COUNTY NEWS.

INTERESTING LETTERS FROM OUR STAFF OF CORRESPONDENTS.

A Budget of News and Gossip,—Personal Intelligence.—A Little of Everything, well Mixed up.

ELGIN.

SATURDAY, May 3.—The Model cheese factory opened this week. J. W. Sherman being engaged as cheesemaker. Dargavel and Murphy have spared no labor and money in fitting it up and now it is one of the finest factories in the county, having all the modern improvements and appurtenances. A larger quantity of milk is being sent than ever before.

The Order of the Foresters established here some time ago is very prosperous. There is a membership of 40 and more intending to join.

Mrs. Laishley, who has been very ill, is recovering.

Miss Gertie McGhie is gaining, after a severe illness.

DELTA.

MONDAY, May 5.—On the morning of May 1st, Mr. Rufus Stevens, got on the train little expecting that are long he would put all agents to shame in regard to quick sales. The train stopped midway between Delta and Athens to get on a load of fence posts. Spying a farmer in a field about twenty rods away, Rufus ran across and sold him a palverizer and returned in time to get aboard the train.

The Oddfellows anniversary service of Sunday last was well attended. As was expected, a large number of members from Athens was present. Much credit is due Rev. D. D. Munro for the able sermon which he delivered on that occasion.

Mr. Singleton is finishing the front of his part of the brick block.

FRONT OF YONGE.

Why deposit white fish in Charleston waters, when it is not legal to net or spear and it is a well known fact that said fish does not take very kindly to the hook.

Last Thursday was as good a sap day as has been this spring.

Large numbers of apple trees have been distributed in this locality this spring among farmers.

Mr. Thomas Hodge has rented from Mr. Geo. Towe, the farm known as the Armstrong place, Ballyeanoe.

Parties in the vicinity of the St. Lawrence have already visited Charleston Lake, taking notes of the locality, the hotels around them and the convenient fishing grounds.

Mr. James Tennant, of Caintown, has his famous Stock Stallion on the road again this season.

The early lamb catches cold, and the young calf goeth forth bawling while the farmer hurries off all the lacteal liquid to the factory.

Strawberries are badly damaged by the winter frost, particularly is this the case on some ground.

ADDISON.

MONDAY, May 5.—Mr. A. Cole and wife leave this morning for Deseronto, Mr. Cole having obtained a situation with the Rathbun Co. in that place. They have the best wishes of their many friends for their success in their new home.

The president of the celebrated Bell farm at Glen Buell, finding the duties of his office pressing too heavily upon him in his declining years, has decided to retire from public life, and is negotiating with Judge Taplin, of this place, for a part of his real estate Selina st., where he will erect a commodious dwelling house and other buildings. Come on, Billy, ever welcome.

On Wednesday last, Dr. Stanley Cornell, of Athens, succeeded in removing a large tumor from the side of Mrs. A. McVeigh. The patient is improving very rapidly and will soon be well.

On Saturday last M. Evertts, of Eastons' Corners, delivered a lecture in our Palace cheese factory on the aeration of milk, which was very instructive and was highly appreciated by all present.

Mr. Darius Ireland and wife, of Kitley, paid our village a visit one day last week. While Mrs. Ireland was doing some shopping at Mr. Moffatt's, Mr. Ireland visited the warehouse of H. B. Brown, agricultural implement agent, and purchased a new Monarch seeder. Parties find it to their advantage to buy here.

WESTPORT.

Rev. R. C. Horner departed from Westport on Wednesday, April 30.

Rev. Mr. Whyte conducted service in the Baptist church on Friday evening. It is hoped the rev. gentleman will continue his stay in our midst for some weeks.

Mr. W. H. Fredenburg has disposed of his stone mill and adjoining property to Messrs Ripley & Son.

A travelling comedy troupe will rehearse the old plantation scenes, made immortal by Harriet Beecher Stowe in her book entitled "Uncle Tom's Cabin," in Westport on the night of Saturday, May 10th.

Mr. Simmons has removed his jewellery establishment to the building lately vacated by Mr. V. Kennedy, our popular barber, Mr. W. M. Russel, has taken possession of the house vacated by Mr. Simmons.

The steamer Rideau Belle made her first trip of the season on Friday.

A harness maker is in great demand here at present. One of the best openings in Ontario.

Mr. W. McSkimis, for some years traveller for the Pelee firm, Chown & Cunningham, is visiting the scenes of his childhood. There is some talk of his starting a new stove foundry on a lot near the station.

Spring fair one week from Tuesday next.

The sudden death of Mr. A. F. McCann, for some time the genial stage driver between here and the junction, cast a gloom over the town.

Mr. Jas. McCann, of the militia & defence department of Civil Service, Ottawa, was in town this week attending the funeral of his brother, Mr. A. F. McCann.

A number of the youths of our town consider it an all important branch of their evening deportment to congregate on the side walk at Lockwood's corner and subject all passers by to no small inconvenience by having to fairly force their way through the crowd in order to get by. Boys, the sidewalk was never meant for a flag station, much less an auditorium for holding confabs, so take a gentle hint and in future please leave the sidewalk clear enough to allow people to pass by without trouble.

WARBURTON.

SATURDAY, May 3.—Mr. G. Halladay has again opened our factory, which is giving entire satisfaction to everyone concerned. It was the intention of the committee to remodel the apparatus for weighing milk, but the forethought exercised by our cheesemaker in procuring an assistant overcame all difficulties, and surely the "right men are in the right place."

After an illness of many weeks, Mr. Patrick McAvoy died on the evening of May the 1st. Mr. McAvoy was one of the earliest settlers, who settled in the wilderness many years ago and hewed out a living for himself and family, besides leaving behind a comfortable home. The family have the sympathy of their many friends in their sad bereavement.

On the evening of May 2nd there was a sugar social held in Jubilee church, Duleimane, under the auspices of the Sunday School, for the purpose of supplying literature for the school. The evening being beautiful, there was a large attendance and a very enjoyable time was spent. The programme consisted of music, readings and recitations.

The English church people are keeping abreast of the times. At a meeting held recently they very wisely chose Mr. John E. Stacey and James Greer for wardens, who will shortly complete arrangements preparatory to the erection of a church upon the site kindly given by Mr. John Stacey.

MORTON.

To the model and high school students of 1886, and sympathizers:

When at Morton a few days ago I was surprised to learn of the sad fate of one of our number in the person of Miss Cecilia Metcalfe, of Elgin. This lady has been a sufferer from spinal disease three years, the result of having a chair pulled from under her. Whether the affliction has been caused by a malicious or careless party, I don't know. But it will be remembered that Miss Metcalfe was a most amiable lady, full of life and vigor, and one ever ready and willing to aid her school mates. Now I appeal to you all to contribute in some way to help her forget herself and make her hours less dreary. Ask yourselves what you would like done if you were ill. Allow me to answer for you. A flower, a card, a photo, a paper, a letter, or anything at all would be a delight to me if I were ill. Let each ask his or herself what he or she can do for a sufferer and do that.

With this suggestion only, anyone wishing any reminder acknowledged should enclose a stamp, as an illness of that duration must have cost a great deal.

One of the model class of 1886.

April 25, 1890.

KINDNESS IN THE DAIRY.

It is a fact that a cow with generous feeding and good care, but with cross and unkind treatment, will not yield as great a profit as she will with kind treatment. A good dairy cow is extremely sensitive and responsive to kindness and abuse. It is plain that when the milker approaches a cow and she gazes at him with eyes filled with fear and trembling and gathers herself to receive an expected blow, she is not going to yield as great an amount of milk, or as rich in quality, as she would if her eyes gave him a glad welcome. Kindness begets kindness and the cows are few that will not do their best when kindly treated. There is occasionally one that is naturally vicious, and it is a waste of time and patience to try to change their nature. Sell her to the butcher and end her vicious existence. It is a very easy matter to have a herd of dairy cattle that are kindly disposed to each other and to those who have the care of them. If you happen to hire a man whom the cattle fear or dislike, don't keep him, even if he would work for his board, for you would lose money by it. The first consideration in hiring a man on the dairy farms is that he is kind and gentle to animals. When we hire a man he knows that if the cattle don't like him he must go. We hired a young man once who proved to be naturally vicious; he stayed nearly a week, did not openly break any rules, but all the cattle in the section of the barn where he worked disliked and feared him, and some of the most gentle cows would not let him go near until they had been fed and had not milk, as those he milked, shrunk heavily in their milk yield.

Kindness does it, and a man may be one of a herd self-control and self-respect. When you feel a cow just pause and think that you are knocking dollars out of your pocket, and when you spread her with your milk stool that you are robbing your wife and children of the necessaries of life, and you probably wont do it. Let every man who desires to make the greatest profit from his dairy cows try kindness and gentleness, just from the standpoint of business policy, and he will soon find there is the most money in it.—Practical Farmer.

Grand Concert.

In the lecture room of the high school on Tuesday evening last, a highly successful concert was held under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of Christ Church. The concert was well attended, notwithstanding that the night was anything but favorable. The platform presented quite an inviting appearance. A carpet covered the floor, in the centre of which stood a table embossed with a pyramid of flowering plants. Above this hung a beautiful floral design in oil from the brush of a local artist, the artificial vieing with the natural in rich coloring. The rather dingy and uninspiring reminder of our colonial dependence which serves to break the monotony of dead wall behind the platform was completely hidden in the drapery of heavy silk and lace curtains. The effect of the whole was decidedly artistic and pleasing. The rector of the church, Rev. W. Wright, occupied the chair and ably performed the functions of his office. The village orchestra, composed of Messrs. Bristow, Kincaid and Owen, delighted the audience with three overtures. We trust that they will not object to our prefixing the word village to their musical organization, as Athenians are pleased to regard them as one of our civic institutions. A solo and chorus, "The Midnight Fire Alarm," was given by Mrs. Kennedy, Mrs. Donovan, Miss Merrick, Mr. Hanna and Mr. Wood, Mr. Kennedy taking the solo. Miss May Berney made her debut as a pianist, and the manner in which she rendered her selection promises well for the future. Miss Hogle recited in a clear voice "The Maniac," an old favorite, which never fails to please. Miss French, of Brockville, appeared before an Athens audience for the first time and made a most favorable impression. Her selections were such as best please an ordinary audience, and while the excellencies of their composition were within the appreciation of her hearers, the songs gave ample compass for the display of her unusually fine and well trained voice. At the conclusion of her second number, she received a hearty encore which she acknowledged with a bow. Miss Mansell, of Brockville, performed the duties of accompanist for Miss French. Mr. Kennedy, in his recitations, was even better than usual, his "Elocutionary Hash" (a compound of his own we believe) tickling the palate of the audience immensely. Mrs. C. M. B. Cornell, of Brockville, received a hearty welcome from the many present who had heard her sing before—a welcome which her exceptionally sweet voice well deserved. To the rapturous encore which her second piece received, she responded with "The Summer Shower." A piano duet by Mrs. Donovan and Mr. Owen was artistically executed and at its conclusion the performers were vigorously applauded. Miss Mary Stone surprised and delighted her friends with the exceedingly realistic manner in which she gave her recitation, "The Bag of Beans." While careful training was noticeable, an originality of conception marked the piece and heightened the pleasure of the audience. As an elocutionist Miss Stone has made most surprising progress, and would now compare to advantage with many of the professional lady elocutionists. A chorus, "Good Night, Farewell," was rendered by the Choral Union (which, by the way, here is remarkably close resemblence to the Methodist choir of other days), the voice in which were taken by Mrs. Cornell and Mr. Kennedy. The concert closed with the national anthem. Receipts, $60.
