termed on account of his success as a fast bowler. The rain having made the ground too wet to play on both teams went to the British American Hotel to dine, and on their return the crease was found to be in fair condition, and received the encomiums of the visitors at various times during the afternoon. The following is the score:

CHURCH AND DIOCESAN MATTERS.

Scarcity of Missionaries—Several Clerical Changes—Carroll's Handsome Benefit Testimonial.

In the Ontario Diocese of the Anglican Church a $600 grant, made in May last for a travelling missionary in the line of railway above Pembroke, has not been used, no suitable person having applied for the position.

The clerical changes not yet chronicled are that of the Rev. G. J. Low, from Merrickville to Carleton Place, vice the Rev. Rural Dean Grout, M.A., who has been made rector of Lyn; and that of the Rev. R. L. M. Houston, M.A., from Lansdowne Front to Merrickville.

On the 1st October Roslin and Pittsburg will be occupied, the former by the Rev. Mr. Gardner, now of Colborne, diocese of Toronto; and the latter by the Rev. J. H. Nimmo, M.A., who is welcomed back from the diocese of Albany.

The new rector of Smith's Falls, Rural Dean Nesbitt, has signalized his entrance upon the work of the Church there by erecting a handsome and commodious parsonage near the church, and will have it ready for occupation before the advent of cold weather. It is to cost $3,500.

The offerings of the diocese for the benefit of the late Rural Dean Carroll's orphan children now amount to upwards of $1,000.—Church Paper.

A Schooner Sunk.

About 3 a. m. (Detroit, 21st) the schr. Victor, bound down in tow of the tug Jerome, was sunk in collision with the steam barge S. J. Macy, bound up towing the schooners John Burt and Ishpeming. The Victor had 16,000 bush. of wheat from Port Lambton for Kingston. The Victor lies in over eight fathoms of water, about 1,000 feet from the Canada side between Walkerville and Windsor, about opposite the foot of Orleans street, directly in the channel, and forms a dangerous obstruction to navigation.

A FAIR ATTRACTION.

THE BALLOON AT THE CRYSTAL PALACE DID NOT MAKE AN ASCENSION YESTERDAY.

Prof. Meyers Explanation Why he Could Not Fulfill his Engagements—First Time he has Failed to Make Gas in Time—Use of Bad Acid.

The failure of the balloon to make an ascension yesterday afternoon, as announced, was a great disappointment. It was to be the leading feature of the days, and as an extra attraction it drew immensely. That it was the most interesting specialty was indicated by the almost unmanageable crowd which clustered about it. It was with difficulty that Prof. Meyers could operate; such were the encroaches made upon the ground which he wished to have reserved for his own individual use. The process of inflation was commenced at 1 o'clock. The appliances were placed at the south east corner of the Crystal Palace, in shelter of the building, a high enclosure having also been erected to protect the balloon from the wind. The precautions were really unnecessary, the weather being calm and decidedly auspicious for the prospective event. At 2 p. m. the quantity of gas generated was very small; at 3 p.m. the Professor had become quite anxious, and the aeronaut, who had thought of getting away at this time, regarded the outlook as unpromising; at 4 p.m. the assembled crowd had become very restless and the balloon operator very much dissatisfied; at 5 p. m. the fear was expressed that the ascension would not take place, that after sun down the condensation of gas was so rapid that a balloon would not remain in the air for any length of time; at 6 p.m. the jamming multitude were told that the event would not take place, that the "Carlotta" had only been half supplied with gas, and that there was no hope of filling it before night closed in. Murmuring their dissatisfaction the citizens moved away. The balloon was emptied of what gas it contained, and packed away and a general stampede for the city occurred.

INTERVIEWING THE OPERATOR.

The affair was pronounced "a fraud" and so anxious to ascertain the facts, we asked Prof. Meyers,

"How do you account for your failure to make the ascension?"

"All is owing to the quality of acid which I used. Three months ago after making my engagement with the managers of the exhibition, I communicated with Mr. G. S. Hobart, to whom I was referred, in regard to getting a supply of sulphuric acid. I arranged to have it of good quality, 66 degrees. I did not get the acid at once when I called for it yesterday. I believe the material was procured from Dr. H. Skinner, and on the fair ground I discovered that it was only 60 degrees."

"What is the difference for ballooning purposes?"

"A very great deal, just as much difference as between common whiskey and high wines. That which is 66 degrees is doubly distilled and has been called concentrated sulphuric acid."

"Had you taken longer time couldn't you have filled the balloon?"

"I don't think I could have made enough gas for an ascension out of that stuff had I taken all day. I did the best I could when I perceived my difficulty—I procured at the locomotive works a double supply of iron filings, as of course the more surface there is of this for the acid to act upon the quicker is the gas made."

HOW THE GAS IS MADE.

"A description of your process of gas making would interest the public," observed a bystander. "These appliances are regarded very curiously."

"Well, you see I have four casks and a tub. These are first charged with water and several hundreds of pounds of iron filings. When this is done I pour in the acid. The solution instantly springs to a boiling point. The acid attacks it, the oxygen of the water unites with it, and there is a formation of sulphate and oxyde of iron. The hydrogen, then set free, at a temperature of boiling water, passes through pipes into a tub of iced lime water, in which the gas gives up its heat and the sulphur unites with the lime, forming a sulphate of lime. The carbon which exists in the cast iron, and which contaminates the gas, unites with the lime, forming a carbonate of lime, both insoluble compounds. The hydrogen in a nearly pure state then passes through the hose into the balloon. A thousand cubic feet of it will raise 70lbs; a similar amount of coal gas will only lift 35 lbs."

THE ACID VERY FAULTY.

"How much water and acid did you use on this occasion?"

"I had 250 gallons of water in each cask, or 1,000 in all, and six carboys of acid. I never used the 60 degree acid before, never liked it, and wouldn't try it again if I got it for nothing. Dr. Skinner said he could have supplied the acid I wanted had he received the order in time. The directors say, 'Why didn't you consume a larger quantity of acid?' I couldn't do that because my tubs will only take the 1,400 lbs. which I operated upon."

"Have you had to-day's experience many times?"

"Never before, and I have conducted, annually, about 60 ascensions during the past five years. I don't like failures. They are not profitable. The directors of the fair wanted me to try the thing to-morrow, but it would be perfect folly. I don't want to experiment any more with that acid."

TRANSACTION NOT PROFITABLE.

"How about your engagement?"

"According to my contract I can draw the money whether I make an ascension or not. But I am willing to compromise on the payment of my expenses."

OWNS SEVEN BALLOONS.

Prof. Meyers owns seven balloons, four of which are inflated with hydrogen gas, and three are filled with the usual coal gas. The latter are the larger, one having a basket large enough to accommodate six persons. The aeronaut usually takes with her ballast and a barometer; the latter indicates the temperature and motion of the balloon car. Pigeons are sometimes taken along for the purpose of carrying messages to Mr. Meyers from the aeronaut, sometimes after ascending but usually before descending by means of which her direction and location can be traced. The professor was disspirited about his misfortune, and said he would like to return to Kingston and give the people an ascension which they would enjoy. He has patented a balloon steering apparatus, but not yet tried it.

MISS M'BAIN DISPLEASED.

The young lady aeronaut, Miss McBain, a pretty blonde, who, neatly dressed in a costume of blue serge trimmed with white, was on the ground most of the afternoon, when asked what her feelings were, replied:

"I am deeply mortified. I was anticipating a delightful trip, because I am an enthusiastic balloonist and enjoy the enchanting panoramic view which I get of the country as the air ship drifts along with the currents of air. Am I apprehensive of danger? Not at all. There's no danger when one is experienced and an expert. Even with a collapse there is no occasion for alarm. The balloon can easily be converted into a parachute, and the descent made in safety. I had a perilous trip from Redwood, N.Y., the other day. There was a great gale, on account of which the ascension was delayed a day, and when I commenced the voyage I found the atmosphere so foggy and smoky that I didn't know whither I was going. I had some hesitation about descending, because of the bush fires, and when at last I did make the venture I suffered quite a shaking up. The 'Aerial,' which has been up 63 times, and for which I have quite an affection, was not much torn in the drop, but before it was released it suffered considerable damage. The 'Carlotta' I was anxious to try for the first time, and had the wind been favourable I would have gone on to Brockville. This disappointment is quite provoking."

A BUSY PARTY.

Prof. Meyers' party consists of four persons, Carlotta, Rulison, Miss McBain and himself. The two former are now operating in the United States. Rulison is said to be the only one who performs gymnastics while suspended from a hydrogen balloon. Prof. Meyers and Miss McBain, after making ascensions in Connecticut and New York States, will probably go South and give balloon exhibitions in connection with the great cotton show.

The sloop Lilian, from Waupoose, with fruit, arrived here yesterday and returned with a cargo of groceries for outside ports.

The bow part of the steamship 'Campana' is now en route to the city, and is expected to arrive to-morrow. Should the weather be calm the parts, connected by spars, will be towed to Port Dalhousie, where their reunion will take place. FLED TO CANADA.

A Clock Manufacturer Disappears, Taking With Him His Firm's Books.

(N. Y. Times, 15th.)

Charles Baxter, the junior partner in the firm of Josef Scheina & Co., manufacturers of clocks at No. 517 West Nineteenth street, and at No. 144 Centre street, suddenly disappeared last Saturday, and is reported to have fled the country, having taken a large amount of money belonging to the firm. It is said that he has been speculating in Wall street and lost heavily in mining stocks. His partner is unable to learn the extent of his losses, as the fugitive took the cash box and ledger with him. A despatch has been received from him from Canada, in which he said he was about to sail for Europe. Mr. Scheina says that Mr. Baxter during the past two years has falsified the pay rolls, and has taken, as far as he has been able to learn, at least $10,000. The amount may be greater as Mr. Scheina does not know what notes may come in from Wall street. Last week he discovered that the books were wrong, and intending to make an investigation of them put the cash box and ledger in a paper to take home with him. While called to another part of the building Mr. Baxter substituted other books in the parcel for the cash book and ledger. Mr. Scheina did not discover the change until he reached home. The next day he spoke to Mr. Baxter about it, and the latter made some excuse, and subsequently left the office. He has not been seen by Mr. Scheina since. Mr. Scheina believes that he is in Canada still, and has not gone to Europe. Mr. Scheina has published a dissolution of the firm, and announced that no transaction by Mr. Baxter will be recognized. He has also taken measures to protect the legitimate creditors, by giving a chattel morgage covering the machinery for $2,000 to the Bridgeport Brass Company. This will more than pay all the debts, which do not exceed $2,900. This was done in case any claims should come in from Wall street or on notes made by Mr. Baxter. Mr. Scheina continues the business without interruption. He began the business six years ago, and Mr. Baxter was employed as a bookkeeper, and was admitted as a partner on Jan. 1, 1880, having bought out the interest of Mr. Campbell. Mr. Baxter claims to have inherited $25,000, and to have put $15,000 into the business.

Z. Parvoir, at the New York Clothing Store, has received all his fall goods, which consist of Canadian, Scotch and Irish tweeds of the latest patterns, also diagonals and serges of all designs. He is taking orders rapidly for the above goods. His tweeds for his $12 suits are good patterns and heavy bodied goods.

THOROUGH TEST!

IN order to thoroughly test the favorable impression we have made since opening our Branch Boot and Shoe Store in Kingston, we decided after January last to advertise only about one third as much as formerly. The result has been most satisfactory to ourselves, and shows an increase of from 25 to 40 per cent. on each week's sales, as compared with last year. We believe this mainly to be due to our large business connections, enabling us to place goods into the consumer's hands at about prices ordinary dealers pay wholesale for them, and to the fact that we do a STRICTLY CASH TRADE, both in buying and selling. The public are well aware that this CASH SYSTEM offers great advantages to buyer and seller over the old time Credit System. Our stock is now larger and more complete than at any time since opening, particularly in finer lines for Ladies', Misses' and Children's.
