At a half-yearly meeting of the mechanics' Institute of Kingston, held on Saturday, the 10th October, 1835, the following Report was read and approved.

The committee of management of the Mechanics' Institute, of Kingston, beg leave to lay before their constituents, the following report, for the quarter ending October, 1835, embracing a short detail of the present state and prospects of the Institution.

The number of books remains much the same as at the last report, but a very large addition has been made to the number of Geological and Mineralogical specimens, by a valuable donation from the Montreal Historical Society, and from its Secretary, and also from Messrs. Pendergrass, Clark, Watt, Hale, and McIntyre, the whole number now in the possession of the Society is upwards of four hundred, and many of them fine specimens of their kinds.

The liberality of the several Editors of Newspapers continues to supply the Society with their productions,—affording to those who choose to avail themselves of it an opportunity to acquire a knowledge of the current topics of the day. The munificent grant of the Legislature having been realized and placed to the credit of the officers of the Society, an arrangement has been made to carry into effect its kind intentions. Chemical apparatus has been ordered, together with a number of useful works for the Library,—it is also intended to procure from England, a pair of Globes, and the committee are not without hopes that an Air Pump and an Electrical Machine, with a Galvanic Battery, may be obtained from the labors and resources of some of its members, and thereby relieve the funds of the Society very materially as to their cost.

The amount contemplated to be now expended will be about sixty pounds, leaving the residue for future disposal.

The Treasurer's account shows a balance in hand, of £9 10 9, which the committee fear, unless means are taken to enlarge the number of its members, will not meet the unavoidable expenses of the Society. The number of the members, by death and removals, is reduced to thirty-eight, but the committee hope that when these additional means are added to the Institution, it will offer such attractions as may induce a more diligent attendance of its members, increase their number, and by enlarging its sphere of usefulness, more fully realize the great benefits contemplated by the formation of the Society.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Kingston, October 10, 1835.

The meeting then proceeded to the election of the Committee, to fill up the places of those who, by the Constitution, retired, when the following were chosen:—

James Black,	F. M. Hill,

R. M. Rose,	R. Matthews,

PROSPECTUS of the EUROPEAN.

THE EUROPEAN has been commenced with the most flattering prospects of success, upwards of a thousand names have been recorded on the subscription list before the issuing of the first number.

The objects of the paper are to keep up a more strict term of intimacy between this country and Europe than at present exists; not merely by publishing foreign intelligence, but by defending foreigners from insults, to which we have been occasionally subjected through the illiberality of a portion of the press, and by fairly advocating our claims to the native American, who, if he discards all prejudice in the examination, cannot fail to acknowledge them.

As Ireland has been the most slandered nation, so shall our columns be more devoted to its support than to any other. In the European Irishmen will, at all events, have one uncompromising friend, whose voice shall never be suppressed while the tongue of slander, or the hand of oppression is raised against them or their glorious country.

It shall be one of our constant endeavours to conciliate the friendship of the native American; and if we do this in a straight forward and independent manner, we know he will like us the better.

The European will be a literary, as well as a political and general foreign and domestic newspaper; so that, when the reader grows tired of a parliamentary debate, or a discussion on the merits of the different candidates at election times, he can turn to another page, and refresh himself with a romance, a sonnet, a theatrical critique, or a literary notice.

We publish the paper at the almost nominal price of TWO DOLLARS a year, in order to give it a more general circulation than it might otherwise command; but we can assure subscribers that if a devotion to their interests be of any avail, we will be found behind our contemporaries in nothing but the price alone.

Orders for the paper, addressed to the editor through the Post Office, will be punctually attended to.

All interesting communications connected with foreign affairs will be thankfully received.

No subscriber taken, living out of the city, that does not pay in advance.
