SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE
For CATARRH
INSTANTLY RELIEVES.
6,000 FEET ABOVE THE SEA.
The following testimonials are from Messrs. J. O. Bosworth & Co., Denver, Col., large and influential druggists. They report unprecedentedly large sales and universal satisfaction. No other disease is so alarmingly prevalent in that region. They speak of the following gentlemen as among their best citizens:
SORELY AFFLICTED.
J. O. Bosworth & Co., Denver, Col.: Gentlemen,—Prompted by a fellow-feeling for those afflicted with Catarrh, I wish to add my testimony in behalf of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH. I have been sorely afflicted with this fearful disease for four years, and have tried every known remedy without avail, until I bought a bottle of the above CURE from you, which gave me almost instant relief. It being a constitutional as well as a local remedy, I believe it to be all that is claimed for it, a Radical Cure for Catarrh.
Very truly yours, WM. AMETIVE,
Denver, Sept. 28, 1878. with Jenson, Bliss & Co.
GREATLY AFFLICTED.
Messrs. J. O. Bosworth & Co., Denver: Gentlemen,—I take pleasure in recommending SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH to all who are afflicted with this disease. I was greatly afflicted with it for a long time, and cured it with two bottles of the above CURE. About a year afterwards I was again taken with Catarrh quite severely, and immediately sent for another bottle, which fixed me all right, giving me relief from the first dose. I am confident that this remedy will do all that is claimed for it, and more too. Wishing you success in its introduction, I am very truly yours,
A. W. SMITH,
Denver, Oct. 4, 1878. of Smith & Doll.
TRIED EVERYTHING.
Messrs. J. O. Bosworth & Co., Denver, Col.: Gentlemen,—I have used SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH, and it has given perfect satisfaction. I have tried almost everything, and it is the only thing that has given me relief. I therefore take pleasure in recommending its use to all afflicted with Catarrh of any kind, and offer this as my testimony to its benefits.
Very truly,
Denver, Oct. 1, 1878. W. S. DECKER
REV. J. H. WIGGIN SAYS:
One of the best remedies for Catarrh, say, the best remedy we have found to a lifetime of suffering, is SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE. It is not unpleasant to take through the nostrils, and there comes with each bottle a small glass tube for use in inhalation. It clears the head and throat so thoroughly that, taken each morning on rising, there are no unpleasant secretions and no disagreeable hawking during the entire day, but an unprecedented clearness of voice and respiratory organs.—Rev. J. H. Wiggin, in Dorchester (Mass.) Beacon.
Each package contains Dr. Sanford's Improved Inhaling Tube, with full directions for use in all cases. Price, $1.00. For sale by all Wholesale and Retail Druggists and Dealers throughout the United States and Canadas. WEEKS & POTTER, General Agents and Wholesale Druggists, Boston, Mass.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, JULY 30.

ALONE AMID THE RYE.

Amid the golden stooks of rye,
In dreary peace content I lie,
Steeped in the life-warm summer sun,
The equal heir of earth and sky.

The languid breeze that stirs the grain,
(Now gold, now bronze, now gold again,)
Ripples the current of my blood,
And stirs quick fancies in my brain.

Sweet summer scented wind caress!
This tender touch, this gentle stress
More deeply move than hands that cling
And passion fevered lips that press!

My soul, doubt-strung, with questionings torn,
In shadowy conflicts, wounded, worn,
Leaves dreary quest, and longs to share
The golden sense of life new born.

The seed within the furrow strewn
From blade to ear, from ear to corn,
One life evolves, distinct and clear,
Forever climbing, never higher!

O Heart! be still at Nature's feet:
O prisoned wings that ceaseless beat,
Stir me no more with tender pain,
But leave me to her influence sweet

Touched with thy fire, celestial Sun,
My tangling pulses switter run;
I bask and glow, with ardor filled,
And dream once more the conquest won!

—Sunday Afternoon for August.

ELI PERKINS ON PUNCTUATION.

SOME LUDICROUS BLUNDERS THAT HAVE COME UNDER HIS OBSERVATION

One-half of the mistakes in telegrams result from bad punctuation. The operator always runs the message straight along, putting in neither capitals nor punctuation marks.

The other day a Chicago newspaper received this telegram which, with that any punctuation, read very queerly:

"The procession at Judge Hunt's funeral was very fine and nearly two miles in length as was also the beautiful prayer of Rev. Dr. Swing from Chicago."

I found the following paragraph in a Wisconsin newspaper:

"A sad accident happened to the family of John Elderkin on Main street yesterday. One of his children was run over by a waggon 3 years old with sore eyes and pantaloons on which never spoke after ward."

Also this

"A cow was struck by lightning on Saturday belonging to Dr. Hammond who had a beautiful calf four days old."

One morning after I had lectured in Lacrosse, Wis., I took up the morning paper and was surprised to read this startling paragraph:

"George Peck, an intemperate editor from Milwaukee, fell over the gallery last night while Eli Perkins was humorously lecturing in a beastly state of intoxication. The coroner's jury brought in a verdict that Mr. Peck's death was caused by his sitting too long in a cramped position listening to Mr. Perkin's lecture which generally produces apoplexy in the minds of the jury."

A Nebraska newspaper thus punctuated a paragraph about their new school house:

"Our new school house, which was burnt last week was large enough to accommodate 300 pupils four stories high. The school house will be rebuilt by a brother of the former architect who died last summer on a new and improved plan."

These instances of bad punctuation should warn every one who send a telegram or writes a paragraph for a newspaper to see that it is properly punctuated.—ELI PERKINS.

CAUGHT BY A KISS.

HOW A SENTIMENTAL BURGLAR WAS APPREHENDED.

(Witness.)

Early on the morning of the 11th instant several burglars repaired to the residence of Mr. Narcisse Menard, No. 388 Richmond street. After affecting an entrance they wandered through the house, collecting all the valuable clothing they could find, rolled it up and threw it out of the window that they might have it convenient if surprised. They soon found their way into the bedroom where Mr. Menard and his wife were asleep. Here they found a watch and chain, a gold ring and several other valuables, of which they quietly took possession. The last of the burglars to leave the room had to pass by the bed where Mrs. Menard lay asleep. He paused for a moment, and then resolved to wind up his programme by the theft of a kiss. He stooped down and kissed 'the sleeping beauty,' who was awakened partly by the tender impression, and partly by the stifling odor of whiskey. A flickering lamp in the adjoining room shed a faint light upon the scene of this truly amusing romance, and as Mrs. Menard opened her eyes, the first object which met them was the burly face stooping down to kiss her again. She recollected having seen the face before. A scream awakened her husband and surprised the burglar, who fled, the enraged husband at his heels. The description was given to the detectives, and from it Constable Beauchemin, who is to receive a medal from the Corporation, yesterday evening arrested one Theophile Bissonnette, on St. Antoine street. When taken before Mrs. Menard he was instantly recognized as the robber of the kiss, and was remanded by the Police Magistrate.

Desperate Fighting.

One of the reasons why the Zulus fought so well was that they really had no other choice but death or victory. If a Zulu regiment returned unsuccessful from battle, no matter how bravely it may have fought, the punishment for defeat was death. It is said that whole regiments, consisting of some thousands of warriors, have been sacrificed in this way—massacred in cold blood for the crime of defeat. The Zulu fought with a rope round his neck, and naturally preferred to die on the field of battle than to be executed for cowardice. While this system had its advantages and caused the Zulus to fight with wonderful determination, it tended to produce desertions, and during the latter weeks of the campaign many of Cetywayo's warriors went over to the enemy.

PAIN-KILLER. The testimonial borne to the efficacy of this valuable medicine are sufficient to warrant its introduction into every house. Our own opinion is that no family should be without a bottle of it for a single hour. In flesh wounds, aches, pains, sores, &c., it is the most effectual remedy we know of. A bottle will last for a very long time, and its low price places it within the reach of all.—News, St. Johns, C.E.

CANNIBALISM.

A WHOLE FAMILY SLAIN AND EATEN.

(Saskatchewan Herald.)

Our Edmonton correspondent mentions the arrest of a Cree Indian, whose name being translated signifies the Swift Runner, on the horrible charge of having killed and eaten his whole family—consisting of his mother, brother, wife and five children—during the past winter. Since the letter was mailed we have received some further particulars, which unfortunately go far to prove the truth of the report.

Sub-Inspector Gagnon with a party of the police took the prisoner to the scene of the alleged atrocity, and there found the bones of all the family but one. They showed that they had been cooked—some by boiling and others by roasting—thus establishing the charge of cannabalism; but as to the charge of murder, we have not heard of any other than strong presumptive evidence of his guilt. The police were unable to find the remains of one of the victims, and the prisoner refused to say anything about it—a circumstance which is naturally construed to his disadvantage.

The prisoner does not deny the accusation of having eaten the bodies, but says that his mother, brother and the children died of starvation, and that his wife, weary of the suffering she was enduring, shot herself. The charge brought against him, on the other hand is, that he killed his whole family, dried their flesh, and ate it at his leisure.

If the prisoner does not prove to be of unsound mind—and we have not heard that he is—he exhibits a degree of thorough-going depravity that would secure him a high position near the thrones of Burmah or Dahomey. When the police found the remains he put his fingers into the eyeless sockets of a scull, and coolly remarked, 'this was my wife.'

The scene of the tragedy is only about seventy five miles from a settlement, and even if the hunt had failed and there were no friendly Indians near at hand, it was not very far to go for aid.

From a gentleman who came down on the Lily we learn that the Swift Runner had a preliminary examination before Colonel Jarvis on Monday last, when he confessed to having killed and eaten his wife and family, but denied having so disposed of his mother and brother. He says they left his camp and he does not know where they are at present.

Courtney and Hanlan.

We have high authority for affirming that friends of Courtney are making strong effort to arrange a match with Hanlan. The only barrier seems to be the timidity of Hanlan's friends, who, of course, do not say openly that Hanlan would be in any serious danger of being beaten, but by all their actions give this impression. It is certain that Courtney's friends will accept nothing but an acceptance or a denial. They will not be satisfied with any answer which is not explicit and unqualified, and will concede everything that can reasonably be asked.

There seems to be no doubt that Hanlan is afraid of Courtney, and that he will not enter a race with him if he can avoid it. It would have to take place in American waters, of course, since the first one was in Canadian waters, and it is understood that Mr. Hanlan's friends can have their choice of these places.

Our informant says Courtney is not anxious to make a match with any man but Hanlan, and is in earnest to meet him once more.—Syracuse Journal.

Quebec Finances.

The Quebec finances are not in a flourishing condition, but the people of the Province may congratulate themselves that they are not worse off than they are. The Mail the other day blamed Mr Langelier for getting into a muddle, which is on a par with its criticism generally of opponents. While Mr. Langelier has not displayed any Gladstonian power in handling the finances, the scope of his ability has been limited by the circumstances in which he found himself. The pace to ruin is a gallop—the return to prosperity is a crawl. His predecessor did the galloping, and Mr. Langelier has to be content with crawling. With greater experience and a clearer field he will make more rapid and satisfactory progress. Meantime it is subject to congratulation that the headlong rush to ruin has been arrested.—Telegram.

THROW PHYSIC TO THE DOGS.—When Mr. and Mrs. Macbeth committed that little indiscretion about King Duncan, and the lady took to walking in her sleep it is very doubtful that Mr. Macbeth would have exclaimed, 'Throw Physic to the dogs,' if the attendant had presented him with a bottle of Scott & Bowne's Palatable Castor Oil. It is one of the best medicines extant, as the old prejudices against the nauseating Properties of castor oil are done away with by the fact that this palatable castor oil is true to the name and is really agreeable to the taste. Price 25 cents.
