GALOPS RAPID,
River St. Lawrence.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.
SEALED TENDERS addressed to the Secretary of Public Works and endorsed "Tender for Galops Rapid," will be received at this office until the arrival of the Eastern and Western mails on WEDNESDAY, the 11th day of September next, for the deepening and widening, at several places, of a channel in the River St Lawrence, from a point opposite the upper entrance to the Galops Canal, downwards to deep water below the "chute" in Galops Rapid.
A plan of the locality, showing the position of the work, and a specification of what is to be done, can be seen at this office, and at the Lockkeeper's house near the place, on and after Wednesday, the 28th day of August, instant.
Contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and—in the case of firms—except there are attached the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation and residence of each member of the same; and further, an accepted Bank cheque for the sum of $2000 must accompany the Tender, which sum shall be forfeited if the party tendering declines entering into contract for works at the rates and on the terms stated in the offer submitted.
The cheque thus sent in will be returned to the respective parties whose tenders are not accepted.
For the due fulfilment of the contract, satisfactory security will be required by the deposit of money to the amount of five per cent. on the bulk sum of the contract; of which the sum sent in with the Tender will be considered a part.
Ninety per cent. only of the progress estimates will be paid until the completion of the work.
To each Tender must be attached the actual signatures of two responsible and solvent persons, residents of the Dominion, willing to become sureties for the carrying out of these conditions, as well as the due performance of the works embraced in the Contract.
This Department does, however, bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.
By order,
F. BRAUN,
Secretary
Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, Aug 2nd, 1878.

Daily British Whig

FRIDAY EV'NG, AUG. 16, 1878.

CONVALESCENT.

(Husband log.)

Give me your hand, my darling, an move near me;
So, I've been ill, and raving too, they say;
I'm better, and can speak now, sit and hear me—
My head was clear when I awoke to-day.

How strange! through all my fever I've been dreaming
Of days when we were children, you and I,
Romping in sun and wind, with faces beaming,
By those sea-pas ures, neath a northern sky.

It seemed so real, my soul must have been there,
Leaving behind this fevered frame of mine;
I felt and saw things plainly, breathed sea air,
And watched the light upon the far sea line.

How they have haunted me, these dear retreats,
A thought, a flower, a sound, would set me free,
Beyond the reek and roar of London streets;
To those sweet silent pastures by the sea.

(Wife log.)

There! there! you must not talk. The dear old places,
So full of memories for you and me.
We'll see again the old familiar faces
And wander in the fields beside the sea

(Husband log.)

How is it, growing old, that what we've seen
In earliest days should cling to memory yet,
When all the interval of life between,
Compared to that, seems easy to forget?

How life in which we've fought, and fagged and striven,
Looked back upon, should be but empty noise;
While far behind it like the hills of heaven,
Stand out the days when we were girls and boys?

Happy the life whose youth was in the sun,
As I kept from canker in the bubbing tree;
I thank my God that ours was so begun,
On those dear sunny fields beside the sea.

Our hopes are but our memories reversed,
Twere heaven enough, dear heart, for you and me
To live again the life we once rehearsed,
In those bright stainless fields beside the sea.

Well! well! I will be quiet, calm your fears,
'Tis doctor's orders, and I must agree,
Good night, my darling, kiss me—What? In tears?
You too have loved the fields beside the sea.

THE ORANGE QUESTION.

CONTINUATION OF MR MURPHY'S CROSS-EXAMINATION.

(Witness.)

The case which adjourned from last Friday was re opened this afternoon, before His Honor, Mr. Brehaut.

Q. Do you know Mr. O'Meara, who is employed as assistant City Clerk by the Corporation of Montreal? A. I do.

Q. Is it not that gentleman who requested you to come to the Police Office on the 12th of July to make a deposition on which the warrant was issued in this cause? A. It might or it might not. I don't remember who it was.

Q. Have you been present in Court at the several adjournments of this cause, especially on the 18th and 30th of July last and on the 6th of the present month? A. I have, every time.

Q. Did you hear your name called? A. I sometimes heard it, and I answered when I heard.

Q. In what part of the building were you? A. On the 18th I was in the room down stairs, and on the 30th I was outside. When I came up I was insulted in the passage. The tallest of the two prisoners, who used to drive the Witness cart, said I was too late to hang the prisoners, as the Court was adjourned. I was called at the same time, "Murphy, the Irish son of a——."

Q. Did you keep out of the Court purposely during any of the adjournments? A. I was under the instructions of my attorney.

Q. What were these instructions? A. I was to be in the hall of the Court House, and when the Court required me I would be sent for. I did not wish to be insulted in Court.

Q. How many special constables were with you under control of a sergeant of the city police on the 12th? A. There were about two hundred and fifty. We marched four deep.

Q. Were you told at any time, and when, what would be paid for your services?

Witness—What! for digging potatoes?

Mr. Doutre—For your services as special constable.

Witness—I was paid $1.

Q. In closing your examination on the 9th when the question was put to you "Do you call forming into procession an act of violence?" and you answered "I believe it was, according to law," does that law apply to all processions, or to some processions in particular?

Mr. Carter—I interpose an objection to save time.

Mr. Doutre—I do not wish the witness to expound the law, but I want to know what he means.

Witness—I think it applies to processions which are illegal and which the law is against, which I believe this one is.

This caused considerable laughter.

Q. From whom did you get that law? A. From my own opinion, as according to the instruction of the law, it is an obstruction to the country. I think that if any body of men assembled and created a disturbance it is obstructive to the law.

Q. Do you mean to say that the Orangemen on the 12th of July last, or at any other time, met for another object than that of going to church? A. As far as my opinion goes they meet all the time for disturbance. (Laughter.)

Q. Is it to your knowledge that on any 12th of July, the Orangemen participated in any act of violence except to repel attacks and defend themselves? A. Yes. They make an attack every year they assemble. Last year and the year before they made an attack on the Catholics of the city of Montreal.

Q. Please give particulars and name persons if you can? A. There was fifty in Point St. Charles this summer about the 12th of July. It originates from the effects of the 12th.

Q. Who was the aggressor in that instance? A. To the best of my knowledge the Orangemen was.

Q. In citing that instance, do you make allusion to an attack made with firearms at about 11 o'clock at night on certain parties passing over the Wellington Bridge? A. That along with others.

Q. Then you mean to say that that attack was made by Orangemen? A. To the best of my belief it was. They attacked their own party and happily shot one of the other party. (Laughter.) I believe it was a sham to make bad feeling. They shot the woman.

Q. Have you heard of other people attributing that attack to Orangemen? A. I did. It was the impression among Catholics that one party went to meet the other to make it appear the Catholics were attacking them.

Q. Have you heard of any committee of Catholics trying to find out who fired on the Wellington Bridge that night? A. No, but heard there was to be an investigation held at that time; I did not hear since.

Q. Do you know whether the man and woman shot on that night were Catholics? A. Yes.

Q. Was there a procession of Orangemen on the 12th of July, 1877?

Mr. Carter—I enter an objection to this question, as I would like to see an end of this examination.

Question allowed.

A. I did not see any; I heard there was one.

Q. Did you ever hear of a death of a man named Hackett?

Mr. Carter again objected, as irrevelant and having nothing to do with the present cause. There will be no end of this thing.

Mr. Doutre (rising)—My learned friend says he does not wish to discuss the matter, but if he does I will show good grounds for my question to test the credibility of the witness. We now see how far the witness will be carried by feeling. We have the fact that the city was put in a state of uproar by constables sworn in to prevent, not a breach of the peace, but the exercise by certain parties of a civil and religious liberty. The witness says a procession is an act of violence. This will be determined by higher tribunals, but we should know what was the prevalent feeling, and also test the credibility of a witness. He says there was a procession; well, it is a notorious fact that there was none.

Mr. Carter said he would not follow his learned friend's argument. He submitted the objection.

His Honor held it desirable to keep the recent Twelfth as much in view as possible.

The question was then overruled.

AN OLD MURDER REVIVED.

CLUES TO A HOMICIDE COMMITTED TEN YEARS AGO.

Ten years ago last April Andrew Leamy, a prominent citizen of Ottawa County, met with a tragic death near his own residence, near the Chelsea Road. The circumstances connected with the case were of the most suspicious character, and at the time it was very generally believed that he had been waylaid by roughs and robbed and murdered. Deceased had spent the day in the city, and on returning home in the evening met with his death on a forced roadway leading to his property from the Chelsea Road. When discovered his head was severely cut and his side bruised, but life was not completely extinct. He was, however, perfectly unconscious, although every effort was made to restore him he expired shortly afterwards. An inquest was held, but no light could be thrown on the manner of his death. An open verdict was therefore returned. At the time, however, it was known that when he left home that morning he had in his possession a very valuable gold watch and chain, as well as a small sum of money, but when picked up the watch and chain were missing. This naturally created great excitement in the community for a time, and the authorities at Aylmer undertook an investigation. There were no new developments, however, and in the course of time the matter was almost forgotten. Nothing more was done until yesterday, when Bailiff Clawson, of Aylmer, informed Mrs. Leamy, wife of the deceased, that a woman had called on him, and said that on the night of the 21st of August her husband presented her with a gold watch and chain, which she produced and handed to Mr. Clawson for inspection. She said this was Mrs. Leamy's watch, but how her husband came into possession of it she did not know. Mr. Clawson then left and returned with the woman herself, who made the following statement to Mrs. Leamy:—"On the night of Mr. Leamy's death my husband and brother-in-law were working on a piece of land on the side of the forced road through which Mr. Leamy had to pass to reach his residence. When they came home at night my husband presented me with a gold watch and chain. Shortly afterwards I discovered that the chain and watch had been the property of Mr. Leamy, which I mentioned to my husband. He said: 'Yes, it is the watch and chain, but we did not kill him.' I said no more, but kept the secret until I gave Mr. Clawson the particulars. I did this in consequence of falling out with my husband." The woman then left in company with Mr. Clawson, and was followed by a son of the deceased gentleman, who insisted of the woman making a sworn affidavit on the facts as above, which she did. On the strength of this her brother-in-law was arrested last night. The husband, whose name is Henry Maxwell, was captured this evening.
