MONDAY EV'NG, APRIL 15, 1878.

JUST ARRIVED.

There came to port the other night
The queerest little craft,
Without an inch of rigging on;
It looked, and looked, and laughed.

It seemed so curious that she
Should cross the unknown water,
And moor herself within my room—
My daughter, O my daughter.

Yet, by these present, witness all,
She's welcome fifty times,
And comes consigned to Hope and Love
And common metre rhymes.

She has no manifest but this;
No flags float o'er the water;
She's rather new for British Lloyd's—
My daughter, O my daughter!

Ring out wild bells—and tame ones, too;
Ring out the lover's moon;
Ring in the little worsted socks;
Ring in the bib and spoon.

Ring out the muse; ring in the nurse,
Ring in the milk and water;
Away with paper, pens and ink—
My daughter, O my daughter.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

INTRODUCING McGINNIS — RESUMING THE QUEBEC CRISIS DEBATE.

(Globe)

FRIDAY—Dr. McInnes, the member elect for New Westminster, was introduced. He was led to the table by Messrs. Dewdney and Macdonald (Centre Toronto), and loudly cheered by the supporters of the Government, Mr. Plumb and one or two others joining in the applause.

Mr. Langevin then resumed the debate on the Quebec crisis. He charged Mr. Laurier with repudiating the traditional principles of the Liberal party, and sought to establish a contrast between the French Liberals of Canada and the Liberals of England. He charged Reformers with deserting their principles, and then applied himself to combating the argument of the Premier that the Dominion Parliament should not interfere in the premises. He proceeded at length to discuss the constitutional question involved in the late events, and was speaking until at half-past five when he became unwell, and the Premier proposed to take recess.

After recess, Private Bill business having been disposed of, including the second reading of the Lyons Divorce Bill, Mr. Langevin resumed his speech. He concluded at half-past nine with an energetic protest against the acts censured in the resolution. Mr. Jette followed. He delivered an elaborate argument in defence of Lieut.-Governor Letellier, reading copious extracts from the authorities bearing on his view of the matter. He urged that the position of a Canadian Province was altogether different from that of an ordinary British Colony, and that therefore the rule justifying Imperial interference in the one case would not apply to the action of the Federal Parliament in the other. He pointed out that the most embarassing consequences must ensue if it should happen that the Dominion Parliament censured those whose actions were approved by the electors of Quebec at the polls. So far from censuring Lieut.-Governor Letellier, he believed he would receive the gratitude of the people for averting the evils that threatened them. Mr. Devlin then took the floor. He said as a matter of fact the House was trying an appeal from the late Ministers of Quebec. The resolution, however, was a very equivocal one, and probably intended to avoid the direct issue it professed to raise. It was the duty of the House to the people to stamp out every effort to deceive them, and that fate must await this effort. While Messrs. Masson and Langevin would consign Mr. Letellier's name to infamy all the resolution said really was that his proceeding was unwise, that he had committed an error of judgment. He maintained the right of the Sovereign to dismiss his Ministers for sufficient cause, and read, amid the cheers and laughter of the House, extracts from documents relating to the quarrel between Dr. Tupper and his political friends in Nova Scotia and Lord Mulgrave the Governor of that Province, in 1860, which showed the doctor's opinions at that time to be decidedly adverse to such views as his leader now expressed. Mr. Devlin then entered into an eloquent defence of Mr. Letellier, and denounced the readiness with which Toryism is ever ready to assail the Crown when its own selfish interests are to be served. He drew a vivid picture of the dangers into which the DeBoucherville Government had plunged the Province, and ridiculed the Conservative pretensions of anxiety for the Constitution, while really only bent on electioneering advantages. He closed a most able speech amid general applause. Mr. Palmer spoke in favor of the resolution. Mr. Baby followed on the same side. Mr. Laflamme opposed the motion and defended the French Liberals from the aspersions cast upon them by some of the Conservative speakers.

The House was still sitting when we went to press.

A Scene in the House.

(Free Press, Saturday.)

A most remarkable scene was witnessed in the House of Commons last night. About 2 o'clock, Mr. Huntington finished his speech, and efforts were made to secure a division, but the Opposition resisted it. Mr. Macdougall (Three Rivers) was put up, and moved the adjournment of the debate. Mr. Mackenzie objected to this on the ground that at this late period of the session two days was amply sufficient time in which to discuss even this important question. The motion was lost, and Mr. McDougall proceeded to make a most remarkable speech, partly in French and partly in English. He proceeded, amid indescribable confusion, until about 4 o'clock, when he was called to order, having already moved the adjournment of the debate, which was lost; and consequently had no right to proceed. Mr. Cimon then followed, reading extracts from all sorts of books. Scarcely a word could be heard, as there was a rapping of desks, blowing of trumpets, singing, etc., the like of which has never been before seen in the House. The Speaker appealed to the House to come to some arrangement, and prevent such an unseemly exhibition. Neither side was willing to give in, and cups of coffee soon afterwards made their appearance on the desks of several of the members, there being an evident determination to "sit it out." At 5:20 Mr. Cimon moved, seconded by Mr. Costigan, that the House do now adjourn. Mr. Macdougall (Three Rivers) then got up, surrounded with a pile of papers and documents. Hon. Mr. Mills complained that the speech was not being properly reported, considering that would be its worst condemnation. Mr. Macdougall sat down at 6 o'clock, and Mr. Plumb followed. He also met with a serenade of desk slamming and interruptions generally. Sir John Macdonald demanded order, and promised a speech from himself. Mr. Mackenzie retorted, and Mr. Plumb continued, amid the most frightful noises. The singing of a raftsman's song served to relieve the monotony of the affair.

This sort of thing was kept up throughout, Mr. Plumb reading page after page from a voluminous book, with 'Auld Lang Syne,' 'Marseillaise,' and other accompaniments.

Mr. Macdonell (Inverness) called attention to the fact that the hon. gentleman (Mr. Plumb) was interrupting the music.

Mr. Plumb was interrupted at one period by Mr. Campbell, Dr. Tupper's goose, as he is called, who advanced to the Clerk's table, and, in an excited and incoherent manner, proceeded to address the House, waving his hat in the air as the members cheered him on. Mr. Mackenzie had to ask that the Sergeant-at-Arms should keep order before the unruly member retired. When Mr. Plumb concluded, he was followed by Mr. Methot, who spoke in French, and at 8 o'clock Mr. Domville, the famous, rose and begged the attention of the House while addressed them for an hour or two.

Messrs. Orton, Ouimet, Costigan and Hon. Mr. Smith continued the debate. It is unquestionably the policy of the Opposition to talk against time, and cause the depate to be of necessity adjourned until Monday.

Lady Macdonald sat out the debate until after daylight and Mrs. Mackenzie till an early hour.

THE LATE BOSS TWEED.

Poor "Boss Tweed" died in Ludlow street jail Friday, in his 56th year. A native of New York, he learned the trade of a chair maker. His first public office was that of Alderman, to which he was elected in 1752-3; two years later he became a member of Congress; next year Chairman of the Board of Supervisors and School Commissioner; for nine years Deputy Street Commissioner; from 1867 to 1871, a State Senator, and in 1870 was made Commissioner of Public Works, when with the aid of a pliant ring of tools of both political parties, New York was robbed of millions of dollars. Large sums of the money thus stolen were spent in corrupting the Legislature and entrenching himself and his ring, until it required a bold man to say him nay. Owing to his refusal to pay a very corrupt bill of Sheriff O'Brien, the ex-Sheriff had copied by a friend in office certain bills which showed corruption on their face, and as Tweed had offended a certain press of the city by refusing to pay large bills for advertising, O'Brien found a willing co-adjutor, and the bills were made public. Tweed was at that time the head of the Democratic party in the State. Nevertheless to their honour be it said, Charles O'Connor and Samuel J. Tilden had the courage, patriotism and astuteness necessary to expose the frauds, follow up the sinuous courses through which the spoils had been divided, and drive Tweed to the wall. In 1871 he was arrested in a civil suit for malfeasance, but bailed in $1,000,000. In December of the same year (1872) he was arrested on a criminal proceeding, and on trial in January following, the jury disagreed. But on a second trial in November he was convicted, found guilty on twelve counts, and sentenced to imprisonment for one year on each count. The Court of Appeals decided that the accumulated sentence was illegal, and after a twelve month spent on Blackwell's Island, he was released. He was at once arrested on a civil suit, and while temporarily at home, in charge of a sheriff's officer, he made his escape. His adventures and subsequent capture and return by a United States steamship, sent to Spain for that purpose, are of too recent occurrence to need detailing here. Since that time he has been confined in Ludlow street jail, and has now gone to "that bourne from which no traveller returns."

THE GREAT BOAT RACE.—The greatest event in aquatic matters in England took place Saturday morning, namely the annual boat race between eight representing the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge, on the Thames from Putney to Mortlake. An interest of unusual magnitude attached to the event this year, as the score stood seventeen for Oxford to sixteen for Cambridge, with three undecided races. In 1849 there was a foul, in 1859 Cambridge's boat sunk, and last year Cambridge was winning easily when an oar broke near the finish, enabling Oxford to get up and make a dead heat. Betting this year was considerably in favor of Oxford, which crew showed the best in practice, and they have justified the predictions of the touts by winning easily. The result therefore places Oxford in a majority of two races, which lead they will in the future struggle to maintain; and the Cambridge men, who have had the frowns of fortune to contend against heretofore, will strive as desperately to reduce.

A CARD.

TO all who are suffering from the error and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a receipt that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. Too often a cold or slight cough is considered a very ordinary, trifling affair, just as well left to go as it came, and hence systematically neglected until a simple curable affection is converted into a serious pulmonary disease. The more prudent, aware that a cough or cold should never be trifled with, promptly use Bryan's Pulmonic Wafers which have sustained their reputation for over 30 years. They are always efficacious, and exert a most beneficial influence on all the bronchial and pulmonary organs. Sold by all medicine dealers at 25c per box.

Cure Your Horses—It is to the interest of all who own horses to keep them in a healthy and sound condition; experience has proved that Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy is the most efficacious and has been used by thousands who will cheerfully confirm this statement. For heaves, coughs, colds and all diseases which affect the wind of horses it has no equal, nor is it equalled as a condition or regulating medicine; it purifies the blood, corrects and improves the appetite and softens the skin; in fact, so great is the improvement in the condition and appearance of the animal as to have led many to doubt if it could be the same horse. Remember the name and see that the signature of Hurd & Co. is on each package. Sold by all medicine dealers.

ELECTRICITY! THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL!—WORTH TEN TIMES ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD.—Pain cannot stay where it is used. It is the cheapest medicine ever made. One dose cures common sore throat. One bottle has cured chronic rheumatism. Fifty cents worth has cured an old standing cough. It positively cures catarrh, asthma and croup. Fifty cents worth has cured crick in the back, and the same quantity lame back of eight years standing. The following are extracts from a few of the many letters that have been received from different parts of Canada, which, we think, should be sufficient to satisfy the most sceptical: J. Collard, of Sparta, Ont., writes, "Send me six dozen Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, have sold all I had from you and want more now; its cures are truly wonderful. Wm. McGuire, of Franklin, writes, "I have sold all the agent left, it acts like a charm—it was slow at first, but takes splendidly now." H. Cole, of Iona, writes, "Please forward 6 dozen Thomas' Eclectric Oil, I am nearly out, nothing equals it. It is highly recommended by those who have used it." J. Bedford, Thamesville, writes, "Send at once a further supply of Eclectric Oil, I have only one bottle left. I never saw anything sell so well and give such general satisfaction." J. Thompson, Woodford, writes, "Send me some more Eclectric Oil. I have sold entirely out. Nothing takes like it." Miller & Reid, Elverton, P.Q., writes, "The Eclectric Oil is getting a great reputation here and is daily called for. Send us a further supply without delay."

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.—Ask for Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. See that the signature of S. N. Thomas is on the wrapper, and the names of Northrop & Lyman are blown on the bottle and TAKE NO OTHER. Sold by all medicine dealers. Price, 25 cents. NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto, Ont., proprietors for the Dominion.

NOTE—Eclectric—Selected and Electrized.
