The Reasons Why!

The reasons why the Golden Lion Grocery is always busy, are:

Because it sells the best and freshest goods.

Because the goods are imported direct.

Because it sells retail at wholesale prices.

Because it sells for cash, and does not make the cash customer make up the loss that is made by bad debts.

The Caligraph!

The Only Perfect Writing Machine in the World.

THE CALIGRAPH is a machine intended to take the place of the pen. It is operated by touching keys as in playing the piano. The writing, which is always neat and legible, and can be copied in a letter-press like ordinary pen writing, is done with wonderful ease and about three times faster than with the pen. Its use is learned in from two weeks to two months' time. It manifolds, giving from three to twenty copies at one impression. It aids composition, does away with bad penmanship, and saves time, labor and money. It is the best known means of teaching spelling and punctuation. These qualities, render it indispensable to business men, or all who have writing to do or children to educate.

The CALIGRAPH is 30 per cent. cheaper than the Type writer.

The CALIGRAPH is to the writer what the sewing machine is to the dress maker.

FALL SESSION.—The City Teachers Association will hold their Fall session on Friday and Saturday, 2nd and 3rd December next.

MIDLAND FAIR.—The Frontenac Arts and Agricultural Association is petitioning the Council for a grant to assist in discharging the liabilities of this year.

TICKETS for Dr. Grant's lecture in the Opera House this evening can be had from any members of the Committee, at the Institute rooms, or at the door for 25c.

BEDROOM sets in walnut, and ash and walnut, marble tops sets, easy chairs, dining chairs, tables, bedsteads, solid comfort easy chairs, rockers, etc., are very cheap at Hutcheson's auction rooms, Brock St.

COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE ENTERTAINMENT.—This will take place on Thursday evening, Nov. 3rd, in St. Andrew's Hall. The programme will consist of readings and music, and the prizes obtained at the recent school games will be distributed. The hour of commencement will be 8 o'clock. Admission 10 cents.

UNACCOUNTABLE ABSENCE.—On Thursday last a young man named Alexander Baillie, took his own horse and a butcher cart belonging to Mr. W. David, with the intention of going to Harrowsmith. He has not yet returned, and his unaccountable absence is a source of great anxiety to his parents and Mr. David.

AN INDIAN'S ADVENTURE.—On Friday an Indian raftsman fell off a Kingston raft as it was coming through the Lachine rapids. He could not get on again. Being whirled again a rock by the poddies he climbed the rock which jutted from the water and was rescued on the next afternoon by a canoe from Caughnawaga.

A COMPLAINING ORGAN.—Our contemporary complains that we pointed to an indecent paragraph published in its issue of Friday, but kept the unsavoury matter from the public. We have some respect for our readers, that is our only apology. Graduates of a university should know Latin when they see it. Those who were quickest in detecting the smutty item have no pretensions to classical lore.

MY GERALDINE.—The Montreal Gazette says "My Geraldine" is one of those genial Irish comedy drama where the whole soul and wit of the different characters are fully brought out. Every part is fully sustained throughout and the attention of the audience is never allowed to drop. From the rising to the fall of the curtain the interest taken in the several scenes as they roll softly along is most wonderful.

DEATH OF AN OLD FRIEND.—We learn that yesterday the death of Mr. John Biette occurred at Newcastle, aged over 80 years. Fifty years ago he resided in Kingston, and was recognized as an exemplary citizen. After an absence of many years he spent last Winter with his son in law in this city, and in his walks about the city sought out some of the old land marks. He departs this life full of hope and highly respected.

BRITISH MINSTRELS.—On Monday the 7th inst., Hague's British Minstrels (30 strong) will appear in the Opera House. There is not an American in the company, all the members being of English, Irish, Scotch or Welsh descent. They have been in the country but a few weeks. The people in the United States and Western Canada go into ecstacies over their performance. Mr. Chas. A. Wing, general agent, is now in the city.

HELD OVER HIM.—This morning a young man, who has spent a term in the Central Prison, was before the Police Magistrate charged with drunkenness and assault. He made the statement that when in a state of intoxication he became crazy and did not know what he was doing. Since last Winter he has been living more quietly and for the very good reason that he was liable, on displaying misconduct, to be sentenced on an offence for which he was already proven guilty.

ALL SAINTS' DAY.—The services today in St. Mary's Cathedral were very imposing. Grand Mass was celebrated by the Rev. Father Hogan, assisted by Fathers Twohey and Kelly as Deacon and sub-deacon. His Lordship the Bishop presided. Announcement was made of the Jubilee, which commenced to-day and will continue for two months. A large number partook of Holy Communion. Vespers and the office for the dead will take place this evening. The decorations and music were appropriate to the occasion.

THE BURGLARY TRACED.

The Tray of a Trunk Found Near the Residence of Major King—Links in the Chain of Evidence.

Yesterday the young son of Major King found near his house, in the upper part of the Artillery Park, a portion of the tray of a trunk. It has transpired that on Saturday night a heavy set man entered the store of Messrs. Kitton & Baillie, Princess street, and purchased a small sized Saratoga. This was at 10.45 o'clock. The trunk was taken away at once, a young man who stopped in at the right time helping the purchaser to carry it out of the store. The two men started down Montreal street. They were met near St. Paul's school house by Mr. Wm. Wilson, a clerk engaged at Gunn's Pharmacy, to whom they made a few unimportant enquiries. They were on different sides of the street. Mr. Wilson paid little attention to them, or what they said, and he does not know where they went, but it is believed that they entered the church grounds, there deposited the trunk and afterwards packed it with silk stolen from the dry goods establishment of Messrs. Richmond & Boyden. It is supposed that they had more silk than the trunk would contain, and that in wedging it into the too limited space the tray of the trunk was broken. The loose piece was cast into King's premises, and the roll of silk being still left out, the speediest way of disposing of it, was as shoved under the sidewalk near Holder's. The latter, after being examined and measured and valued, was put where it was found and watched on Sunday night, but no one appeared in search of it. The trunk has been traced to the depot, and the fact ascertained that it was checked for the West. More anon.

Mr. T. S. Carman, of the Belleville Ontario, started for New York last evening. His purpose is to attend a reunion of the Carman Family.

Rev. W. B. Carey, preached to the Governor-General's Foot Guards at Ottawa on Sunday. The discourse was such as became a military chaplin.

The Rev. Father Stafford, Parish Priest of Lindsay has just returned from France, where he had been for the last few months reposing from his labours. He is in the best of health.

R. P. Flower has been nominated for congress in the 11th New York district, by the county, Tammany and Irving hall democracy. The district has formerly been represented by a republican, and State Senator Astor has been nominated by the republicans.

Congregational Association.

The annual meeting of the Eastern District Association took place this morning in the First Congregational Church. The meeting was opened with prayer by the Rev. Robert Brown, of Middleville.

On motion, Rev. John Wood, of Ottawa, was elected Chairman for the ensuing year; Rev. R. Mackay was re elected Secretary-Treasurer for another year; Rev. Thos. Bell was elected a member.

A letter was read from the Rev. W. M. Peacock, conveying his fraternal greetings to the assembled brethren. He said: "I would rejoice to be with you in person, but Our Lord in loving wisdom, calls me to wait and suffer while He supports and comforts me."

Rev. D. Macallum introduced the subject of prayer, remarking that it was a matter which had given him much thought and one on which he was desirous of getting more light. There was more in prayer than most of us have attained to. The subject was afterward discussed by the following brethren: Revs. S. N. Jackson, John Wood, B. W. Day, R. Rawlen and Thos. Bell.

A Bit of Scandal.

Our invariably accurate contemporary states that McLoughlin only told Detective Flynn certain facts which came under his notice when questioned by that official, and that he should have reported them some time before. Mr. McLaughlin asks us to say that he reported them on the instant to the telegraph clerk at the station, to whom he is bound to report in the absence of the agent.—News.

What has the telegraph operator to do with such business? That's a question which Detective Flynn, who reported the matter to the General Superintendant, would like to know. McLaughlin had better keep cool.

All Souls' Day

To-morrow will be the festival of All Souls. It is celebrated by the Roman Catholic Church on behalf of the souls in purgatory, for whose release the prayers of the faithful are offered up and masses celebrated. It is said to have been first introduced in the ninth century by Odilion, Abbot of Cluny; but was not generally established till towards the end of the tenth century. The offices of the day are very solemn, the altars and officiating priests being robed in black. Service in St. Mary's Cathedral will be at 6 and 9 a.m., the latter being a solemn High Mass.

MECHANICS' INSTITUTES.

ORIGIN AND OBJECT OF THEM EXPLAINED—A BRIEF RESUME OF LOCAL HISTORY.

Recalling Circumstances Almost Forgotten—Favours of the Vice Regal Court—An Honourable Record and Name—Work of Some Long Since Passed Away.

On December 2nd, 1824, the first Mechanics' Institute was opened in London. After one or two minor attempts in various towns it was resolved to establish a place in the metropolis where workmen could acquire a knowledge of science and of the principles of those arts on which they were daily employed. Scarcely any books on such matters were then accessible to persons of limited means, and popular lectures were nearly unknown. It is to the credit of Scotland that she took the lead of England in this matter. The Andersonian Institution in Glasgow had a mechanics' class, and the School of Arts in Edinburgh furnished similar instruction. In October, 1824, proposals were put forth establishing a Mechanics' Institution in London, and in the following month a meeting on the subject was held at the Crown and Anchor Tavern. The object was declared to be "the instruction of mechanics at a cheap rate in the principles of the art they practice as well as in the other branches of useful knowledge," and the means for obtaining this object were "lectureships on the different arts and sciences, a library of reference and circulation," a reading room, a museum of models, a school of design, an experimental workshop and laboratory, and a supply of instruments and apparatus. The scheme having been favorably received, the London Mechanics' Institution was formed and opened. The novelty and success of the enterprise were so great that similar institutions sprang up rapidly in various parts of the kingdom. In less than a month thirty-three had been established. They extended far and wide, there being at the very least 800 of them in Great Britain.

Varied Experience and Fortune.

The Kingston Mechanics' Institute is venerable and at the present time highly prosperous. It has had its ups and downs, its hopeful and discouraging prospects, its gains and losses. Its history should be divided into three periods, each of which has been peculiarly marked. Twice it has fallen in popular favour and support, and financially collapsed, only to be revived and strengthened by the introduction of new blood and the exercise of a spirited management. Kingston should have such an institution, and the young artizans of the city do themselves an injustice if they neglect to take advantage of the intellectual benefits to be obtained by having connection with its reading room, its excellent library, and its classes, the members of which are instructed in practical subjects during the winter.

INAUGURATION OF THE INSTITUTE.

We have no official information as to when the first meeting in connection with it was held, but it is on record that on March 14th, 1834, a special committee presented the constitution, which was adopted. This document contained a great many clauses, but those are only interesting which set forth the objects of the institution—"to instruct its members in the principles of the arts, and in the various branches of science and useful knowledge." The London idea was carried out in the following: "A museum of machines, models, minerals and object of natural history shall be collected, and an experimental workshop and laboratory be established. An academy or school for teaching arithmetic, algebra, geometery and other branches of mathematics shall be formed, and lectures on the different sciences given from time to time as the institution may direct." The first prominent workers in connection with it were Messrs. F. M. Hill, (afterwards Mayor) A. McNabb, J. R. Forsyth, P. Rea, A. J. Ferns, Chas. Sewell, W. Eales, J. Meagher, Stephen Miles and J. Butterworth. The first officers of the Institute were:

President—Mr. (afterwards Hon.) John Macauley.

First Vice—Mr. James Nickolls, jr.

Second Vice—Mr. John Butterworth.

Corresponding Secretary—Mr. F. M. Hill.

Recording Secretary—Mr. A. McNabb.

Treasurer—Mr. Wm. Leslie.

The Committee included Mr. John John Counter, the first and most favored Mayor, and Mr. Stephen Miles, the first newspaper publisher, of this city.

RESULT OF AN EPIDEMIC.

In the same year in which the scheme was floated an epidemic broke out in Kingston. It is on written on Sept. 2nd, 1834:

"That the institution is deeply impressed with sentiments of gratitude to Profidence for being now permitted to resume in health and safety the course of proceedings which the presence of a fearful pestilence had for a time suspended.

"That on resuming these operations the members of the institution now present cordially sympathise with those families in Kingston who have been bereaved of their members, and more especially with the families of the many worthy mechanics who have been suddenly swept away by the ruthless disease which recently prevailed and whose loss will be long regretted."

The museum being opened the Secretary in the same month (Sept. 1834) was ordered to correspond with the various contractors on the St. Lawrence Canals, requesting them to preserve and present to the institution such fossils and organic remains, specimens of minerals, etc., as might be discovered in the excavating for the canal. A week later the books collected by the Committee on Literature and Instruction were put into a library and catalogued. The Government was first asked for a grant of money through His Excellency the Governor-General. The grant was made by the Government and arrangements made "to carry into effect its kind intentions." The primary suspension of the Institute occurred in 1838.

THE REVIVAL OF 1840.

In 1840 the institution, defunct for a short time, was re-established on a firmer and more popular basis. The constitution was the same in substance and application. The meeting was held in the Lampton House, which stood on the site now occupied by Messrs. Macnee & Walkem's wholesale house. Mr. D. Urquhart, occupied the chair, and Mr. Oliver Mowat, (present Premier of Ontario) acted as secretary.

The following officers were those who gave fresh life to the institution:

President—Mr. J. R. Forsythe.

First Vice President—Mr. Thomas Masson.

Second Vice President—Mr. Walter Eales.

Treasurer—Mr. S. Mucklestou.

Recording Secretary—Dr. McLean.

Corresponding Secretary—Dr. Ed. J. Barker.

Committee—Messrs. F. Milo, R. Matthews, W. Leslie, H. Sharpe, George Webster, Oliver Mowat, sr., Oliver Mowat, jr., Alexander (now Sir A.) Campbell, James Watt, James Powell, Adam Main.

In August of the same year, when the members of the Institute numbered 275, an address was prepared and presented to the Governor General reminding him that he "should encourage societies which are established solely for the improvement of the minds and morals of the public." In his reply His Excellency remarked: "In a commercial town like Kingston societies of this description have a peculiar value, by elevating the character of the artisan and stimulating his exertions."

PATRONAGE OF GOVERNORS GENERAL.

In July, 1841, a Committee was appointed to wait upon Lord Sydenham to ask him to become the patron of the Institute, but at a subsequent meeting it was reported that the Committee could not see His Excellency in consequence of his severe illness. A month or so later it was "Moved by Mr. F. Milo, seconded by Mr. Sutherland, that the Secretary be directed to write to the Mayor of Kingston, informing him that the members of the Institute desire to join in a body the funeral procession of the Governor General."

On Jan. 5th, 1842, the Institute sent an address to the new Governor General, Sir Charles Bagot, who became its patron. Sir Charles Metcalfe, in 1848, was also presented with congratulations, and in his speech said:

"I estimate highly the value of your institution, and shall be happy to promote its admirable objects by every means in my power."

He gave it a handsome donation.

LIST OF ITS OFFICERS.

The principal office bearers for the second period of the Institute's existence were as follows:

Presidents—Mr. John R. Forsythe, 1840; Hon. J. Macauley, 41, 42, '43.

First Vice-Presidents—Mr. Thomas Masson, 1841; Mr. Oliver Mowat, '42; Mr. R. Matthews, '43.

Second Vice-Presidents—Mr. John Vincent, 1841; Mr. Walter Eales, '42; Mr. F. Shing, '43.

Treasurers—Mr. C. W. Brent, 1841; Mr. A. Macalister, '42, '43.

Recording-Secretaries—Mr. (now Dr.) J. A. Henderson, 1841; Mr. G. L. Mowat, '42; Mr. S. D. Fowler, '43.

Corresponding Secretaries—Mr. F. M. Hill, 1841; Mr. S. Rowlands, '42, '43.

To-morrow a summary of the Institute's operations, from 1850 until the present year, will appear.

A GARBLED STATEMENT.

A Falsehood Fastened Upon Our Contemporary—"Truth Crushed to Earth Shall Rise Again."

On Friday evening our contemporary printed a long article, giving its version of an interview with Detective Flynn, anent the indecent assault case and embracing references to the Whig which we know to be false. We published on the following day a denial of the statement which reflected upon this paper. At the same time we asked Detective Flynn to read over what an unscrupulous reporter had said about him and others and give his opinion thereon. He has sent us the following:

DEAR SIR.—That part of the News article headed "Convincing Proof," does not give correctly my statement to the gentleman who called on me last Thursday night as the representative of that paper. It says:

"The detective tells us that he proved to the interviewer (the Whig) is not only that our account of what transpired was truthful in all essential particulars of the case, but that it was absolutely the reverse of sensational, etc."

What I did say was that the conduct of Mellroy, as described in the News was not too highly coloured, but in the matter of the news agent every word was false, and McLaughlin's statement ought not to have been published as by it the scoundrel (Mellroy) was made aware that the authorities were conscious of his rascally conduct and, no doubt, knowing that he would be pursued and arrested if he remained in Canada, he crossed the line to the United States.

Yours very truly,

T. FLYNN, Detective.

P.S.—I have read the article in the Whig of Friday last headed "A Detective's Investigations." It is true in every particular.

T. F.

The contradiction is most complete and satisfactory. We have but to add that when presumptous understrappers have attacked statements in the Whig they undertook contracts which invariably proved too heavy for them. This is not the first time we have fastened the guilt of fibbing upon the News, and present tactics being continued it may not be the last time. When men know what truth is, and deal however sparingly with the article in newspaper controversy, then, and not until then, need they chirp out an appeal for gentler treatment.

Police Court Items.

James Bolger paid $2.85 for allowing his pigs to run at large. Defendant said they had broken out of the pen.

Two boys, who had fired stones at an old man, were allowed to depart on payment of costs. Their fathers were requested to handle them with less mildness. "Spare the rod and spoil the child," in this case had verification.

Ninety-six persons registered at the police station during the past month. Few were incarcerated for serious crimes.

A liquor charge will be heard before the Magistrate on Thursday. It was adjourned to-day.

Catharine O'Loughlin's cow recently got upon the lawn in front of Mr. McIntyre's residence and did great damage. The complaint against her was this morning withdrawn on defendant paying 85c. costs.

A WORKE SERVICE.

Report of the Women's Christian Temperance Union—A Review of the Last Year's Work.

(By a Contributor.)

We think we express the feelings of all present when we say that our hearts are filled with gratitude to our loving heavenly Father for permitting so many of us to assemble again at an annual meeting. Our work in the cause of temperance has been carried on in our midst for another year. There may be few apparent results to mention, but we trust that the continual bringing of the subject before the minds of the people will have an influence and also help in forming the thoughts and principles of the rising generation and thus eventually bear fruit. The weekly gospel temperance meetings have been continued, and from January to April a comfortable tea was given before the service began. The total attendance during those months was six hundred and seventy, being an average of sixty-one per night. The cost of maintaining the same was $29, or the trifling amount of 4½c. per head for each tea. When we consider how rarely those who came had such warmth and comfort except when there, it makes us feel that though it was an effort to have them kept up regularly, it was worth the trouble to see those weary,

CLOUDED FACES LOOK BRIGHTER

if only for one hour a week. During the whole of the summer the meetings have been continued. Of course in the busy season the numbers were small, but the people begged that they should not cease, and we felt it was only right to yield to their request knowing the promise of old "Where two or three are gathered together in my name there am I in the midst of them." The members of this society, in common with all other Christian workers in the city, mourn the death of Mrs. Macdonnell, one of their most valued members whose zeal in the cause of temperance, Christian liberality and wisdom in council will cause her to be greatly missed. We as a society feel much indebted to the trustees of the Lancasterian School for permitting us to use their buildings for all our meetings. All the resident ministers of the city, many of the students and others, have kindly assisted in making these meetings pleasant and profitable. The members of the society feel they can hardly express their debt of gratitude to one of their number who kindly undertook to be their district visitor since the month of April, her work having been much blessed, far beyond our hopes. Two days of each week were spent in going about among the poor and neglected, urging upon them the importance of total abstinence, domestic economy, regularity in sending their children to school, and saving of money when wages were high and expenses small. To better appreciate what the kind of work is that has been done we will give a few

EXTRACTS FROM THE VISITOR'S REPORTS.

"24th May—Visited a house in which were four adults so intoxicated that neither couple could tell me to whom a boy of ten, who was in the room belonged.

"Visited a family where there were five grown women who were able to work but who would not.

"A family who are now saving a little money, when I first called five months ago were so destitute of comforts that there was only one chair in the house.

"A family who have now a Savings' Bank account of $50 were helped last year from the Poor Relief.

"Sixty-seven have signed the pledge during the last five months."

A CHRISTIAN WORK TO DO.

We do not consider the signing of the pledge any positive proof of a change of life, but we do maintain that with some people under certain circumstances it has proved a great assistance.

Many children have been taken from the streets and sent to school, but we can scarcely hope that this will be continued during the severity of winter unless timely aid in the way of clothing and constant supervision are given by the members of the society. It is, therefore, urgently pressed home upon all our members, the need that each one if possible for the winter months would undertake the oversight of one or two families, as our kind visitor feels that during the winter she cannot overtake all that has to be accomplished. We little know how much good a kind word of encouragement or sympathy may do in aiding those whose lot is clouded by many misfortunes, suffering, and too frequently vice to begin a new life, with higher aims, nobler, purer, thoughts and hopes that will reach beyond this short uncertain life.

Let us then be up and doing
With a heart for any fate
Still achieving, still pursuing
Learn to labour and to wait.

"Go west young man! Go west!" But before going get accurate information about the country.
