The Reasons Why!

The reasons why the Golden Lion Grocery is always busy, are:

Because it sells the best and freshest goods.

Because the goods are marked direct.

Because it sells retail at wholesale prices.

Because it sells for cash and does not make the cash customer make up the loss that is made by bad debts.

The Caligraph!

The Only Perfect Writing Machine in the World.

THE CALIGRAPH is a machine intended to take the place of the pen. It is operated by touching keys as in playing the piano. The writing, which is always neat and legible, and can be copied in a letter press like ordinary pen writing, is done with wonderful ease and about three times faster than with the pen. Its use is learned in from two weeks to two months' time. It manifolds, giving from three to twenty copies at one impression. It aids composition, should away with bad penmanship, and saves time, labor and money. It is the best known means of teaching spelling and punctuation. These qualities render it indispensable to business men, or all who have writing to do or children to educate.

The CALIGRAPH is 20 per cent. cheaper than the Type writer.

The CALIGRAPH is the writer, what the sewing machine is to the dress maker.

Testimonial from Dun, Wiman & Co.

314 Broadway, N.Y., Feb. 8, '81.

Gentlemen,—We think so highly of the Caligraph that we have already 25 in use, and intend to have as many more as our business will require. Please send one to each of three remote points in which we are just now opening branch offices, viz., Santa Fe, New Mexico, San Antonio, Texas, and Salt Lake City, Utah. Yours very truly,

CITY AND VICINITY.

A LARGE MARKET.—There was a large market this morning, notwithstanding the very unpleasant state of the weather. Prices were low. Poultry predominated.

PROSE.—Strong winds and moderate gales, from the southeast and southwest, rainy weather to-day, partially cloudy to-night, not much change in temperature.

VACANT HOUSES.—It is interesting to note the number of vacant houses in the city, as reported in the proceedings of the Court of Revision. But a fraction of the appeals for non occupation have been as yet received and considered.

TEMPERANCE.—A meeting will be held in the Mission Hall, Princess street, on Sunday afternoon at 4.15 o'clock. Mr. E. Rose will preside. Addresses will be given by the Rev. Thomas Hall, and others.

A REVOLVER ACCIDENT.—George Albertson, who resides near Verona, was carelessly handling a revolver on Wednesday when it accidentally went off, lodging the ball in his hand. The wound is a very painful one.

A FINE HOUSE.—Mr. W. H. Smith is building near Lemoine's Point, for Mr. E. Ferris, a very fine house, which, when finished, will cost about $5,000, and will be the handsomest in that section of the county. It is old style in architecture with tower attached.

RETURNED TO THE PENITENTIARY.—Jno. Nelson, a penitentiary convict, who was taken to Toronto to give evidence against two men accused of burglary, was returned to the prison here this morning by the Deputy Sheriff. His little trip to Toronto was enjoyed.

BY REQUEST of a great many of our citizens Dr. Souvelle will again visit Kingston with a supply of spermometirs and remedies for the cure of catarrh, bronchitis and asthma. He will be at the City Hotel on November 1st for five days only. Sufferers can try his instruments free.

CONGREGATIONAL MEETINGS.—The annual meetings of the Eastern District District Association will take place in this city on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. There will be a public meeting on Wednesday evening in the First Congregational Church, when addresses will be given by several clergymen.

A BIT OF SCANDAL.—A prison official (subordinate) has been reported for serious misconduct in the waiting room at the Grand Trunk depot two or three days ago. Detective Flynn first learned the circumstance from a policeman, and on questioning Constable McLaughlin was given facts which he should have officially reported to his superior some time before.

MOVING WESTWARD.—A young man, who has held a good position here, became infatuated with the idea that by becoming a citizen of the States great luck would follow, and so with that end in view a day or so ago abruptly left his situation and moved westward. His mother is distressed at his departure and will make every endeavor to secure his return.

A NEW TIME TABLE.—The Grand Trunk Railway have issued the Winter time table. The Express train passes here, going east, at 1.55 p.m., and 1.50 a.m. Going west at 4.15 p.m. and 4.37 a.m. Ten minutes are allowed for refreshments at the station. The passenger traffic on the road is very large. Often the Chicago special goes east with crowded cars.

SALE OF FARM STOCK.—One of the most successful sales of farm stock took place on Friday, at the farm of Mr. Wm. McAdoo, near Ballantyne's station. The large number of 46 head of cattle, besides sheep, were sold rapidly under the hammer of that veteran stock auctioneer, Wm. Murray. The stock was young and in very fine condition, and realized satisfactory prices.

RECEIVED AT E. DELANEY'S, 288 Princess Street, a supply of millinery and dry goods, comprising felt and plush hats, bonnets of the newest shape and texture, silk plushes, velvets, flowers, and feathers in great varieties, dress goods of the newest shades and patterns, with an assortment of fancy goods for ladies' and childrens' wars. An inspection to a lot of French kid groves, at 80c per pair, is solicited.

A LOGICAL YOUTH.—The logical conclusions that the Napanee Standard man usually comes to stamp him as a philosopher. The latest is that a Kingston lawyer has given a bouquet of wax flowers, to be presented to the first young lady of the congregation of the Methodist Church who gets married, a sort of sealing wax, as it were. Many a girl has made a fool of herself matrimonially and hasn't any wax to show for it either.

COURT OF REVISION.

Several Appeals Heard But Decisions Yet Remain to be Confirmed.

The Court of Revision, to hear the appeals against the assessment of 1881, assembled in the Council Chamber yesterday afternoon at 3 p.m. There were present: Ald. R. J. Carson and E. H. Smythe, not making a quorum, but the appellants made their statements and decisions were given subject to ratification.

The taxes on some twenty two houses were cut down one third owing to vacancy.

The balance of taxes on Ellen E. Davy's property were remitted as she was unable to pay them.

Jane Richardson, who had paid $20.80 taxes wished the money to be refunded. No action.

Rev. Mr. Spencer appealed against his assessment at $2,800. As a clergyman he claimed $2,000 exemption. The Committee did not consider him exempted on this ground and referred the matter to the City Solicitor.

John McCammon's income assessment reduced from $400 to $200, and a piece of property in Rideau Ward reduced to $200.

The following days were appointed for the further holding of the court:

Mr. J. W. Langmuir, after a visit to various public institutions in the United States, advises the introduction of the Elmira system of prison labour into the Kingston Penitentiary.

It is stated that during her sojourn in England H.R.H. the Princess Louise has had several pieces of glass removed from her car, which had remained there since the runaway accident at Rideau Hall the winter before last.

The name of Mr. R. B. Frahck, Belleville lawyer, is mentioned in connection with the junior judgeship of the county of Hastings.

Methodist Anniversary Services.

The anniversary meetings of the Sydenham Street C. M. Church circuit will be held to-morrow and Monday. Appropriate sermons will be preached by Rev. Dr. Elliott and Rev. Mr. Hagar, morning and evening. A mass meeting of the children will be addressed in the afternoon at 2.30 by the Rev. Mr. Madge. On Monday evening the Rev. Mr. Bond and others will address the children and friends of the school. Several excellent pieces will be sung by the children. All are welcome.

A HEAVY ROBBERY.

A PORTLAND FARMER'S RESIDENCE ROBBED OF $1,000 IN MONEY AND VALUABLES.

A Surprise to the Inmates of the House—Foot-prints of the Thieves—The Work Coolly and Skillfully Done—A Talk With the Loser.

Harrowsmith, Ont., Oct. 28.—A thousand dollar robbery at Harrowsmith! During last night a robbery occurred, which, for coolness and audacity, has not been surpassed in this part of the country. Mr. Hugh Peters, a well-to-do farmer, living in close proximity to this place, retired to bed as usual last evening, and whilst he slept some person effected an entrance through the cellar, thence to the bedroom, and literally removed from under the old gentleman's nose a large old country chest in which he had kept his cash and valuables. The thieves removed the large chest through a very narrow stairway into the cellar and made off with their booty without disturbing the inmates. The contained an old English gold watch, valued at $100 which hung upon the wall. The chest contained in gold $60, in British North America Bank bills, $120, in Canadian silver, $90, and American half dollars and Mexican dollars to the amount of over $100, also notes to the amount of $700 making a loss of over $1,000. The strangest part of the proceeding is the fact that no trace of the chest or trail of the burglars, notwithstanding the diligent effort of the neighbors to discover the least sign as to how it could have been removed. The opinion steadily gains ground that the robbery was perpetrated by persons intimately acquainted with the interior of the house.

LOOKING UP THE DETAILS.

"A thousand dollar robbery at Harrowsmith" commenced the telegram placed in a reporter's hand last evening, and the news gatherer quickly mapped out his course of procedure. Past experience taught him that he could only obtain the details by going direct to where the event had transpired. Securing a horse and buggy a start was made for the house of Mr. Hugh Peters, who has a fine homestead in the township of Portland. About 9 p.m. the city was left the travelling not being as fast as could be desired in consequence of the darkness, fair Luna for a time occasionally peeping from behind the flitting clouds and illumining the way, but ere the journey had been half made) becoming totally obscured. Our representative drove cheerfully along, and not making a halt of any length until Murvale was reached. At the hotel of Mr. A. Seeley he found Mr. Gilbert Purdy, who, taking the "ribbons" piloted the newsman over a route which none but one acquainted with the locality could at night follow without danger of accident. The road leading to Mr. Peters' house, off the main, has on one side a declivity to descend which would land one into Mud creek many feet below. The top of the bank is fringed by trees, until the farm residence is reached, when there is a clearing and from the front of the house a splendid view of the water is obtainable. Our approach was silently made, with a feeling that the disturbance of the inmates, so soon after the plundering of the premises, might not be a pleasant incident. Mr. Purdy tapped at first lightly at the door, but failing to elicit a response, struck a little louder and hollowed "Uncle Hugh!" This alarm was effective. Presently the question came, "Who's there?" and a reply which was so assuring and satisfactory that the door was opened, the visions of shotguns vanished, and we came, when the lamp was lighted, face to face with a man about 60 years of age, corpulent, and of venerable appearance.

INTERVIEWING OLD MR. PETERS.

We announced our mission, and seating himself in an arm chair he conversed quite freely. Said he (musingly), "It puzzles me the more I think of it how they got out that box of mine and without me hearing them."

"Do you think there was more than one robber?"

"To be sure. One couldn't get the chest out. It was about 3½ feet long, and about 18 inches high and wide. I have had it for many years, since I was a boy. And to think of them getting it down that cellar out! Come and see."

The old man took the light and led the way to a hall between the kitchen and an apartment off which his room opened, showing back a door which he unstrapped and unbolted—it had always been left open before and the only door unfastened in the house—and before us was the narrow stairs leading into the cellar. To look at the small trap we would scarcely believe that the missing property could be taken through it, and yet Mr. Peters remarked: "That's the way they went for—I traced the foot prints, those of moccasins and rubbers, used in order that in walking there would be no noise. I am so easily awakened I wouldn't have believed that such a thing could have happened. Here's where the chest stood," he continued pointing to the corner where it had remained for years and the outlines of which were visable upon the floor. Mr. Peters and his wife slept close to it, there being so little space in which to operate that had Mr. Peters suddenly jumped out of bed when the thieves were present he would in all probability have come in collision with them.

LOSS MINUTELY FIGURED OUT.

"How came you to have so much money in the house?"

"Well, you see $100 of it was in American half dollars, which I had ever since the American war. They were then better value than they are now, in fact they were all the go in Canada. When they were cried down, at least when they would only pass at a discount, I didn't care to use them. They were different stuff to what the American half dollars are now, being blue looking and having letters stamped around the edge of them. I had nearly $300 thus, but for farm work disposed of them until I had but $100 left. Then I had a large number of Mexican dollars. These I got for timber many years ago in Kingston, as long ago as 1862. These and the American half dollars were put away in a cigar box, which was tied around with a string. Then in a purse of tanned deer skin I had about $70 in Canadian half dollars and of and of the same there were about $3 in the drawer of the little stand, next to the chest, a total of $76. I think there must have been about $10 in 25c pieces, which were tied up in a rag and deposited in the chest, and from the "standing drawer" my pocket purse was taken, containing $6 or $7 in 10c and 5c pieces. Altogether you see I had over $200 in silver. In bills I had about $[illegible] in two packages, one of which was folded within what my father called his "best companion" (a book of arithmetical tables.) The gold, amounting to $60, consisted of a $20 piece, one of $10, one of $2.50, a Mexican dollar—the first I ever had and upon which I punched my initials "H. P." with an awl when I was engaged in shoe making—and the balance was in British sovereigns. The notes I have cancelled the payment of so that their value I will not lose. They were for the following amounts: $250 (and three years interest) $27 $63 and $63. The money I don't suppose I'll ever see again. My watch, worth $100, hung on a nail at the head of the bed. The thieves, I suppose, heard it ticking, and appropriated it, and also all my letters and receipts and the deeds of my farm, which cannot be of any use to them; but they did not wait to do sorting."

DISCOVERY OF THE BURGLARY.

"How did you first discover your loss?"

"When I went to bed I usually put my pants on the top of the chest. Yesterday morning it was 1 a.m. when he spoke; when I rose I could not find them. I missed the chest, and in feeling about the floor I stepped upon the clothing. It was not yet daylight. On entering the kitchen says I to my wife, 'What did you do with my chest last night?'

"She said, 'Nothing. It was there last night.'

"'Well, said I, 'its moved; I can't find it.' My wife took the light and went into the room, followed by my daughter, and after a thorough search both returned, nonplussed, and said, 'It's gone.'

"'Where to?' I asked anxiously and in surprise, at the same time joining in a search which became general. Then I discovered that the drawer of the little stand was abstracted with the loose currency and other valuables which it contained. The robbery became apparent. I did not think of the watch as yet, but after eating my breakfast I renewed investigations. I discovered that it, too, had been stolen. Being indisposed three or four times during the night I had had occasion to rise, and once, the first time after my retirement, I think, I found the little stand out of its place. I shoved it back to where it usually stood. Now I see why it was changed. The chest could not be removed until it was pushed aside, and the robbers did not wait to re-adjust things when they got the booty."

MONEY AND WATCH MARKED.

"Can you identify the watch and any of the money?"

"Yes, the watch had a scratch on the inside of the case, made by a jack knife, and a little circular hole drilled by an Italian whom I requested to test the quality of the gold. One side of the case, too, was discoloured. Only one of the bills I would know again, one B.B.N.A.; the first of the kind I received about 40 years ago and kept as a nest egg. It was quite yellow with age."

OTHER REMARKABLE FEATURES.

Mr. Peters think it not impossible that he had been drugged. He had no unusual feeling when he awoke, but he does not think he could have slept during the progress of the robbery unless under the influence of some "medicine." He regards it, however, as a mercy that he did not awake, as in that event, the men being in the room, he might have been murdered.

The box has not been rifled and left in the vicinity. There is evidence of its having been pulled over the fence, and some four hundred yards distant there are in the soft muddy ground the impressions of a horse's feet. This discovery changed Mr. Peters' belief that the chest had followed three bee hives stolen from him some time ago and been boated down Mud creek.

No one is suspected, neither stranger nor neighbor. Mr. Peters thinks thieving has been got down to such a science that it does not require a previous acquaintance with the house to enable one to rob it most completely.

A couple of weeks ago the watch dog disappeared. Some said it was poisoned, but Mr. Peters thinks it was stolen.

Our reporter bade Mr. Peters good morning at 2 a.m., and reached home just in time to escape the rain storm. He obtained all the information he wanted, and when finished did not beg of him "not to give it away to the other fellow."

MARINE NOTES.

The steamship Parisian arrived at Rimouski at 7:30 a.m.

A vessel of 13,000 bushels capacity is loading barley for the firm represented by Mr. Eilbeck, at Winburn's wharf, in Pittsburgh. The deliverers there are large. The price is good at 90c, and the quality exceptionally fine.

Struck by a Bar of Iron.

A distressing accident happened to Capt. Robert Williams, of the prop. Lake Ontario, on Thursday. His vessel was discharging railroad iron at Hamilton, when a great bar of it fell and struck the Captain on the breast, cutting him also on the head. He was knocked senseless by the terrible blow he received, and it is thought he has sustained internal injuries. He was taken to the hospital. His injuries are severe and even dangerous. It is not known if he is injured internally. If happily he is not his chances for recovery are good.

School Statistics.

The omission of Louise School made the following statistics incomplete last evening:

OTTAWA DEPUTATION RETURNED.

A Summary of the Report Made to Government, and the Manner in Which They Were Received.

Yesterday afternoon the members of the Kingston deputation, as stated by telegram, waited upon Sir John A. Macdonald in his office, Government House, Ottawa, and were received with the venerable knight's usual courtesy. The interview lasted for upwards of an hour and a half, and all matters presented for consideration were listened to by him very patiently.

The first request presented was in relation to the opening of new streets through government land, and also the extension of Bagot Street through Artillery park. Sir John was prepared to acquiesce if the Minister of Militia was satisfied. Drafts of the proposed extensions will be made and forwarded to the Militia Department, after which a decision may be expected.

A deed of the land on King street, which was desired for an esplanade was asked for, and it was agreed that the title would be looked up. It is probable that the land will be handed over to the city.

Relative to the removal of the harbor shoals it was shown that it would be necessary to secure a grant from Parliament. Preliminary to this Sir H. L. Langevin will be requested to have an engineer examine the shoals and prepare an estimate of what will be required to remove them.

In relation to the renewal of the the Crystal Palace grounds lease the matter was left entirely in the hands of Sir Alexander Campbell. The penitentiary authorities desire to obtain possession of them.

A discussion ensued over the matter of securing such a grant for the Dominion Exhibition here as had been given to Montreal and Halifax. These grants, Sir John said, were for special purposes and he was not in favor of having them continued. However, should the Government decide to give a grant Kingston would stand a good chance of getting it.

In connection with the fisheries petition it was shown that no restriction could be placed on the fishermen relative to the disposal of their catch. The only thing that could be done was to apply for locations and after securing them make such a disposal of the fish as the Council desired.

The deputation asked for a deed of the market battery property but it was not within the power of the Government to grant it, as its simply holds the land in trust. It has to be returned to the Imperial Government when wanted. It is probable that a long lease of the property will be given.

Compensation was asked for for looking after the storm signals. The same arrangements which have been made in other places will be made at Kingston. This matter, as well as that of the lighting of the clock, was left to the discretion of the Minister of Marine and Fisheries.

Sir John asked for copies of the various applications to be made to the Departments. When they come before the Cabinet he said he would strongly support them with the exception of the Dominion Exhibition grant.

The deputation then withdrew. They left Ottawa at 10:30 p.m., after a pleasant sojourn in that city, and arrived here this morning early.

Mr. G. A. Kirkpatrick was quite energetic in looking after the city's interest. He got all possible information from the various Departments that the deputation required. A number of the deputation did not return this morning.

Model Application.

Among the sixty-three applications sent in for situations in the Perth Collegiate Institute, says the Courier, was the following burlesque, forwarded by some would-be wit in Kingston:

DEAR FELLARS,—I see in want of a situation. I see you's want a clasicle master, and I applies for it. Of coorse if you can't let me hev the lay, I can tackle mathematics and english, an I'd take French after school's out. I ain't much in history and geogafry, but I'm allfred smart on spellin. I've had 40 years practice, teachin in the township of Kenebec. Don't think I'll board round any more, kase the corn crop failed last somer, nor oatmeal any better. I'm not marrid, nor anything else rong. If you hev any girls I board with one of yez. I like a member of the Board's dochter better nor any other. I got my M.A. from the Provincial university, and my D.L.D. from Cobocunk. I want $1.75 a day, or I'll take it by the job, which I think is purty cheap. Tell the boys I flail like sixty, and get 'em skeered kinder afore I come on. Which way will I go, and write to me tellen me where Perth is—they call it a college institoot.

Yours in haste,

JACOB KING, M.A., LL.D.

Postscrib.—I forgot to tell yes I'm 6 feet 2 inches. I way 15 stone 12, and was 42 yeer the time of the big fire, but don't tell nobody. I haint got no picturs, but I had a first-rate one wunst, but uncle Jim has it now. Could any of yons board me for 6 and 3 a week. I aint a big feeder, but I likes pancakes in winter. In summer they make a feller scatch.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in Packets and Tins, lb. and ½lb., labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœopathic Chemists, London, Eng."—Also makers of Epps's Chocolate Essence for afternoon use.
